Hundreds turned out at funeral services for Robert Marshall.

Hundreds Say Goodbye To An Angel

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Hundreds of people turned out Christmas Eve morning to pay tribute to their "angel in disguise," Robert Marshall, during the young boy's funeral at the Immaculate Conception Church.

The Rev. George DuFour was reserved as he talked quietly about the 14-year-old as a friend and church member.

"I knew Robbie for seven years and an angel in disguise is what he was all about," said DuFour, as he conducted the funeral mass.

"He always wanted to make sure he was his own person," DuFour said emphatically.

Classmates of the McCall Junior High School student filled the pews and the vestibule of the church, as they tearfully said good-bye to their friend. Scores of people young and old clutched each other in grief.

The youngster died Sunday after a hit and run driver struck him as he was crossing Main st., near Water st. His parents, James and Gael Marshall, watched in horror as their youngest son was hit.

A 25-year-old Winchester man, John R. Kennedy, was charged with vehicular homicide, drunk driving, driving to endanger and leaving the scene of the accident.

At the funeral mass Christmas Eve morning, the Rev. DuFour told the family, relatives and friends about three lasting things — faith, hope and love.

He said at a time as difficult as this, love is the most important way of helping all to cope with such tragedy.

"All of us are still in a state of shock — it seems hard to believe. It is important to come to grips with the shock, anxiety, fear, frustration and maybe some guilt we have — we need to take hold of it," said DuFour.

Somber music rang throughout the church as a single male voice sang.

Five girls, all classmates of the teen, stood motionless in the back of the church by the door, fighting back their pain and anguish, wiping and rubbing away tears of sadness and tragedy.

At the traditional mass "sign of peace" ritual, DuFour asked the people to share in the sign of peace and keep Robbie in mind while they comfort each other.

The girls at the back of the church clustered together, grabbing onto each other, hugging each other in sadness.

Karen Pires, a classmate of the teen's, said, "He was so young and innocent."

"He was a kid everyone loved. I saw him five minutes before it happened," said Jenine Marino.

When the service was over, the Marshall family walked solemnly down the church aisle, composed in the shock of the loss of their youngest family member — "an angel in disguise."

Local Woman Is In The Limelight At New Year Gala

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Patricia Zudek doesn't mind if it's crisp and cold for New Year's. In fact, she'd rather have it that way.

Zudek, 23, spent the past three days working on ice sculptures for Boston's traditional "First Night" extravaganza.

So the colder it is, the better it will be for the giant ice figurines.

Zudek, of 23 Eaton st., is one of 19 art students who were chosen to create the 12 ten-foot high sculptures.

"As long as it stays cold, we should be all set," said Zudek in an interview at her family's Winchester home.

Last year at the First Night New Year's Celebration in Copley Square, a crew shaped 20 tons of ice to create a 26-foot long tractor — in 70 degree weather.

"Hopefully we won't have weather like that — or the sculptures won't last very long!" said Zudek.

The theme of this year's sculptures will be the zodiac, with four different ice designs to represent earth, air, fire and water. The entire 12 sculptures will represent 45 tons of ice. When the big moment comes, Zudek and her co-workers will appear dressed in all white to proudly show off their handiwork.

"I wouldn't miss that moment for anything," said Zudek. "It's such an incredible feeling to have people look at your work and appreciate it."

A graduate of Winchester High, she says her teachers at school have played a big part in her interest in sculpting and art in general.

"I really have to say that the high school influenced me a great deal. The faculty was supportive and that helped a lot."

Asked how her parents feel about her Boston premiere, the brown-haired artist just smiles.

"It's like they finally get to see where my work pays off. They are very, very proud."

Zudek is a junior at the Massachusetts College of Art. The ice sculpting project will be under the direction of professor George Greenmayer.

Remembering '85

A Look At Issues, Events

By JILL M. HIGGINS
AND MAUREEN QUINLAN

1985, the year of the ox according to the Chinese, was filled with some weighty accomplishments for the town of Winchester and its residents.

The town saw the opening of its first liquor store, the renovation of the old police and fire station, and the opening of three new downtown restaurants.

Meanwhile, downtown renovations, which were begun in the previous year, continued throughout 1985, with brick sidewalks and old-style lanterns replacing the worn sidewalks of the downtown area.

In other major accomplishments, the town finally bought the Woburn Loop, a 10-acre parcel near the Woburn town line that formerly housed Boston-to-Maine railroad tracks, for a sum of $110,175.

And attention turned to the new police and fire station, officially dubbed the public safety building, as work crews labored to bring a clean, new look to the expanded Mount Vernon st. structure.

of having to open before the completion of the town's downtown renovations.

Meanwhile, the school community was struck with another blow, as longtime Lincoln School principal Paula Caffrey was found dead at her Medford home.

School officials, students and parents underwent tough times during that period, as all tried to come to grips with the loss of yet another school principal within a two-week period.

Meanwhile, town officials were busy trying to find a new town manager. As of January, two finalists were in the running, but neither wound up winning the job.

Instead, Selectmen chose W. Chadwick Maurer of Mansfield about two weeks later, upon the recommendation of a local screening committee.

Maurer came on the job with an experienced background, having been town manager of Mansfield for several years, as well as the vote of the Selectmen.

In the annual January "gearing-up" for the town's spring elections, Town Clerk Carolyn Ward announced that nominators were being accepted for the various town seals.

As with other area towns, Winchester was on line to get more local aid funds — $200,000 over the previous year — as the state took over payment of communities' Metropolitan District Commission district assessments.

Lower oil prices took the form of higher trash disposal costs for Winchester, as the town's membership fees in the regional disposal program were boosted.

Proponents of the regional trash program have pointed out that Winchester is one of a select few communities whose trash disposal plans are sewn up, while others must face even higher disposal consequences.

On the school scene again, McCall Junior High youngsters were treated to the wit and wisdom of Celtics star M. L. Carr, who cautioned students on the dangers of drug and alcohol use.

Housebreaks were reported on the rise in January, as police investigated a series of breaks in which jewelry appeared to be the main attraction.

Over at the Vinson-Owen School, principal Clare M. Corcoran announced she would resign as of Feb. 1 to accept a position at Lesley College in Cambridge.

From the moment her resignation was announced until she left, parent groups and students showered the retiring principal with farewell parties and receptions, a tribute to the woman who had spent more than 20 years at the Vinson-Owen.

In other headlines, the town's subsidized housing issue was again in the forefront, as the state's Feb. 15 deadline grew ever closer.

Selectmen, the Housing Authority and Planning Board were supposed to come up with a proposal to introduce housing for low-moderate income families.

The issue was a heated one, with many residents staunchly defending their neighborhoods, vowing that the housing should not be located in their neighborhoods.

Other plans that saw a slow start in January were those for the town's new restaurants.

Construction of Maximilian's Cafe and Winchester Crossing (later opened as Dover Grille) was stalled, as building problems joined with downtown development grant woes.

At the time, some restaurateurs voiced concerns about the possibility notch in the continuing saga of housing woes in town.

Meanwhile, residents flocked to the Winton Club's annual winter cabaret at the Town Hall, as performers flamboyantly danced the can-can to benefit the Winchester Hospital.

A proposal to open up the Middlesex Fells area, near the town water supply, drew some support and criticism as the plan surfaced in February.

Proponents of the plan said that the area should be open for nature-lovers to enjoy, while opponents fear the water supply will be contaminated by careless woods visitors.

At that point in the year, contractors working on the Public Safety Building on Mount Vernon st. predicted that the building might be ready by September.

Winchester High School students were already scaling new heights, as the seniors' Scholastic Aptitude Test scores were well above the national average.

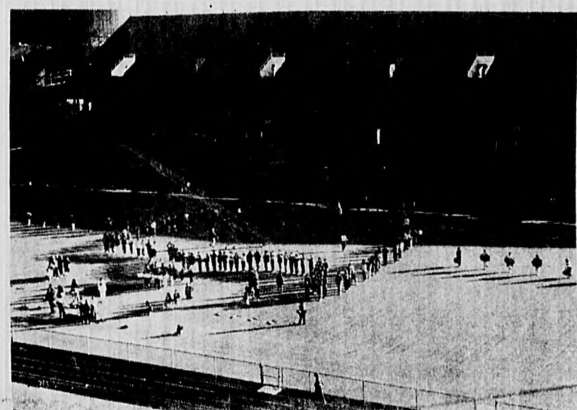

Also in February, Winchester joined the nation in hoping for the safety of American hostages in Beirut, especially U.S. official William Buckley, a personal friend of Winchesterites Frank and Mary Langone.

With town budget time nearing, the police were among the first to meet with Selectmen on budget requests. Police Chief John P. McHugh pushed for a 7.1 percent hike in his budget, while Fire Chief Robert McElhinney sought $1,527,892 in funding, up from the prior year's $1,511,125 budget.

Winchester High School's Band rang in the New Year with a historic trip to the Peach Bowl in January last year.

Winchesterite Sam Rotondi was in the limelight during 1985, as he proposed housing on Forest st.

Winchester High School seniors broke ground in 1985 with the town's first outdoor prom at Manchester Field.

Town Elections Bring Surprises

During the last week of February, the town began considering taking over eminent domain an abandoned Water st. house that neighbors complained was a hazard.

The Housing Authority, meanwhile, came into the limelight over a senior citizen's request to keep her pet cat at town-owned elderly housing.

The issue smoldered for several months, with even candidates for town office jumping on the bandwagon about the matter.

March

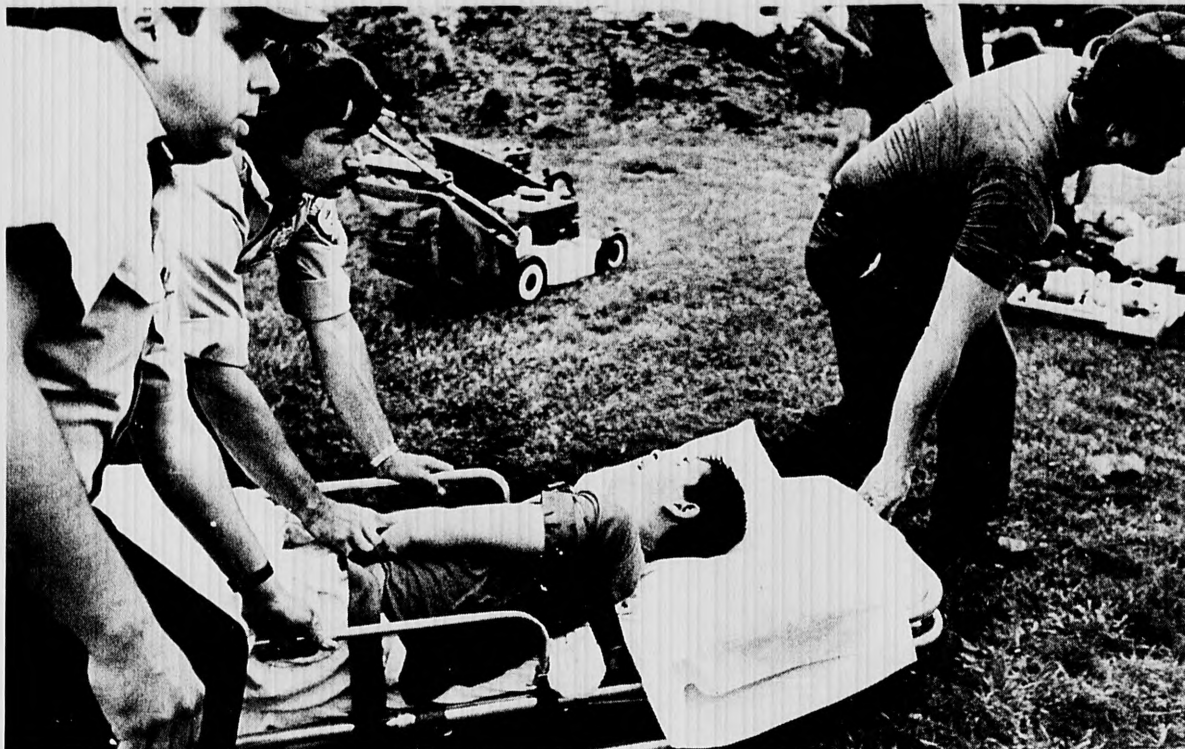

The Rev. Robert Costello, owner of the Water st. house which the town had considered taking over by eminent domain appeared at a Selectmen's meeting to protest the town's plans.

Meanwhile, the town elections slate had a roster of 17 candidates for the nine positions, including those of Selectman and School Committee.

At a candidates' forum, the local candidates expressed their views and pitched campaign promises, as the town elections loomed even closer.

The Principal Search Committee, whose job it was to find principals for the Lincoln and Vinson-Owen schools, was wading through a field of at least 65 applicants.

Finally, the big day came — town elections. On March 26, women topped the ticket in three big races, as Julie Muggia won a Selectmen's spot, Catherine Gatto won a School Committee spot and Marion Crandall was Tragedy struck in June, when three Alston men were hit by lightning during a spring thunderstorm. Luckily, all three survived the ordeal.

relected to the Planning Board. In another interesting elections notch, former Selectman Edward O'Connell won a seat on the School Committee, moving from the executive board after several years' service.

Meanwhile, the town water and sewer bills were expected to rise, as the town joined 59 Boston area communities in paying for services through the Joint Massachusetts Water Resources Authority. In total, Winchester was slated to pay $129,200 more for water and sewer services, for a total bill of about $458,000.

In other late March news, the School Department was notified it might be forced to pay $19,300 in penalties over asbestos in the town's public schools.

The department faced fines for not properly informing parents and school employees of the presence of asbestos in the schools.

April

In the fourth month of 1985, residents and school officials began to take a hard look at plans for the high school senior prom and how alcohol could be ruled out to make the event safer.

The concern stemmed from earlier problems at school functions at which student would arrive drunk.

Parents and school officials threatened to cancel the prom, unless they could come up with some kind of agreeable solution to prevent alcohol-related problems.

Meanwhile, residents of the Wainwright rd. area voiced their concerns over a contractor's plans to build condominiums in that neighborhood.

Neighbors were concerned that a certain portion of the area would not be altered, as previously planned, in an effort to make the area safer for pedestrians and traffic.

Sen. Richard Kraus, meanwhile, spoke up about a bill (later passed as law) that would mean extra education funds for Winchester.

Once it became law, a portion of the plan wound up being the focus of a clash between school committee and teach representative, who could not come to an agreement on how the "incentive" part of the bill would be doled out.

And after weeks of debate and controversy, the Winchester High School seniors won the right to have a senior prom.

As of early April, it was uncertain where the prom would be held, but within weeks, it was decided that the town would hold a precedent-setting

Unitarians To Present Lecture Series

A special series of programs for the month of January is being announced by the Winchester Unitarian Society. For four consecutive Sundays, both adult and children's programs will focus on the "Games We Play."

Learning games, aggressive winner/loser play, games of cooperation, and insightful ways to analyze all the games we play will be featured each Sunday in adult services and children's religious education classes.

Guest speakers for the month include a television producer, writer and host, Hubert Jessup; a disarmament expert, Admiral Eugene Carroll; and author, theologian and Harvard professor, Margaret Miles.

Hubert Jessup will introduce the series at 10:30 a.m., Jan. 5, with a sermon, "The Television Game, Ratings and Religious Values." Jessup, who is teaching a course in media at Harvard Divinity School, is the general manager of the Boston Community Access and Programming Foundation Inc.

Prior to becoming the general manager, Hubert Jessup worked for 12 years with WCVB-TV as a producer, writer and host. At WCVB-TV he produced numerous public affairs programs and specials. His best known series was "The Baxters," a series which he created, produced and hosted for four years.

"The Baxters" was nationally syndicated for two years by Norman Lear with whom Jessup worked in California. "The Baxters" won many awards including an Emmy and an Iris from the National Assn. of Television Program Executives.

Jessup also produced and hosted the award-winning series "New Heaven New Earth," a weekly public affairs program about religion. And he produced the only local situation comedy in TV history, "Park Street Under," which satirized Boston politics and culture.

During 1981 and 1983, Jessup reduced his TV work to enter into talk radio, hosting his own show on WHDI radio in Boston. The show presented interviews with public officials and news makers and phone-in discussions with the public.

Jessup is a graduate of the University of California, Santa Barbara and of the Harvard Divinity School where he is currently teaching a course in media.

The Jewish Congregation of Winchester is having a discussion group on "Issues of Interfaith Dialogue." It will be led by Rabbi Cathy Felix and held on Wednesday evening January 8.

The group will meet in the Stone Room of the First Congregational Church at 7:45 p.m.

An Outdoor Prom, Housing Make 1985 News Headlines

"Outdoor prom" on the field behind McCall Junior High.

In another April headline-making development, former politician Sam Rotondi, a Winchester native, put forth his proposal for a housing complex off Forest st.

The proposal, which spawned heated controversy for much of the remaining year, was slated to include units for low-to-moderate income families.

During the third week of April, a suspicious blaze gutted an empty condominium on Swanton st. The three-unit condominium was the last building scheduled for The Village condo project at 171 Swanton st., owned by Continental Wingate. Damage was estimated to be about $100,000.

On the downtown circuit, restaurants slated for the town center area were readying for a planned summer opening. As with the Public Safety Building, such plans fell behind schedule, with the first opening closer to the fall.

In April's last week, the Sam Rotondi proposal made the big news, after a late-night session with Selectmen was jammed with angry residents opposed to Rotondi's plan.

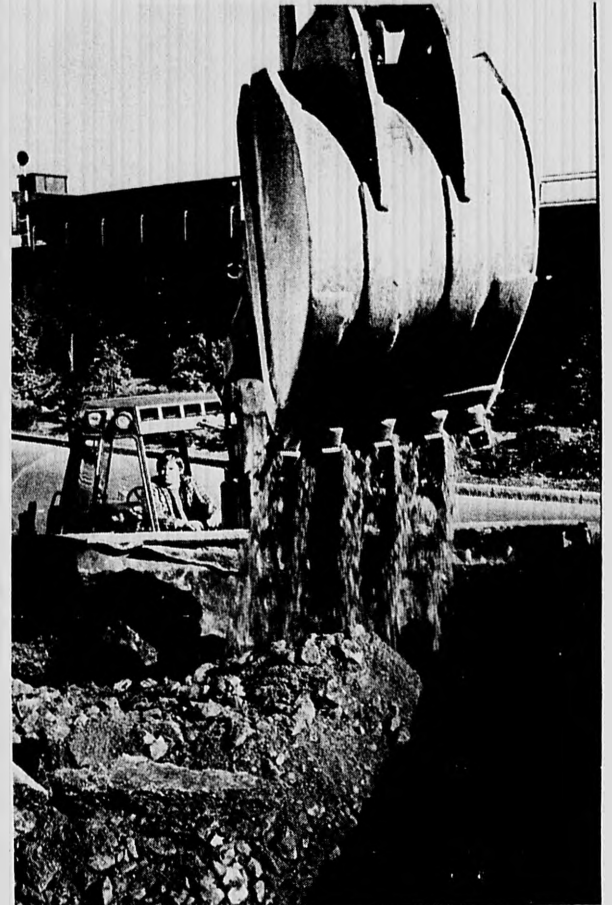

During the heated, lengthy session, residents complained that the plan would cause traffic problems.

Meanwhile, the town was notified that it had received the $740,000 grant it had applied for for downtown renovations. The grant had been attached to the town's low-to-moderate income housing plans, which were submitted to the state in February.

The spring Town Meeting came again, with a small warrant of articles.

The proposal to take over the Water st. house by eminent domain was tabled, as well as a request for state grant matching funds.

All money articles were stalled until May, in accordance with the town bylaw which bans any action on such article until May.

Downtown saw a good deal of disruption during the year, as workers continued with renovations.

May

The spring thaw saw Winchester struggle with water problems, as a van dumped in the town's North Reservoir posed another threat to the town's drinking supply.

The town's assistant director of public works, James Courchaine, was grappling with residents' complaint of dirty water, as brown, rusty water flowed from some taps.

In school news, the principal search committee began interviewing candidates for the top posts at the Lincoln and Vinson-Owen schools.

Renovations Are Among The Summer Events

Also in May news, Town Meeting members whisked through a series of money article with minor debate.

Among the matters on the roster was the town's skyrocketing costs for town employees' pension and health programs.

Town Meeting members voted for a study of the soaring costs for the employee programs, as well as studies for a detailed plan listing the assessments of all property in Winchester.

Town Department of Public Works Director Dominic Serratore pushed for a recycling program to save the town money in trash disposal costs.

In the last Town Meeting session, voters adopted a $25.8 million budget, axing $135,000 in proposed pension funds and $50,000 in sewer repairs to stay within the Proposition 2½ tax ceiling.

The budget put the town $4,500 under the tax levy limit, according to town official figures.

The 10.5 million school budget escaped Town Meeting action without cuts.

The Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency granted its initial approval of the Rotondi plan for the Forest st. area.

The Winchester assessors, meanwhile, upped the assessment of the Rotondi land — a move partly sparked by some residents' complaints that the land was valued at more than its assessment.

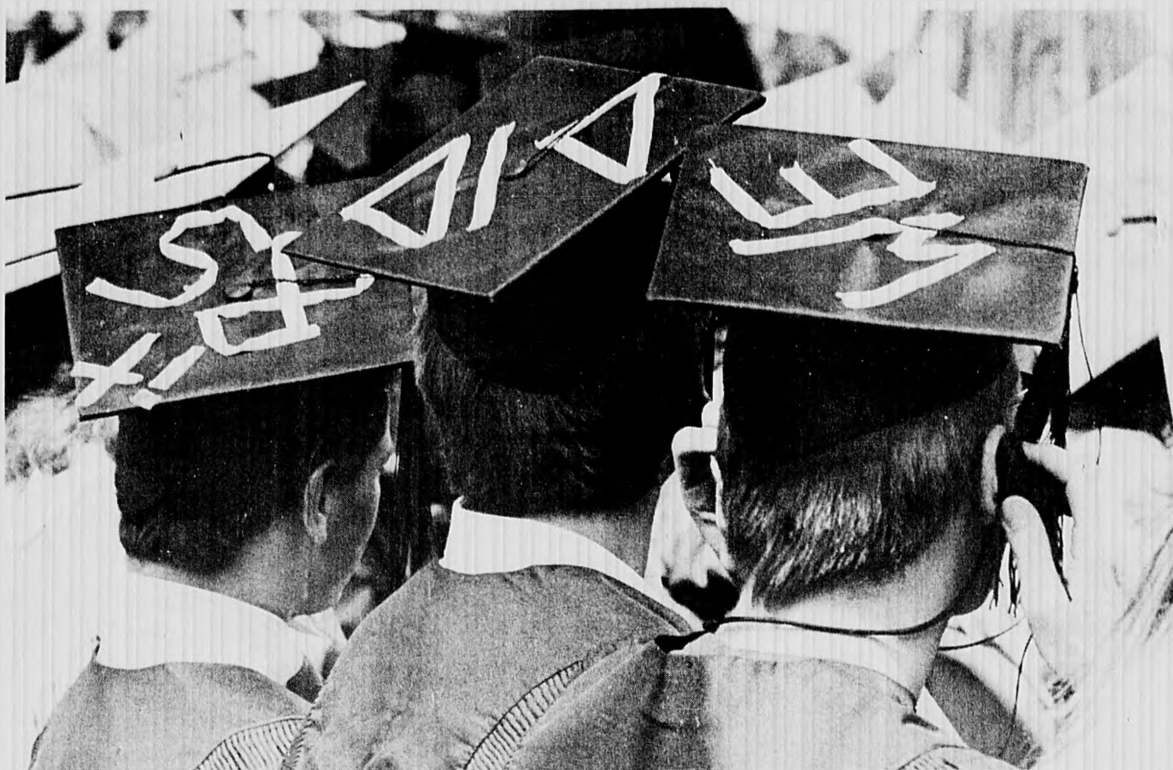

In late May, the Selectmen considered options for the town's first liquor store. One plan even called for the ousting of the Chamber of Commerce in the downtown train station, as well as a proposal for a town-owned liquor store.

Spring brought good news to the members of St. Eulalia's Church, as parishioners learned that their Rev. James J. Haddad was named executive director of the Archdiocesan Development Office of Boston.

The Chamber of Commerce honored longtime resident Clarence Borggaard as the Chamber's "Man of the Year."

June

As the spring rolled into early summer, Winchester came alive with

As 1985 closes, Winchester can reflect on another year of accomplishment. For jubilant WHS graduates, 1985 was a very good year.

the annual Town Days events.

Again, a day filled with food, fun and games wound up with the evening highlight of a giant fireworks display.

During that same first June weekend, the senior class at Winchester High proved itself responsible, as the "outdoor prom" came off at Manchester Field without a hitch.

Meanwhile, state officials were called in to again test the high school air quality. The ever-lingering problem resurfaced at WHS, prompting teachers to hold classes outside in order to get fresh air. The problem had been a thorn in the School Department's side, a problem that has still not been fully resolved.

The Woburn Loop issue also resurfaced in June, as Selectmen began to tackle plans to resell the 10.2 acre site. By that time, residents had already been expressing desires to buy portions of the land, which had housed railroad tracks.

In one of Winchester's biggest drug busts, a Crescent rd. man was charged with drug trafficking. Police confiscated nearly a half million dollars in cocaine from the home of John DeVito, 37.

After posting a $100,000 bail, DeVito was released. The decision is still pending.

Also in June, phase two of the downtown renovation work began. On June 10, the state awarded Winchester $169,000 to fully restore downtown renovation plans, after bids came in higher than the town had anticipated.

Sam Rotondi, meanwhile, announced he would file the mandatory "notice of intent" with the town Conservation Commission within the last week of June for his Forest st. housing complex.

Just prior to that, in the second week of June, the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency announced it would not include in its funding round Rotondi's request for $4.4 million.

Lastly, June ended on a bizarre note, as three young men were struck by lightning on Amherstwood dr. The three, all lawn care workers, were hit during a violent thunderstorm.

James Gibbons, 20, and brothers Peter Daley, 19, and Timothy Daley, 17, all of Allston, miraculously recovered from the accident, although all were hospitalized after the dramatic event.

July

The summer months saw Winchester drag out some old issues and embark on some new ones, as the second half of 1985 came along.

Early in July, the Winchester Police Department topped the news, when the department asked the Finance Committee to supplement their budget.

The committee voted unanimously to plug the $15,000 hole in the fiscal 1986 police budget, using money from the town's reserve funds.

According to the committee, the deficit was due mostly to tuition payments for a police self-improvement program. Although $5,000 was budgeted for such programs, $18,603 was spent.

Winchester Police Lt. Andrew

Winchester's Lt. Crawford, left, retired in 1985, after a farewell from Police Chief John McHugh and the department.

Crawford retired after 35 years on the force, 15 years of which were spent as a town prosecutor for Winchester.

Crawford retired at age 65, and was replaced by Sgt. James Pierce.

In the first of a couple accidents involving Winchester building sites, two workers were injured after falling off a scaffolding at Lucia's, the Mt. Vernon st. restaurant, in early July.

Medford contractor Hector Figarola fell from the second story of the building. The second worker, Oscar Jara of Quincy, suffered shoulder bruises and head wounds in the accident.

Also that month, Selectmen debated an ambulance plan proposed to hike service rates for Winchester residents from $65 to $250.

Under the plan, the town's ambulance service would be supplemented by paramedics from area towns.

Selectmen argued that the expanded service would be expensive, complex and unnecessary.

The Town Hall Study Committee was at work in July, preparing for repairs and hiring an architect to study plans for repairs.

In the end of July, the Environmental Protection Agency held a public hearing in Woburn to discuss clean-up proposals at the Industriplex, one of two sites in Woburn eligible for federal funds because it is a potential long-term threat to public health.

The EPA said the company liable for the dumping is Stauffer Chemical. Stauffer will have to pay for the cleanup of the debris.

Finally, the month ended on a high note, as Winchester High School's math team made headlines by having its most successful year.

The team, which won the New England Invitational Math Competition, consisted of seniors Bjorn Pomen and Farzin Khaghani, junior Derek Rutherford, and sophomores Andreas Coppi, Robert Southworth and Jun Urano. Pomen had perfect scores in the competition.

August

A plan was instituted in early August to install metal detectors in the Fourth District Court in Woburn.

Selectmen were considering several redistricting plans that could change some of the town's polling places.

According to state law, communities must redistrict precincts every ten years so that each district will have a roughly equal number of voters.

In late August, the board submitted "plan c" to the Local Election District Review Commission and it was approved on Sept. 11.

Town Clerk Carolyn Ward said the change will go into effect Jan. 1, 1987. Thus, the next three elections, the town election in March, state primary in September and the state election in November, will not be affected.

Issues Come Into The Spotlight

At an Aug. 1 public hearing, neighbors of the Woburn Loop cited their desires to own portions of the loop.

The loop is 10.2 acres of land runs roughly parallel to Main St. from Skiffings rd. to Woburn line.

The matter still has not been resolved, however, as the town is still trying to decide how to divvy up the area.

Also in August, Winchester's science program at all local elementary schools was recognized by national educators.

Francis N. Finigan, science director, accepted the award given by the Search for Excellence in Science in Massachusetts.

At the selectmen's meeting, State Rep. Sherman S. Saltmarsh urged members to address the growing need for more parking.

Saltmarsh said the opening of new shops, restaurants and offices in town has increased the pressure to acquire more parking in the downtown center.

Saltmarsh asked selectmen to consider a $2.5 to $3 billion above-ground parking garage.

Selectmen heard bids from 12 liquor store applicants haggling for the town's sole license.

At the next meeting, selectmen narrowed the field to four: Nicholas Buonopane, William F. Carr, Stuart Bowen and Sean and Ann M. Giles of West Medford.

After a series of debates and interviews, the board chose Nicholas Buonopane, whose shop opened on Main St. in mid-December.

At a regular Selectmen's meeting, the board voiced the opinion that town committee members should live in Winchester and urged Conservation Commission member Thomas F. Derro to step down.

Although the town meeting charter does not require members to live in town, Derro, who had moved out of town, did step down within weeks of the Selectmen's discussion.

As August drew to a close, Winchester saw Francis X. Mahoney Jr., three-year member of the Zoning Board of Appeals, step down.

Mahoney quit after citing "harassment" from officials as the reason, he said. Mahoney declined to name officials involved.

Mahoney, a professional insurance agent, joined the Appeals Board in 1982, when he filled an unexpired term. He was subsequently reappointed for a full three-year term in March of 1983.

Selectmen told the Committee on Government Regulations they wanted to maintain the power to hire and fire town employees.

Although the regulations committee proposed to give the town manager overriding authority, the plan did not come to fruition in 1985 and did not receive the support of the local executive board.

At the first School Committee meeting of the new school year, members were at odds over a plan to cut the board from six to five.

The plan originated from several statements back in June, when the committee was electing a chairman.

Later in the fall, a Town Meeting vote backed the proposed cut, which now must undergo a series of approvals before being enacted.

September

Continental Cablevision announced that because of three new services scheduled to be marketed in October, some local cable channels would be changed.

Glenn Oakley, the firm's systems manager, said the channels are not being changed because of resident complaints, but rather to simplify the program listings.

The Sam Rotondi housing proposal surfaced again in September, as he said he would not scrap his housing plans.

In a notice to Rotondi dated Aug. 29, the board said it would not approve the necessary order of conditions on the basis of lack of sufficient accurate information. The board said it was willing to consider a revised plan, and Rotondi said he was confident he would meet those requirements.

Later, Selectmen questioned the Board of Assessors' plan to shift the tax burden from residents to businesses.

The Board of Assessors favored a change in property tax from 100 to 120 percent.

At Sept. 16's meeting, selectmen favored a 100 percent equal tax rate.

In September, Winchester took its first step towards providing low income rent programs for residents.

A seven-member family became the first Winchester clients of Chapter 707, a state program to subsidize rent for low and moderate income families.

The family moved into a town owned apartment on Reservoir St. Thirty or 31 families from in and outside Winchester are on the waiting list for the remaining four 707 certificates.

The School Committee pushed for two articles for the November town meeting.

The board discussed the issue of an odd number of members on the board, favoring an increase from the present six to seven.

The committee also met in executive session to discuss a state reform bill regarding an increase in minimum salaries for teachers in the school system.

The Winchester Library joined a network with 19 other public and private libraries to share its resources, giving patrons access to an abundance of materials.

Also in September, selectmen voted unanimously to award businessman William Sabatino a license to serve take-out food.

The session with Selectmen was filled with residents, most of whom favored allowing the license, and after about an hour's discussion, the board gave its approval.

As the school year was just resuming, Winchester was the first of 30 towns to sign a letter of agreement between the Police Department and the town's public schools aimed at clamping down on juvenile delinquents.

School Committee members voted unanimously to accept the letter and Lt. Daniel McGee was named the town's new police liaison between the department and the schools.

Also in school news, the committee continued to debate about instituting a smoking ban on the high school grounds.

October

October was welcomed by "Gloria" winds.

Hurricane Gloria swept through Winchester downing numerous trees and powerlines, but otherwise causing no major casualties.

Despite the relative mildness of the storm, much of the town was without power for some time throughout the days and nights that followed the storm.

The second biggest news item in Winchester in October was the actual awarding of the town's first liquor Youngsters such as Jennifer Delaney said goodbye to Winchester Public Librarian Jean Twitchell, who retired in 1985.

Nicholas Buonopane was issued the license by the Board of Selectmen. Buonopane opened his Main St. shop in December.

In further downtown renovation work, crews started digging up the crosswalks at the downtown center. Bricking the crosswalks was part of the phase two town renovations that began June 17, after the state awarded the Winchester $900,000 in grant money.

In another chapter of the continuing saga on school air quality, the School Committee was handed a petition signed by 600 High School students urging them to clean up the air quality in the school.

Winchester's Dr. John Pastore and the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, a group to which Pastore devoted himself for five years, won the 1985 Nobel Peace Prize.

The Attorney General's office started the search for the person who dumped contaminated soil off Socrates rd. The incident is still under investigation.

Beverly McIntyre, a 21-year old Winchester woman, was charged in connection with the beating of a 34-year-old man who was found comatose in Woburn near the Greek church.

The case is still in litigation.

Selectman Michael Saraco stepped down as chairman of the Board of Selectmen, citing health reasons. Selectman Alan Macdonald took over the seat.

HOW TO EVALUATE COMPETING OFFERS

In a market as lively as this one, several offers may come in at the same time on a house that is for sale. If you're the lucky seller, it could increase the selling price of your property or allow you to sell it with more favorable terms than you had expected.

When faced with multiple offers, how do you pick and choose among them? Your realtor can help by setting up a chart comparing the main features of each proposal. First, there's price. Then consider the closing costs you may be asked to pay, such as loan fees or local transfer taxes. Be sure you understand any terms that might reduce your net profit. Can you work out a mutually agreeable date for you to move out and the new buyers to move in? How clean is each offer? Do any of the buyers want owner financing, or do they have another property to sell before they can settle on yours? Can you get reasonable assurance that the buyers will be able to qualify for the financing they will need?

Your agent can help you weigh the relative merits of each offer. Then you can accept or counter the best one, and perhaps line up one of the other offers as an alternate.

The professionals at Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors can guide you through each step of the home selling and buying process. Please visit our office at 33 Thompson Street or give us a call at 729-7000.

Local Woman Works To Save The Lives Of Former Race Dogs

By JILL M. HIGGINS

"I wish he'd come downstairs to see you," said Jane Klorer. "He's just so shy."

"Lightning, here Lightning," she calls, as she starts up the stairs of her family's Fletcher st. home.

In a moment, she comes down with a tall, thin greyhound dog wearing a bright red bow and tiny leash.

He peers at his visitor with big, brown eyes — looking something like a gentle deer.

With graceful elegance, he strolls from the stairwell to the middle of the living room floor.

The three-year-old former race dog settles in so placidly that he looks like a piece of furniture.

"It's hard to believe that they would kill something so docile," she says. "There just doesn't seem to be any reason for it."

Klorer, a member of Greyhound Friends Inc., has a keen interest in saving retired greyhound race dogs.

She has made it her intense hobby to work toward saving the lives of greyhounds, whose purpose in the racing world dies once they fail to bring in money for their owners.

The Greyhound Friends take charge of the dogs, boarding them and caring for them until they find new homes for the dogs.

As racers, she says, they live rigid existences, kept in stark, cramped quarters at race tracks.

They are free to run only when they are run in races, along a track chasing the ever-fleeting rabbit lure.

And when they get hurt to the point where their owners think they aren't worth keeping, the dogs are shipped off to the highest bidder to become the victims of laboratory experiments.

The good dogs — those that are basically healthy but just aren't winning races — can bring in a few hundred dollars when sold as laboratory animals.

Others, those that can't fetch a good price on the scientific experiment market, are simply killed.

"These dogs aren't old when they are pulled from the tracks. Lightning was only two years old when I got him," explains Klorer.

The slender dog turns his attention to Klorer, cocking his head as though he understands exactly what she is saying.

"He had never been a pet before, so he didn't even know how to play when I first got him," she said. "I actually had to teach him how to play — he had to learn how to play with rawhide bones."

"He was even more timid than he is now. I had to work at it to get him in good condition."

For Klorer, that work meant cooking up batches of liver and ground beef to build up Lightning's strength.

Most greyhounds need a good deal of fattening up when they are first taken from the track exercise, she says. She also takes him on regular walks around the neighborhood.

She explains that when greyhounds are first taken from the racing environment, they are totally unaware of the rest of the outside world.

"It's a real learning experience, teaching the greyhounds about things they have no idea even exist."

For instance, she says, the dogs may initially need help learning to climb stairs.

"Greyhounds are a very old breed. They are friendly, affectionate and make good house dogs. Recently, some owners and trainers are allowing their dogs to be given away as pets — rather than have them put to sleep — or befall a worse fate — being sold as a research animal."

Cars, she adds, are also unknowns for the former race dogs. "You have to be careful with them around cars, because they just don't know anything about them."

The dogs are apt to dash into the street if not held on a leash, simply because they don't realize cars exist, she explains.

The Greyhound Friends, which tries to find homes for the retired dogs, works with each adoptive family, to make sure that the family knows what to expect from the dogs.

If there is ever a problem, such as the family must move and cannot keep the dog, Greyhound Friends takes the dog and finds another home for it.

"We have a lot of dogs, we're looking for people who want to give these dogs a chance," says Klorer.

COMMENT

Beyond Human Emotion

By TERRY MAROTTA

I knew three boys a long time ago. They died, one by one, all within a couple of years.

The first was killed by a drunk driver. He lived on the same street as I did.

The second died in his car too, on a late August evening, in an attempt at crossing the tracks before the train came through. You could view the twisted wreck, if you wanted to, they had it on display at this body shop for a while in that week just before Labor Day.

Lots of my friends drove over to see it, compelled by their worst imaginings. I couldn't join them. I had learned how to drive in that car; the boy who died gave me lessons in it after school, out in the parking lot behind the stadium.

The third young man's life ended soon after his friends'. His small plane crashed in a sudden storm, high among the crags and bony steeples of the Rocky Mountains. He had taken me to my senior prom.

I don't know why I think of these three today, unless it's the weather.

It's fine out just now, clear and cold as diamonds, with a clean weightless snow that carpets the land like a layer of meringue. A thin and singing wind plays in the treetops.

On days like this, I used to think often of these boys, and ask myself if it felt cold where they are; if it felt lonely.

They're buried quite near to one another on the same broad hilltop, all three together in a cemetery established just a year or two before they came there. Their markers were among the first to dot those manicured lawns.

I used to wonder if they spoke somehow to each other, in the long-tree tossing midnights — when the living, with their potted plants, and their automobiles and their noisy grieving had gone home to kitchens, and television, and calendars on the wall.

I used to ask myself if they mourned at all for their young and budding lives — if they remembered together about school and football, and how it felt when you stayed our sledding too long as a child, and your wrists turned red and stinging in the space between cuff and mitten.

I wondered then if they worried about the people they'd left behind here.

Not about the ones as peripheral as the girl they'd taught to drive, or even the one they'd taken to the prom: I wondered if they worried about their families.

I would walk among their graves and wonder if they worried for that little brother who got so scared during thunderstorms. Or for their mothers, or their dads, who would never wake on a single morning for all the years that were left to them without feeling that ache in the throat that comes of burying a child.

I used to wonder about all this, but I don't anymore.

I don't picture them, these many years later, concerning themselves with the messy business of living.

If they're up on that hill still — if any vestige of their youthful spirits resides there — I can't believe that they entertain any feelings we would associate with pain or longing. I don't know that they think of this life at all.

They've gone beyond the ache and ardor of human emotion. They needn't fret about job security, or weep over a marriage turned sour. The deficit doesn't concern them. Acid rain can do them no harm. Even the great issues of war and peace hold no sway over them.

They have their own peace in the place where they live now.

They'll never get sick; they'll never grow old.

For them time has stopped. For all eternity, they'll be what they were: young men of 19 or 20, taken too soon from life, to be sure, but taken undiminished by the cruel friction of the years.

I used to feel sorry for them, and imagine them trapped and imprisoned in their narrow boxes.

Now I see that we're the ones in prison, really.

And they fly free, beyond the blink of days, among the wheeling stars.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

THE SENATE "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on 11 roll calls.

MOUNT GREYLOCK 25061- Senate 32-0, gave final approval and sent to the Governor a bill providing for an $8.5 million bond authorization to acquire land and develop a regional economic and recreational resource in Berkshire County through the Department of Environmental Management.

Supporters said the package will create a regional economic resource in the form of a public-private joint development of the Mount Greylock State Reservation.

Opponents said there are a lack of safeguards in the bill and claimed portions are contrary to rulings by the Inspector General.

A "Yea" vote is for the package. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

SURTAX 6510, S 25001- Senate 32-1, accepted the House-Senate conference committee version of the bill phasing out the state's 7.5 percent surtax over two years. The bill also includes a new system of vanishing exemptions and increases the no tax status.

Supporters said this will save taxpayers $35 million and can easily be funded by the state's surplus. Some opponents said the state cannot afford the loss and argued the money should go to offset federal cutbacks.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

TRUCKING 26151- Senate 21-12, gave near final approval to a bill changing several aspects of the current system of handgun licensing. A key provision includes requiring police chiefs to act on an application within 15 days and allowing rejected applicants to appeal immediately to district court. The measure also provides for standardized statewide permit application.

Supporters said the bill allows police chiefs to retain their current wide latitude in issuing licenses but provides applicants with a fairer system of due process.

Opponents said the bill is flawed, contains no standards for renewals and allows police chiefs to retain too much latitude.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

SALES REPRESENTATIVE 67461- Senate 20-9, reconsidered its earlier approval of an amendment to a bill establishing procedures for contracts between manufacturers and independent sales representatives. The bill allows either party to require a written agreement while the amendment balances the bill and noted the state should not even be interfering in this private business matter.

Amendment opponents said the amendment guts the bill which is designed to protect both parties and prevent unfair practices.

A "Yea" vote is for reconsidering passage of the amendment. A "Nay" vote is for the amendment.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

POLITICAL ASYLUM 26061- Senate 19-12, gave near final approval to a bill providing $125,000 to the Massachusetts Legal Assistance Corporation to provide legal representation to residents of the state seeking political asylum in the U.S.

Supporters said the bill will help people who wish to remain here and face prosecution if sent to their home country.

Opponents said the bill will cost millions and opens the door to abuse of this fund.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

WATER 24171- Senate 32-0, gave final approval and sent to the Governor a bill establishing a Massachusetts Water Management Act to implement planning, establishment and management of programs to assess the uses of water in the state and to plan for future water needs.

Supporters said the bill will address the water problems in the state and to plan for future water needs.

Opponents said the bill is unnecessary and creates another bureaucracy.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE 26101- Senate 31-0, gave initial approval to a bill establishing the Executive Office of Criminal Justice.

Supporters said this will create a cabinet level criminal justice department to oversee the criminal justice system of the state and coordinate activities now scattered among several agencies.

Opponents said the new cabinet position is unnecessary and is a step backwards which will result in youth offenders being treated as adults.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

JAIL 68001- Senate 31-0, gave initial approval to its own version of a $273 million prison expansion package for upgrading of prisons and construction of several new facilities.

A key House provision for the state takeover of county jails is missing from the Senate version. Supporters said the bill will begin to address serious overcrowding problems.

Opponents said the package lacks checks and balances to prohibit abuses in the construction system.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

EXTENSIONS 24151- approved an order extending until December 30 the time the Steering and Policy Committee has to report on several key bills.

Supporters said this will allow the Senate to address these issues before the end of the session.

Opponents said the Senate has done very little for eleven months and argued there is no reason to be in session and cram work into the last few days of the year.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

INSURANCE DISCRIMINATION 26171- Senate 29-1, gave initial approval to a bill prohibiting discrimination in insurance contracts.

Supporters said the bill will end discrimination against women in the insurance industry.

Opponents said the bill goes too far and ignores all statistics regarding life expectancy and other important factors.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

MILLSTONE 60061- Senate 16-14, approved an amendment to a bill prohibiting the Department of Public Utilities, when it approves rates for Western Massachusetts Electric Company, from considering more than $3.5 billion in costs for the Millstone 3 nuclear generating facility in Connecticut.

The amendment removes the cap and substitutes language insuring the DPU considers costs which were prudently incurred.

Amendment supporters said the DPU's hands should not be tied and noted the cap will leave $300 million unrecovered.

Amendment opponents said the amendment effectively kills the bill and does not give the consumer enough protection.

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted no.

THE HOUSE "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on 12 roll calls.

MOUNT GREYLOCK 25061-

House 123-5, gave final approval to an $8.5 million bond authorization to acquire land and develop a regional economic and recreational resource in Berkshire County.

Supporters said the bill contains sufficient safeguards and will provide for development of the Mount Greylock State Reservation.

Opponents said the bill is flawed and does not include sufficient safeguards regarding authority over the project.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE 23871- House 118-26, refused to discharge the Ways and Means Committee from further consideration of a bill requiring all House-Senate conference committees to report within five days of their appointment.

Supporters argued that it was unfair for these committees to delay bills.

Opponents said the committees often need time to fashion a compromise. Some said the proposal needs more study.

A "Yea" vote is for discharge on to the House floor for a vote. A "Nay" vote is against discharge.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

RACING 68181- House 134-15, gave final approval to a bill, designed to help the state's horse racing tracks, including key provisions in increasing the number of racing dates and offering tax breaks allowing tracks to retain money to make capital improvements.

Supporters said the bill will protect jobs and help tracks compete with out of state racing.

Opponents said the bill is special interest legislation to help a select group.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

POLICE POWERS 112621- House 91-48, gave final approval to the Senate version of a bill allowing the Commissioner of Public Safety to grant certain police powers to employees of the Bureau of Special Investigations.

The bill would give them certain police powers to make arrests and serve warrants for criminal offenses resulting from fraudulent claims under public welfare programs and programs administered by the department of social services as well as for persons who do not pay child support.

Supporters said the bill contains safeguards and will allow a crackdown on welfare fraud.

Opponents said the bill is dangerous and will simply increase employees and pay.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

SHARER 112001- House 145-1, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill establishing the Silver Haired Legislature as a permanent entity under the Board of Regents.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

DRUG AND ALCOHOL 52121- House 130-24, gave near final approval to a bill requiring each city and town to maintain drug and alcohol abuse programs in its public schools.

Supporters said it would cost only $800,000 to help combat this menace to kids.

Opponents said the state should not mandate this program and claimed local communities should handle it themselves.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

MINIMUM WAGE 51431- House 144-1, gave initial approval to a bill increasing the current hourly $3.35 minimum wage by 40 cents over the next three years.

Supporters said the hike was long overdue and will help thousands of workers.

Opponents said the bill can hurt teenagers who may not be hired at the higher wage.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

TEENAGERS 14331- House 137-14, rejected an amendment to the bill raising the minimum wage to $3.75. The amendment allows teenagers to be paid the federal minimum wage, currently $3.35, during the summer months.

Amendment supporters said this will encourage more hiring of teenagers for summer jobs.

Opponents said the amendment is discriminatory and actually hurts teenagers by paying them less.

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

HEALTH BOARD 116121- House 93-54, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill creating a board to license and regulate certain mental health and human service professionals. The bill sets educational and other requirements for several positions including mental health counselor, marriage counselor and rehabilitation counselor.

Supporters said the bill will protect consumers and insure they are treated by qualified professionals.

Opponents offered no arguments.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

DRUG AND ALCOHOL 52121- House 130-24, gave near final approval to a bill requiring each city and town to maintain drug and alcohol abuse programs in its public schools.

SENIOR SCENE

Tax Aid Offered

With the approach of the tax season, seniors at the Jenks Center return to the classroom for instructions on income tax form preparation. Each January about 20 volunteers undergo intensive training on the preparation of Federal and state income tax forms. Both Internal Revenue Service and Mass. Revenue officials provide the instructions.

Byron Peterson, chairman of the Jenks Tax Assistance Committee, advises that recent changes to the revenue regulations will be emphasized in the training program.

Training sessions will be held on Jan. 6 (morning only), 9 and 10. Activities normally scheduled to be held in the Craft Room on these dates will be cancelled due to space limitations. Assistance to Winchester seniors will be available at the Jenks Center on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning Feb. 4 and ending April 3. Hours are from 9:15 to 11 a.m. No appointment is necessary.

Learning Paves Way To Success For Adults

By MAUREEN QUINN

Some 30 adults in Winchester are now more prepared to re-enter the job market or go back to school after years of inactivity.

Winchester Schools learning specialist, Elle Racioppi, recently completed semester-long learning workshops for local adults.

Workshops are aimed at quelling fears of adults planning to re-enter the job market or return to school after a long absence.

The next class will be Jan. 21 to April 12. The goal of the weekly, semester-long workshop, Racioppi said, is to teach people how every one learns through different approaches.

Racioppi said in the 1960s and 1970s the interest was not in different learning approaches. Rather, interest focused on why people don't learn, using a more remedial diagnostic approach.

Racioppi said the program encompasses all facets of a person's life—academic, personal, business and social.

People learn through different approaches, Racioppi breaks down learners into four categories—information.

Five of the 30 enrolled in the course spoke candidly about how the course changed and enlightened their lives.

Elaine Kilian said the course gave her the chance to do "all my unfinished business."

Kilian explained she had put too many things away on the shelf, so to speak. Now she has the confidence to tackle tasks she never thought she could.

Lola Schwab said, "I'm less afraid of being more creative."

Schwab said the reason why children have trouble learning is because, "the child has to adjust to teacher's mode and consequently sublimates his own creativity and growth." She said she recalled how difficult school was for her because of this.

Ann Hathaway said the course was not only beneficial for herself, but for her relationship with her children.

"I realized the pressure I was putting on my kids."

After all Schwab said, "Learning should never be painful."

novative learners, analytical learners, experimenters and dynamic.

Innovative learners, she said, gain through reflective observing and experiencing. They excel in viewing concrete situations from many perspectives.

Analytical learners are thorough and industrious, learning by thinking through ideas.

Racioppi describes experimenters as those who like to "tinker" with objects. They need to know how things work and learn best through hands-on experience.

Dynamic learners like to experience and experiment. They seek hidden possibilities and need to know what can be done with things. They favor variety and flexibility and learn by trial and error or self-discovery process. For example, a dynamic learner will not follow a recipe by the book—he or she will add his own ingredients to change the flavor of a dish.

When a person understands what kind of learner he is, then he is prepared to understand and respect other people for how they process in-

Phyllis Gleason, talent chairman, will be on hand with her committee to welcome newcomers and returning performers alike and to ensure that the audition process will run smoothly for everyone.

This year's show, entitled "Celebrate", is a parade of celebrations in song and dance. In 1986, our country's Statue of Liberty celebrates her 100th birthday and Winton Club celebrates its 75th year of service to Winchester Hospital, inspired by these anniversaries. "Celebrate" reflects on significant events which happened in America during the Statue's lifetime and the many contributions made during this period by women and women's organizations. The show's individual celebrations are woven together in dance and song with music from Broadway shows including "Camelot" and "Pajama Game" and many Cole Porter songs.

Maryalyn Norris, cabaret chairman, has chosen Christopher Brown of California to direct and choreograph the show, and selected Eddie Madden as musical director. Both men are well-liked and respected by former cast members, both for their professional talents and their ability to make the performers feel at ease.

Following auditions, casting decisions will be made by mid-week and rehearsals will begin immediately, continuing throughout January.

STAR SPORTS

Sachems Sports Year In Review

Winchester Teams Shine In 1985

By DAVID DEMARCO

Last winter was an exciting time in Winchester as the high school sports teams were all having "up" seasons.

The boys' basketball team was a great improvement over previous years, as Mark Shaw, Mike White and Hank Lynch all brought pride back to the courts for the Sachems. Remarkably, the team was filled with underclassmen and left with a lot of promise for 1986.

The Sachem hoopsters made the post season tournament, only to be knocked out by Marblehead on February 28 by a score of 84-62.

Still, Winchester finished with a 12-8 record and the team was a pleasure to watch.

The girls' basketball team was also outstanding, as Barbara Delaney, Mitch Powers and Julie Guarnotta were the hoop stars for the Sachemettes.

They were not overpowering, but seemed to win just about every night. They were a team that revolved around their key people like Barbara Delaney.

The Sachemettes put on some great shows last winter; the only teams they couldn't handle were perennial powerhouses Wakefield and Lexington.

Delaney's Sachemettes made the tournament only to face soccer rival Concord/Carlisle on the parchment floor. As they did in soccer, Concord/Carlisle showed pride, to knock out the Sachemettes.

Winchester was loaded with seniors, this graduation took away a lot of the team's clout and leaving the 1986 squad to rebuild.

Hockey Happenings

Last winter's hockey team was the one which was supposed to bring pride back to the Sachem arena. They started out great, tying and beating Wakefield and Watertown respectively.

The first half of the year brought a respectable 6-4 record; but then things fell apart in the second half, as the Sachem offensive power disappeared.

The team ended up averaging one goal per contest and at one point stood 0-3-2 during the late winter months.

The hockey team also lost a lot of seniors, leaving younger players to pick up the slack in 1986. Although Winchester's hockey team was a bit of a disappointment, the first half of the year seemed joyful after years of drought.

Wrestling Heroes

It made the season a lot more bearable.

Perhaps the most successful team in winter sports was the wrestling team. The grapplers seemed to win everything they put their hands on.

They won the league title for the second year in a row. They won both the Division 1 tournament, and the Melhuon tournament. In February, they finished second in the state after losing to Chelmsford High by 26 points.

Again this year, Winchester's "Hulk Hogan's" should terrorize the state, as there is outstanding talent again on the mat.

During the spring season, the teams from Winchester High were either outstanding or sadly disappointing. The baseball team had a fine season, as Gareth, Renton, Pete DelVecchio and Scott Binding had very good seasons.

Then, it was as though the Sachem intensely fell off during the latter part of the season, as they began to struggle against teams they had mauled earlier. Sadly, Winchester could not beat Burlington as the Red Devils were the Sachem's only threat to the League champs.

In post-season tournament play, Winchester did not do as well as expected. They were beaten from play by Newton North early in the tourney.

Over all, however, the season was a lot of fun, as Winchester's trade mark was the late inning "come-from-behind" rally.

Softball Highlights

In softball, the Winchester team did not fare as well as their baseball counterparts. The Sachemettes were a team besieged with poor fielding and a general lack of experience.

Although Winchester started off

Lacrosse Season

The Winchester Lacrosse team went through one of its worst seasons in history, as the Sachems were in a rebuilding phase. They opened the season strong, but were beaten badly as they began to face tougher opponents.

Paul Ferullo in goal was the perhaps only sparkle in the otherwise dismal season, as Winchester ended up 5-10. The Sachems had no defense the entire spring and seemed to lose enthusiasm toward the difficult end.

The girl's tennis team had their typical outstanding season, boasted the Globe's "coach of the year" Rosanne Innes.

The team was led by Lulu Kormond and Mary Pat Furey. After an outstanding regular season, Winchester did very well in tournament play, posting the second best record in Eastern Massachusetts.

During the summer months, one can usually find Sachem athletes hanging around beach areas or enjoying a few rounds of tennis.

But as the new school year opened, back came Winchester's tradition of excellence in athletics.

The boys' soccer team, under coach Gene Bouley, was excellent, as they played well enough to advance to the state tournament, with the field leadership of Khristoff Verlugen.

The girls team was, as usual, champion of the League and did extremely well in post season play. Julie Guarnotta led the girls as they played Needham in the semi-finals, only to lose on a shoot out.

The poor field hockey team suffered through another disappointing season, as they won only a handful of games through their long schedule.

Michelle Sweeney was the leader, along with Lucy Shawcross and Diane Yamani, but they just couldn't seem to bag enough goals.

Football Hits

Finally, there came the athletic center of attention -- the football season.

It has been said that a football team can reflect the athletic respect of an entire community.

Well, Winchester has nothing to worry about, it seems, as they have only lost two games in two years.

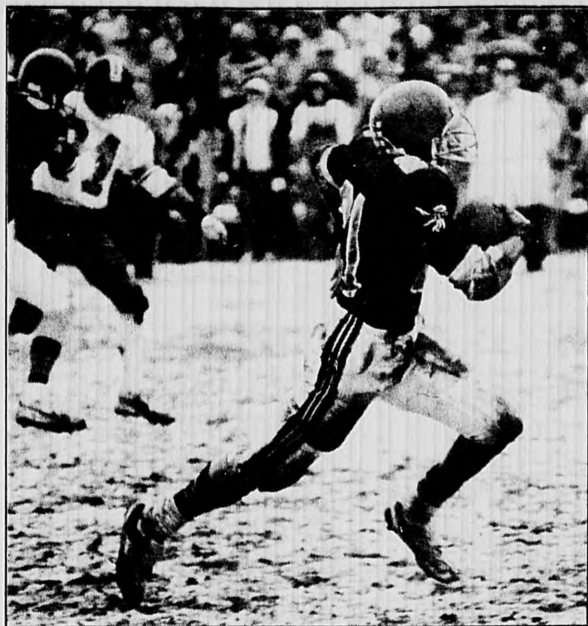

1985 was another incredible season for the Sachems, they finished 9-1 and won a share of the league title. The only blemish on a great fall was a heartbreaking repeat loss to Lexington High and Bart Garf.

Winchester was overpowering though, as both Mike White and Dennis Clarke made the Boston Globe all-scholastic roster. Winchester ended the season on a high note on Thanksgiving Day during a blizzard, wiping out Woburn for the sixth time in seven years.

As the year comes to a close and there is more time to reflect, local sports fans can't help but be very thankful that Winchester has so many fine young athletes and does so well in a variety of sports.

For a small school, they more than hold their own in Eastern Mass. Win or lose, they are more exciting than any local professional sports teams.

As 1986 comes along, Sachem fans should be able to expect even more great things—as "Sachem Pride" runs strong.

Football player Darin Cromwell was a hard player this year.

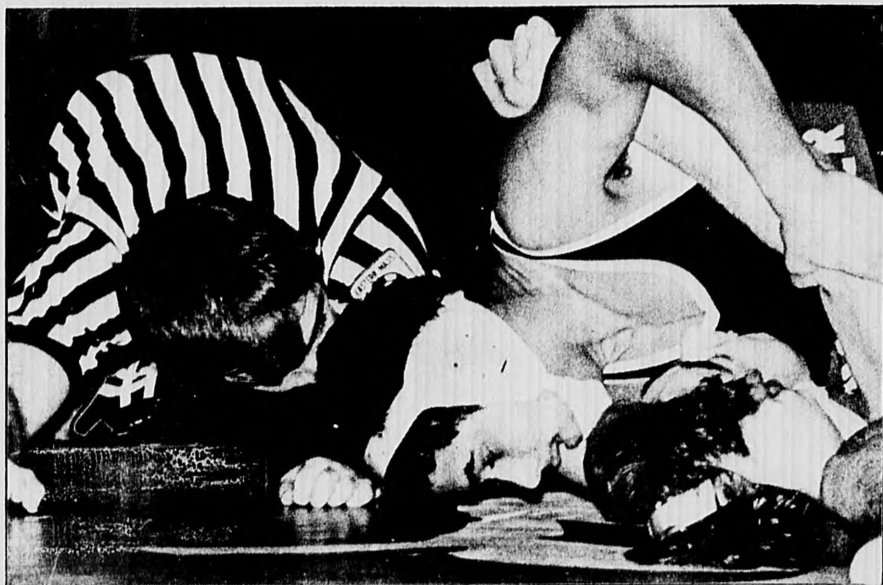

WHS gymnast Alex Sour stands tall on the balance beam.

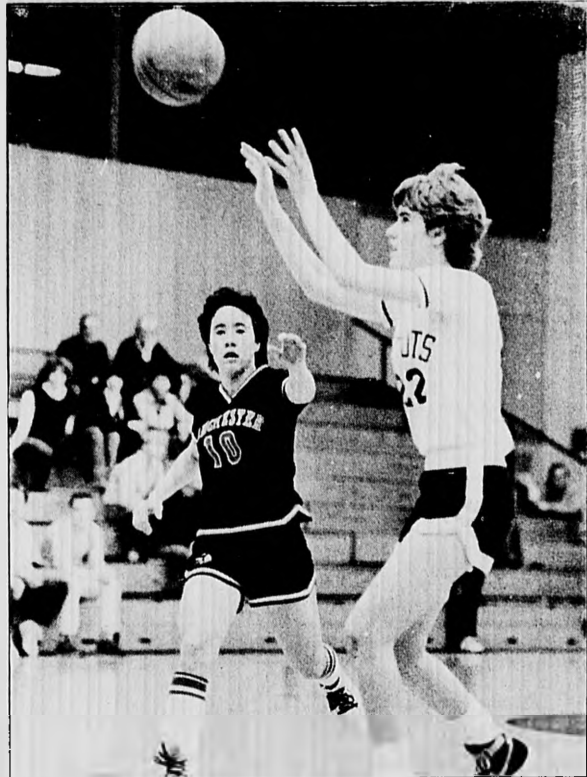

Chris Bett was among the hustlers on the boys' track team

Debbie Maida makes a kick during soccer play.

The wrestling team was strong and performed well during the 1985 season.

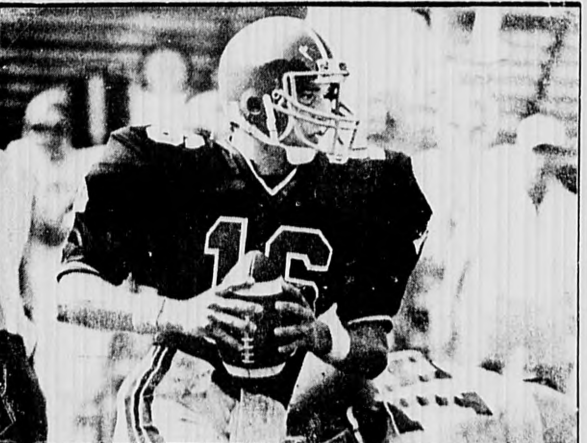

The WHS girls' basketball team included such talent as player Mich Powers.

Winchester first baseman Bill Ford winces with an injured leg as coach Bill Chase and their trainer tend to him.

Zoe Layden competed for the WHS girls' track team.

Quarterback Mike White stole the show at many a game this season.

Local Swim Teams Excel

The North Suburban YMCA Boys' Swim Team traveled to Melrose on Saturday, Dec. 21, to do battle with the Melrose Y "Sharks" and came away with victories in two out of five classes.

This was the boys' first dual meet of the season and many swimmers achieved outstanding times, not only winning their events but getting closer to New England qualifying times.

Chris Sheppard of Winchester single-handedly took on the Class E (8 and under) "Sharks" as he registered two first place finishes in his events: a 1:51.15 in the 100-yard individual medley and 43.36 in the 50 free. Despite Sheppard's valiant efforts, the E's lost this contest.

The Class D (9 and 10) boys were one of the winning groups of the day. Ben Sheppard, Winchester, started the ball rolling with an amazing first place finish of 1:20.36 in the 100-yard individual medley. He also achieved a first place in the 50-yard butterfly with a super 35.20 which qualifies him for the YMCA New England Championships.

Billy Jansen, Wilmington, and Ricky DeMino, Woburn, registered a first and second in the 50-yard free style with times of 34.14 and 35.88, respectively. These times were also personal bests for both swimmers. Billy Shuh, Winchester, did a great job of placing second in the 100-yard free style with a B time of 1:18.04.

The 50-yard backstroke also saw the Class D Vikes achieve a 1-2 finish with Jansen taking a first in 41.97 (a B time) and Andrew Hall, Winchester, taking second with a 45.14.

In the 50-yard breaststroke Melrose took their only first and second place positions, but Ricky DeMino, Woburn, achieved a close third with a personal best time of 49.06, bringing him to within less than 1 1/2 seconds of a B time. Mark Connarion of Woburn also swam in the 50-yard breaststroke.

The boys placed well in both relays. The 100-yard medley relay team of Jansen, DeMino, Sheppard, and Connarion scored a 2:41.65 to take second place; while the 100-yard free relay team of Greg Luongo (Wakefield), Richie Saxe (Burlington), Shuh, and Hall (both of Winchester) came in first with a 2:41.59.

The other winning group of the day were the Class C (11 and 12) boys. EJ Anderson of Woburn posted a first place in the 200-yard free style with a 2:16.14 and another first place in the 50-yard butterfly with a 34.38.

Brad Swallow, Reading, took a first in the 50-yard backstroke; while Mike Driscoll, also of Reading, won going away in the 100-yard free style with a time of 1:09.42.

Dave Murman, Lexington, came in second in the 50-yard breaststroke with a 44.54. A 2:14.57 in the 100-yard free relay gave the team of Anderson, Driscoll, Murman, and Swallow a decisive first place finish in that event.

The Class B (13 and 14) boys swam valiantly and came close, but just missed out to the Melrose Sharks. Derek Anderson of Woburn swam a 26.27 to take first place in the 50-yard free style. Tony Cerrato, Arlington, and Kevin Flatley, Reading, came in second and third in the 200-yard free stroke, respectively.

Derek Murman, Lexington, was second in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:33.70. David Saxe of Burlington was second in the 50-yard butterfly with a 1:28.04. Cerrato was second in the 100-yard free style with 1:12.50 and Anderson finished second in the 500-yard free style. Flatley and Murman were second and third, respectively, in the 50-yard breaststroke with times of 1:18.08 and 1:20.30. The Class C boys took a definitive first place in the 100-yard free relay with a time of 1:59.00.

With only half of their group present, the Viking A boys had a little harder time of it. Great finishes were achieved by Peter Anthes of Lexington as he placed first in the 200-yard free style with a time of 1:57.14 and first in the 500-yard free style with 5:17.20. Second place finishes were registered by Greg O'Connor, Winchester, in the 100-yard free style with a super 53.88 and by Jim Bowers, also of Winchester, in the 100 backstroke with a 1:06.05. Matt Berg, Winchester, and Matt Harvey, Reading, took second and third in the 100-yard breaststroke with 1:04.08 and 1:15.87, respectively.

Berg also achieved a second in the 200-yard individual medley by posting a 2:14.76. Mike Bowers, Winchester, also swam in the 200-yard individual medley.

The Class A boys team of Anthes, O'Connor, Harvey, and J. Bowers capped off the day's events by taking a first place in the 200-yard free relay with a time of 3:45.95.

With this first Y meet now under their belts, the Boys Vikings are looking forward to their next Y competition which will be on January 11 when they will host Cape Ann (Gloucester) at the Woburn North Suburban YMCA.

Swimmers Win

The Winchester High School Boys' Swim team will be looking to carry on their winning ways when they hit the road Jan. 7 for Malden, fresh from trouncing Belmont on Dec. 20.

The team beat Belmont 93 to 75 in a healthy pre-Christmas competition that certainly put merriment in the boys' holiday season.

In the 200-yard medley, Winchester's team of Greg O'Connor, John Murray, Mike Bowers and Jim Blasi took first place with a time of 1:52.28. Finishing in fourth place in the medley was Winchester's team of Adam Laats, Doug Holt, Martin Herlihy and Sinan Kobu.

In the 50-yard freestyle event, Omar Ali finished in first place with a time of 23.86. Greg O'Connor took second place, while Martin Herlihy nabbed fifth place — for a fine Winchester showing.

In the 200-yard freestyle, T. J. Foley took a second place with a time of 1:55.03, while Alexi Carayannopoulos had third with a time of 2:06.5. Adam Laats took fourth place in the same event.

In the 100-yard butterfly, Jim Bowers won second place with a time of 1:00.4. Also swimming in that event were Winchester's Martin Herlihy and Jim Blasi.

Diving for Winchester was the strong Guy Pollino, who took first place with a score of 166.

In the 100 yard freestyle, Omar Ali grabbed first place with a time of 54.4, while Alexi Carayannopoulos won second place and Doug Holt took fifth place.

In the 500-yard freestyle, in which each swimmer must swim 20 laps, Mike Bowers took second place, while John Murray scored third and Adam Laats came in fourth.

The 200-yard individual medley, which consists of each swimmer swimming two laps of backstroke, breast stroke, butterfly and freestyle, saw Mike Bowers earn second place with a time of 2:18.1. Winchester's John Murray, sealing a time of 2:20.7, won third place. Both Murray and Bowers also swam in the 500-yard freestyle and the 200-yard individual medley.

In the 100-yard backstroke, Greg O'Connor took second place, while Jim Bowers earned third and Jim Blasi took fourth.

The 100-yard breaststroke saw T. J. Foley win the number one spot with a time of 1:08.1, while Doug Holt earned fourth place and Frank Curtis took sixth place.

The last event of the day saw Winchester again in the limelight, as the 400-yard freestyle relay showed Winchester finish a full lap ahead of Belmont.

Winchester's representative in that grand finale were Alexi Carayannopoulos, Omar Ali, Mike Bowers and T.J. Foley.

If Winchester keeps up its winning ways, the 3:30 p.m. meet against Malden on Jan. 7 could well mean yet another feather in the Sachem swimmers' caps.

The Year In Review

was the vote to the state School Improvement Act of 1985.

At a vote of 88-60, members indefinitely postponed acceptance of grant money for Winchester Schools, but voted unanimously to accept the professional grant for the Northeast Vocational High School.

The matter revolved around funds designated by the state for school improvements — funds which teachers said belonged to them and which the School Committee said should be awarded at least partly on a merit type basis.

Later in the month, Selectmen Chairman Alan Macdonald announced he would not seek reelection this spring. Since Selectman Michael Saraco also announced he won't run again in the spring, two seats will be open for spring elections.

After receiving warning in the spring that the town would be fined, the state Environmental Protection Agency forced the town to pay $19,300 for failing to alert parents and school workers that asbestos was found in the schools during EPA tests in June of 1983.

The town was notified by state officials that the town must upgrade its municipal vault within a year in order to comply with the state law.

During winter's first snowstorm, a two-alarm fire gutted 17 Lloyd St., causing considerable damage to second and third floors.

December

A survey released in the year's last month showed that 87 percent of the students at Winchester High School are enrolled in a foreign language. The national average, according to Susan Austin, Winchester Public Schools language coordinator, is only 19 percent.

As the holiday season drew near, Sabatino's Gourmet Foods, 358 Washington St., suffered a blaze causing $75,000 in damage.

In its latest big kickoff, the Jenks Senior Center announced plans to expand the town's senior center.

In School Committee news, board members are at odds over who should evaluate teachers up for tenure.

Committee members said they wanted a say in the matter, while Supl. Charles Mitsakos said it should be a purely administrative decision.

Selectmen discussed the possibility of valet parking service at Winchester's three restaurants all located in the downtown area: The Dover Grille, Lucia's Ristorante and Maximilian's Cafe.

A Winchester woman joined in a statewide fight to clean up hazardous waste.

In May of 1986 the legislature will act on a bill to study and clean up 1,000 sites across the state.

Phyllis Knopf and other community representatives collected enough signatures, 86,221, for the state to consider the bill.

Two sites eligible for federal funds because they are potential long-term threats to the public are The Industrial site and Wells G & H, downstream from Winchester.

Town Hall Renovation Committee members worked furiously to get plans underway at the Town Hall, which will celebrate its 100th anniversary in 1986. As the month came to a close, Selectmen gave the Committee its approval to begin rehabilitation work.

The School Committee dodged a vote to adopt all-day kindergarten classes. The decision was tabled for further discussion.

The committee voted unanimously to accept the transitional/readiness program for children not developmentally ready for grade one. Also voted unanimously to keep children under 5 by Sept. 1, 1987 from enrolling in kindergarten, and any child under 6 as of Sept. 1, 1988 from attending grade one.

State officials are cracking down on Winchester and other communities to make polling places more accessible for handicapped and elderly people.

The year of 1985 ended in tragedy for the family and friends of 14-year-old Winchesterite Robert Marshall. The McCall Junior High School student was killed in a hit-and-run accident Saturday, Dec. 21.

A 25-year-old Winchester man, John R. Kennedy was charged with vehicular homicide, drunk driving, driving to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident.

Gymnasts Open The Season

By DAVID DEMARCO

The Winchester High gymnastics team began its season this week showing a good deal of promise in a meet against Burlington on Friday, Dec. 20.

The team features senior co-captains Beth Jones and Daphne Pezaris and juniors Debbie Maida and Katie Binding.

The Sachemettes are very young, as the rest of the squad are ninth and tenth graders.

From the sophomore class there are Emily Doherty, Sacha Potzha, Alyson Kessel, Alex Lour, Ellen Rinaldi, Diane Williams and Kristyn Riley. The three freshmen include twins Susan and Sharon Moore, Katie Coakley and Kristen Johnson.

Asked about her team's strengths, Coach Michelle Santagate said, "Everyone came back a lot stronger this year."

"It makes it easier to get routines going. It's hard to say what other towns will do, but Woburn, Burlington, and Melrose will all be tough," she said.

Co-captain Daphne Pezaris added, "I wish we were competing against Burlington a little later in the season. We can be good as any team; we have a lot of new kids with potential."

The young Sachemettes had a tough time Friday, Dec. 20, against Burlington High. Winchester dropped the meet by a score of 113.1 to 86.6.

"We'll improve a lot; it was the first meet and everyone was a little shaky," said gymnast Debbie Maida.

Coach Santagate said she was satisfied with her team's performance. "I am very pleased we've only been in practice two weeks now, and the majority of the team has never been in a meet before. The team in general did real well. We have to concentrate on bars and beam in practice over the next week."

Burlington was led by super gymnast Michelle Antonelli, as her scores were the highest in each event.

Winchester was led by Alyson Kessel on the bars at 5.3.

Experienced seniors Daphne Pezaris was the Sachemettes' high scorer on the beam at 4.15, while Alyson Kessel led in the vault with a mark of 7.8. Emily Doherty paced the Sachemettes in floor exercise with a 6.35.

That evening after the meet, Susan Moore had this to say, "It seems that our floor exercises are the strongest part of the team. We have to work on the bars."

The next meet will be at home against Wakefield on Jan. 3.

Wrestlers Seek Title Again

The Winchester High wrestling team has returned to the wrestling mats after last year's most successful season. Last year, the matmen etched their collective way into the record books by easily defending their Middlesex League Title on the way to finishing second in the States and also taking a second in the New England. Coach Larry Tremblay has said he feels it will be a rebuilding year, though he is quick to add that the winning attitude is still there.

Tremblay said he feels it will be a fun year, yet not without its frustrating moments. With the loss of so many excellent wrestlers to graduation, it is difficult not to look back. However, added Tremblay, "We have some fine young talent who have been waiting in the wings. It will be their turn to represent the team at the varsity level."

Winchester's opening match, on Dec. 18, was against a usually strong Malden High School team. Because of the loss of so many of their strong wrestlers to graduation, Malden faced the difficult task of overcoming the forfeiture of three of their first four matches.

Mark Bortman, the 134 pounder, wrestled a strong match, pinning his man in the third period. In the 140-pound class, a strong Doug Norberg pinned his man in 3:27, controlling his opponent throughout the entire match.

Then, in the 157-pound class, junior Scott Racek wrestled the most exciting match of the day before finally pinning his opponent, Bob Duchus.

The Sachems routed Malden 54-18 showing that they still have some ability in their lineup.

The Friday, Dec. 20, first match pitted the Sachems against Triton Regional High School. Winchester jumped out to a commanding lead in the lower weights with an opening win by Bill Murphy who pinned his man. A forfeit to Greg Doherty and a win by Mike Hall at 114 gave the matmen some early points.

Jim Selvitelli, Alex Puchulu, and Paul Murphy continued building on Winchester's lead. Steve Rod decked his man early while Anthony Mercado gave the most exciting performance of the evening in a 17-11 contest.

Triton began picking up matches in the heavier weights until a strong Ed Piggot pinned his man in the 187 class. The final score was Winchester 34, Triton 28.

Coach Tremblay's wrestling Sachems rolled to a third impressive victory in their young season.

In the second meet of Friday night, Dec. 20, Winchester met a usually impressive team from Brockton.

Winchester's Murphy opened with a pin over Brockton's 100-pound opponent. At 107, Greg Doherty showed his ability with an exciting pin over his man. Mike Hall continued the point-getting with a win-by-fall to take a commanding lead over the Brockton Boxers.

Jim Selvitelli of Winchester pinned his man at 121. Alex Puchulu, a veteran, could not deck his man but won an exciting match.

Having lost but one match in the first six, Doug Norberg showed his ability and strength by snapping on a pinning combination in the first period.

The best match of the night at 147 was between Brockton and Winchester's Anthony Mercado. The lead changed hands six times with an exciting closing seconds escape and take down by Winchester's Mercado.

Brockton's heavier classes dominated until the heavyweight match. Dave Carter of Winchester wrestled an experienced and aggressive match pinning Brockton's Cara.

In summation, Winchester climbs to 3-0 with young wrestlers filling the shoes of graduated seniors. Assistant coach Ted Neill views the season thus far as one whose success has been attributable to the hard work of wrestlers to make weight and to be in better shape than opponents.

Winchester's talent is just maturing now under the direction of their excellent coaching staff.

A Good Year

The boys soccer team played with gusto this season.

Off To A Frigid Start

By DAVID DEMARCO

Not only has the weather been bitterly cold, but the Sachem hockey team is so far off to a rather frigid start.

Winchester faced Belmont Dec. 18 and Wakefield Dec. 20 in two games that many people would probably just as soon forget.

In the first game, Belmont's David Bella scored at 4:39 of the first period, to start a string of unanswered goals.

The Maraders thoroughly worked over the Sachems, as the puck hardly ever left the Winchester zone all evening. The misery finally ended, with Belmont skating away with a 7-0 victory.

The Sachems could not generate anything all night. It seemed to be a struggle to bring the puck up ice.

On Saturday, Dec. 21, the Sachems faced Wakefield High. But that time things were not much better.

Initially, Winchester came out strong, as the action was up and down the ice for about eight minutes.

Then however, the Sachems again fell into their own zone for an afternoon of half rink hockey. Two minutes later, Wakefield's Scott Deleo scored on a long shot from left point.

The first period ended with Wakefield only ahead 1-0, but the worst-case scenario loomed ahead. Belmont's Scott Deleo scored again at 1:31 at the second period, after which, brother Rick Deleo went to work on Winchester, scoring two goals in a matter of 30 seconds to put the Sachems in a 4-0 hole.

The Sachems scored their first goal of the season at 7:36, as Greg "Egga" Winn put one past goalie Matt Sardella.

The only other goal for Winchester came at 12:19, as Nick Gennaris' shot dribbled past Belmont's Sardella. By then, however, the score showed Wakefield ahead by 6-2.

The third period saw coach Mike Whyte replace shocked goalie Jim Chute with Jim McInerney.

Defenseman Nick Gennaris took a familiar seat in the penalty box, and Wakefield put one more home at 7:58 to make the final score 8-2.

The game was penalty-filled, with Winchester seeming to be hurt more. Again, the Sachems could not get the puck out of their own zone.

In Winchester, defense though, both Belmont and Wakefield are very tough hockey teams, and it's difficult to start the season with two powerhouses.

However, the Sachems must stay out of the penalty box and start heading—and staying—toward their opponents' end.

What To Do

Thousands Anniversary

The streets of Boston come alive with hundreds of thousands of people this New Year's as First Night, an annual celebration marking the passage of time through the arts each Dec. 31, commemorates its tenth anniversary.

In an effort to accommodate the growing number of visitors who come to Boston to partake in the annual festivities, First Night transforms the city into an urban spectacle of the visual and performing arts.

All of the program's components will be expanded, including the outdoor installations of ice, steam, sound and light.

Increased public participation is the major theme this year.

The excitement and magic of the celebration is heightened by the many audience members wearing fantastic costumes, and a new tradition — Sculptural Resolutions — is launched.

The two artist-commissioned sculptures will be cumulatively completed by the public as individuals attach materials symbolizing their hopes and resolutions for the new year.

"Through the resources of our artists, we hope to introduce customs of significant ritual to our First Night audience," said Zeren Earls, president of First Night.

"With regard to costuming, we particularly want to encourage dress that reflects cultural history, folk art or futuristic fantasy. We urge First Nighters to choose costumes, masks and/or head pieces that reflect their creativity, artistry and personal expressiveness."

The indoor performances, representing almost every variety of the visual, performing, media and literary arts, are held at 40 indoor

Volunteers Sough

What does it take to host a celebration for over 350,000 participants; to turn Boston into a stage without walls; to bring a city to life in a totally American expression of pride, enthusiasm and good will?

It takes over 400 volunteers, working hand-in-hand with the organizers of First Night '86: over 400 volunteers eager to take part in the spirit of the celebration, not only as participants, but as contributors to the joy and excitement of Boston as it celebrates New Year's Eve.

The call is out to sign up as a volunteer, to make this, the tenth anniversary of First Night, the most joyous New Year's celebration in Boston to date.

The success of First Night lies in the depth of the support from the volunteers given to each event in previous years. Without their contributions there would be no First Night today.

Those who have helped in the sites throughout the city.

The area's historic churches, landmark theaters, concert halls and cultural centers become stages for the arts.

First Night '86 gets underway the weekend of Dec. 28, as artists begin to mount outdoor and storefront installations and carve ice sculptures.

"Zodiac" — a multi-media installation at City Hall Plaza under the artistic direction of Otto Piene — features ice, steam, large inflatable sculptures and lasers with sound-score and text and will use the theme of the zodiac, the twelve astrological signs and the four elements of earth/air/fire/water.

This installation is funded with a special grant from the National Endowment for the Arts in special recognition of First Night's tenth anniversary celebration.

All of these outdoor works are completed during the day on December 31.

Throughout the afternoon of First Night, families enjoy the Children's Festival, a variety of arts events that reflects the diversity of the evening programs beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Just before that, at 5:30, the procession down Boylston St. to the Boston Common begins and the public is encouraged to participate by carrying puppets and banners or simply joining in to march, dressed in their costumes.

Each year, First Night gives more than 1,000 artists the opportunity of participating in a unique event in which their work is the focus of the public's welcome to the new year.

First Night has become a Boston tradition, enjoyed by over 300,000 people from across the country.

A First Night souvenir button ($4) supports the celebration and provides general admission to most indoor events on a first-come/first-serve basis.

A limited number of tickets ($6) for other performances are available and guarantee seats for specific programs.

Buttons and tickets are at Bostix (Faneuil Hall), the Visitor Information Booths at Boston Common and Prudential Center, Loeb Drama Center (buttons only) and Out-of-Town News and Ticket Agency (Harvard Square) and participating Brigham's Stores (buttons only) in Boston, Brookline, Cambridge and Newton as well as the First Night indoor performance sites on Dec. 31.

To Help With First Night

Dollars And Cents In Boston Theatre

1985 — Year's Wrap

What's happening to theatre in Boston?

The answer is quite simple. It's a matter of dollars and cents and no one wants to gamble.

Local producers are wary about coming up with front money to import shows from New York unless they are bonafide blockbuster musicals or Neil Simon hits, while New York producers defer, demanding assurance that the house has adequate subscribers to guarantee the financial success (advance sales) of an engagement in the Hub even if the show is murdered by critics.

The result is dark houses.

During 1985 off-Boston theatres fared far better than their larger counterparts.

Activity in major houses was even more dismal this year than last, which was pretty rank.

Only low budget one-character shows proved a sound investment with proven performers like Marcel Marceau, Doug Henning, David Copperfield and Lily Tomlin in the major houses, with lesser-knowns like Avner the Eccentric and Quentin Crisp opting for less expensive off-Boston theatres.

The disappointing "Pack of Lies" played the Wilbur, as did the innocuous musical revue "Do Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?"

The run-of-the-mill "Zorba" played the Shubert, while the Colonial chipped in with a memorable visit by Mummenschanz offset by a new adaptation of "Cyrano," which proved an exercise in futility.

Low point in the Colonial's offerings was the appearance of the undisciplined Twyla Tharp Dance. Modern Productions and the Dance Umbrella brought the amazing Sankai Juku to the Opera House, while Dick Feeney's unmemorable "Lullaby of Swing" played the Bradford Hotel's Cabaret Room.

The schedule of the Opera Company of Boston was wiped clean by illness to Artistic Director Sarah Caldwell. Overall, it was lean pickings wallowing in mediocrity.

Only the Wang Center provided a showcase for truly delightful entertainment. "A Chorus Line" was marred by faulty sound, but notable for the presence of Donna MacKechnie and a hard-working ensemble.

The Boston Ballet brought us glorious productions of "The Nutcracker" and "Don Quixote," and the list of Wang attractions glowed with visits by the Bejart Ballet of the Twentieth Century, the American Ballet Theatre and their stunning mounting of "Romeo and Juliet," and the awesomely brilliant Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre (don't miss them, April 8-13).

In the field of revue, the range was from the sublime to the ridiculous, from the wonderful "Rap Master Ronnie" to the insipid "Starting Here, Starting Now."

The hilarious "Greater Tuna" is still running strong at the Charles Playhouse and it seems like "Sheer Madness" will run forever!

Once again, the best theatre offerings were outside the Hub.

The best musical of the 1985 season was not Broadway's Tony Award-winning "Big River" but the fabulous revival of "Fiorello!" at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam, Conn., now rumored for Broadway.

Huntington Theatre Company's "Sullivan & Gilbert," a play with music, was sheer delight. And certainly the funniest show of the year was American Stage Festival's mounting of "Opera Buffa."

No matter what American Repertory Theatre produces, it's going to be quality theatre.

In 1985 they sweetened the theatre scene with "Claptrap" and "Gillette," "The Garden of Earthly Delights," "The Changeling" and "The Juniper Tree."

And certainly the Gloucester Stage Company added to audience pleasure with their sterling mountings of "American Buffalo," "Isn't It Romantic," the electrifying "Henry Lumper" and the powerful "Nighthawks."

Top performances for the year were contributed by Trinity Rep's Richard Kavanaugh in "Not By Bed Alone" and Peter Gerety in "Tartuffe," Sandra Shipley in Lyric Stage's "And A Nightingale Sang," Catherine Rust in GSC's "Nighthawks" and Randy Graff in "Fiorello!," Joe Sears and Jaston Williams in "Greater Tuna," and A.R.T.'s John Bottoms, Diane D'Aquila, Treat Williams, Harry S. Murphy, Cherry Jones and Thomas Derrah in just about everything!

Consistently best direction was executed by GSC's Grey Cattell, Johnson, and best new plays were penned by GSC's Artistic Director Israel Horovitz ("Henry Lumper") and Kenneth Ludwig ("Opera Buffa").

Grey Cattell Johnson Joins Gloucester Stage

The Gloucester Stage Company

under the artistic direction of playwright Israel Horovitz announces Grey Cattell Johnson as the Associate Artistic Director of The Gloucester Stage Company.

The GSC has enjoyed a successful three year collaboration with Johnson who has directed five GSC productions including the American premiere of Peter Gill's "Small Change" and the New England premieres of Michael Brady's "To Gillian One Her 37th Birthday," Israel Horovitz's "The Primary English Class" and Wendy Wasserstein's "Isn't It Romantic" plus many GSC readings.

Most recently Johnson directed the critically acclaimed world premiere of Israel Horovitz's newest play, the Gloucester-based "Henry Lumper."

Johnson also directed the highly successful 1984 Boston premiere of Horowitz's The Widow's Blind Date at The Boston University Theatre under the auspices of The Next Move Theatre.

During the winter of 1984 Mr. Johnson directed the Boston Youth Theatre's smash hit musical Inner City Energy.

This past year has also seen

Johnson directing productions at Merrimack Rep. Theatre of Newburyport, the Nickerson Theatre and Nucleo Eclettico among others.

Johnson has also done a good deal of acting, has made documentary films, managed both commercial and non-commercial theatre, toured extensively, and was one of the founding members of Boston

Shakespeare Company.

Boston Ballet Announces Appointments

Artistic Director of The Boston Ballet Bruce Marks announced the appointment of Anna-Marie Holmes as Ballet Mistress of The Boston Ballet and teacher at The Boston School of Ballet. Ottavio de Rosa as Music Director and Myron Romanul as Principal Conductor.

Holmes is a ballerina of international stature.

Concert and guest artist appearances have taken her to over 30 countries and five continents.

She and David Holmes, were the first North Americans invited to dance with the Leningrad Kirov Ballet.

She has appeared as a principal dancer with the London Festival Ballet, the Royal Scottish Ballet, the National Ballet of Holland among others, and is recognized world wide for her interpretations of the great Russian classics.

Internationally renowned conductor, de Rosa has conducted most of the world's major orchestras.

From 1961-1964 Mr. de Rosa was Artistic Director of the Ankara State operas under the Minister of Culture in Turkey, where he assumed responsibility for all musical activities for the Turkish government.

In the United States his past credits include the administration and direction of musical programs for the Miami Ballet, the National Ballet of Washington, the San Francisco Ballet, the New York City Ballet, and most recently, the Pittsburgh Ballet.

During the upcoming Boston Ballet season, Rosa conducts Don Quixote, A Midsummer Night's Dream, All American Dance Repertory Program, and Romeo And Juliet.

Romanul has been associated with The Boston Ballet since 1973 as a pianist and guest conductor.

He made his debut as piano soloist with members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at the age of 11 and was a frequent soloist with Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops as well as other orchestras.

He was an original pianist of the New England Conservatory Ragtime Ensemble and was featured on Angel's 1973 Grammy Award-winning record, SCOTT JOPLIN: THE RED BACK BOOK.

His many chamber music performances both as pianist and cymbalist include concerts with the Boston Symphony Chamber Players and the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center.

Currently he is on the faculty at the Longy School of Music.

Romanul conducts this season for The Boston Ballet's productions of Don Quixote, The Nutcracker and The Choreographer's Festival Repertory Program.

SPECIFY WHAT STAYS OR GOES WITH A HOUSE

The Purchase & Sale contract may be the most important document in the sale of a home. In order to save a lot of aggravation, post-sale hickering, and possible law suits, the gray area of which items will stay with the house and which the Seller will take away should be spelled out specifically in the contract. Know the difference between chattels which can be picked up and moved without leaving nail holes, and fixtures which have been attached with the intention of their becoming part of the real estate, furnace, fence, garbage disposal, etc. The Buyer expects fixtures to remain with the property.

Items like wall-to-wall carpeting, smoke alarms, and fireplace equipment should be specified as remaining as fixtures or being taken as chattels in the contract to avoid confusion. Two commonly troublesome items are the TV antenna and fancy lighting fixtures, people form strong emotional attachments to chandeliers. Rather than get bogged down over such matters, simply make sure your offer stipulates that all fixtures remain except specific ones you're willing to give up to the Seller.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee. Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

SERVICE TO BUYERS

FREE AND CLEAR

How good is the title on your property? When you sell, will it be "Free, clear and marketable?"

The fact that the title was good when YOU bought the house does not necessarily mean it will pass muster when you sell. There's the possibility of a lien on the property that could hold up the transaction.

How? Most usually, if there's been a construction project, a mechanic's lien or a materialman's lien may have been filed to protect a general contractor, a subcontractor, a supplier - even an architect - until he's been paid for his work. Trouble may occur if a contractor does not pay a supplier, or if a homeowner ignores a notice of lien.

To protect yourself, your contract with the builder should specify that he and all subcontractors must provide lien releases as they are paid. You in turn will not make final payment to the contractor until you have all the releases. Your arrangements with your contractor should include a labor and materials bond that guarantees that he will pay his bills and the job will be free of liens.

You'll get good advice from the real estate pros at Century 21 West Realty, 413 Mt. Auburn St., Watertown 926-5280

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as waiting the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North-South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 58 cal rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 12 call pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard ladder at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over — from Maine to Rhode Island to New York — but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuild" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit - alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts - is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month, 6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Audi-brands or Audi Limited Warranties at our Parts Department.

Nominations Open For Several Posts

Town Clerk Carolyn Ward has announced that nomination papers for the 1986 town election are now available.

"With the holidays behind them and with only twelve weeks remaining until the annual election on Tuesday, March 25, candidates are now making their campaign plans and thinking about taking out nomination papers," said Ward.

Town-wide offices to be filled this year are the one-year Moderator's seat, two three-year terms on the Board of Selectmen, Library Trustees and School Committee, one three-year term on the Planning Board, Board of Assessors and Board of Health and one five-year term on the Housing Authority. This year, because of a vacancy on the Board of Library Trustees, there is an additional one-year term.

No other vacancies are official at this time, as the only resignation filed with the town clerk to date is the Library Trustee.

Candidates for town-wide offices are required to obtain the signatures of 50 registered voters in order to have their names placed on the ballot.

In addition to the town-wide offices, one third of the membership of the representative town meeting is up for re-election.

"Usually there are eight three-year terms in each of eight precincts up for re-election each year," said Ward, "but this year, because of the redistricting which will take effect on January 1, 1987, town meeting members will be running for a one-year term." In 1987, all 192 town meeting seats will be on the ballot.

Town Meeting member candidates need to have only 10 registered voters in their precinct sign their nomination papers. Incumbent Town Meeting members do not have to obtain signatures, but must notify the town clerk in writing of their desire to become a candidate for re-election.

The last day to take out nomination papers at the Town Clerk's office is Friday, February 7. Candidates have until February 11 to submit signed papers to the Board of Registrars for certification.

For more information on running for town office, potential candidates should contact the town clerk.

Family Seeks $50 Million For 20-Year-Old's Death Town, Officials Sued Over Jail Cell Death

By JILL M. HIGGINS

A Doves ave. family is suing the town and several officials for an unprecedented total of $50 million for the 1983 New Year's Eve death of a 20-year-old man who died in a Winchester jail cell.

The suit names the entire 1983 Board of Selectmen, Police Chief John P. McHugh, and police department members Jonathan Dean, Barry Donaghey and Charles T. Culhane.

The selectmen named in the suit are Edward O'Connell, Alan Macdonald, Mark Lombardi, Michael Saraco and John Williams. Only Macdonald, Lombardi and Saraco remain on the board.

On Tuesday, Winchester Town Counsel Douglas Randall acquired an extension until Jan. 28 to respond to the allegations. The suit was filed in mid-December and the town originally had until Tuesday to respond to the complaint, according to Randall.

The suit is based on the death of Vincent James Marquardo, who died in jail after his arrest on a drunk driving charge. Marquardo choked to death on his own vomit while being held in the cell.

At the time of the incident, Marquardo's father, John, blamed police for not notifying him that they had his son in custody.

On Monday night, Selectmen met in executive session with Town Counsel Randall to discuss how the town will proceed in the case. On Tuesday, Randall declined to speculate on how the town will respond, saying that he does "not want to try the case in the newspapers."

Randall said, "I can't speculate on what the town will do, although I do have a good idea. It's a difficult case because the death of a young person is a tragedy regardless of the circumstances."

"You can't debate the technical aspects of pleading in the papers. Certainly it is newsworthy. But to anticipate, like it's a Patriots game, is just not right."

Although the town cannot legally be sued for more than $1 million, there is no limit to the amount each individual can be sued for.

Randall said the case could break ground in Massachusetts and perhaps even New England in light of the sum being sought. He declined to speculate how the town would shoulder such a financial burden in the event the town and officials are faced with paying the amount.

"This type of thing never happened 20 years ago, or at least very infrequently. But now you see police departments, for instance, being sued almost every time you turn around," said Randall.

Lombardi Blasts Census

By JILL M. HIGGINS AND MAUREEN QUINN

Winchester Selectman Mark A. Lombardi lashed out on Monday at the town census form, and urged residents not to disclose information on ethnic background.

Through a state legislative act, the state has added a section to the form asking residents to identify their primary language and race.

Said Lombardi, "They say everybody is equal but we're not. This is a hell of a way to run the state. I think this is a hell of a way to run the country."

Lombardi said, "Everybody is the same — a big melting pot, we're the flag, a beautiful melting pot. As a private citizen, I'm not going to put (on the application) 'white,'" he said.

Lombardi charged that the forms are an open door for scams and con artists who would use the information to their advantage.

"Take offense to it. Is this information going in the town book?" he asked angrily.

Lombardi said residents should return the form, but leave the question of language and race blank.

If a person does not return the form, Town Counsel Douglas Randall said, he is not eligible to vote in any elections.

In the midst of the heated discussion, Carolyn Ward, town clerk, phoned the meeting.

Town Manager Chadwick Maurer said Ward emphasized on the phone, "the purpose (of the new law) is not to print the information separately, it will be used for tabulation and apportionment for election districts."

Maurer added the purpose "is not to delineate in the town book" each resident's race.

But Lombardi retorted, "that's a lot of bologna — it's used for someone to make a buck."

Ward sent out an informational letter through the schools to residents outlining the need and the benefits of the annual town census.

Ward said the census includes every person residing in Winchester on Jan. 1. It also includes temporarily absent persons in military service, college, hospitals, traveling or not immediately in residence, but wish to claim Winchester as their legal address.

Ward said in a phone interview, "If you're not included in your town census you can't get Social Security benefits, for instance."

Ward insisted, "It's not just because the town is noisy. It is a difficult concept to get across."

"It is to ensure equal representation amongst minorities," she said.

Ward said residents can return forms to the big red census box at the town clerk's office. Ward said the box is "check full already."

Usually about 80 percent respond, Ward said. When Jan. 15 rolls around, Ward said, the remaining 20 percent will be tracked down.

As of Jan. 1, 1985, the town population was 21,430. Ward said she doesn't expect the figure to vary too much.

Selectmen tabled further discussion for Monday's meeting, with the possibility of contacting the Attorney General's office on the racial question.

School Budget Plan Restores Cut Programs

By JILL M. HIGGINS

The School Department hopes to resume some programs that were casualties of tax-cutting Proposition 2½ several years ago.

McCall Junior High's music program is one of those casualties, and officials estimate it will take about $44,000 to bring it back.

"The return of the music program is included in the school department's $11,124,655 budget proposal for fiscal year 1987."

The budget proposes a 1.9 percent increase, based on the assumption that 2,630 students will attend Winchester Public Schools. In grades kindergarten through 12, the enrollment represents an overall decline of less than 1 percent, the lowest decline in 15 years.

According to the budget report, for the second straight year, an increase is projected in the elementary schools.

An increase of 12 percent is projected at the kindergarten level. The enrollment decline at the secondary level is slightly more than 3 percent.

Programs now offered will continue, according to the budget plan. A service now being supported by federal funds, CollegeBound/Learning To Learn, will be funded partially by the town.

The Winchester High academic support program is incorporated within the basic staffing formula and will require no added funds.

Also, the pilot instructional specialist role now filled by Joanne Margnette will be continued. School Supt. Charles Mitsakos said. He said the program addresses the needs of students who need extra help, as well as those who are especially gifted.

Also included in the budget is a 25 percent increase in the energy costs for the high school — a result of intensive, mandatory work done to improve the air quality at the school.

Board Interviews Three For Capital Planning Job

Selectmen on Monday postponed their vote to fill the vacancy on the Capital Planning Committee because Chairman Alan Macdonald was out of town on business and Selectman Wade Welch arrived two hours late.

Selectman Michael Saraco filled in as chairman and asked each of the three prospective candidates to speak on his behalf.

The Capital Planning group assists the Town Manager in preparing major town department improvement programs and makes recommendations to Selectmen and the Finance Committee on potential projects.

Three candidates met with Selectmen, to tell the board why they were interested in the post.

Candidate Robert Ericson came before the Selectmen saying, since he had lost his Finance Committee seat he has been seeking to serve on another town board.

"You gentlemen didn't seem fit to reappoint me to the Finance Committee. I think I can be useful to the committee. I would like to serve," he said.

The second candidate, Curtis Jones, currently filling the vacancy for the past few months which expired Jan. 1 told Selectmen, "I've learned a lot, it has been a great education for me."

The third candidate, Stephen King, who ran for the position a few months ago against Jones, said, "I think they're (Capital Planning Committee) important and I could add a dimension to the team."

Selectmen noted that it was encouraging to have residents so avidly seeking involvement in town activities.

Selectmen plan to cast their final vote on Monday night with a final board.

In other Selectmen's news:

The board was informed of the resignation of George L. Andersen from the Board of Assessors. In his letter of resignation, Andersen said "medical reasons" would keep him from attending most of the remaining meetings. Andersen's term expires March 25, 1986.

Selectmen voted to renew the class two license for the Man St. firm owned by Len Sorenson, new owner of Charles L. Haggerty Inc. at 730 Main St.

The board tabled the vote on the acceptance of Westgate rd. as a public way.

Delayed to vote to allow Lucare, Ristorante to open on occasional Monday nights. The communication said hitting the Monday restriction is the sole responsibility of the licensing board. The Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission does not approve it.

Selectmen tabled a vote to keep Maximilian's Cafe open an extra hour Sunday to Thursday night. The cafe is open until 11 p.m. and requests a midnight closing. Selectman Lombardi requested something in writing from the manager or the owner.

Learned that Maryalice R. Norris resigned from the Cable Advisory Committee because she moved out of town.

Library Patrons Offered Tour Tapes

Winchester residents can now walk the Freedom Trail in Boston accompanied by a "Walkabouts" tour cassette from the Winchester Public Library.

Thanks to a donation of five cassette tour guides by the Winton Club, Winchester Public Library patrons can participate in one of Boston's favorite tourist attractions at their own pace and still have the benefit of a guided tour.

The dramatized taped tour cassettes, recorded in 1983, narrate the history of Boston from Colonial times to the present, complete with warnings on the aggressive nature of Boston drivers.

Starting at the Boston Common with the Park Street Church, the cassette tour highlights the Old Granary Burying Ground, King's Chapel, the Old Corner Book Store, Old South Meeting House, the Old State House, Faneuil Hall, Quincy Market, Paul Revere's House, St. Stephens, Old North Church, and Cobb's Hill.

Events in the city's history, notably the Boston Tea Party and Boston Massacre, are explained and dramatized, giving the illusion "listening in" on history.

Biographical anecdotes about some of Boston's Revolutionary heroes, including John Hancock, Paul Revere, Ben Franklin and John Adams help to flesh out accounts of long ago events.

Each cassette comes complete with an illustrated map of the Freedom Trail. The tour is self-paced—the cassette may be turned off at any point to allow for further exploration of an interesting spot, shopping, or a meal.

The tapes fit any cassette recorder, including the "Walkman". They may be borrowed for two weeks, and are available at the circulation desk.

The library's entire audio collection is being reorganized with the implementation of the ANSCR (Alpha-Numeric System for Classification of Recordings) system by the library. ANSCR is being used to catalog newly acquired records and tapes, and the existing collection will be recatalogued beginning this spring.

The ANSCR system groups records by the type of material they contain, and by the composer or artist featured on the recording. Thirty six different codes are used to classify content, with categories ranging from opera to choral music to solo guitar to musical shows and operettas to movie soundtracks to international folk and ethnic music to pop. Separate categories are used for recordings featuring plays, poetry, prose, instructional materials, and sound effects.

The ANSCR code on an album or cassette consists of four lines. The first is an alpha code designating the type of material on the recording. Thus all opera recordings will be together under code "B", all musicals and operettas under code "K", all jazz under code "MJ", etc.

The second line of the code identifies the composer of a classical work or the performer of popular music. In this way, all works of a composer or artist will be shelved together, making it easy to look at the library's holdings of one person's work.

The third line of the ANSCR code is taken from the title of the work, and the fourth line is a unique number, ensuring that every title has a non-duplicated call number.

The records now catalogued under the ANSCR system are located in the record bin in the Smith Room.

Music Fest To Feature Talent Of Local Students

It's Music Fest time again at Winchester High School.

This annual event will take place on Saturday, Jan. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Winchester High School auditorium. A nominal admission fee will be collected at the door.

Music Fest is an evening featuring high school student musical talent. Individuals or groups of students must try out in order to become part of the program. This year, more students than ever tried out, which means Music Fest '86 will offer a varied, interesting array of talent.

There will be many small group performances by students doing instrumental pieces, singing well-known numbers and Ken Gallo will perform a guitar solo. Two students, Rachel Cooper and Ana Perez, will perform their original songs.

Also, several student bands will perform including the "Blues Connection," which is a predominantly brass group, "DeSade," and "Lee-9," with Susan Solomon singing "Soapbox" will feature Kathy Kingsbury as vocalist and a group by the name of "Obscure Sound" will be playing original music. "Classic Impact" will be playing a portion of Brahms' "fifth trio."

For the first time, Music Fest will have an alumni performance at the end of the evening. Two bands, "Armageddon" and "The Solution" have been regular performers at previous Music Fests and as graduates of the Winchester High School, have agreed to come play, and Kristen Kelly will be back to sing again.

The concept of Music Fest has always been that the students participating in the program do so in order to benefit students who need financial assistance to pursue the study of music. All program proceeds go toward music scholarships and in the past, have gone to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation for students studying music beyond high school and to the Winchester Music Program for high school students receiving instruction here in town.

This program is sponsored by the Friends of the Winchester High School Music Department and is coordinated by Sandy Rodgers, representing the Friends and Gerry Skinder, a Winchester High School teacher and faculty advisor for Music Fest.

Refreshments sold during intermission will be provided by members of the Red and Black, the Winchester High School newspaper, in order to raise money to help defray increased printing expenses.

Saltmarsh Serves On Transport Board

As the ranking member of the Transportation Committee, Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh was chosen to serve on the Joint Conference Committee which produced the final version of the 1985 Transportation Development and Improvement Program for the Commonwealth.

"This traditional two-year funding program is vital," said Saltmarsh, "and is the sixth bond issue I have worked on since first being elected in 1975. It will enable the state, and the cities and towns, to continue to improve the infrastructure of our transportation system."

The bonding authorization of $942.6m in state monies will generate more than $1 billion in federal funds. It is a comprehensive program which included, among other things, state and federal highways, bridges, local roads, bike paths, passenger rail improvements, airport improvements, public works economic development grants, and oil street parking grants.

A total of $60m in local assistance will continue to bring relief to cities and towns operating under the fiscal realities of Proposition 2½, added Saltmarsh. Winchester has received, for example, more than $50,000 annually from the 1983 bond issue for local road resurfacing. Under the 1985 bond issue, Winchester can expect approximately 50 percent more funding with no appropriation necessary from the town.

Also of local impact, is the $10m addition to the Off Street Parking program and the $25m public works economic development program, both of which were also increased in committee by Saltmarsh. "I have seen the tremendous impact both these programs have had on the two communities I represent," he said. They provide towns with a unique opportunity for development which serves as a catalyst for future business and economic revitalization.

HOW MUCH CAN YOU AFFORD

Before you start to look for a home, it's important to be able to know how much you can afford to spend. First, consider the amount you can pay for housing each month. Then you can weigh the pros and cons of the many mortgage options available, such as fixed rate and adjustable rate loans.

A lender will look at your monthly income, as well as payments you're making on any long term debts. As a general rule, monthly housing costs should be no more than 28% of your monthly pre-tax income. This includes the mortgage payment, real estate taxes and insurance. If you do have long term debts (student loans, car payments or anything else that will take more than six months to repay) debt service plus housing costs should be less than 36% of your pre-tax monthly income.

Your monthly payments can buy varying amounts of house, depending upon which mortgage option you select. Usually an adjustable rate mortgage plan will enable you to qualify for a higher loan amount. Your Realtor can help you make some of the basic calculations or refer you to a lender who will be able to pre-qualify you for a mortgage.

Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors is happy to serve all of your real estate needs. You may call us at 729-7000 or stop by our offices at 33 Thompson Street.

STAR EXTRA

Janice Coakley struts her stuff at the Cabaret tryouts. The show, "Celebrate" opens Jan. 27.

Celebrate!!! Winton Club Cabaret Tryouts Show Promise

The Winchester Town Hall auditorium echoed with the sounds of show business Monday night as well over 100 auditioners showed up to get in the act for "Celebrate," Winton Club's 1986 Cabaret.

Leotard-clad dancers limbered up muscles chilled from the January night while singers clustered, clutching their sheet music and softly practicing their warm-up routines.

Maryalyce Norris, Cabaret chairman, welcomed the performers, both newcomers and many returning cast members from previous shows, made introductions and outlined the concept of "Celebrate."

Phyllis Gleason, 1980 Cabaret chairman and talent chairman for the fifth time, efficiently organized the audition process with the help of her committee and tryouts were quickly underway.

Musical director Eddie Madden accompanied each auditioner, using the performer's own sheet music.

Chris Brown, director and choreographer of the show, demonstrated, coached and encouraged, infusing everyone with his own enormous enthusiasm and vitality.

Tucked away in corners of the auditorium, bits and pieces of scenery and stage sets gave evidence to the fact that work in these areas has already begun.

The stage crew, under the direction of John Culver and Bob Johnson, began last weekend, assembling the stage ramp and preparing to custom-build the various sets required for the show. Working closely with the stage crew are Ann Bannister and Barbara Pacetti, who are in charge of scenery.

"Celebrate" will be presented for six nights, from January 27 through February 1. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Albert F. Kennedy at 729-5841 or by visiting the Town Hall box office, Monday through Friday, between 7:30 and 9 p.m. All proceeds from the show will benefit Winchester Hospital.

Maryalyce Norris, chairman of the Cabaret and Christopher Brown, director and choreographer, judge solo performances at the Winton Club Cabaret night.

Line dancers put their hearts into tryout performance on Monday.

Donna Jenna, formerly of Winchester and now of Boston, tries out for solo at the Winton Club Cabaret night.

Martin Luther King Day Is Jan. 15

This year's Martin Luther King Day Celebration, annually sponsored by the Winchester Interfaith Association, will be held Wednesday, Jan. 15.

It will feature the Rev. Dr. William Sloan Coffin, senior minister of the Riverside Church in New York City, and Valerie Russell, the president of the historic City Mission Society of Boston. Together they will explore the topic, "How to Make the Dream Work."

The public is invited to a pot luck supper preceding the talk at 6:30 p.m. in Hadley Hall, Parish of the Epiphany, in Winchester. Those attending the supper should bring either a casserole or a salad for eight.

A presentation by Russell and Coffin will follow at 8 p.m. Donations received will benefit the Martin Luther King Center for Social Justice.

Russell, a former Winchester resident, is president of the City Mission Society (CMS) of Boston.

An urban affairs specialist with special interest in the application of religion to social issues, Russell has lectured in theology at the Union Theological Seminary, Yale Divinity School, and Harvard Divinity School.

She is the first woman and the first layperson to head the society. Founded in 1816, CMS is the second oldest voluntary social service agency in the United States.

A resident of Newton and native of Winchester, Russell graduated from Suffolk University, Boston, and received a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for graduate study at Columbia University. She was awarded an honorary Doctor of Theology degree by Lafayette College, Pa., in 1983 in recognition of her "pioneering work in urban ministry and her contributions toward enhancing the role of women in the church."

Russell served as assistant to the president of the United Church of Christ and headed two major programs related to urban ministry at the Riverside Church in New York City. She has also held positions with the national board of the YWCA, Mount Holyoke College where she helped develop a tutoring program for inner-city youth, and served as program director for a Roxbury community center.

Russell, cited by the Boston Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta for her "championship of justice and equality," was a participant at the White House Conference on Civil Rights.

She was a delegate to the 1983 Vancouver Assembly of the World Council of Churches. In addition to her duties as head of the City Mission Society, Russell is a corporation member of the United Way.

Unitarian Church Plans Lecture For Jan. 12

"Games We Play" by the Winchester Unitarian congregation, will be presented by Retired Navy Rear Admiral Eugene J. Carroll Jr. Jan. 12 at the church.

The lecture is the second of a January series.

Carroll is deputy director of the Center for Defense Information in Washington, D.C. His remarks during the 10:30 a.m. church service will include his analysis of Soviet-American "games have winners," but will question the possibility of any winners in a nuclear contest. He has said it is not a game, despite efforts of defense planners to discuss win/lose strategies.

After young people are excused from the adult service, they will participate in a program, "rules, aggression and morality in games," and the cost benefit of win/competition.

Both adult and children's programs will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the Winchester Unitarian Church on Main St. and Mystic Valley pky.

The first in the special series was presented by Hubert Jessup, television producer, writer and talk show host. He spoke about "the television game, ratings and religious values."

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Begins Jan. 17

Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council kicks off the 1986 Cookie Sale which runs from January 17 through February 2. As in previous years, thousands of Girl Scouts will hit the sales trail on their way to selling more than a million boxes of cookies Council-wide.

"We're expecting sales to be greater than ever," said Eileen Schlorff of Winchester. "The girls are excited and I'm sure customers are eager for the sale to begin."

The cost of the cookies is, once again, $2 per box. For each box sold, a girl earns 30 cents for her troop and 10 cents toward summer camp or GSUSA-sponsored Wider Opportunities.

"By selling cookies, girls earn money to support their activities," Schlorff said. "And, they learn about responsibility, money management and sales."

For more information on how to order Girl Scout cookies, call Patriots Trail Girl Scout Council at 482-1078 or Schlorff, 729-6496.

STAR SPORTS

A Tough Start For Sachem Six

By DAVID DEMARCO

Well, there really isn't too much to say about this year's WHS hockey team. If you've seen them, then you know silence may be the best recourse. The Sachems are 0-6 and not because of luck or lack of talent, the enthusiasm and aggressiveness just aren't there.

After watching the freshman team play with reckless abandon and desire, going to the varsity is disappointing.

Winchester's only effort of the season, and it was an outstanding one, came Saturday Dec. 28 against league super team Watertown and the team stars Mark Kohozian and Steve Kashian.

Winchester looked like a whole different team as they lead Watertown after two periods 2-1. It was the Gregg "Egga" Winn show as "Egga" netted the opening and only goal of the first period at 13:50.

Winn hit the net again at 1:04 of the second period to put the Sachems up by two. "Egga's" first goal came on a rebound as he cut across the crease, his second one was an unassisted goal that trickled in.

Mark Kohozian came back at 2:36 to bring the Red Raiders to within one. Going into the third period, Winchester fans could smell an upset.

Jim Campo poked in his first of the season at 1:09. After that, Watertown overpowered the tired Sachems, putting 4 past goalie Jim McInerney. Captain Mark Kohozian had the hat trick for Watertown, to make the final 5-3.

Winchester was able to skate with them for two and a half periods, to play their best of the season. The Sachems showed what a little effort could bring about.

Any illusions that Winchester fans had about the team coming to play in the rest of their games went out the window Thursday night as the Sachems traveled to Burlington High. Burlington's Paul Russo put the Sachems away early as he scored the first of his eventual hat trick at 1:31 of the first period.

Winchester was down by three at the end of one period and by six at the end of two. As Winchester was beaten 7-1, the lone goal for the Sachems came at 13:15 of the third period.

One can't say too much about this game. It just seems maybe the Sachems were just not into the game.

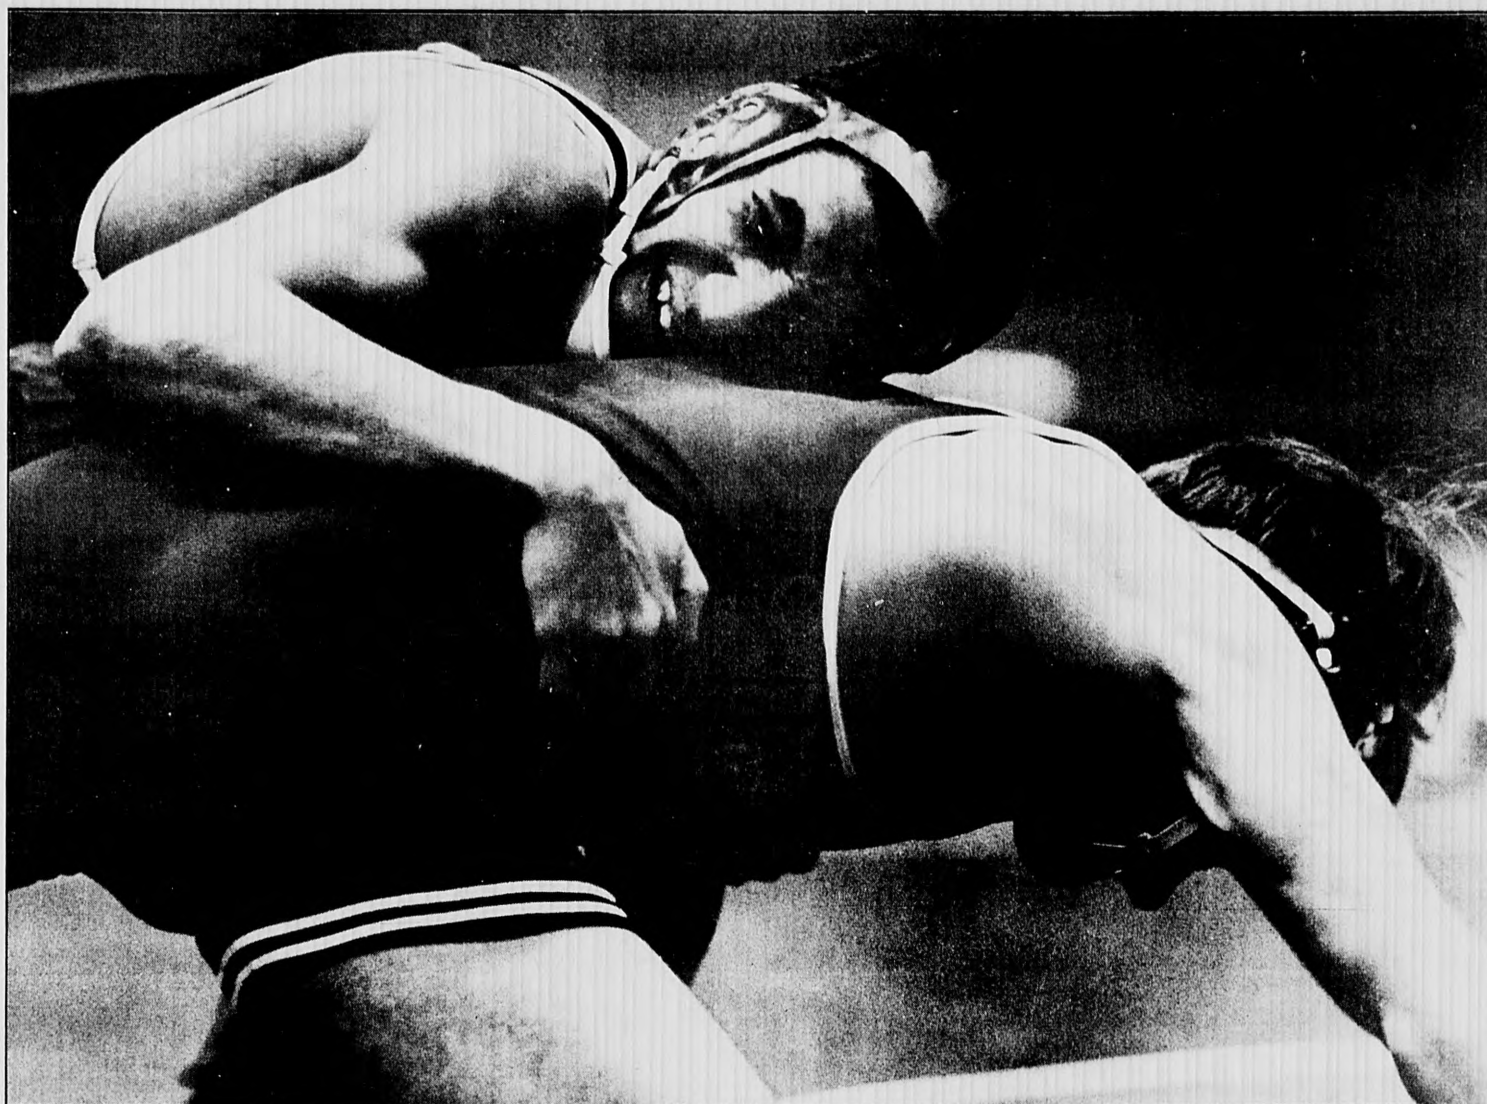

On Saturday, those brave and faithful few witnessed Winchester host Reading High. The Rockettes beat the Sachems 4-0. At 12:28 of the first period Reading's Kevin Thompson scored on goalie Jim Chase and that was all that was necessary.

What's amazing is that Chase played rather well, allowing only four goals, considering his defensemen had allowed 44 shots on net.

The Sachems spent most of the night in the penalty box, as they were hit for 15 minor infractions. The frustration of the entire season could be summed up at 13:57 of the third period, as Winchester's Chris Giso was called for throwing his stick.

For its next try, Winchester will try to get it together on Saturday, January 11 as they host Lexington at Woburn with the face off at 6:00 p.m.

Red Wings Win Hockey Tourney

The Winchester "Red Wing" PeeWee hockey team marched undefeated through the divisional, semifinal, and final rounds of the Annual Woburn Christmas Tournament.

In their opening game, they defeated the Woburn Black Hawks 7-3 on goal by Kevin Palmer (2), Matt McGee, John Ward and Leroy Hoskins. Robbie Borque and Jan Pyro had one apiece.

In the second game, they defeated the Billerica Panthers by the identical score of 7-3. Scorers were led by McGee's "Hat Trick" (3 goals). Also scoring were Leroy Hoskins (2) Robbie Borque and Steve Jucero.

The third game saw Winchester defeat the Framingham Penguins 6-1. Scoring was Borque with two goals, Hoskins, McGee, Flynn and Palmer had one each. Greg Minimos had a hot hand in the net.

The semi-final game proved to be the most exciting for players and fans alike, as Winchester fell behind 4-1 as the second period ended.

At that time, coaches John Geoghegan and Jeroy Hoskins gave the team a pep talk that appeared to do the trick. The result was a four goal explosion by McGee, tremendous defense and goal tending, and a 5-4 victory.

The game for the championship was against the Woburn Black Hawks.

It was a tremendous game, featuring great goal tending by Woburn's Chris Solvie and Winchester's Greg Minimos. It was three periods of up and down action, with Winchester coming out on top 3-2 on goals by Palmer Hoskins and Pyro.

All other team members shagged several assists, including Bill Vaccari, Mike McDonough and Mazakazu Murakami.

All in all, Winchester's PeeWee Red Wings performed greatly as a team, showing spirit and determination in victory.

WHS Gymnasts Year Begins On Fair Note

By DAVID DEMARCO

Winchester's gymnasts are off to a respectable start this year as the team record sits at 1-2 with some great individual performances. Also, both losses were close, considering Winchester's inexperience. On Monday, the Sachemettes defeated Belmont High 83.95 to 74.92.

The Maurauderettes are in much the same situation as Winchester this year, with a lot of young gymnasts. Coach Michelle Santagata was pleased with the team's first mark in the victory column.

"Overall, we did 70 percent better than the Burlington meet today. We didn't have much pre-season. We're improving each meet," she said.

Winchester had the distinction of leading both teams in all four events. Alyson Kessel was tops on the bars, with a score of 4.75. Debbie Maida led on the balance beam at 5.45.

Katie Binding had her best afternoon of the young season, as she led in both vault and floor exercises. Binding's vault mark was a 7.9 and she finished the afternoon posting a floor exercises mark of 6.15.

"We have good potential and we should do a lot better. Eventually, everything will click. Everyone's been sick lately too," added Katie Binding at the close of the contest. Team co-captain Daphne Pezaris was very serious in her summation of the team's performance with, "We did a lot better than when we lost, but we're still nervous and we're not doing our best."

Winchester was host to the Wakefield High team on Friday.

January 3, and lost a heartbreaker, by the score of 99.0 to 91.3.

The only event the Sachemettes were able to achieve top score in was the beam, as Debbie Maida has dominated that event, receiving a 5.9 on Friday. Alyson Kessel had a good afternoon for Winchester, pacing the Sachemettes in both bars and vault.

Kessel received a 5.75 on the bars and a high 8.0 on vault. Katie Binding scored highest for the Sachemettes in floor exercises achieving a 7.15.

Wakefield had no outstanding stars, just a solid team effort. The highest score of the afternoon went to Wakefield's Tita Lovett as she beat out Winchester's Alyson Kessel with a vault score of 8.2.

The Sachemettes are on the road the next two weeks, as they face Newton North, Friday Jan. 10 with a 4:30 start. About a week later Winchester travels to Beverly on the January 16 with a 3:00 p.m. start.

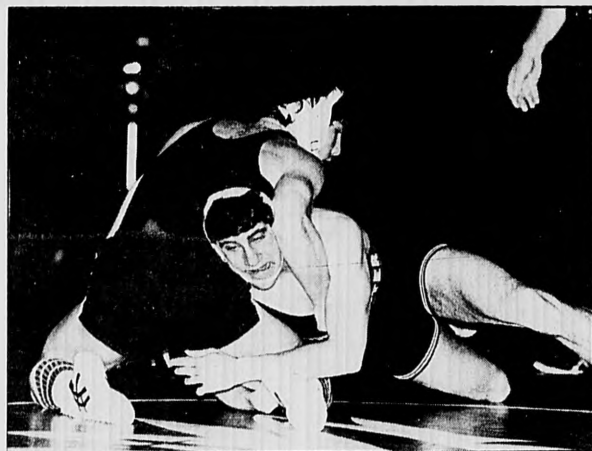

St. Mary's Beats I.C.

The St. Mary's CYO Bantam Basketball Team recorded its fifth victory by defeating Immaculate Conception in Cambridge 43-17 recently.

A well balanced offense led by Mark Whelan (15 points) and Mike Morrison (nine points) helped the team maintain first place in the Cambridge Draney Division.

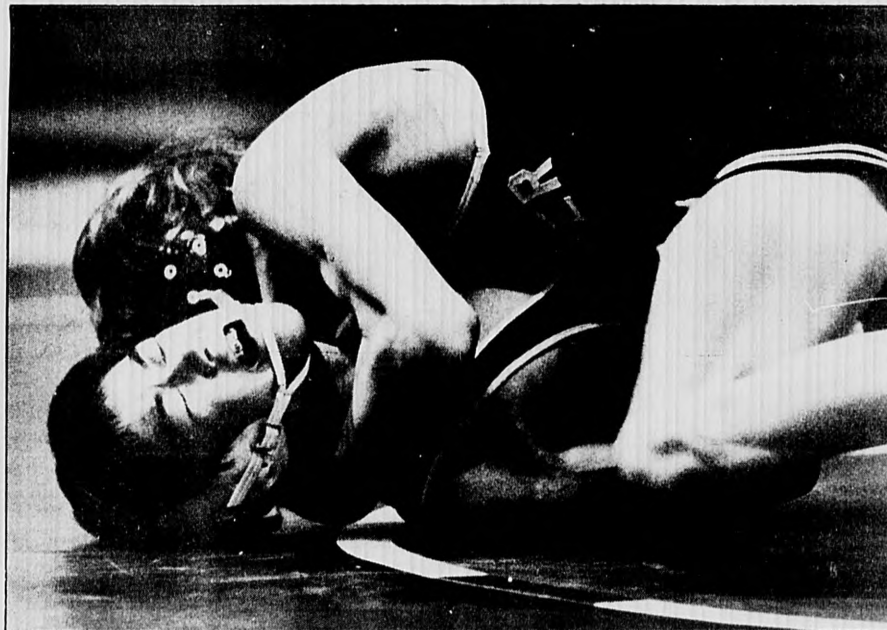

Mike Rausco, then strong power forward, continued to show his outstanding rebounding ability as well as some beautiful passing skills.

Other members of the team include: Danny McGrath, John Rausco, Mark Morrison, Craig Forcina, Robbie Bourque, Josh Carroll, Dick Regan, Jamie Mahardy and Chris Edwards.

Winchester's Steve Rodriguez is at a tough moment in his match against Tom Dresp of Belmont.

Sachem Wrestlers Off To Good Start

Winchester High Coach Larry Tremblay's wrestlers came through the Christmas season showing the character of a much older team.

Winchester's young lineup came into the Lovell Holiday Tournament, hosting 30 area teams, expecting to place with a strong showing.

The two standout grapplers for Winchester were Greg Doherty, who lost in the finals of his weight class, and Alex Puchala, who, though seeded seventh, worked his way into a third place finish.

The Sachem wrestlers in each weight class advanced through one or two matches, to bring the team to a surprising fourth place finish overall. Winchester placed ahead of a talented Woburn team, and just behind a powerful Lowell squad.

Winchester then faced Belmont in a dual meet. Belmont came into the match favored in the Middlesex League as a strong contender with its senior-dominated team.

Again, the young Sachem team showed the ability of a well-coached squad, by besting Belmont 45-16.

After losing the opening match, the Sachems pinned down their opponent in the 107 pound weight class.

Greg Doherty dominated his opponent, gaining by a technical fall as he outscored his man by 15 points.

The next three Winchester grapplers, Selvitelli, Bortman and Puchala, all gained pinning points to push the team's big lead almost out of reach.

Kevin Racek may have wrestled the best match of his young career, with a 9-1 win over his man at the 157 pound weight class. Tim MacDougall at 167 and Dave Carter both finished off their respective opponents to hand Belmont a big loss.

Assistant Coach Ted Neill said he feels the team gained a lot of confidence with this league win. "We won't be considered a dark horse anymore," he said.

In a dual meet Jan. 4, the Sachems won against Salem and Framingham North by huge margins. The Sachems throttled Framingham North with a 63-3 loss and Salem High by 49-12.

With this double dual meet win, the Sachems climb to 8-0 for the season.

Coach Tremblay has said he is pleased with the young talent that is able to step into the varsity lineup.

"We are trying to use as many wrestlers as possible in the lineup to give them all that valuable experience," said Tremblay.

Another milestone for the team is their incredible feat of 35 dual meet matches without a loss. Coach Tremblay said he feels that the upcoming Jan. 11 non league match with the powerful Lowell team will be a pivotal match for the undefeated Sachems.

The Girls Hoop Team Having A Difficult Start

By DAVID DEMARCO

The Winchester High girls basketball team is having a difficult time this year. They're off to a 0-4 start and are pushing for their first victory. My, how a year can make a difference.

On January 2 the Burlington High superpower came to Winchester. While some may have feared that B.H.S. would massacre the Sachemettes, that was not the case however, as Winchester put on a fine showing. Yes, the Sachemettes lost by 22 points: 56-34, but they played to the very best of their ability.

At no point in the game could Winchester seem to bring the deficit under 8 points, but they did with the Lady Devils.

Mary Ellen Feeney led Winchester scoring with 9 points. Both Meghan Guarnotta and Maureen Dokas grabbed 8 apiece. Burlington's Jennifer Cochran was the game's leading scorer, with a Larry Bird-like 24 points.

On Saturday, Jan. 4, the Sachemettes traveled to Reading to see if they could escape with a win. Reading or better yet the referees tried to give the game away to Winchester, but the Sachemettes were not pleased with the present, as they blew it at the foul line. This was one they had a chance to steal. Had Winchester been able to convert at least 60 percent of their free throws, they may have won. Meghan Guarnotta and Ellen Donahoe led the Sachem attack with seven each. Maureen Dokas had a good evening also. "Doak" contributed her usual six points and played solid in the middle.

Overall, the Sachemettes are being beaten on the average by about 10 points per game. Another factor that must be considered is the absence of superstar Julie Guarnotta from the line up with a bad ankle injury.

Winchester will try again this week as they play on Friday at Lexington High, with a 7:45 start time.

School Budget Proposal

That piece of budget pie brings a complicated price tag of about $400,000, which includes gas, light and power costs for the school year. For comparison, Mitsakos cited fiscal year 1986's gas cost at $155,000, while fiscal year 1987 is estimated to be $193,000.

For light and power costs, the fiscal year 1986 costs were $190,000, compared to the $225,000 projected 1987 fiscal year costs. Mitsakos explained that the increase is partly due to a greater fuel consumption, brought on by the increased flow of fresh air that is heated and cooled by the system.

The budget proposal also calls for an optional all-day kindergarten program, a program that had drawn some lengthy discussion at numerous School Committee meetings during the last few months.

With the all-day program, kindergarten classes bring a price tag of $213,000 — including a $48,000 increase over last year to accommodate the expanded program.

Long-range planning will be included in capital requests, as the second phase of the town's three-year audio-visual replacement program is financed.

The three-part plan was begun last year, with tape recorders and film projectors being replaced as part of the upgrading project.

This year's funding request amounts to $15,000, compared to last year's $16,000 acquisition. The 1988 fiscal year appropriation will be $15,000, according to Mitsakos.

High School advisors will get a boost through the new budget plan, which calls for increasing the stipends for the advisors.

Salaries and expenses for extra-curricular activities have been adjusted to reflect actual costs and to provide equity to those advisors.

According to the budget summary, the budget provides for the first of two equity adjustments in stipends for 40 extra-curricular and co-curricular positions.

A new item in the budget this year is the inclusion of a part-time technical assistant in "educational computing." According to Mitsakos, the position calls for a computer expert to work with the schools' computer programs.

Reynolds Awards Are Announced

The Edward S. Reynolds Memorial Fund, a charitable organization dedicated to promoting leadership and community service in Winchester Scouts, has announced the granting of its first two awards.

In June of 1985 Elin Goodwin, a cadette in Girl Scout Troop 1742, received $200 which she used to help her attend Counselor-in-Training Camp. Fritz Howard, a life Scout in Boy Scout Troop 503, also received $200 and used his award to help him attend the Absaroka Wilderness Course in Wyoming.

The chairman of the fund, Harry Boodakian of Winchester, said, "We are delighted to help these fine young people reach their goals in scouting. On their behalf I'd like to thank all the generous contributors to the fund who make these awards possible."

The fund is named for Dr. Edward S. Reynolds, a former resident of Winchester who was the scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 507 from 1967 to 1973.

Dr. Reynolds was a pathologist at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and served on the faculty of the Harvard Medical School.

In 1976 he became chairman of the Pathology Department at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston, a position held until his death in 1983.

town. The Board of Selectmen is seeking one member to fill the unexpired term until June 30, 1987. Submit qualifications in writing to the board, Town Hall, Winchester, by Jan. 10.

Selectmen received the minutes from the Wildwood Cemetery Advisory Committee, for September, October and November. In the September minutes, a couple gave a letter of complaint to the board complaining of brush cutting that new affords them view of gravesites. It was decided to place a screening of evergreens to block the view of the cemetery.

Lombardi said, "I didn't know they had that kind of power, they're supposed to advise us." Saraco advised him the Department of Public Works can do it on their own.

The fiscal 1987 contributory Retirement System appropriation request of $1,987,470,000 has been submitted to the town manager. The amount is still subject to change.

The Beautification Design Review Committee gave selectmen a detailed talk about improvements they plan to make in the town, upon approval of the selectman. Further discussion was tabled to Monday, due to the absence of Macdonald and Welch's late arrival.

Bartlett Joins Easter Seal Benefit

Boys and girls from the Bartlett School in Winchester will be scoring baskets for Easter Seals during the Boston Celtics Easter Seal Basketball Shoot-Out the week of January 16 at Bartlett.

The Shoot-Out, sponsored by Zayre, will be conducted in schools throughout the state until March 1. Last year the event resulted in more than $41,000 being raised for Easter Seal services for people with disabilities. Celtics team member Kevin McHale is acting as honorary chairman for this year's Shoot-Outs. This is the seventh consecutive year that the Celtics have co-sponsored these events for schools in Massachusetts. Before the Shoot-Out, each student asks friends, neighbors and relatives to pledge a specific amount for each basket made. During the event, under the supervision of a coach, the student shoots baskets for three minutes and collects money for Easter Seals based on the pledges received.

All students participating in the Shoot-Outs are eligible to win prizes ranging from a Boston Celtics Easter Seal t-shirt to an Easter Seal stop watch. The grand prize for any boy or girl who raises $1,000 or more is a Boston Celtics team autographed basketball and two tickets to a Boston Celtics game.

Proceeds from the event are used to fund Easter Seal services for people with disabilities. These include therapeutic swim programs, stroke clubs, therapy services, equipment loan and Easter Seal Home Health Care.

Andersen Remodeling Center
471 Summer Street, Arlington, Mass. 02174 641-0006

Andersen Remodeling concentrates on design, repair and installation.

After 12 years as a general contractor, Dick Andersen decided to specialize in one aspect of the building trade. As the owner/proprietor of Andersen Remodeling, 471 Summer St., Arlington, Andersen concentrates on the design, repair, and installation of bathrooms and kitchens.

At Andersen's Summer St. showroom you can see bathrooms and kitchens set up with the actual materials you can buy for your home. Andersen carries two lines of cabinets — Marvell and Scheirich. Scheirich is a quality stock cabinet available in specific sizes and colors. Marvell cabinets are custom-made to fit the specifications of a certain room.

"I can build a Marvell cabinet to virtually any size," explains Andersen. "If you can draw it, I can build it."

If you are building that dream house or room, you can have Andersen do it or you can do it yourself. Andersen will advise you as to a suitable design and can build your cabinets and install your entire bathroom or kitchen.

Or, you can purchase the components from Andersen and install it yourself, saving on installation and on the fixtures themselves.

For those of us less mechanically inclined, Andersen offers complete expert installation on all kitchens and bathrooms. And if you are remodeling your home and need an electrician, plumber or other professional, Andersen will obtain one to make the entire process go more smoothly and to insure quality workmanship.

In fact, Andersen can supervise and design an entire addition to your home if you so desire.

He offers free estimates and advice to anyone who contracts him. And, his prices on cabinets, vanity cabinets and installation are competitive with anyone's. His work is also always first quality.

In addition, Andersen also installs a wide variety of wood, metal and vinyl windows. "You can't beat my prices on windows and installation," Andersen explains.

For bathroom and kitchen repair, design, or installation, for the installation of windows, or for the addition of an entire room or section to your home, call Dick Andersen. Andersen Remodeling is open Monday-Friday 9-5, Saturdays, 10-2.

Season Of Ice

Once again, the season of sleet and ice is upon us. The season when the driver of the family car must be doubly alert. To be blunt, we, as Funeral Directors, do not have to use imagination to visualize the results of careless driving. The grisly tangibles are forced upon us especially during the Winter months. You owe it to yourself and your family not to let familiarity with the automobile breed contempt for the highway or byway. Your children need you. Protect their future.

What To Visit

One, Two, Ski Do! Fun,

By JAMES P. WOODWORTH

Winter!

For some, winter evokes thoughts of shoveling the driveway, those mornings spent struggling to start the car, or simply staying indoors as much as possible, waiting for that horrible white stuff to go away.

For others, winter is a time to rejoice; to spend time swooping down a hill on a pair of skis, sliding full-bore down a hill on a toboggan, or strapping on a pair of ice skates and having some fun at the local skating rink.

But what about those people who want to get outside in the snow without having to worry about stopping, falling or heavy expense?

If the thought of hurtling full-speed down a steep hill or shelling out a huge chunk of the weekly paycheck is unappealing, one answer might be cross-country skiing.

Cross-country, or nordic, skiing is becoming an increasingly popular sport in New England, with its hundreds of miles of scenic skiing trails throughout the region. It is also fun — and healthy.

To make it even more enticing, it's inexpensive.

For the novice cross-country skier, John Allis, manager of Wheel

Works in Belmont, suggests an equipment "starters package" that can be rented for as little as $8.50 a day or $14 for a weekend.

The package includes the basics needed for a day of cross-country skiing: skis, boots, bindings and poles.

Included in the rental price is professional advice and sizing. Allis stressed that getting the right size boot and the right length skis is important.

"The boots shouldn't be too tight and the skis shouldn't be too short or too long, for maximum performance," said Allis.

"Our skis also have a fishscale design (on the bottom), to prevent you from sliding backward."

Allis also recommended poles made of fiberglass, as bamboo poles break and splinter easily.

Dave Guinn, manager of EMS Outdoors Specialists in Wellesley, offers the same basic rental package as Wheel Works starting at $8 per day.

Guinn suggested waxless skis for the novice, for the simple reason they are convenient.

Once the trial is over, and the sport approved, consider purchasing the entire equipment package, starting at $70 at Wheel Works and $95 at EMS Outdoors Specialists.

Big spenders can invest as much as $200 or more for the complete package.

Wheel Works and EMS Outdoors Specialists both offer free mounting of boot bindings with their packages.

Wonder what to wear on the trails?

Dr. R. Wendell Pierce, Chief of Orthopedics at Winchester Hospital, suggests the "layered look."

"You don't need heavy clothing like you do in downhill skiing, because you work up a heavy sweat, then stop, then work up a sweat again," said Pierce.

Sites Galore

The whole week end stretches ahead. Equipment is ready. The snow is out there on the ground, beckoning trail-blazers through it.

Practice in the backyard after work every day for the past two weeks has mind and body well prepared. So, now where to go for some real cross-country fun?

New England boasts a wealth of winter wonderland ski sites. Weekend ski fiends, however, need not travel far to find slopes.

Twenty ski areas, listed below, await eager skiers, new and old to the sport.

Some, such as the Weston Ski Track or the Boston Hills Ski Area in North Andover, are a short drive away. Other options stretch across the state and offer skiers marvelous trails and cozy overnight accommodations in the Berkshires.

East Mountain Ski Touring Center. East Mountain rd., Westfield—1.90 to Westfield Exit, go right, then 1st left onto Holyoke rd., follow to end, turn left on East Mountain rd. Center is 1.5 mi. on left. 12 mi. groomed intermediate and novice trails. Rentals, Lodge with Snack Bar, Restaurant, Lounge. Open weekends and holidays, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. 413-568-1539.

Local Clinics Launch Skiers

Thinking about skiing?
Afraid to try?
Feeling too old to start or rusty to try again?

Mark the date of Jan. 21 on your calendar and take advantage of one of two interesting clinics for would-be slope sliders.

The Weston Ski Track Touring Center offers Cross-Country Ski Dollar Day on Jan. 21 from noon to 10 p.m.

For $1, the public may use rental skis, have a lesson, test skis from many manufacturers, attend racing clinics, find out about other New England Touring Centers and enter a short citizen's race.

The snowmaking system and lighted trails guarantee consistent skiing for beginners and experts.

Urban residents have no excuses. A free shuttle bus runs that day from the Riverside MBTA station to the Weston Ski Track.

The ski area is located on the MDC Martin Golf Course at the intersection of the Mass Pike and Route 128 (95), only 20 minutes away from downtown Boston. Call 891-6575.

A free clinic, geared to give brush-up basics as well as brand new skills, takes place from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Boston Hills Ski Area on Route 114 in North Andover.

Designed specifically for adults aged 18 and older, this clinic is sponsored by the Boston Globe and is the last of five clinics given this season.

Bob Dunn, the proprietor of Boston Hills, has been directing these Boston Globe Ski Clinics since 1962 and has been teaching skiing for more than 25 years.

Ski-bound folks are divided into groups as they arrive for the clinic, says Dunn. Groups are kept small and supervised instruction lasts about half an hour. After class, the lifts are available for free skiing.

Severe winter weather or unusually mild weather could cause cancellation of the clinic. Ski fans are advised to contact The Boston Globe's Public Affairs Department at 929-2641 or 929-2637 for last minute details.

Frolic, Fitness!

"You want to be able to take off and add clothing as you need it, especially for long trips."

Pierce, an avid cross-country and downhill skier for 20 years, added that many veteran skiers carry a backpack on long trips just for the purpose of clothes storage.

Another area of concern is the head.

"The head and ears act as a (body heat) blow-off valve," Pierce said.

"Headgear should always be carried with you, because you will be constantly taking it off and putting it back on." He also stressed the importance of wearing warm socks.

Not to be overlooked when thinking about cross-country skiing are the health benefits it provides.

"Cross-country skiing offers a lot of aerobic benefits," Pierce said. "It uses trunk muscles and the upper parts of the legs and arms."

"It also allows easy breathing. It is the ultimate recreational aerobic exercise."

Pierce also pointed out that if done properly, cross country skiing can be more beneficial to your health than jogging or running.

However, Pierce cautioned members of certain groups to consult their physician before beginning cross-country skiing. Those groups included smokers, diabetics and grossly overweight individuals.

He went on to say those people in good health under the age of 30 can push their bodies to the limit when cross-country skiing, while those over 30 should be more cautious, especially the first time out.

Prospective cross-country skiers now know costs, equipment needs, the health benefits and precautions for beginners.

Now what?

Oh, yes, the essential ingredient — snow.

What's On The Boards By Dann Kosow

Top: Chubby Checker will stroll down memory lane, along with Danny and the Juniors at 8 p.m. Jan. 11 at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts in Andover. Bottom: Orphans, now at New York's Westside Arts Theatre/Upstairs, is one of the best shows around.

Andover To Host Rock Music Greats, Orphans Tops New York Fare

Orphans Is Broadway's Best

Review—It is little wonder that "Orphans" is one of the hottest tickets on or Off-Broadway!

Produced by Chicago's renowned Steppenwolf Theatre Company, recipient of the 1985 Tony Award as outstanding regional theatre, Orphans is firmly entrenched in New York's Westside Arts Theatre/Upstairs.

Orphans is spellbinding theatre, riveting and emotional, with intense, raw power, driving energy and build.

The performances of the cast of three—Kevin Anderson, Terry Kinney and John Mahoney—are utterly mesmerizing, and the direction by Gary Sinise is sheer brilliance.

Without question, it is the best drama to grace the Broadway scene this season.

The mood is stamped immediately by the tense, pulsating beat of Pat Metheny and Lyle Mays' rock score and Kevin Ridgion's claustrophobic set of Goodwill rejects forming the backdrop for Lyle Kessler's stark drama, a meld of Sam Shepard's True West and Harold Pinter's Caretaker.

The play opens in darkness.

A fleet creature darts about the living room/kitchen every which way like a frightened cat, peering out the window, cowering in the shadows, leaping on the couch, flinging himself up the flight of stairs.

This is young, curly-mopped, illiterate Phillip (Kevin Anderson), clothed in torn and tattered sweat-suit, afeared of the unknown outside, with a love-fear relationship with his older brother Treat (Terry Kinney), the only parent he has ever known.

It is 2 a.m. when Treat arrives, with an inebriated, prosperous-looking, older man in tow, into this rat-trap of a flat on Philadelphia's skid row.

Treat is street-wise but immature, with a savage temperament. His pockets bulge with gold chains, for Treat is a petty thief, a mugger and a slasher, clawing for survival, who cuts up his victims a bit, just so that they should bleed a little.

Blonde Treat is threatening, a juvenile delinquent and a product of the House of Detention. Runaways from an orphanage, the brothers are untamed beasts of the concrete jungle.

The middle-aged man is Harold (John Mahoney), who Treat met at a bar and dragged home. Treat places Harold in shackles for, although Harold is unaware, he has been kidnapped. Treat anticipating a handsome ransom for his release.

Harold's briefcase is crammed with stocks and bonds and, as his life story unfolds, it is discovered that the gray-haired victim is also an orphan, a newspaper boy in his youth, and now a successful swindler from Chicago, where he cannot return.

The next day, while Treat roams the streets, Harold escapes his bonds and slowly wins Phillip over with warmth, affection and encouragement. Harold admires the streak of violence he recognizes in Treat and, upon his return, offers Treat a job as his bodyguard with all the money he will ever need.

Treat grudgingly accepts and Harold embarks on a clean-up campaign, both of the boys and the living quarters. He offers guidance and advice, lessons in moderation and economy, and becomes a father figure to the boys.

After a lifetime of being top dog, suspicious, incapable of accepting a helping hand, Treat's true feelings surface—his yearning for mother-love and affection and his need for help and compassion.

But the bond snaps all too soon as tragedy strikes.

The author presents a few incredulous premises and a script strewn with unexplained motives and reactions, questions poised but never answered. Fortunately, choreographing the play with a driving fury, Mr. Sinise more than fills the voids.

Rock And Roll Greats Return!

Chubby Checker and Danny & The Juniors usher in 1986 with a bit of nostalgia when they stroll down memory lane, singing their greatest rock 'n roll hits of the 50's and 60's in concert at Andover's J.

Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 11.

After revving up from Checker's The Twist and Danny & The Juniors' At The Hop, the audience will have a second opportunity to relive the good old days at a sock hop in the Collins Center cafeteria following the concert.

WCCM Radio personalities will spin favorite rock 'n roll records, pizza and soda will be available, and dance contests will be in full swing.

Dance enthusiasts are encouraged to dress in 50's and 60's styles!

Ernest "Chubby Checker" Evans was responsible for "twistmania" in the 1950's. Guys and gals decked in sweaters, skirts, and letter jackets were hooked on a popular dance routine that quickly developed into a national pastime.

Tickets are available at the Collins Center box office, Shawshen Road, off Rts. 133 and 93 in Andover, or call 470-1905.

Admission to the Rock 'n Roll Sock Hop is free with concert ticket stub.

What To Visit

Busch-Reisinger: It's One Of A Kind, A Visual Adventure!

Story By Anne Marie Seltzer

Quick! Can you name the three Harvard Art Museums? If you answer the Fogg, the Arthur M. Sackler which recently opened to the public, and the Busch-Reisinger, score 100 points.

And if you didn't name the Busch-Reisinger or if you've never heard of it, here is your opportunity to learn about a gem of a museum, easily accessible by car or MBTA to Harvard Square and easily covered in one visit.

The only museum of its kind in the United States, the Busch-Reisinger Museum at 29 Kirkland St. offers visitors access to an important and extensive collection of Central and Northern European art.

Housing over 12,000 pieces, the museum is especially strong in its collection of 20th century German works — many significant phases of modern art are represented in paintings, prints, sculpture and drawings.

Masterpieces of expressionism and the largest collection of Bauhaus materials outside Germany may also be viewed.

The Bauhaus was a school of arts and crafts founded in Germany in 1919 by Walter Gropius whose theme was "Art and technology — a new unity." Known for its adaption of science and technology to art, it experimentally used metal and glass in buildings.

But the Busch-Reisinger is not just for devotees of modern art.

There are many other periods equally exciting and well represented: late medieval, renaissance and baroque sculpture, 16th-century painting, and 18th-century Dresden porcelain.

According to Emilie Dana, the museum's curatorial assistant, the Busch-Reisinger is unique because "you can see the continuity of art from one area through time."

The history of the museum itself also reflects world events. Dedicated as the "Germanic Museum" in 1903, the collection was housed in a former gymnasium at Quincy St. and Broadway.

According to Dana, the collection of plaster casts was authorized by Kaiser Wilhelm, representing monumental works of art in Germany.

Since their size precluded exhibition in the United States, these pieces were replicated, thus offering students and opportunity to study the development of the German culture.

The first curator was Professor Kuno Francke who envisioned a more appropriate setting for the casts: large halls, reflecting the romanesque, gothic and renaissance periods in Germany.

Through the generosity of Adolphus Busch of St. Louis who founded Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. and his son-in-law Hugh Reisinger, the services of architect Hugo Bestelmeyer were secured and construction costs were financed.

Unfortunately, construction began only a few weeks before the start of World War I, temporarily foiling Francke's efforts to promote German-American culture.

According to the article, 75 years of the Busch-Reisinger Museum, the Boston Herald reported a rumor in 1916 that since the museum foundations were 10 feet thick, von Hindenburg's "big Berthas" were being constructed there and it was only a matter of time until shells were dropped into Copley Square and State St.

An engineer called to check things out reassured area residents that all was well and the museum finally opened in 1921. Francke remained curator until 1929.

World War II had a different effect on the museum.

The rise of the Nazis to power allowed then curator Charles Kuhn to purchase museum pieces that had been taken to other European countries (especially Switzerland) after the Nazis purge of German art museums.

In 1948, the museum's Bauhaus collection rapidly increased. Described by Dana as "very strong," the Bauhaus material continues to draw scholars from all over the world.

A visit to the museum should be a family affair. Dana feels that "there is something here for everyone."

Just entering the museum would seem to bear this out. Children as well as adults would enjoy the whimsical bronze statue, "The Bremen Town Musicians," which alludes to a story by the Brothers Grimm.

A side door takes you outside to the courtyard with its reflecting pool, statuary, and tables and chairs set up for eating, reading, or quiet thought.

Touring the museum does take you back in time. Enhancing the romanesque, gothic, and renaissance rooms are appropriately situated art works.

Many religious art works comprise the collection, including the 16th-century oil, "St. Jerome in His Study," by Joos Van Cleve.

An especially lovely chapel is enhanced by triptychs of St. Ann and the Virgin in Glory. A triptych is an altarpiece consisting of three panels with pictures, designs, or carvings.

Dana explained, "The atmosphere of the museum is very appealing. The first few rooms are often compared to The Cloisters, which is located on the Hudson River in New York State, in terms of their style and collection."

Besides the permanent collection and special exhibitions, the museum is also known for its Saturday afternoon organ concerts. Commissioned by E. Power Biggs and built by the Flentrop Co. in Holland, the organ exemplifies a classic baroque instrument from the Bach era.

The museum is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.; Sunday from 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. It is closed on major holidays.

A $3 fee includes admission to all three art museums. Students and senior citizens over 65 may visit all three for $1.50.

Admission is free to children up to 18 years of age and free to everyone on Saturday mornings.

For information about tours and museum memberships, call 495-4544.

Clockwise, from top: The statue titled "Madonna and Child," dated at 1425, is one of the museum's most notable works; a pensive Madonna is part of the museum's collection; a 16th-century triptych from the Altar of St. Ann enhances the museum chapel.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Accept added responsibility gracefully—it's only temporary. Keep your guard up, don't be indiscreet and protect your interests. Although you're independent you aren't; others will give you lots of love and support.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — If faced with new routines, be flexible and make concessions. A romance could intensify, but don't get carried away by a physical attraction. If you uncover some confidential information, be sure to keep it under wraps.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Ambition is high now, so get out in front and go for your goals. You could run across a real bargain now that would be a wise purchase. You can get a relationship back on firm ground; make the effort to patch things up.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — A change of residence is possible for some; others may have to really stretch mentally. In another matter, don't compromise your principles—keep your self-esteem. Don't be too proud to ask for help in career matters.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — You could recover something you believed was lost... perhaps a romance! You have lots of support and help from others, and a block to your progress could be removed now. Make inspired new starts and show enthusiasm.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Pay attention to the rules, follow regulations and you'll come out a winner. Finish up a project, take the lead and do some self-promoting. Watch the tendency to overindulge—stick to your resolutions about your health.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Hold your temper and keep cool if involved in a confrontation with a working associate—rise above any pettiness. You're especially creative now, and your new ideas have merit. Be sure to follow through on promises made.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — You're especially magnetic and will attract romance easily now. Use your creative ideas, experiment with new things and let your imagination soar. Discuss joint projects with co-workers, consider their opinions and cooperate.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Keep a low profile, read and study. You can overcome minor problems with patience; rebuild something that needs shoring up. New people you contact now could change your thinking, particularly about romance.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — You're enthusiastic and popular now—make the most of it! You could come into contact with witty, articulate people, so listen carefully. Extra family responsibilities mean some new beginnings in your domestic life.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — "Waste not, want not" is a good motto now; budget your cash! Demonstrate your deep affection for others by hosting a special party. A relationship may be at the point for a strong commitment—say what you feel.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Good time to improve your image—buy new clothes and upgrade your appearance. Dedicate yourself to a special project and you'll get the support you need. Listen to a bright person with information about money and investments.

My person of the year would be Ronald Reagan because he had revitalized the attitude in this country, specifically actions against terrorism. His overall charisma with dealing with the American people and foreign leaders has also revitalized the country.

George Hilliar, teacher for Remedial work for the children of Arlington. He's very well-rounded — he's been in the Boston Marathon, but he and his wife help the children of Arlington who need aid in reading and English.

I guess it would be Ronald Reagan because he's done a lot for the people of this nation. Since he's been in office, I think the economy has leveled off. If he ran again, I would vote for him.

Steve Grogan because of his leadership. The Patriots have really sparked all of New England. If they get past Miami first, then they can go all the way. One step at a time.

Dianne Speczaferr, 27

Vartan Hartunian, 70

My mother because she has been through so much in the last two to three years and she never worries about herself. She always remembers other people. She just keeps such a positive attitude and she always helps us out. If I had to pick anyone, it would be my mother. At Christmas time, she decorates the house and it looks like Christmas land. She's a tough lady.

I think Bishop Tutu because he is a symbol of the struggle against a tyrannical government that is enslaving a majority of people. This struggle of good and evil began with Cain and Abel and has continued to our day, and it is people like the bishop of South Africa who will eventually turn the tide of history so that governments work for the welfare of all the people rather than seeking power to suppress and enslave the weak.

Wise Buys: Jewelry And Wine

In the staid investment market of real estate offerings, stocks, bonds, IRAs and gold bars, entertaining investments that are sound money-makers are gaining popularity.

Inventive ventures that are both investment-wise and interesting still can be found. Antique autos, rare books, comic books, jewelry and even wines may be good ways of efficiently managing your assets and indulging your collecting passion at the same time.

Two of the most popular investments are also two with the longest tradition — wine and jewelry.

Contrary to popular belief, diamonds are not a girl's best friend if the girl is a serious investor. Unless a person really knows the value of rare gems and how they appreciate on the market, he may end up with an investment that's hard to liquidate for even half its value. To determine the value, an assessment of the gemstone grade and the right kind of appraisals are necessary. To get his money's worth, an investor must have both market and insurance quotes with certificates to validate the gemstone value.

According to a story in The Wall Street Journal, the Gemological Institute of America says it is crucial to decide on the right strategy before investing and selling jewelry.

"Realize what you can obtain up front from the jewelry," said Thomas Yonelunas. "You can be talking about pennies — or thousands. If it's valuable, go the distance."

Going the distance means finding the right buyer, and many buyers refuse to purchase jewelry from individuals, preferring wholesale sources instead. Consider auction houses such as Christie's East, where buyer and seller are charged 10 percent commission on pieces sold for more than $3,000. For pieces worth less than $3,000, the buyer is charged 10 percent commission and the seller is charged 15 percent.

Consignment is another good way to sell a jewelry investment for close to its worth. Most jewelers won't buy used jewelry, but may let it be displayed. Insist that the store insure the item, get a contract that sets the commission for the jeweler and length of display. Make sure the contract includes a description of the piece. Consigned pieces commonly are sold within three weeks with payment immediately upon sale.

Antique shops are good sources for sale as well as purchase of investment jewelry. These shops can pay up to 40 percent or 50 percent of the jewelry's value, and thanks to Madonna and the current nostalgia craze, jewelry either 100 years old or from vogue eras such as the '40s or '50s is very collectible — and a good investment. Bakelite jewelry, glass-bead jewelry, rhinestones intricately set in silver as well as anything art deco or art nouveau will appreciate if picked up inexpensively at a garage sale or small antiques boutique.

Jewelers do advise against investing in the big four — diamonds, rubies, emeralds and sapphires — because although sentimentally attractive, they are difficult to resell. Jewelers recommend these precious gems only if they are set in watches such as Gucci, Piaget, Cartier or Rolex. With or without the gems, such watches are some of today's best jewelry investments.

If vintage jewelry is a good investment, then vintage wine is equally interesting and profitable. Wine shops often offer special discounts on wines that just are entering the market. Purchased by the case, these wines often increase in value as they age, creating a profit for the investor.

Jordan Vineyards Cabernet Sauvignon, for example, was very reasonable in 1978 and 1979 when it premiered. Today, you rarely see a bottle on the shelves, and it has quadrupled in value.

In 1981, a hushed crowd heard $23,000 bid at an auction, then $24,000. The item? Not a rare 1899 bottle of French red, but a case of 1979 California Cabernet Sauvignon from an experimental venture of Robert Mondavi and Baron Philippe de Rothschild. An 1844 bottle of Chateau Lafite sold for $5,000.

To distinguish an investment wine from an ordinary wine, consider these three characteristics: Will it improve with age? Is it a well-rated vintage? Does the wine come from a respected winery and wine-producing region? Journals and wine store owners are excellent sources for determining whether the 1974 California Cabernet Sauvignon purchased at $3.99 a bottle in 1979 will retail at $25 to $115 a bottle in 1985.

Gourmet, Vintage Magazine and Wine World, as well as Michael Broadbent's "The Great Vintage Wine Book," are must-haves for serious wine investors.

Some people prefer to work through a wine merchant who will offer an advance on a particular wine prior to its release from the winery. Purchasing through wine futures means that 12 to 24 months later the investor receives his wine and hopes it eventually is worth what was predicted. One example is the Alexis Lichine 1959 Bordeaux, sold through the futures market in 1959 at $3.99 a bottle and retailing in 1983 at $200 a bottle.

Another investing option is the stocks of wine companies owned by such big names as Seagram's, Coca-Cola or Beatrice Foods. But you can't drink your investment in wine stocks on a special occasion — or, for that matter, dress up your little black dress with stock in a rare gem mine.

The intrigue of wine and jewelry investments is that if you spend your money wisely you can enjoy the luxury daily or sell it smartly on the market on a rainy day. The choice is yours.

Precious Metals Offer Cozy Future Investment

Some investors say the way to make money is to buy money, so silver and gold coins historically have been a popular form of investment. But investment in precious metals is not limited to coins — or even gold or silver. From platinum and palladium bars to precious metal certificates, there are an increasing number of investment options.

However the investment is made, the attraction of metals — since they don't produce any cash dividends or interest payments — is the range in their prices, according to an article in Wealthbuilding magazine. To make a profit, an investor must buy low and sell high, or at least wait to sell until the market price rises above the price he paid.

Because an investor may have to hold the metals for some time before there is a significant price increase, there is some risk involved.

If he had to sell his holdings immediately, the investor might not be able to liquidate his investment at a favorable rate. Short-term price fluctuations can be quite large, so the risk over the short term is substantial. But precious metals historically have represented a low-risk investment for individuals who hold metal over the long term.

Precious metals tend to maintain their real value over time, not losing purchasing power during inflation as the dollar does, because they are rare and are in high demand for their industrial, investment and aesthetic uses, according to a pamphlet by Deak-Perera, a money and precious metals exchange firm.

The pamphlet answers questions about precious metals and lists the key factors affecting the metals' prices as inflation, international tension, industrial demand for the metals and interest rates.

As inflation or international problems escalate, people see the dollar as having less real value and therefore are willing to pay more dollars in exchange for precious metals.

Rising interest rates push metal prices down because investors often will sell precious metals to put their money into an interest-bearing investment. The supply of metal on the market therefore increases, pushing the price down.

Since there are several types of metal from which to choose, there is great debate over which is the best buy. Some investors look at changes in the historical price ratios among the different precious metals and identify the best buy as the metal that is running the most below its historical relation to the others, according to the pamphlet. The approach assumes that over the historical price relationships will reassert themselves.

Are bars or coins a better buy? Companies that produce metals incur expenses, called fabricating costs, to form the metal into specific size bars or coins. These costs are passed on to the investor in the price of the metal. Since bars cost less than coins to produce, bars give the most metal for the money.

A third option is to buy certificates. With this option, a person places an order for metal and the metal is purchased and placed in storage for him. He receives a certificate stating how much metal he owns and where it is stored.

Certificates offer an advantage in that they eliminate the trouble and expense of shipping, insurance, storage and sales taxes that can be associated with taking delivery of bars or coins.

PRICE IT RIGHT

Human nature is predictable and there is a better than even chance that you'll put the wrong selling price on your home if you set the price on the property yourself. You may price it far above its fair market value because of sentimental attachment, expenditures you have made, or heeding a well-meaning friend's advice. A home remaining on the market for months due to overpricing frequently becomes a white elephant. It eventually sells for a much lower figure than it would have brought originally, had it been priced realistically. On the other hand, you might under-price it because of your unfamiliarity with the local market. That would be financial folly. Your safest bet is to list your home with a realtor who will help you price it correctly from the start and sell it for the highest and best price with the least amount of inconvenience to you and your family.

SERVICE TO BUYERS

REAL ESTATE PRICES

The most expensive real estate in the United States is along New York City's Fifth Avenue, between 49th and 57th streets. Land there costs between $150 and $383 per square foot. Value is determined by what people are willing to pay, according to the records of recent transactions.

Your property is not likely to bring the same kind of prices, but its market value will be determined the same way. A real estate professional will look at recent sales of comparable properties, taking into consideration the current cost of mortgage loans. Through experience the broker or agent knows how much to add into the asking price to leave room for negotiations. Equally important, he or she knows how to present the house to the right prospects and make them want to buy.

It takes time and training to learn to market real estate effectively. Smart homeowners save their time and use our experience. When you're ready to sell, use with a leader's call Century 21 West Realty 413 Mt. Auburn St. Watertown 426-0280

Drunk Driving Charge Against Local Man Denied

By JILL M. HIGGINS

A drunk driving charge against a 25-year-old Winchester man was denied at Fourth District Court in Woburn on Tuesday after it was determined that information on the charge was insufficient.

At Tuesday's probable cause hearing, it was determined that there was a lack of enough evidence to continue the charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Appearing in court on Tuesday was John Kennedy, the son of a former Winchester policeman, who was also earlier charged with driving to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident.

Fourteen-year-old Robert Marshall died the day after the Dec. 21 accident, which occurred at about 9 p.m. on Main St. near Water St.

According to Winchester police,

Kennedy will still be charged with vehicular homicide. Pending further investigation, the Commonwealth will decide if an appeal will be filed on the original complaint.

Kennedy had been released on personal recognizance after his initial arrest at about 10:30 Dec. 21, after police tracked him down based on information from eyewitnesses of the accident.

Police report eyewitnesses said James and Gael Marshall had just finished talking with Robert, their youngest son about 8:30 p.m., when he was struck as turned to cross Main St. again to continue walking home.

Marshall, a McCall Junior High student, was walking on Main St. near Water St. when he was struck by a car and dragged some 100 feet. He died the next afternoon.

Racial Census Question: Local Selectmen File Complaint As Some Residents Back Boycott

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester residents are apparently taking to heart Selectman Mark Lombardi's charges that the town census form includes a racist question.

According to Town Clerk Carolyn Ward, about 40 percent of the residents whose forms were received by late Tuesday left the question blank.

She estimated that about 50 percent had answered the question, adding that she expects at least 75 percent of the town's registered voters will return the census.

Usually about 75 percent of the registered voters return the census forms each year, she said, although she guessed that there may be even more respondents in light of the media attention this year.

The census forms were due to the Town Clerk by yesterday — with or without the controversial question on race answered.

On Monday, all eyes were on the town of Winchester, as Boston television's Channel 7 brought cameras in to focus on Lombardi's argument.

Both Lombardi and Town Clerk Ward were interviewed, and on Monday night Selectmen agreed to file a formal complaint with the governor.

Proclaiming he is "willing to become a test case," in efforts to ban the question from the census, Lombardi repeated on television the original argument he had made at the Jan. 6 Selectmen's meeting.

At that session last week, Lombardi protested loudly that the question on ethnic background could be used by con artists and others who prey on unsuspecting residents.

On Tuesday, Lombardi said he thought he "got the point across" during the TV interview.

He also questioned the validity of an incomplete census. "I don't see how it will be a valid census," he said. He added that "minorities" who do not answer the question might wind up being penalized, because without the correct population figures, the town could not properly access the minority population in town.

On Tuesday, Lombardi said he still had not filled out his census form, adding, "I still have plenty of time."

He said he had received several phone calls on his campaign against the census issue, including some from residents who had already sent their census forms into the Town Clerk.

On Tuesday, Ward said her office was accepting calls from residents who wanted to add to forms that had already been received.

Ward said she had been in contact with the state Attorney General's office. She said the Massachusetts Town Clerk's Assn. is pushing for legislation to limit the accessibility to such information.

She said that her office has received only a few letters of complaint from residents, most of whom were complaining about the fact that the town does not pick up the cost for returning mailing the forms.

Last year, the town opted to pass that cost on to residents, in an effort to cut the overall taxpaying costs.

"We had such good response last year," said Ward, "that we just continued with the same methods this year."

According to Ward, there is a $500 fine for those who do not respond to the census, as well as the possibility of being taken off the voting list.

However, she said, no such fine has ever been imposed in the town of Winchester. Also, the town sends out a first-class letter informing residents that they face being pulled from the voting list.

Most of the time, she said, the town is able to track down those who don't respond. Most cases, she added, involve residents who have actually moved out of town.

Wanted: Town Shutterbugs To Take Exclusive Photo

By JILL M. HIGGINS

The Conservation Commission is looking for a cover girl — of sorts — for a new yearbook.

The right candidate must be aesthetically pleasing, very open, and possess just the right amount of wholesomeness.

The same candidate will probably lack that fast-paced city slick look — but that's just fine with the Conservation Commission.

According to Conservation Commission Chairman Maggie Howard, the board is looking for a photo that best captures the need for and essence of open space in town.

The contest, she said, is her board's way of snagging public interest in the matter.

The contest is part of the commission's preparation for the town's publication of a revised "Open Space and Recreation Plan."

The winning photograph will be used as a cover for the plan, which will be widely circulated as an introduction to the new program on land acquisition preservation.

According to Howard, the commission is looking for a picture which truly conveys the meaning of the town's open space and recreation.

The open-space plan will be submitted for public review at a special meeting on Feb. 25, at which time residents will get a glimpse of the commission's proposals for saving town land.

School Committee Axes Pilot Kindergarten Program

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

The School Committee voted on Tuesday to strike the fledgling all-day pilot kindergarten class at Muraco and extend all 10 kindergarten classes by one hour.

After a heated discussion, five of the six School Committee members rejected Sup. Charles Mitsakos' request to keep the one full-day kindergarten.

Mitsakos had maintained that it would benefit all students to keep the pilot program, at least for comparison.

Catherine Alexander said, "I continue to maintain a pilot kindergarten, perceived or not, there will be inequality to our students in Winchester. We need programs that will provide across the board equal opportunity for our students."

Member Stephen Powers, however, supported the program, saying that ending the pilot kindergarten "is a move backwards."

Powers suggested adding another full-day program on the other side of town.

Joanne Martignette, a member of the early task force committee that studied the program said, "We have invested a lot of time and energy. I can't believe we're going to take a program and just throw it out the window. I think you're making a very big mistake."

Alexander, Catherine Gatto and Chairman Edward F. O'Connell voted against keeping one full-day kindergarten, before the board voted instead to extend all kindergarten classes by one hour.

Member Stephen Powers abstained from the vote.

In other action, board members voted unanimously to increase the pay of substitute teachers from $37.80 per day to $40.

In response to Gatto's request in December for a review of the high school attendance records for teachers, assistant superintendent Robert D. Fitzgerald presented the

Woburn Developer Proposes Deal For Town Housing

By JILL M. HIGGINS

A Woburn developer has proposed a plan to exchange housing for sewer connections. The plan is expected to fuel considerable debate among Winchester and Woburn officials during the next few months.

Developer Harold Dulong, 60, Sec. 10 on Monday that his plan to build a 252-unit apartment complex on Cambridge St. near the Winchester line, could benefit the town.

He said the town would benefit with a tie-in because the waste water from the development would likely end up in Winchester anyway.

Dulong did not specify the number of housing units he would offer as Winchester Housing Authority property, nor was he clear on his offer to help the town in repairing the antiquated waste water system.

Several Selectmen questioned the feasibility of the system handling another tie-in, while at least one other was concerned with the proposal being rushed to meet spring Town Meeting deadlines.

The board did not make any official recommendations on the proposal, as apparently Dulong has not officially approached all proper Woburn boards as yet.

In other Selectmen's news, the board heard a report from Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer on the status of the new Public Safety Building on Mount Vernon St.

According to Maurer, the Fire Department is expected to move into their new quarters this week, with the Police Department to follow within the next three weeks. Dispatchers have already been moved into the renovated station.

He said that while the Fire Department was apparently uncomfortable with the idea of moving in before the "punch list" of needed alterations is fully completed, the delay would mean at least 10 days, the statutory time allotted for the contractor to complete.

Winchester Man Arrested On Firearms Charge

Gregg Metzger, 26, of 286 Washington st. was arrested and charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, discharging a firing arm within 500 feet of a dwelling, disturbing the peace, and possession of a class B substance.

According to police reports, two witnesses parked in a truck across from 286 Washington st. told police they saw a barrel of a firearm protrude from an open window in the house in front of them.

The barrel of the gun was pointed upward, but in the direction of the two men, one of whom was a Winchester resident, police said.

The two told police they saw gunfire head from the window toward them, according to the reports.

Police confiscated a 12-gauge shotgun and a rifle. Also recovered were three rounds of ammunition and a bottle of Valium.

The suspect was taken to Woburn Police Department and later bailed for $500. He is scheduled for arraignment Jan. 27 at the Fourth District Court in Woburn.

Kraus Urges Revamp

At a morning informal session of the Senate recently, Sen. Richard Kraus filed his order to reorganize the legislative work year.

Kraus first announced the innovative proposal to reorganize the legislative year into specific time periods for respective types of legislative business at a press briefing held at the State House last Friday, Thursday, Jan. 9. Kraus chaired a working meeting of his colleagues to discuss the order.

"I am extremely pleased with the support on this proposal. At Thursday's meeting there were 18 senators present, including the senate president who offered encouragement," Kraus said.

The plan to reorganize the legislative year entails demarcating certain times of the year for specific types of legislative business.

Hearings and executive sessions would take place January through March. April through August would be designated for formal sessions, except in election years where August would be duty free to allow legislators time in their respective districts.

September would be reserved for bill filing. In October and November the clerk's office and committees would prepare bills. Oversight hearings would also take place in October and November. December would be free of legislative business.

When asked how this plan would alter the end of the year rush, Kraus said, "It will change the dynamics of things up here. One of the major advantages of this plan is to offer a greater degree of predictability and an opportunity for keener focus for both legislators and the public. It's maddening when legislators have both committee hearings and formal sessions to attend at the same time. This plan would change that."

In new rules passed by the legislature last year, two new responsibilities include bill origination by standing committees and legislative oversight by standing committees. The Kraus plan would allow sufficient time for each.

Kraus first approached his senate colleagues December 30 when the frustration level was high. "Almost everyone I spoke with at that time, including the leadership, wanted to see the Senate exert more control over its own affairs. Based on that favorable response, I figured it was just the right time to formally introduce this reorganization plan."

DEPOSIT PROTECTION

When a real estate buyer and seller agree on the sale of land, it is common practice for the buyer to make a deposit to be applied to the purchase price. Normally, this deposit, sometimes called "earnest money," is placed in the real estate agent's escrow account until closing.

The deposit serves many purposes. In addition to protecting the buyer by demonstrating that he is serious about purchasing the land, and therefore inducing the seller not to offer the real estate for sale to anyone else, it also protects the seller in case the buyer does not live up to his end of the sale contract. Should the purchaser fail to buy the land as agreed, he will usually forfeit the deposit money. In this way, the seller is compensated for the likelihood of a missed sale because he took his real estate off the market.

The deposit of the earnest money in the real estate professional's escrow account also protects the buyer. If the seller cannot or does not convey the land, or there appears to be a title defect which cannot be reasonably cured, the deposit money will be refunded from escrow.

Area YMCA Helps Parents And Tots

Anyone who has ever been a new mother - career women returning to the work force, those working out of necessity, and those choosing the role of full time mother - probably remember amid and after the joy of giving birth to a new life, feeling somewhat lonely.

Usually, the mother at home, especially if she has worked for a long time in one place, finds herself in a solitary confinement of sorts.

Three new mothers - Mary Blake, Patricia Cain and Bonnie Martin - found an answer; they stumbled upon the YMCA quite by accident.

In the fall of 1983, all three women, who had resigned from full time work with the birth of their first children, signed up for the North Suburban YMCA's "Swimfant" class. Having severed ties with the work world, the need for affiliation was strong.

With their infants, born within two weeks of each other, these three became acquainted during class; friendships started to build out of a common interest (babies).

The first coincidence was that Patricia, a nurse, worked at Winchester Hospital with Mary; however, they had never met and only acknowledged each other by sight.

In addition, Bonnie and her husband had taken prenatal classes with the Cains. Although a friendship did not develop at that time, these acquaintances helped initiate poolside conversation during "Swimfants" sessions.

At that time, their children, Jennifer Cain, Jonathan Blake, and Kerry Martin, started friendships also. Naturally, even now at two and a half the kids tend not to engage in much group play; however, since their moms make an effort to get the children together outside the Y every two weeks, bonds are starting to form.

According to Patty Cain, "The children get along for the most part. They tend to play alone most of the time, but they like having each other around."

The same goes for the mothers; they enjoy each other's company and try to occasionally socialize without the kids. But even when their once-a-week meeting at the Y is all they can fit in, it's enough.

And, according to Mary Blake, in addition to meeting with friends, the swimming lessons serve another purpose. "I always felt it was important to learn to swim. I never learned until I was older and almost drowned."

Bonnie Martin concurs. "The reason I started going is because my husband never swam and is deathly afraid of the water." Kerry, who is very "independent" doesn't want the regimentation of class anymore.

Therefore, she attends the after-class "free swim" with her friends, Jonathan and Jennifer. Bonnie is pleased with her daughter's confident attitude.

The YMCA serves many purposes and meets many needs in the community. For these three mothers, a great deal is fulfilled. Friendships have formed among mothers and children; in addition, their children learn a vital skill.

To add the proverbial icing to the cake, Mary Blake explains, "I think it's good for an only child to be with other kids and to learn to play."

Now, two years later, all three full time mothers still select the same class time and the same instructor. Going to the Y has become a vital part of their lives. The loneliness outside of the work world doesn't exist for them.

And now, according to Bonnie Martin, "We'd like to get together more often, but it's hard with two year olds. If I have to miss a class because Kerry is sick, I feel as bad as she does. We both miss our day with friends."

Hospice Care Workers Added

The sixth Hospice Care support worker training session was completed Dec. 9 with nine new volunteers joining the staff of 25.

The volunteers are qualified to work with terminally ill patients and their families.

Betsy Everett, Hospice Care education coordinator, awarded the group diplomas and hospice pins during the combined graduation and holiday celebration at the Pleasant Street Congregational Church Dec. 13.

The Hospice Care staff and their families, board members and office volunteers attended.

Bank Donates To Hospital

The Woburn National Bank recently presented a $500 check to the Winchester Hospital fund-raising drive. The donation was accepted by hospital president, Eugene F. Lubier.

According to bank president R. Wade Johnson, who made the donation, the hospital has undergone an extensive expansion program. This expansion has included the building of a 300 car parking garage and a new wing which has added 28 additional medical surgical beds. A CT scan and a room to house this newest piece of equipment has also been planned.

Upon accepting the donation, Winchester Hospital president Lubier said, "We sincerely appreciate the donation from the Woburn National Bank. The new expansion and the addition of newer, more modern equipment funded by local businesses and individuals will help Winchester Hospital maintain its position of providing quality, professional medical and surgical care to the communities surrounding Winchester.

"We are continuing to seek funds because we realize that to uphold our reputation of being a leading medical facility requires us to constantly replace and update our equipment and to provide our staff and personnel with the most recent information and techniques.

"In addition, the CT scan which is being installed will require renovations in the area of $70,000. This equipment will give us the capability of adding new diagnostic refinements in our patient care services, and is one of the world's most technically advanced diagnostic X-ray imaging systems," said Lubier.

Wade Johnson of the Woburn National Bank presents a $500 check to Winchester Hospital President Eugene F. Lubier for the hospital's fund drive.

Award Praises Resident Leader

The Jack H. Kolligan Award for meritorious achievement in Armenian studies and culture has been presented by the National Assn. for Armenian Studies and Research to Ruth Thomasian of Watertown, founder and director of Project SAVE.

The award, which carries with it a cash stipend, memorializes the late Jack H. Kolligan of Winchester, a prominent business and community leader. Among his many activities, Mr. Kolligan was founder and director of Distributor Corporation of New England, a director of the Century Bank and Trust Company, and trustee of the Perkins Institute for the Blind.

A graduate of Tufts University, he was a naval aviator in the Pacific Theater during World War II and earned the Air Medal for an air-sea rescue mission.

Thomasian was honored for her untiring efforts, through Project SAVE, to preserve Armenian history and culture by collecting and documenting photographs of the Armenian people.

The Kolligan Award was presented by NAASR Board Chairman Manoog S. Young of Belmont, at the 31st annual assembly luncheon of the association.

In accepting the award, Thomasian expressed thanks to the Kolligan family and to NAASR for providing funds to support the work of people involved in Armenian research. At the same time, she emphasized the importance of collecting, identifying, and preserving photographs before the older generation of Armenians passes from the scene.

The need to place Armenian projects on a professional basis, which requires adequate funding, was also stressed by the award recipient.

The Kolligan award was established by the Kolligan family and friends as a means of recognizing individuals who have made a contribution to Armenian studies and culture. Previous recipients include Professor Robert W. Thomson of Arlington and Harvard University, poet Diana Der Hovanesian of Cambridge, Professor Emerita Sirarpie Der Nersessian of Paris and Harvard University, Bridgett Kendall of Oxford University, Dr. Lucy Der Manouelian of Belmont and Tufts University, and Dr. Kevork Badakjian of Watertown and Harvard University.

Thomasian is now devoting most of her time to processing the many hundred photographs she has borrowed from Armenians during the two-year span of her exhibition, "A Look at Ourselves: Armenians Through the Camera's Eye." The stipend from the Kolligan award will be used to make copy negatives for a considerable number of these photographs.

Thomasian has announced that the Project SAVE office is now located at 46 Elton Ave., Watertown.

School Committee Supports $11,124,655 Budget Proposal

By MAUREEN GUINIAN

After an uneventful public hearing on the proposed school budget for fiscal year 1987 Tuesday night, School Committee members formally adopted the budget plan, which includes resuming the McCall Junior High music program.

The program, which will cost the town $44,000, includes adding at least one teacher to the staff. The music program was cut several years ago to comply with tax-cutting Proposition 2½ spending limits.

The board favored resuming the program, after hearing it outlined as part of the $11,124,655 proposed school budget for fiscal year 1987.

Adding the program will lengthen the school day by 15 minutes, by adding an eighth period and shortening class periods by 2 to 3 minutes, according to Evander French Jr., principal at McCall.

Lynn Rahmeier, director of music at McCall, discussed the curriculum in detail to the board. Rahmeier taught the course in Brookline schools for several years.

She said the proposal will be mandatory for all students in the 7th and 8th grades to take the course, which includes instruction in classical, jazz and rock music.

French said junior high students should have some type of music lessons, adding that this year only 30 percent of the students are involved in band and chorus classes.

Meanwhile, members broke for executive session at 11:15 p.m. to discuss ongoing teacher negotiations. A couple of months ago Town Meeting hinted that contract negotiations for teachers could be heated because of the state proposal to boost teacher salaries.

Jenks Center Campaign Nets $110,000 Already

More than $110,000 in gifts and pledges have been received to date by the Fundraising Committee of Winchester's Jenks Senior Center Expansion Program.

With the expansion campaign less than two months in operation, this figure represents a sizeable and encouraging amount, according to Richard D. Norberg, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

We are particularly encouraged by the amount donated to date because that entire sum has been contributed by senior citizens themselves. Solicitation of other community members has not begun yet," said Norberg.

Plans for the $850,000 expansion were unveiled in late November. When completed, the center will have an additional 11,000 square feet of space, largely devoted to a function hall, additional kitchen and several meeting rooms. The addition will be on two floors, with direct access from the outdoors to each level.

Architect for the expansion project is Winchester resident Philip M. Locashio, who also designed the existing Jenks Senior Center building.

"We are most excited about the prospect of being able to offer quality space at the center for the many activities which the Winchester Seniors Assn sponsors," continued Norberg.

"Once again, as with fundraising for the original building, all efforts are being conducted by volunteers, many of whom are seniors. This policy of volunteerism is central to our tradition of seniors helping seniors," said Norberg.

Voke Recap Shows The Pride

The year 1985 will be long remembered by the members of the Northeast Regional Vocational High School varsity football team.

The Golden Knights, under the direction of head coach John Driscoll, carved out a magnificent 9-0-1 record to capture the undisputed Commonwealth Athletic Conference championship. The Wakefield school's gridiron success story was made all the more exciting because the Knights' march to the top was highlighted by a succession of dramatic, last-minute victories.

The Knights proved the validity of two well-known sports maxims: a) "It ain't over 'til it's over," and b) "Offense scores the points, but defense wins the games."

"The players never quit," said sixth-year head coach John Driscoll, who welcomed back just two returning starters on the first day of practice.

Northeast's flair for the dramatic was evidenced by their earning a few victories in the last quarter, some via the very last possession of the game. Also included was a tremendous comeback in the second half from a 12-0 deficit to tie Tyngsboro, 12-12 in a crucial late-season game.

Meanwhile, an aggressive, well-balanced defense "pitched" five shutouts, and allowed just 38 points in 10 games for a stingy 3.8 points per game average.

The caper to this season of weekly "clutch" performances was a 36-6 rout of Lynn Tech in the season ending showdown for the CAC championship at the Manning Bowl in Lynn.

Many had rated the game as a toss-up but the Knights went at the Techsters full throttle and wrapped up the title-clincher by the third quarter.

The '85 team was captained by a trio of seniors, Eric Belanger of Woburn, Paul Caramituro of Saugus, and Jim Belanger of Chelsea.

Though they were denied a trip to the Division Five Super Bowl by a mere .2 of a ratings point, that won't take away from the tremendous achievement of the Northeast Regional Vocational football team this season.

In closing, coach John Driscoll thanked his assistant coaches, Tom Tramor, Dick Kelleher, Fred Joyce and Al Generazzo for their efforts this season.

It was a year to remember for the Northeast Regional Vocational High School football team.

GETTING PREQUALIFIED FOR A LOAN

Many lenders help prospective buyers to get prequalified for a mortgage loan before they begin a serious house hunting effort. You sit down with a loan officer, give all of the information about your assets, income and debt, and they can tell you how much of a mortgage you can be able to get under the various loan plans being offered. For a nominal fee, they will do a credit check. If there are any problems with your credit rating, you and the lender can work together to straighten things out.

If our lender prequalifies you, it makes your home more attractive to the seller when you do find a home. This market is so active that many houses have multiple offers come in within days, even hours, after they are listed for sale. If you are competing with other buyers, it will be helpful if you have included with your offer a letter from your lender showing you are already begun the loan application process and appear to be qualified to buy the house. It will also save you and your Realtor a lot of time by eliminating many consideration homes you would not be able to afford.

The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors is happy to serve all of your real estate needs. If you are planning a move, call us at 729-7000 or stop by our office at 33 Thompson Street.

Juvenile Liaison Daniel McGee: Communication Is The Key

He Bridges The Gap For Parents And Teens

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

When Winchester police detective Daniel McGee patrolled downtown on foot, he made sure he had a pocket full of quarters for kids - ice cream cones cost 25 cents back then.

"They'd always pay me back on Fridays," McGee recalls, chuckling with a twinkle in his eye.

"I like kids," he says. "When I was on the walking beat, I got to see more of them." Gesturing, he adds, "If you show them you trust them, they'll trust you."

"In a city, an officer might see the same kid once every couple of months. In Winchester, we see the same kids sometimes four or five times a week. It's important that kids don't see police officers as enemies."

After nine years on the walking beat and a year of night detective work, McGee welcomes his new job as juvenile officer.

With his post, he says, the department takes a "preventive medicine" approach to keeping youth in line, and helping those in trouble.

"I don't like seeing kids get in trouble. They haven't lived yet - they think they have, but they haven't," McGee says.

As police liaison between the department and the schools, all criminal offenses in schools are reported to him.

"There are very few (incidents reported). They handle a lot themselves," says McGee.

What kinds of offenses are reported? McGee jokes, "Smoking in the boys' room."

But being serious, he says, "Most crimes go unreported because teachers and parents don't recognize when kids are stoned, or high-stuff."

"Parents ask me, would you do me a favor and scare my kid? I don't want to be portrayed as an enemy, that's not my job. Parents shouldn't be afraid of their kids - they should not be afraid to say no."

McGee's happy-go-lucky nature draws him to youngsters initially, he says. Still, he says, the youths know that when he means business, he's serious.

McGee won't let youths get the easy way out. "Kids have to be responsible for their actions," he says.

A couple of weeks ago, he recalls, an elementary school student was caught pouring ink on the library floor. The child was reported to McGee for vandalizing school property.

But instead of sending him through the court system for a relatively minor offense, McGee and school officials worked out a solution that was both a punishment and a learning experience.

Thus, the boy's punishment was to clean up the library floor. It was a way to teach him the effects of vandalism, as well as means of punishment.

Winchester, McGee says, would like to provide a diversion program to keep juveniles out of court for minor offenses. "The courts are overcrowded as it is, so we try to keep them out of court," he says.

"I would like to see the official program set up here in Winchester," he said. Ideally, he said, juvenile offenders should first be assigned to perform a community service as punishment.

After that approach has failed, then the court system could be tapped, he suggested.

Perhaps it is this "do-better" attitude that aids McGee's good rapport with youths.

He's a friend to those in jail as well as those outside those walls. Recently, he received a letter from a youth in jail who had had frequent run-ins with local police.

Now, from his jail cell, he was turning to McGee, who had been his "enemy" on the street.

In the letter, the youth asked McGee for advice. "This was a kid who knew I was always looking for him," recalls McGee incredulously.

In another case, McGee had a continuing friendship with a little fourth grader who was having a tough time in school and at home.

The boy told McGee that his classmates were picking on him and that things weren't going well at home.

"If you hit kids on their level - show them where they went wrong, but also show them what they can gain from the experience - you can get through to them," McGee says.

"The fourth grader felt he could trust me - that makes me feel good," he says.

McGee has three children of his own, ages 9, 8, 4. With his own, he admits, he's somewhat of a softie.

But when it comes to disciplining his children, McGee says, he again means business.

"You have to give kids some kind of responsibilities, chores, it is an important part of growing up," he emphasizes.

McGee says he's concerned about the influences of today's society on youth. Parents, he stresses, need to be aware of the pitfalls which their youngsters face.

"The most important part of a parent/kid relationship is communicating. Kids need attention," he says.

Attention, it seems, is just what Winchester juvenile liaison Daniel McGee is ready to dish out.

"In a city, an officer might see the same kid once every couple of months. In Winchester, we see the same kids sometimes four or five times a week. It's important that kids don't see police officers as enemies," says Detective Daniel McGee.

ABOUT TOWN

Spiller Is Chairman Of Major Tourney

The seventh annual LPGA Boston Five Golf Classic will raise the purse to $275,000 for its 1986 tournament which will be played at the Sheraton Tara Hotel and Resort at Ferncroft in Danvers, July 16-20. That's $50,000 above last year's purse, making it the richest women's golf tournament ever in New England.

Robert J. Spiller of Winchester, Chairman of the Board of the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank and tournament chairman, made the announcement.

Donna Caponi, a former winner of the Boston Five Classic and a member of the LPGA's exclusive Million Dollar Club, was on hand to hail this step which makes New England a major stop on the national tour. First prize will be worth approximately $40,000.

Spiller also announced that the Massachusetts Special Olympics would be the 1986 charity recipient.

Francis P. Kelley of Canton, president of Massachusetts Special Olymppics and Superintendent of Wrentham State School, expressed his gratitude for the charitable group.

In a separate announcement, Spiller introduced Cindy Rowe Johnson, of Randolph, daughter of famed basketball coach Doc Rowe, who is now in fundraising at the University of Connecticut, as the new tournament director. A graduate of Middlebury College, Johnson received her master's degree from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in sports management. She's also a well-known swimmer for the Worcester Swim Club.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

The House and Senate. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' and senators' votes on 7 roll calls from the final two days of the 1985 session. The House and Senate worked up until midnight on December 31 when the 1985 session automatically dissolved. The seven bills in this week's report were approved on roll call votes in both branches.

Colleges (H 5021)- House 147-0, Senate 34-0, gave final approval and sent to the Governor a $50 million bond authorization package for the Massachusetts State College Building Authority.

Supporters noted the bill will allow development of new residence halls and facilities and renovation of existing ones at state colleges to improve the student housing situation.

Opponents offered no arguments. A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Sen. Kraus voted yes. Sentencing (H 6630)- Approved by House 145-8, Senate 26-9, was the House-Senate conference committee version of a presumptive sentencing bill overhauling the state's criminal sentencing system. The measure recodifies the state's criminal code and sets a range of sentences for certain criminal acts.

Supporters said the bill will toughen the justice system and curtail the wide discretion judges currently enjoy.

Opponents said the bill will hurt the poor and takes too much power away from judges. The bill never reached the Governor's desk.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Saltmarsh voted yes. Kraus voted yes.

Ethics (H 6529)- Approved by House 145-1, Senate 26-0, was the House-Senate conference committee version of the bill restoring the State Ethics Commission's enforcement policy in conflict of interest cases and extending that authority to cases involving municipal officials.

Supporters said the bill makes it clear that the Ethics Commission is the primary enforcement agency for conflict of interest and financial disclosure laws.

Opponents offered no arguments. The bill never reached the Governor's desk.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Saltmarsh voted yes. Kraus voted yes.

Transportation (H 6700)- House 150-0, Senate 37-0, gave final approval and sent to Governor Dukakis a bond issue for a transportation improvement package for the state. Supporters said the package will trigger millions in federal funds and will improve the state's highways and bridges.

Opponents offered no arguments. A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Gibson voted yes. Cusack did not vote.

Saltmarsh voted yes. Kraus voted yes. Armories (H 7066)- House 146-3, Senate 31-3, gave final approval and sent to the Governor a bill providing $19 million for design and construction of National Guard armories in Reading and Natick to replace the Commonwealth Avenue Armory which the state sold to Boston University.

The measure also authorizes a study for the relocation of the Salem Armory.

Supporters said the facilities must be built for the National Guard and noted some 75 percent of the funding will come from the federal government.

Opponents said the measure is being rushed through the legislature and questioned why the state sold the B.U. Armory in the first place.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Saltmarsh voted yes. Kraus voted yes.

Lockup (H 6921)- House 135-0, Senate 23-0, gave final approval and sent to the Governor a $10 million bond authorization to fund improvements to lockup facilities.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Saltmarsh voted yes. Kraus voted yes.

By RICHARD MANUGIAN
Apparently Michael Dukakis doesn't like the way I wear my seat belt.

Or, to be more precise, the way I don't. I guess he figures it's his job to decide how safely I conduct my life.

I beg to differ. In fact, on May 25, 1983, I begged just to continue breathing.

That was the morning my car was struck broadside by a speeding pickup truck and dragged the length of a large intersection.

I was hit so hard, smack in the middle of my driver's side door, that it took 40 stitches to close up my left arm and back.

And, when the stitches came out, I spent three painstaking months in physical therapy to rehabilitate damaged ligaments in my left knee. That was the bad part.

The good part was that I hadn't been wearing a seat belt.

When I came to, moments after the collision, I was sitting in the passenger seat.

That's where I was thrown when my door folded in and the driver's seat got crushed to half its original width.

My steering area was so compacted, you couldn't even pull the key out of the ignition.

The garage owner who wound up with my totaled car couldn't believe I had lived, in fact, when he saw the wreck.

But if I'd worn a seat belt, I might still be trapped in the driver's seat competing for space with bent pillars and imploded sheet metal.

The people behind the new seat belt law probably don't want to hear stories like that, though.

They'd rather count beans and theorize about how many auto fatalities could be avoided if motorists drove 7.6 miles per hour slower on south-bound roadways between the hours of 3 and 3:30 a.m. on alternating Tuesdays.

Don't get me wrong.

I'm not claiming the particulars of my accident pose a valid argument against the wearing of seat belts.

But, if fate decides to ring down the curtain on my life, I'd rather exit stage left pursuing a lifestyle of my own design and not Michael Dukakis'.

After all, I've never tried to stop him from riding a bicycle through his congested city streets — even though I think he takes his life in his hands with every pedal.

And I wouldn't try to outlaw skateboards, motorcycles or other forms of travel I don't personally favor.

I've never tried to suggest that sub-compact cars be banned because their small size and weight make them less crashworthy than full-size cars.

Nor have I ever suggested that full-size cars be banned because their tremendous weight and proportionately longer stopping distances leave them less capable of avoiding accidents than smaller cars.

In fact, I don't think I can ever recall trying to restrict another American from travelling in a particular mode just because it wasn't my cup of tea. I always thought ours was a free country, one where people were allowed to pursue their own pleasures and lifestyles provided they didn't harm others.

And, as far as that goes, I've never discouraged or even kidded a passenger who insisted on buckling up.

Maybe, though, need to be more safety conscious.

Maybe I ought to push for a national speed limit of 35 mph to prevent many of the deaths that result in 55 mph collisions.

You can never be too careful, right?

Of course, some people might think that sounds a little ridiculous.

Maybe. But at least my foolishness didn't become law last Wednesday.

One last question. Now that mandatory seat belt usage will lower the cost of insurance premiums, as my governor long promised, when may I expect my refund?

Playing Games Isn't Just For Kids

By TERRY MAROTTA

I was tending to some odd chore the other day, doing spider patrol in the living room I think it was, when a young friend of my acquaintance trailed in from outdoors.

She threw herself down on the couch, and sighed deeply. "I'm sick of those guys," she said. "They play dumb games."

"Like what?" I wanted to know, already waxing nostalgic over the dumb games I'd enjoyed so much at her age.

"Like pretending to be married to boys you hardly know, and having miscarriages, and getting stranded in unexplored territories."

These weren't dumb games, exactly, I tried to tell her, stifling a bubble of mirth at this description; they just had a more adult story-line than the usual sort.

"Well, I'm sick of them," she went on with emphasis. "We were pretending to be lost at sea after a shipwreck. I jumped overboard and told them I had drowned. Then I walked home."

The conversation ended there. The baby, or maybe it was the spiders, intervened at this point and altered the focus of our talk. But I've been thinking some about the whole topic of childhood games as a result of this uniquely 80s exchange.

When my mother was a little girl, as she won't thank me for mentioning here, the curtain had just recently risen on this strange century. The Spanish-American War had been fought in the not-too-distant past. As a result, she and her gang played a game called the Gringos against the Mexicans.

We still have the curling brown photographs from this era, showing sombreros perched on the heads of scowling boy-Mexicans and those huge period bows on those of the smiling girl-Gringos.

So too, 40 years later, my gang of neighborhood pals devised games peculiar to our time. Raised up as we were amidst talk about Khrushchev and the Iron Curtain, we enacted day-long contests between the boy-Commies and the girl-Americans, contests comprised of equal parts bicycle-stealing, apple-pelting and the bondage and mild torture of prisoners.

The chief points of similarity between the games of my mom's generation and those of my own seem to be first the presence of a worthy foe, and second, the natural antipathy between the sexes.

Boys don't play with girls in the pre-teen years; they play against them. The best kind of fun, in my memory, seemed to involve games where members of one sex tried to outrun members of the other, or tie them to trees, or roll around on the ground with them.

When my sister Nan and I couldn't find boys to horse around with this way, we took turns trying to fill the role ourselves. Usually she played the boy, if he was heroic enough, and arrived on the scene just in time save me, the whimpering girl. It wasn't the same, though. You needed the genuine article to lend zest and carbonation to the mix.

It occurs to me now that that might have been the trouble with my own young friend's game, the real reason it lacked interest in her mind.

She and her pals were on the right track, anyway — they knew they needed at least the theoretical presence of that puzzling other species in their play.

But the rest of their script was all television, I think. Somebody in the group had watched a few daytime dramas once or twice hence the notion of miscarriage and intimate connection with spooky strange mals. That stuff's all Hollywood Miscarriage doesn't make a good game, for heaven's sake.

The shipwreck was OK, though. A good shipwreck adds a nice touch to any backyard game. You can add rats, if you like, and everyone can take turns fighting over the last of the hardtack, and later slipping to fall, screaming, overboard.

Sounds like a good time, I found myself thinking, taught up more by now with the webs of memory than with those of any spider.

Just then a shriek went up in the yard. I looked out the window to see my young friend again, quite recovered from her malaise, now, and wearing a pirate scarf.

She was standing in the skinny chest of a howling neighborhood boy. She was grinning ear to ear.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Writer Makes Point On Coverage

TO THE EDITOR:

As a sports correspondent for The Star, I would like to respond to a letter to the editor that appeared in the Jan. 9 issue of The Star. The letter I am referring to regarded the lack of Star coverage of the boys' tennis team, in particular within the sports year in review article written by myself.

As a volunteer writer for The Star, I feel it is important to inform the public that The Star staff is not as big as that at large, daily newspapers. In return, that means that the two fulltime staff members are hard-pressed to cover each and every news and sports event in town.

While The Star tries to cover as many events as is physically possible, there are times when a little help from the reading public is invariable. Such is the case, especially, in the area of local sports coverage.

When there are 7 or 8 sports events going on during a particular season, it is physically impossible to be at two or three places at the same time.

In order to counteract this, last spring I made it known to the young people at the High School that if they wish to receive coverage, they would have to meet me half way.

I told them that if I was unable to be at their sports event, that they should take at least mental notes of the game and to either call me at home or catch me at the High School.

At least one person from each team responded to this and I was able to write four or five pieces a week. I extended the same invitation to the tennis team, as I am easily accessible within the community of Winchester. My name and phone number are in the local directory, and I am at the High School virtually every day. If there are no actual games, I frequent the practice sessions.

Perhaps if the same concerned parents or others, would like to help cover the tennis team, we can accommodate all.

Sincerely,
David Demarco

Residents Urged To Give To Fund

TO THE EDITOR:

The Winchester Senior Assn. has embarked on a campaign to raise enough money and enlarge the Jenks Senior Center. When the present structure was built, there were then about 2,200 senior citizens in Winchester. There are now over 5,000 names on our mailing list, and the number grows almost from day to day.

As a result, we are often obliged to curtail or even cancel some of our activities. We are reluctant to do this at any time; yet the need to do so will become increasingly urgent as our number grows unless we prove that we have the energy, the will, and the foresight necessary to postpone that contingency.

We need the help of every citizen and taxpayer in town, whether seniors or not. Those who are not yet seniors, some day will be seniors (if they live long enough) and those who are taxpayers must remind themselves that, so far at least, the Winchester Senior Assn. has functioned almost entirely by volunteers and private subscription and not on the public payroll.

Many, if not most, towns the size of Winchester must support their senior citizens with money raised from taxes and in some instances the amount is considerable.

In the case of Winchester, literally hundreds of hours of time and effort are donated each week freely by dozens of unpaid volunteers. If they were paid even the minimum hourly wage rate, the cost would put a serious crimp in our mandated 2½¢.

So if each taxpayer will only stop to think about it a bit, he or she will soon come to the logical conclusion that voluntarily kicking in a few dollars to our campaign rather than giving it to the tax collection, will actually save him money in the long run.

We need all the money we can raise, new buildings are costly these days. So please don't wait for the "heavy hitters" to bail us out. Dig down and send us your ones, fives, tens, twenties, fifties or even hundreds, ($500, thousands, even $50,000.1 ($50,000 here and $50,000 there - it counts up!) Yours for a successful campaign.

CLUB NOTES

Club Holds Special Social

With the weather cooperating December 14, the tenants of Westley st. were guests at their annual Christmas Party given by the Christopher Columbus Club, under the direction of Francis Mawn, chairman, president Joe Colletta, manager Jim Costangano and Ralph Fiori.

Social hour was held, followed by a dinner served by club members and friends.

Entertainment was provided by the Rotondo family of Woburn. Anthony, Rita and daughter Laura gave several musical renditions and led group singing of Christmas carols.

Betty Walsh and Ralph Fiori played Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus and passed out gifts to everyone.

Winton Club Readies For Show

Any weekday evening this month, passers-by outside the Winchester Town Hall may hear the sounds of music, singing and laughter coming from the auditorium, as the cast of Winton Club's annual Cabaret prepares for its January 27 opening.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, dancers are practicing for the show's Texas clog dance or limbering up for a kickline. On Tuesday and Thursday evenings, singers can be heard in chorus or performing their solos under the careful scrutiny of director Chris Brown, Cabaret chairman Maryalce Norris and musical director Eddie Madden.

Rehearsals are held on an alternating basis so that the cast members who give their time and talents to this annual benefit show are not all committed to five rehearsals each week. (Some cast members, who have both singing and dancing parts, do come each night.)

The cast of this year's show includes more than 100 performers, who make the trip to the Town Hall from as far south as Milton and as far north as Nashua, N.H.

The title of the 1986 Cabaret is "Celebrate," in celebration of Winton Club's 75th anniversary of service to Winchester Hospital and the 100th birthday of the Statue of Liberty.

"Celebrate" opens in New York

Harbor, where the Statue of Liberty, holding her torch, looks out across the water and reflects back on significant events which have happened in America during her lifetime.

From Ellis Island and a New York pajama factory, the show flashes across the country to Texas and on to a lush, tropical scene in Hawaii.

Constructing sets for this formidable array of locales is the task of the stage crew, all husbands of Winton Club members and headed this year by John Culver and Bob Johnson.

Over weekends and on numerous evenings, they can be found sawing, hammering and tinkering their way through the stacks of lumber and other equipment stockpiled for transformation into a Texas saloon, a tropical paradise or a pajama factory.

Working closely with the stage crew are Ann Bannister and Barbara Pacetti, who are in charge of scenery, creating backdrops and adding color and imaginative touches to the sets.

In response to consistently sold out performances in recent years, Winton Club has added an additional performance to this year's Cabaret.

"Celebrate" will run for six nights opening with young people's night on Monday, January 27 at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday performances are informal Cabaret nights, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights are dressier Cabaret nights, with show time at 9 p.m.

For all performances except Monday night, floor seating will be cabaret-style at tables, arranged to accommodate each group of ticket holders. Refreshments are available and music for dancing will be featured.

Tickets may be purchased by calling Mrs. Albert F. Kennedy at 729-5841 or by visiting the Town Hall box office, Monday through Friday, between 7:30 and 9 p.m. All proceeds from "Celebrate" will benefit Winchester Hospital.

Thirteen Kiwanians and their wives accompanied Santa Claus to bring Christmas cheer to patients of the Winchester Hospital. With the cooperation of the hospital through Marie Johnson, director of volunteer services, dozens of patients were visited and received a gift from Santa.

The high point of the evening was the presentation of a rocking horse and other toys for use in the pediatric waiting area.

The project was well received by the patients, their visitors, and the hospital staff that the Kiwanians plan to make the visit an annual event.

Brownies from Troop 1725 and from the Vinson Owen School spread holiday cheer and exchanged treats with patients. Cookies and punch were served to the singing visitors.

The Parent Enrichment Committee from Lincoln School accompanied children who had hand-made special cards with personal messages.

Other groups welcomed by the residents at 184 Swanton St. were Faith Fellowship carolers and the Burlington recreation Department.

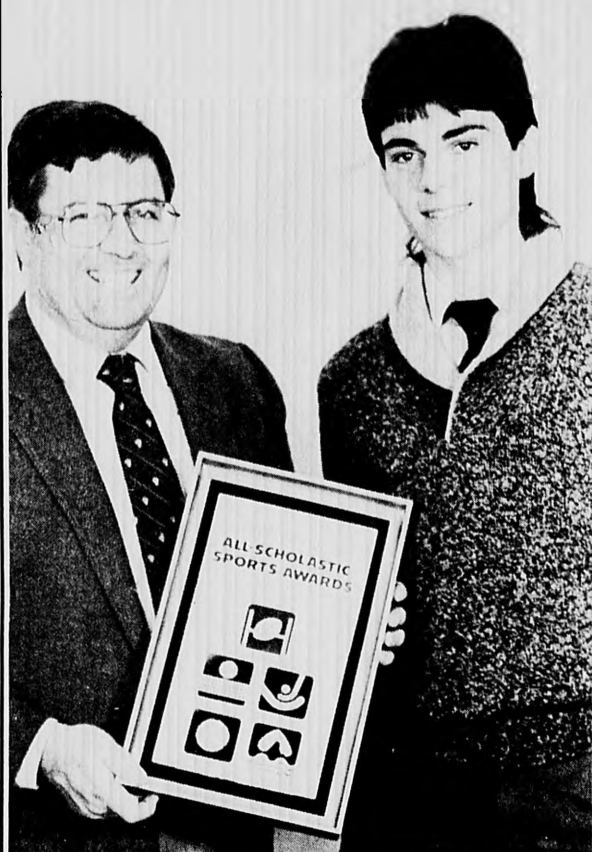

Father Dufour and the Immaculate Conception confirmation class caroled during Christmas week, as did Brenda Dutton and friends, Cindy and friends, Stephanie Pagalias and friends and "Friends of Aberjona."

Coordinating these affairs and all the activity programs at Aberjona Nursing Center are Susan Goodson and Mary Scullin of the occupational therapy department.

And The Beat Goes On

By DAVID DEMARCO

The beat goes on. Right now the WHS hockey team is 0-8 and in dead last in the Middlesex League. With 10 games left the Sachems look to have a difficult time, although plenty of time to win many games at all.

Last Saturday, Jan. 11, the team had an excellent chance to grab a win. The Sachems squared off against Lexington High, another team without a victory.

Winchester led after one period 1-0 on a very early goal by Chris Giso.

The second period saw Winchester add one goal and Lexington came up with two, tying the game 2-2 all as the teams went into the final frame.

What happened next was to be sad Winchester hockey, as they just plain gave up. This time, the Minutemen scored three goals in two minutes to give Lexington a 5-3 victory.

For Winchester, Bill Terry played his finest game of the year, netting two goals and one assist.

Saturday, Winchester plays Belmont at O'Brien Arena with an early 6 p.m. start.

Belmont has been the surprise team of the year as they are in second place at 7-2 and have played excellent hockey against the iron of the league.

Girls Defeat Stoneham 34-28

By DAVID DEMARCO

Well it finally happened. The Sachemettes won their first game 34-28 last Tuesday against Stoneham.

It was the battle of the winless Winchester was prone to taking low percentage shots mainly from the base line outside of the key.

This produced a low scoring first half that saw the Sachemettes in the lead 18-15.

The third quarter gave Winchester quite a scare, as the lead changed hands for the first time at 1-12.

Stoneham bounced out to a three-point lead, 23-20 and finished the quarter up by one point over the Sachemettes.

The majority of the fourth quarter was played without any offense from either team, as just one basket was scored until the 4-26 point.

Winchester's Mary Ellen Feehey seemed to get hot as she hit two key baskets to get the Sachemettes in front by six and secure a victory, 34-28.

For the afternoon, Maureen Dukas led Winchester in total points with 10 points.

"Powerful, I felt powerful. The refs were really tough on us today. We're just psyched out of our minds right now, we finally got it together man," commented Dukas after the performance.

Mary Ellen Feehey, Maureen Guarnotta and Ellen Donahoe each had four hoops apiece. Coach Joe DeSarcina did have a skippy ending of the victory.

"We didn't shoot well. Their coaches were sagging in to take away our close shots and we still don't have the confidence yet," said DeSarcina.

Winchester did give Fresh Ed a nice birthday present though, hitting their record to 1-6.

On Friday, the Sachemettes traveled to Lexington, which had them 7-12.

Surprisingly, the Sachemettes held close for the first half, only down 20-25. Winchester could not hold off

Lexington super star Robin Guarnotta, however, as she netted an unheard of 30 points and dominated the board.

Winchester did much better than expected, offensively grabbing 42 points.

Having Julie Guarnotta back helped a lot, too. Julie scored 14 her first night back. Ellen Donahoe had an excellent night, adding 10 points of her own in a guard-oriented offense.

As of now the Sachemettes are sitting in eighth place with a 1-7 record.

On Friday, the girls travel to Belmont, which currently occupies fourth place.

Young WHS Swimmers Show Strength

On Jan. 7, Winchester High swimmers went against Malden at Vt. High School, beating them 99-64.

Although the Sachem swimmers are very young, they seem to be pretty powerful. Swim coach Guy Pollino seems to be very pleased with the performance of his team.

Swimming in the events were 200-yard medley relay, taking first place for Winchester. Mike Bowers

Taking third place, Alex Sagola freshman, Frank Curtis freshman, Martin Herlihy freshman, and Jim Blasi junior.

Sachem Streak Has Ended

It has been a bittersweet week for the Winchester Sachems wrestling team, as the team earned its 36th victory on Jan. 8 against Reading, only to be handed its first loss since 1983, when they wrestled Jan. 11 against Lowell.

The loss was handled gracefully by teammates and coaches alike, although clearly the Reading game was the favorite of the two.

The final score against Reading was 40-19, while Lowell topped Winchester by a score of 37-18.

Coach Larry Tremblay's wrestling Sachems have completed a record that will stand for a long time before it is equalled in the school or the league. The strong Lowell team captured its first victory in three outings against Winchester with a 37-18 score.

Sachem Bill Murphy opened the match with an exciting match which he lost 13-11 to a very strong Coughlin of Lowell who finished fourth in the state tournament last year.

Greg Doherty beat his man and Mike Hall pinned his man to help Winchester take an early lead. Jim Selvitelli ran into a dominating Lowell man losing a major decision but refusing to be pinned, Alex Puchula pinned his man to take Winchester to a 18-8 lead.

The Sachems were not to score again that day as Lowell came roaring back to win its biggest victory this season.

However, close matches by 170 pound Anthony Mercado, 157 pound Scott Racek and heavyweight Dave Carter were not to be and Winchester bowed to defeat with this non-league defeat to Lowell 11-8.

Winchester's two coaches accepted this defeat gracefully, crediting Lowell ability and solid scouting as the key to their victory.

The Winchester grapplers accepted the loss humbly and went out in the second match and trounced Newton North Six different wrestlers found themselves in the lineup.

Rob Gaeta in the 107 pound class got the Sachems rolling with an early pin. Greg Falcone gained a technical fall in the 121 pound class. The seasoned Mark Bartman also pinned his man in the 128-pound class.

Paul Murray wrestled his best match ever, pinning a standout Ed Lynne of Newton North for a first period pin. And a rapidly maturing Phil Syahn gained a victory by pinning his 187 pound opponent. With his heavyweight Dave Carter's pin Winchester bounced back to win by a commanding 59-5.

On Jan. 8, the Rockets had upset in their eyes as the match was not decided until last week classes. In the 100 pound class Bill Murphy opened the match with a win for the Sachems by handing his opponent a technical fall, outscoring him by 15 points.

Rob Gaeta, at 107 pounds, was caught being too aggressive and was pinned by Reading's Karl Lieberman. In the 114 pound class, Mike Hall showed his man the light in the first period.

James Selvitelli followed at the 120 pound class, also pinning his opponent in the first period. Alex Puchula continued Winchester's win continued tally by gaining a victory.

Mark Bartman controlled Mike Corcoran of Reading, gaining a victory by match disqualification. Bartman physically controlled his man throughout the match causing the referee to stop the match and award (Please See STREAK Page 17)

Local Swimmers Do Well

Two local members of the CSSM swim team made their talents known at the annual Bates College Invitational Swim meet held in Lewiston, Maine recently.

Victoria Tobakis, 11, put in her best times in the 500 free style, 100 back stroke, and 100 breast stroke. She continued her streak with best times in 200 individual medley.

She was also a member of the sixth place 200 medley relay and seventh place 200 free relay.

Michael Carroll, 11, continued his winning ways by placing third in overall points in the meet.

Carroll captured second in the 200 individual medley, fourth in the 100 fly, third in the 100 free, fifth in the 100 yard breast, second in the 200 yard free and fourth in the 500 free.

Both swimmers have made outstanding progress since October and will likely continue to progress at a rapid rate.

ARTS

High School Musicians Will Perform Jan. 30

Winchester residents can disperse the January blues at an evening of music with the Winchester High School bands, orchestra and chorus. Highlights on Jan. 30 will include such favorites as "I Go To Rio" by Peter Allen, "Theme From Dallas" by J. Immel, played by the High School Band, directed by Priscilla Miller.

The jazz band will be well represented by soloists Jason Boone on tenor saxophone, Eric Pharo on trombone, Keith Leonard on trumpet, Robert Driscoll on saxophone, and Jason (Eddie Van) Upper on Guitar. The high school orchestra, with Mark Jacobs conductor, will play Symphony No. 3 by Haydn; excerpts from opera: Die Meistersinger by Wagner and Concertino with a violin solo by Kimberly Ryan.

The Winchester High school orchestra is planning a trip to Washington on May 11-13 for which raffle tickets will be on sale at the concert as part of the fund-raising effort. It will be a first time for the orchestra playing away from home.

Music Program Begins Semester

The Winchester Music Program begins its second semester later this month and registration is now being accepted.

Coordinator Corie Nichols encourages inquiries about lessons in any of the 20 instruments (including voice) offered. The program also has small group and private instruction in music theory.

"Winter can sometimes be an ideal time to start lessons," she said, "and we welcome students of any age." Lessons are held after school hours at McCall and continue until 7 or 7:30, making it possible for adults to participate too.

New offerings at the music program this year include organ, and eurhythmics classes.

For more information write the Winchester Music Program, P.O. Box 24, or call Corie Nichols, 10 Oxford St., Sandy Thompson, 48 Samoset rd., or Nancy Goodwin, 8 Wolcott terrace.

The McCall Junior High Concert Band is preparing for their Jan. 16 Winter Concert, which will include music from Star Wars to a John Philip Sousa march. From left are Frank Perrone, Dean Pappas, Shiela McCarthy, Brad Peck and David McIndoe. On drums is Jeff Russo.

Winchester Music Program teacher Heidi Baxter works with student Laurie Pedulla. Registration for the new program session is now underway.

Four Are In Concert

Four Winchester students will be performing Jan. 18 at the annual Northeastern District Concert held at Gloucester High School. Deborah Daugherty, Melissa Grigoroff, Chester Liu and Laurie Rahmeier will perform, representing Winchester High School.

The concert is sponsored by the Massachusetts Music Educators Assn. Northeastern District, which includes high school students from public and private schools.

The concert aims to serve as an enrichment opportunity and to provide the highest caliber of musical experience.

Drama Workshop Series Will Begin Jan. 22

Actors from McCall Junior High School's hit musical, "Annie," newcomers to the stage and others who would enjoy creative expression without performing can register now for a Drama Workshop series opening Wednesday, January 22, at 2:45 in the Social Studies area of the High School.

The series will continue for ten weeks, with a culminating demonstration. Priority will be given to students in grades 7 and 8, but 6th graders will be included if space is available.

With the goal of more effective communication for both the actor and the person, the workshops begin with Yoga exercises which stretch, relax and tone the body and nervous system. The workshop then focuses on each of the five senses to increase awareness. Mime and movement facilitate organic communication; theater games educe spontaneity; and finally improvised scenes bring life experience into artistic form.

After leading such after school workshops in Winchester since 1972, Paulett Taggart now works with drama in Watertown elementary school classrooms. Material from the teacher's curriculum is used to stimulate "right brain" intuition to effect a balance with traditional "left brain" cognitive learning. This ideal of "whole brain education" is receiving increasing world-wide attention. Assistant leader Jason Boone appeared in McCall's Fiddler on the Roof and now plays a prominent musical role.

Registration is open until the group is filled at the Recreation Office in McCall next to the gym; use the auditorium door.

Further information is available from the Winchester Drama Workshop, Paulett Taggart, 17 Ridgfield rd.

Commission Pilot

Although she declined to discuss the commission's plans in great detail, she said they are "ambitious." Howard said the board is aiming for town ownership of most of the land bordering the Aberjona River and Horn Pond Brook. An alternative, she said, would be for the town to have more regulatory control over use of the areas.

She also said the commission expects to have a draft of the plan ready for the public to review at least a week before the Feb. 25 hearing.

"We have taken a look at the entire town as a whole," said Howard, "and we've decided what we'd like to see the town look like when it is fully developed."

She said the five-year "action plan" is aimed at keeping a finger on the community growth, with an eye toward maintaining ample open space in town.

She said the photo contest and the February hearing are part of the commission's efforts to drum up local interest in the project, which will be addressed at the spring Town Meeting.

"We'll probably have some warrant articles," regarding the open space project, she said. "We see the February hearing as a sort of publicity kickoff for the Town Meeting."

Since the open space plan will be submitted for public review at the Feb. 25 meeting, photo contest entries are being accepted until Feb. 22 only.

Black and white prints may be sent to the Conservation Commission at the Town Hall, Mount Vernon St.

Each should have the name, address and phone number of the photographer written on the back, and be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The photos automatically become the property of the Conservation Commission.

According to the commission, the photograph should "encourage Winchester residents to look at some of the things that make this a unique place to live."

Besides the prospect of publication of the photo on the proposal, the winner will be given a free T-shirt with an "open space" slogan.

Asked about the unusualness of the contest, Howard said, "If it gets the community involved, if it gets the matter more in the public eye, then it's worth it."

board with information citing problems with finding substitute teachers.

Alexander suggested the committee vote to increase the pay by $2.20, in keeping with other school districts' competing pay for substitutes.

The president of the Community Schools Assn., Donna Brandt Landry, alerted the board that Winchester parents support seatbelts on school buses.

The board approved a student field trip to Italy during February vacation. The trip will include only students of the humanities classes.

Tom Tracy, director of art at Winchester High School, outlined the trip to the board. Tracy, his wife and Victoria Loeb will chaperone the 20 students. The cost will be $800 per person.

Students will leave the afternoon of Thursday, Feb. 13, and will return Saturday, Feb. 22, missing one day of school.

Also, the committee accepted the gift of a $700 computer and color monitor from Winchester resident Foster Knight to Lincoln School.

Supt. Mitsakos commended and congratulated:

- Bill Johnson for his outstanding work as director of Winchester High School's production of Sam Shepherd's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "Buried Child."

- Bonnie Holmes and Jan Keefe for their help with McCall Junior High's first newspaper, "The McCall."

- Steve Frazee for his work in the Lincoln School student production of "A Christmas Memory."

- Maura Albert, Margaret Hallisey, Susan Doherty, Joanne Martignette and Lynne Rahmeier for their participation in early childhood workshops in the school system.

Jazz-aerobics will begin the week of January 22 and meet for 10 weeks duct the alterations.

Maurer said such "punch list" items could include such things as squeaky doors or floor cracks, and would be the responsibility of the contractor.

He said the delay in moving the Police Department into the building is caused by the fact that furniture for the department must be installed.

Also on Monday, Selectmen appointed Curtis Jones to the Capital Planning Committee.

Jones, of 19 Arlington St., was among several candidates interviewed last week for the position.

He is currently on the committee having been appointed several months ago to fill an unexpired term which expired Jan. 1, 1986.

The board was also notified of the appointment of John Contardo as engineering assistant with the town engineering department. The position had been vacant since Mark Twogood was appointed as assistant to the Town Manager several months ago.

Also at the meeting was a presentation of Feedback, a brochure about the town's history.

The board also approved a proposal by Lucina R. Curran, 1000 1/2 St. to open a new restaurant, Lucina's, on Monday.

Previously, the restaurant had been open three to four days a week, but would be allowed open only on Mondays that Monday event will not be a regular event, according to Curran.

The board also approved a petition to have the town's streets repaved. The petition, which was signed by residents of the intersection of Wedgemere and Wagon Wheel roads, was presented to the board.

Muraco's Mike—He's A Friend

Beyond The Call Of Duty

By APRIL DEARMAN
Special To The Star

On the day after Halloween this year, the only trace of goblins and pranksters at the Muraco School was graffiti inscribed in shaving cream on a school wall.

When school officials saw "We Love Mike," they knew they could never find the culprit — because everybody loves Mike.

Who is he? And why does he inspire such sentiment?

His name is Mike Procopio — and he's a custodian at the Muraco School. He cleans floors, scrubs walls and empties wastepaper baskets.

He is also everyone's big brother, the best joke teller and a gentle mentor for youngsters and adults alike.

Mike has been at Muraco for the last 14 years — and has been a friend to many along the way.

He takes great pride in "his" school, and handles it with great care. Neighborhood children, knowing his love for Muraco, even help him keep an eye on the building and the grounds.

Even on his own time, Mike often comes in to make sure things are running smoothly — proof that it would be hard to find a more conscientious custodian.

But the shiny, spotless halls and classrooms tell only a small part of the story. The most significant examples of Muraco's "love affair with Mike" lie in the comments from the youngsters themselves.

"He helps you if you are stuck or in a mess," said third grader Allison Wright. "Mike loves to be with kids. He always lets them work around the school with him," said fifth grader Danny Braga.

Indeed, he is a friend to all, as he goes out of his way to make others feel just a little special. He goes far beyond his custodial duties, lending support and confidence in his gruff, yet caring way.

As kindergartners first enter "Mike's" doors and walk down "his" hallways, they each become special people to him. The Muraco School children are his life, and he is there for them through their years at the elementary school.

Perhaps one of the most telling testimonies to students' love for Mike is the tradition in which each graduating sixth grade class honors him during their graduation ceremony.

And when juniors and senior high students return as alumni to visit Muraco, Mike is usually the first person they come looking for.

In return, Mike can often be found searching every inch of the building just to find a teacher's lost watch or toy belonging to one of his young buddies.

He knows each child's first and last names, and can often be found giving a pep talk to the one who just may be having a rough time in school.

He senses problems, say teachers, and has been known to bring school bullies in line with almost fatherly guidance.

Attention from Mike, say some, is just the thing to help a child through a bad time. Through his easy-going manners, he gets to know children's strengths and weaknesses, their hopes and joys.

Among the student population, it is considered an honor to help Mike sweep the floors, hand out milk or clean cafeteria tables. He is a friend like no other friend, and the youngsters readily confide in him.

Teachers and staff at Muraco agree that Mike plays an invaluable role on the school "team." He functions as a one-man support system keeping the building clean and organized, and boosting students and staff as well.

Teachers' jobs of keeping classrooms tidy are eased because the children pitch in — in the hopes of winning Mike's weekly "Golden Garbage Pail" award. The lucky winners are lauded for having the cleanest classroom in the school.

There is an obvious mutual respect between Mike and his coworkers, as they work hand-in-hand to make Muraco a school to be proud of.

For parents, Mike can be just the link to their children and the school. Parents quickly find a friend and ally in Mike, as they go about the task of nurturing their children.

He has been known to alert parents of a child's problem or worry.

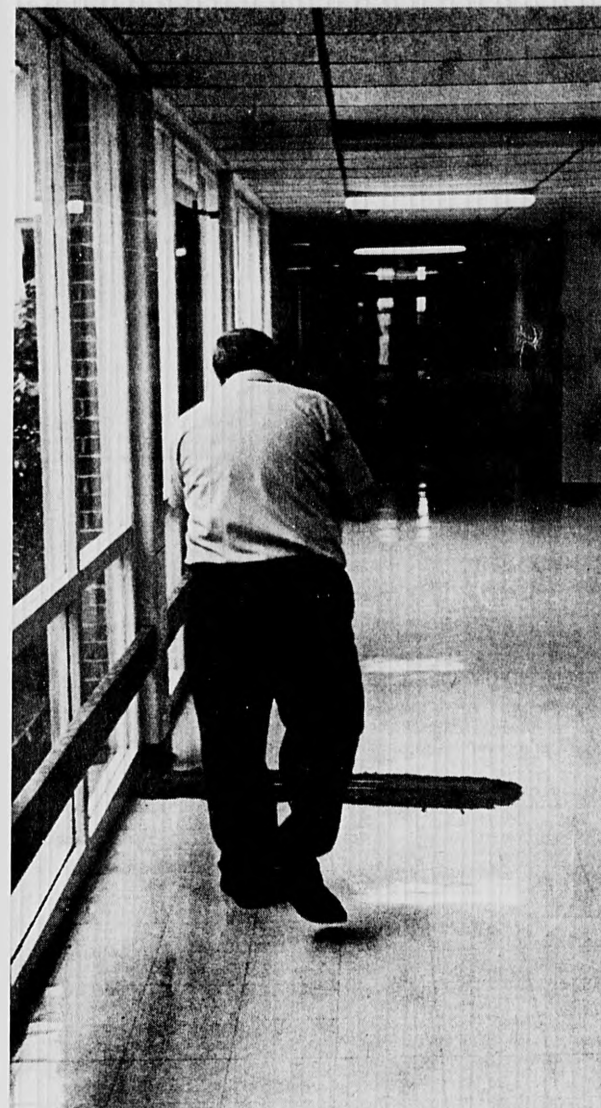

serving as a built-in radar system and an extra link with home. His fatherly guidance is often just the extra boost to help parents do their job as well.

He quietly makes the difference, in his slow, easy-going way.

As Mike busily sweeps the halls, a little boy walks past him. Classes are in session, so Mike calls out, "Why aren't you in class?"

The youngster keeps quiet, as Mike comes over, puts down his broom and pats him on the head. "Congratulations, I hear you made 100 on your spelling," says Mike.

The boy breaks into a big grin, proud that somebody noticed his achievement, glad that someone was there for his day in the sun.

SCHOOL NEWS

ASK THE EDUCATORS Enrichment, New Calendar Are Discussed

Diane Munini, Enrichment
Chairperson
Winchester Community Schools Assn.

Question: What is "enrichment" in our schools? How does C.S.A. Enrichment work town-wide? How about other enrichment programs in the schools?

Enrichment programs in our schools provide students with opportunities to enjoy, to experience, to become involved in quality performing arts, and to learn about the creative process. These programs are scheduled to complement town-wide and individual schools' curriculum goals.

Our committee includes the enrichment coordinators in all five elementary schools and the junior high and high school. The elementary schools contribute to an Enrichment Fund which brought Chief Red Dawn, a Native American program, to the schools this fall.

This spring we have scheduled Brown Bag Opera in the schools to perform Humpdick's "Hansel and Gretel" for younger students, and "Carmen" for the older students.

By "block-booking" town-wide, we are able to obtain quantity discounts for performances, and to obtain state and local arts grant reimbursements, thereby doubling the value of each school's enrichment investment.

The C.S.A. Enrichment Committee meets regularly in Winchester and with administrators from 50 suburban towns to share information and book programs specific to their schools needs with their own P.T.O. funds.

Programs in schools include "The Christmas Cuckoo," a poet-in-residence "See What I'm Saying" (a sign language program).

Karen Baker, Assistant Principal, Winchester
High School

Question: How did the idea for the "Activities Alert" calendar come about and what is included in the calendar?

Last year, we became aware that parents and students were not always sure who was sponsoring an event. Parents need a clear, easy way to differentiate between school sponsored events, with guaranteed adult supervision, and those events sponsored by other groups over which the high school had no control.

Parents have always been and still are encouraged to contact the high school if they have any questions or concerns about an event, but this was not an efficient method for reaching all parents on a long term basis.

So this September, we started the "Activities Alert," a monthly calendar mailed directly to the homes of students. I compile the information to be included each month. Veronica Fiorillo, a parent at the school, types the calendar and she and other parents correlate and mail it each month.

The calendar lists all meetings of school sponsored clubs, dances, rehearsals, class events and demonstrations. There is a separate sports calendar to list athletic events. In addition, we list events at the Youth Center and Recreation Department.

Community events, such as those sponsored by the churches, can also be listed by calling me at the high school. We feel that the calendar is an efficient, reliable way for parents to find out exactly who is in charge of an event that they are considering allowing their children to attend.

Vinson-Owen Adds A Tutor

The Vinson Owen School welcomes Beverly Twyner, the new math tutor. She comes from Virginia and has several years of experience in special education.

Sixth-Graders Reading Aloud

Vinson-Owen sixth grade students are now involved in a read-aloud tutor program with kindergarten students. Each week, two sixth grade students are randomly selected to read a story which they have selected to read. The volunteer program encourages leadership among the sixth graders as well as to sharpen oral reading skills. It also benefits the kindergartners, who enjoy a young story-teller.

Program Features Young Chorus

Vinson-Owen sixth graders entertained the entire student body and parents in several performances of a holiday play entitled "The Runaway Snowman," assisted by the fifth grade chorus. Principal characters were played by Jennifer Esposito, Mary Catherine Segota, Katie Schalkjer, Lauren Blanchard, Brian Byrne, Michael Cramer, Patrick Lavelle and Campbell Foster. Herman Greene, choral director, led each class in the variety of holiday songs.

Students Learn Gift Of Giving

The spirit of giving had real meaning for several Lincoln School classes this holiday season. Kay Currier's sixth graders raised $80 for the toy box at the Pediatric Hematology Oncology Clinic at Massachusetts General Hospital by abstaining from something they enjoyed one weekend. Sponsored by the Enrichment Committee, the third grade classes of Paula Franchita and Barbara Pickett, and the sixth grade classes of R. Lynch and Mary Scharch continued their free time to share home made cards, conversation and songs with patients at the Winchester Hospital and the Aberjona and Winchester Nursing Homes.

As part of the holiday music program at Lincoln, teachers Bernice Golden and Steven Gorne joined their fourth graders to provide guitar and vocal music.

Members of Steven Frazee's sixth grade class prepared a dramatic reading with music of the Truman Capote novella, "A Christmas Memory." The story, an autobiographical remembrance of a rural Christmas in depression-era Alabama, was performed for intermediate grade classes and friends. Principal roles were acted by Zoe Daggett, Chuck Keete, Adam Finn, Matthew Krumme, Daphne Oliver, and Peter Jones.

Ambrose Students "Think Ski"

"Think Ski" was only the beginning of a ski day for Ambrose fourth, fifth and sixth graders recently. A student committee, with the help and advice of the Winchester Recreation Department, has made arrangements for a trip to the slopes of Mt. Wachusett later this month.

Learning To Learn Workshops Planned

Many parents in Winchester participated in the first series of workshops offered by the school system to explore the current topics of learning styles and thinking strategies. The experience generated a good deal of enthusiasm and offered people a chance to understand the unique and individual ways in which children and adults deal with learning. The second series of workshops will be offered from January 21 through April 8. Classes will meet on Tuesday mornings from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the Lynch Administrative Center. To register, call Ellen Racioppi at 729-3991 or 729-7506.

High School Breaks Ground

The drafting program at Winchester High plans to introduce "Computer Aided Drafting" soon to the drafting I and architectural drawing students. The days of T-squares and triangles are just about over, as Winchester will soon be one of the few public high schools with "CAD" capability.

John Fusco's advanced electronics students are building a Zenith 150 computer. This computer is an IBM compatible and along with the assembly, the students are receiving operational and maintenance skills. When completed, the computer will be used as a second "CAD" station.

Lynch Library's Comet Theme

Books about Halley's Comet and other related astronomical subjects were on display at the Lynch School Library during December. A huge paper comet was attached to one of the library's windows and students made additions to the comet's tail for each book they read during the month. These Lynch students wrote and illustrated books about the comet. Matthew Salter, Simon Tucker and Vincent Palaver are now Lynch authors and their books are in circulation as part of the library's permanent collection.

Halley Mania Spurs Club

As a supplement to the Lynch library's comet theme, students were able to join a Halley's discussion group during Tuesday lunch hours in December. The group was led by librarian Peggy Hallisey, along with seven other staff members.

Frank Finnigan, head of the Science Department for Winchester schools, was the guest of honor at the first meeting and answered students' questions about the comet.

At the last meeting, Hallisey presented each of the 43 students who attended the sessions with a large button declaring "Lynch Has Halley Mania!"

Muraco Trails Comet Activity

January is Halley's Comet month at Muraco School. The library has on exhibit comet books, pictures, and photo copies of newspapers from the year 1911, when the comet was last visible. In a hallway floor display, children can see the progress of Halley's comet on its path around the sun. Dr. Russell Blake, director of the Plymouth Carver Planetarium, will present a slide lecture to Muraco families. Students will fill out "Messages from 1986" about themselves which will be stored in the town archives to be opened by students of 2061, when Halley's comet comes again.

Kids' Eye View Club Is Formed

A new "Kids' Eye View" club has been formed this year by nine sixth graders at Muraco School. The students, with supervision from parent Pam Jervey, decided on themes for the Winchester Cable television production, wrote scripts, and made cue cards. They also directed and had rehearsals with the classes being filmed. Topics for the program are third and fourth graders preparing the Fun Pages for the Boston Globe and fifth and sixth graders participating in an estimation contest.

AFS Application Being Accepted

This year, for the first time, Winchester is participating in the American Field Service, a program offering worldwide intercultural learning and living experience. Ender Ozdemir of Turkey is attending Winchester High School as an AFS student.

The student selection process is already underway, but it is still possible to apply for the summer of 1986. For information, contact Kaye Nash (729-8957).

Honor Society Inductees Listed

Membership in the National Honor Society is one of the highest honors that can be awarded to a High School student. The NHS has worked hard to bring the accomplishments of outstanding students to the attention of parents, teachers, peers, and community. Each NHS across the nation strive to give practical meaning to the Society's goals of scholarship, leadership, service and character.

The Induction Ceremony into the National Honor Society was held in December. The following students were inducted:

Season Of Ice

Once again, the season of sleet and ice is upon us. The season when the driver of the family car must be doubly alert. To be blunt, we, as Funeral Directors, do not have to use imagination to visualize the results of careless driving. The grisly tangibles are forced upon us—especially during the Winter months. You owe it to yourself and your family not to let familiarity with the automobile breed contempt for the highway or byway. Your children need you—Protect their future.

Robert J. Costello
Director

She taught in the Winchester school system for 16 years, where she was teacher and assistant principal.

An active volunteer and civic leader involved in many organizations, she is survived by one son, Thomas E. Morse of Winter Park, a brother, Donald T. Clark of Scotts Valley, Calif., and a sister, Mary Adele Mather of Princeton, N.J. Also surviving are three grandchildren.

the win to Bartman. His man was not able to initiate any wrestling offense.

Sachem's Steve Rodriguez lost a last second decision by 3-2, having lost control of his opponent, Mark Schwahn, and giving up five points just before the buzzer.

Winchester's 147-pounder, Doug Norberg, ran into a physical Dave Crispo and lost his match. At 157 pounds, Sachem Anthony Mercado got caught and pinned by his man. What had been a big Winchester lead had dwindled to being a close match.

The score stood at 28-19 in Winchester's favor, but the Rockets were fired up to upset the Sachems. Scott Racek stepped into the 168 pound class in a pivotal match. A win would have put the match almost out of reach. Scott wrestled his way to a controlled victory, using his long frame to twice reverse his opponent. Ed Pigott sealed the Sachem victory, nearly pinning his man on the way to an 11-2 victory. The heavy weight match went decisively to Dave Carter. Winchester's emerging big man, Carter added the exclamation point to the victory with a first period pin.

Coach Larry Tremblay said after the Reading game, "In every match this season a new wrestler comes in to his own. Tonight, we saw Racek and Pigott wrestle intelligent matches under pressure."

Ironically, coach Tremblay also added, "We were scouted by Lowell's coach tonight. He is anxious to upset us as we are the only team in the state to have beaten them twice in our last two confrontations."

Apparently, Lowell scouted pretty well as they came on to beat Winchester and break the Sachems' 36-game winning streak.

Huck Finn Is Alive And Well On Broadway

Joyous Theatre In Big River

Review—Big River (The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn) has travelled a mighty long way since its world premiere with the American Repertory Theatre two seasons back.

After making its way upstream to Broadway's O'Neill Theatre, it garnered seven Tony awards including Best Musical for 1984 and while not block-buster in the league of "La Cage aux Folles" or "Evita", it is, nevertheless, a joyous, infectious and captivating musical.

Obviously the tryout run at the Loeb Drama Center more than fulfilled its purpose - to expose its strengths and weaknesses to the creative team - for whatever problems existed have been admirably rectified.

The personal (21 actors playing 65 characters in 45 scenes) has been impressively recast, the script is far more cohesive, resulting in taut flow, build and pacing, and roles either beefed up or shaved.

It is now a superior ensemble effort by the artistic staff in every production area.

The flavor of the Tony Award winning book by William Hauptman, adapted from the novel by Mark Twain, and Roger Miller's music and lyrics, for which he also was awarded a "Tony", remains unaltered.

Miller's score is as foot-stompin' as ever, a mix of hoe-down folk and country music, blues, Cajan and gospel, and dominates the tale of Huck Finn and the run-away slave Jim, their perils, ploys and adventures, as they float downstream on a home-made raft along the Mississippi River Valley in search of Jim's freedom.

Other "Tony" winners, and justifiable so, are Des McAnuff, whose staging is at its tight-fisted, hand-clapping best; Heidi Landesman, for her clever and uncluttered sets depicting nine locations; Patricia McGourty's pleasing and authentic 1840's dress, ranging from back river to local gentry; and Richard Riddell, for his atmospheric and highly creative light design.

Other noteworthy contributions are made by Janet Watson, for choreography, musical supervision by Danny Troob and orchestrations by Troob and Steven Margoshes, and B.H. Barry for dueling sequences.

The superb cast is led by Tony winner Ron Richardson, a strapping, good-looking actor with a glorious voice, displayed lavishly in the show-stopping "Muddy Water" and "Free At Last", and with Huck in "River in the Rain", "World's Apart" and, with Karla DeVito, in "Leaving's Not the Only Way to Go".

Curly-topped Daniel Jenkins is most winning as Huck and displays a warm and pleasing singing voice.

Most of the comedy, which is marvelous, is supplied by the characters King (Bob Gunton) and the Shakespearean-spouting thespian Duke (Ron Lieb), two old-pro con artists.

They accompany Huck and Jim for part of their journey and spice up the action with their rousing first-act curtain song-and-dance number "When the Sun Goes Down in the South", literally lifting the audience to its feet, and the hilarious "The Royal Nonesuch".

John Short's portrayal of Tom Sawyer is notable and John Goodman adds a star turn as Pap Finn and the comedy tune "Guv'ment". The choral work, featuring Jennifer Leigh Warren, is exceptional, as are the entire crew of musicians.

Best of all, the humor and pathos of "Huck Finn" are a welcomed treat for the entire family.

Boston Opera Presents Puccini

The Opera Company of Boston, under the artistic direction of Sarah Caldwell, opens the 1986 season with three performances of Puccini's Turandot, at 8 p.m., Monday, Jan. 20 and Thursday, Jan. 23, and at 3 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 26.

To be sung in Italian with English titles projected over the stage, the opera stars soprano Eva Marton in the title role, soprano

Sarah Reese as Liu, tenor Janos Nagy as Calaf and bass Spiro Malas as Timur.

Tenor Noel Velasco sings the roles of Pong and the Emperor, tenor Steven Schnurman sings Pang, and the Mandarin and Ping is sung by baritone James Rensink.

Miss Caldwell conducts and stages the production, which was first presented in November, 1983, by the Opera Company of Boston.

At that time, this critic reported, "Sarah Caldwell's new mounting of Puccini's Turandot is simply dazzling!"

"It is a visual pageant and an artistic triumph, featuring... the sensitive, compassionate soprano of Sarah Reese and, above all, Eva Marton as the fire and ice Princess."

The production is further blessed with massive awe-inspiring scenery designed by Ming Cho Lee, spectacularly gorgeous costumes, wigs and ceremonial props by Wang Linyou, designed and made in China, with the assistance of the Central Opera Theatre of Beijing, and dramatic lighting effects by Graffm Wayne.

Tickets may be purchased at the Opera House box office, 539 Washington St., Boston, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Call 426-2786. (Please see REVUE on page 15.)

Clockwise from top: Ron Richardson and Daniel Jenkins star in Big River; The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, the Tony Award winning musical play now at New York's O'Neill Theatre; soprano Eva Marton sings the title role in Puccini's Turandot, the opening production of the 1986 opera season; pianist Marian McPartland makes her debut Thursday, Jan. 23 through Saturday, Jan. 25 at Boston's Starlight Roof, Howard Johnson's Hotel in Kenmore Square.

What To Learn

Can't Decide? Tufts Course Says: 'Make Up Your Mind!'

By Susan Curtis

Decisions. Dozens of decisions, from the mundane to the profound, are made daily by each and every individual.

An instinctive process? Possibly, but effective decision-making is a disciplined process. And it can be learned.

So say Dr. Hugo Bedau and his colleagues at the Center for the Study of Decision Making at Tufts University.

Decision-makers impact every level of society. Current coeds will someday control future choices in every imaginable field.

They have the potential to make good decisions, safe decisions, poor decisions, wretched and harmful decisions and, by failing to act, no decision — a decision in itself.

The teaching of wise decision making, then, appears to be a sensible investment.

Established in 1980, the Center brought together faculty from diverse viewpoints, departments and backgrounds into this single-focus, interdisciplinary research project.

One impressive outcome of their work has been the identification of a sequential six-step decision making process.

Developed for use with corporate executives as well as undergraduates, this systematic process can be applied to a host of choice circumstances.

There's a general strategy for organizing any decision, says Bedau, the Center's director.

Step one focuses on the definition of the problem. This can involve gathering data, asking others, searching appropriate literature and examining existing background information.

With the issue defined, alternatives must then be identified.

The third step quantifies possible alternatives. What are the short and long range implications of each option? What are the risks and rewards?

Next, decision aids are applied to test various alternatives.

This step can involve simple good judgment or, for more complex issues, sophisticated tools such as decision matrixes and linear programmings are used.

Then a decision is made. But the process is not over.

The final step involves implementation of the decision — delegation and assumption of responsibility and an effective use of resources to accomplish the decided action or task.

Teaching decision-making is hard work, says Bedau.

"I'm not interested in people's opinions. I want people to trim away all the underbrush and confusion and face the issue. That's the challenge."

The Center has developed an intensive Management Decision Making Institute for management executives.

Initial discussion, as outlined in program materials, identifies the characteristics and traits of decision makers, good and bad.

The weak decider wallows and wastes time on what is a gut decision while choices needing cool analysis appear immediately.

This type of decision maker tends to talk to others when solo action is required and, when consultation could help, he acts alone.

The good decision-maker, on the other hand, has the beat of the process — he knows when to stop and when to go; when to work alone and when to employ the expertise of others.

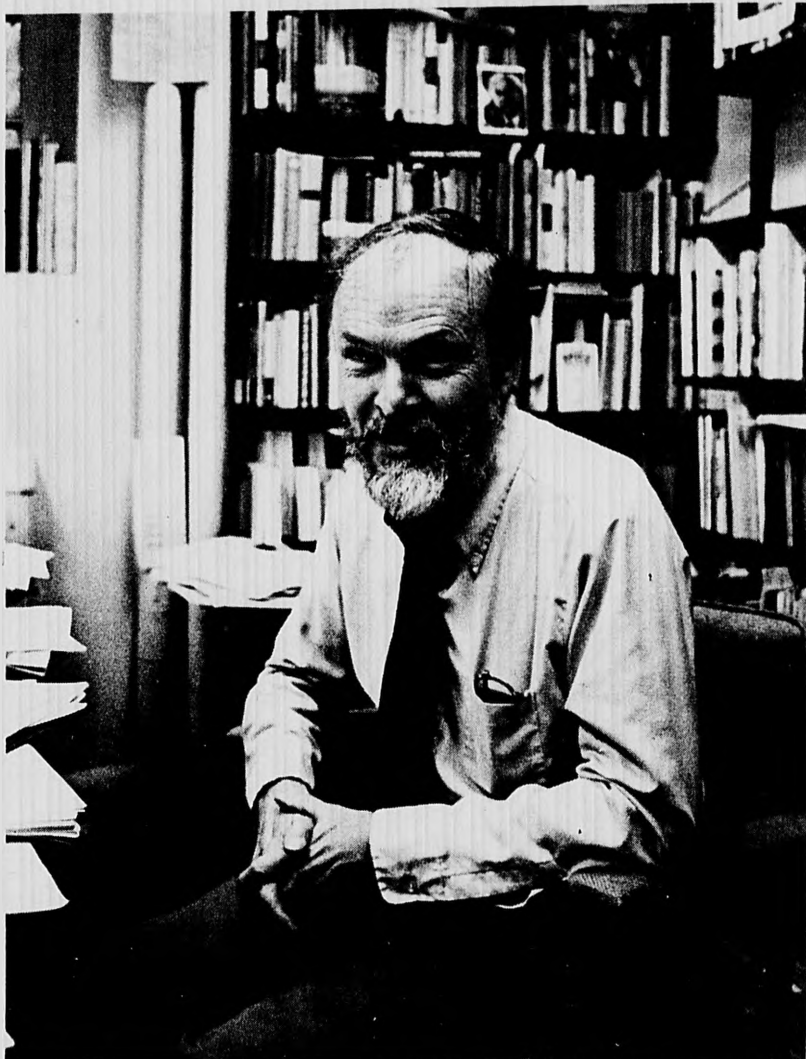

The competent decision-maker has the added attribute of knowing how to live with uncertainty and ambiguity.

Bedau stresses networking as an important tool and trait.

"You need to know people who can get you information effectively and promptly," he says.

You must know your business and the business of others. You cannot identify all the alternatives unless you know what others are doing," he says.

If the first source doesn't know,

Dr. Hugo Bedau, Director of the Center for the Study of Decision Making and Austin Fletcher Professor of Philosophy at Tufts University.

When To Go

The next series of Management Decision-Making Institutes for management executives are slated for April 10-11, May 15-16, and June 19-20.

typically he or she will know who knows.

"No one can know all that is needed to know. With luck, you'll have people working for you who know what you don't and need (to know)."

Some people use the Ready, Fire, Aim technique for decision-making.

A kind of post mortem analysis takes place in which good or better decisions appear obvious after an issue or problem is decided.

Case studies offering immersion in this systematic process are used to stimulate undergraduates and management executives alike. There is a difference, says Bedau, in how they approach situations.

Consider, for example, the case of the runaway corporation.

This model presents a Cambridge-based corporation planning a move to New Hampshire. The advantages to the corporation appear plentiful — a new and larger plant, lower costs, less congestion.

Yet what of present employees? For them, the proposed move means economic life or death.

Course participants assume roles of labor and management. Employees must convince management to remain in Cambridge. Management, in turn, will evaluate their case in the context of advantages and disadvantages to all.

Undergrads, says Bedau, are overwhelmed. To them, management appears to have it all.

Business executives, however, see the imbalance of power but are not paralyzed by it.

They can counter the proposed move with arguments of an already trained and committed work force, the image and good will of the corporation, and so on.

They suggest viable options. Perhaps, for example, the city can be encouraged to give the corporation a tax break as an incentive to keep business — and jobs — in the area.

Professors of psychology, philosophy, environmental and urban studies, English, medicine, sociology, political science, and economics are involved in the Center.

So far they have developed three undergraduate courses as well as the impressive two-day program for executives.

Their work has also spawned four academic textbooks and one adult education book to be published this spring. The working title is "One Hundred Ways To Make Better Decisions."

Each professional brings his or her own expertise and viewpoint to the process of decision-making.

"My concern as a philosopher is to try and see what methods are at our disposal to think systematically from an ethical point of view."

Traditional moral rules may not provide enough guidance or information for some situations, says Bedau.

A classic case presented to undergraduates focuses on a young man with a critically ill mother and no money for the required medication.

What does he do? What should he do?

Allow his mother to die or steal the necessary medication?

The Ten Commandments mandate that parents be honored yet they also forbid stealing.

Thus, this decision extends beyond existing moral rules.

For example, whose interests are affected by this decision? How are the rights of others affected?

What personal duties or obligations are involved?

Finally, what is the best decision for the individual? Society? Everyone?

Bedau describes himself as a rationalist. "I hunger for objectivity and uniformity but that's hard to achieve in human affairs."

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Leave the past behind and make fresh starts. Some good financial news may need appraisal by an expert. With your energy so high you could either scatter your forces, go to excesses or come on too strong ... watch it!

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — A personal appearance can be very beneficial to you so look your very best. Finances improve and something believed lost could be found. A high-energy intellectual interchange is interesting. Take criticism graciously.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — You're in a high cycle now so take the lead, speak up about what you want and it can be yours. Trust your intuition and confidently move toward your highest ambitions. Review your budget and find ways to improve cash flow.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — A fond desire is within reach and someone could avow affection for you. Open up lines of communication. Listen to suggestions and don't insist on being right. Finances are good and you're in the driver's seat.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Optimism is high and you can overcome problems and roadblocks. One of your ideas could be accepted now and the feedback is positive. Be sure to hang in there and finish what you start. Refuse to become intimidated by others.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — If an unexpected circumstance occurs don't panic — it will benefit you in the long run. Don't believe everything you hear or make hasty judgments now. Someone could avow his or her love or a fond wish could come true.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — The accent is on relationships and you're feeling closer than ever to a loved one. Just don't come on too strong or act too eager — relaxed sincerity is a better approach! Listen to good advice about money management.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — If you're forced to make a decision, opt for the more secure, less adventurous path. Popularity is high and you are encouraged to join in on a new group activity. Show your creativity, be the mediator and settle a dispute.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Take care of duties yourself instead of delegating them to others. Show a family member how much you care and restore harmony. Romantically you're susceptible to seeing lovers as you want them to be, not as they really are.

Seniors Are New Hot Market

Financial institutions are becoming increasingly aware of the significance of the "mature market" on the profitability of their operations.

According to the Chicago-based Bank Marketing Association, 65 percent of all customers at U.S. depository institutions are over 65. Bank Marketing magazine reports that during the past 20 years, household income for the mature market has grown — and is continuing to grow — at a faster rate than average household income.

Given this demographic data, it is easy to understand why commercial banks, savings banks and savings and loan associations are targeting many of their marketing programs to this affluent segment of our society.

The banks are developing new products and services — both financial and non-financial — in order to retain senior customers and to attract new ones. Following is a brief report on some benefits introduced to attract this lucrative and growing market.

Financial Incentives

As part of their financial packages for seniors, banks offer benefits such as free checking, credit cards, personalized checks, traveler's checks, cashier's checks and travel insurance. They also may give additional interest on personal certificates of deposit.

Among the many depository institutions offering financial incentives to seniors is American Savings Bank FSB, New York. Its 55 and Better club offers special services to any senior with $5,000 on deposit.

Some of the benefits include free checking, free money orders on sums of $300 or more, free traveler's checks of $1,000 or more and free accidental death insurance of $100,000 when traveling on scheduled airlines, trains, buses and taxis.

In Florida, a haven for retirees, banks are vying for the older market with a return to old-fashioned free services. The state's largest bank, Barnett Banks of Florida, installed its senior partners program in five Florida counties. Among other benefits, the program offers free traveler's and cashier's checks, travel insurance and financial planning guide. A Barnett competitor, Southeast Bank, offers free checking, personalized checks, a 50 percent discount on safe-deposit box fees and 40 percent off the annual membership charge for MasterCard or Visa to customers over 55 who have a minimum savings deposit of $1,000.

Non-Financial Incentives

Other banks and thrifts have adopted marketing strategies geared to non-financial incentives. As part of a fund-raising campaign, Signal Hills Bank in St. Paul, Minn., donated $5,000 for peer counseling programs to the Dakota Area Referral and Transportation Center, a non-profit organization of senior citizens. The bank also prepares a column for the center's newsletter. The First State Bank of Rosemont, Minn., sponsors a bus for senior citizens.

In South Carolina, Citizens and National Bank of South Carolina, headquartered in Columbia, offered seniors a free copy of Hugh Downs' "The Best Years Book" and a drawing for a free trip to New York, Florida or Nassau.

American Savings' 55 and Better club gives free admission to New York City museums and discounts at restaurants, movies theaters, car rental agencies and lodging accommodations across the country.

Piggy Bank Profits Teach Dollar Sense

When it comes to educating children, money is a primary consideration. Sure, parents have to shell out mounds of the stuff to pay for their children's education. But money also is a major educational concern because children have to learn how to manage finances.

Parents must realize that children, as soon-to-be adults, will have money of their own someday. And whether they end up rich or poor, laborer or executive, married or single, they will have to know how to use it properly or suffer the consequences.

How do they learn?

"Children should not be taught, but given everyday experience in handling money," said Dr. Thomas Gordon, a clinical psychologist. "The main thing is to involve children, at a very early age, in having money and managing it themselves."

Sounds like the old allowance game. But that game has different rules depending on which expert's advice you decide to follow.

There basically are three methods of disbursing funds to children: doling out money upon request as needs arise, giving a regular salary allowance with few or no strings attached or giving an allowance tied to specific chores.

Some experts claim that tying money to housework, while it may teach money management, undermines the creation of domestic responsibility.

"I'm against paying children to take out the garbage," said Dr. Dorothy Hewes, professor of child development at San Diego State University. "They should happily help sustain the family."

"I like to think chores are the responsibility of every member of the family," Gordon said. "They should be divided up by group decision and everyone expected to pull his own weight because everyone enjoys the home and needs to maintain it."

Both Gordon and Hewes believe, however, that children can earn extra money for duties performed around the house above and beyond the usual tasks.

According to an article in The Christian Science Monitor, most experts agree with Hewes and Gordon that an allowance be given with no strings attached. Most parents, however, ignore the experts and tie the allowance to specific chores, the article said.

These parents liken chores at home to the real jobs their children will have later and apply the logic that if the job isn't done, there will be no paycheck.

And some experts agree with them.

"Some parents make the mistake of giving their children a spending allowance without expecting the children to do anything in return," said Dr. Robert Leone, director of the U.S. International University Psychological Clinics in San Diego. "A spending allowance may only give them the idea that money is always just going to come their way, that it will just fall into their laps. Well, that's not the way of the world. In the real world you do 'x' amount of work and you get 'x' amount of money in return," he said.

Regardless of how the money is parceled out, most experts agree that for a child to learn money management, parents have to let go of the purse strings and let the child spend the money any way he wishes.

Of course, when the amount of the allowance is decided upon, parents should stipulate how part of the allowance should be spent. The parent and child together should decide what the allowance covers and which expenses the parents will continue to pay for. For example, is the child expected to purchase his clothes out of the allowance? If Mark takes piano lessons, will that cost be included in his allowance? Is the price of a weekly roller skating trip or movie outing with friends to come out of the allowance?

When a child helps decide his allowance by listing his needs and ranking them in order of importance, he learns that income first should cover needs and that since money is limited, he'll have to save a portion of his allowance for any special purchases.

It is important, however, that a child not have to account for every expenditure. If parents tell their kids how to spend — or save — the entire allowance, it reduces the opportunity for the children to learn, Gordon said.

Children probably will use some of their allowance to buy flimsy toys and snacks. But they also will discover that if they really want to buy something special, they'll have to sacrifice snacks and save that money instead.

"I think children have to learn money management by letting them make mistakes," Hewes said. "If they buy a plastic truck and the wheels fall off, next time they'll probably look at the wheels before they buy. But, however they choose to spend their money, you have to respect their decisions," she said.

The inevitable question comes up — what do you do when the child blows her $5 allowance on video games and needs 25 cents to buy a folder for school?

Hewes said children should have two choices upon running out of cash — dip into savings or borrow from future allowances. That can help them learn the importance of saving and using money wisely. If they have to dig into their savings for a bicycle to pay for necessities like a folder, they may be more conscientious in their day-to-day spending.

Finally, many experts hold to the adage that actions speak louder than words.

"Children will follow the financial style of the family," Hewes said. "If the family talks about saving money, the children see that. Whatever the circumstances, they have to be able to say, 'This is the way we do things in my family. This is what my family believes in,' and resist peer pressure."

Buy By The Month And Enjoy Savings

How many times have you purchased something only to find it on sale the next month — or week?

If your purchase was a blouse or a toy, it probably was only a disappointment, not a devastating blow, to pay the higher price. But with major purchases such as cars, appliances, stereo equipment or home furnishings, waiting a month or two for a sale can make for a huge financial boon.

So how do you know when a sale will be? Everybody's Money magazine, a quarterly consumer magazine published by the Credit Union National Association, has figured it all out. Its staff monitored sales trends and developed the following bargain hunter's calendar.

It lists, month by month, products typically on sale. Of course, not every store in all areas will hold sales at the same time, but many follow the traditional sale cycle. Watch for newspaper ads and promotional fliers to identify local customs.

January. Appliances, books, carpet, china and glassware, furniture, furs, housewares, lingerie, resort wear, stereo equipment, shoes, post-Christmas sales on cards, gifts, toys.

February. Air conditioners, humidifiers, art supplies, draperies and curtains, furniture, housewares, lamps, stereo equipment, storm windows, used cars.

March. Boys' and girls' shoes, garden supplies, hosiery, housewares, infants' wear, laundry equipment, luggage, winter coats, winter sports equipment.

April. Painting and spring cleaning supplies, outdoor furniture, post-Easter clothing and fabric sales.

May. Handbags, linens, lingerie, sportswear, tires, television.

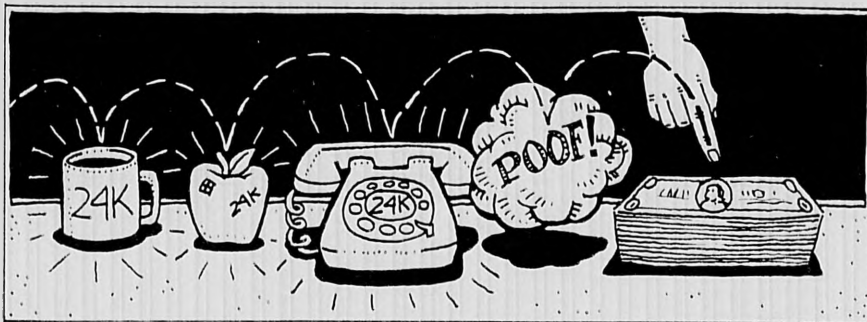

June. Bedding, fabric, frozen foods, lumber and building materials, sportswear, televisions.

July. Air conditioners, clothing, cologne and toiletries, handbags, home appliances, stereo equipment, summer sports equipment.

August. Carpeting and rugs, coats, fans, furniture, furs, gardening equipment, housewares, paints, tires, back-to-school specials.

September. Car batteries, cars, china and glassware, fabric, gardening equipment, hardware, housewares, lamps, paints.

October. Cars, china and glassware, fall/winter clothing, fishing equipment, lingerie and hosiery, silverware.

November. Blankets and quilts, appliances, lingerie, shoes, used cars, water heaters.

Revue For Ladies Makes Much Music!

A high-energy musical revue for ladies, Men In Motion, previews in the newly-renovated 400-seat disco-theater facility, the Palace nightclub (formerly Wings) in Saugus at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 8, with the official openings on Thursday and Friday, Jan. 9 and 10.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. with a pre-video show.

Directed by Richard Whiting and with staging and choreography by Richard Morrill, the 18-member company (four professional male exotic lead dancers, three male chorus dancers, a mistress of ceremonies, and a ten-member host and waiter staff) combine "an innocent naughtiness" and a sense of burlesque with a precise, Broadway-like musical production, laced with a video show.

Risque vignettes span everything from a futuristic Star Wars/Darth Vader number to a 1950's Leader of the Pack rock 'n roll number.

"This is not just another strip show," says Whiting. "This is a fully-scripted, slick, Broadway-like revue with a professional cast and crew."

"We're trying to create a fantasy environment for women beginning in the Palace parking lot right into the Men In Motion stage."

"It's also a kind of role-reversal situation where women have a chance to treat men like sex objects, within the context of a professional show."

Performances are at 8 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday at the Palace, 1500 Broadway, in Saugus, for the open-ended run. Tickets are available by calling the box office at 233-7400 or through Ticketron and Teletron.

Starlight Roof Shines With Jazz Stars

The January jazz lineup at the Starlight Roof, high atop Howard Johnson's Hotel in Kenmore Square, has something for everyone, from Moody to McPartland to Farmer.

The Inimitable James Moody returns to the Starlight Roof Jan. 16-18, accompanied by pianist Kirk Lightsey, drummer Terri Lynn Carrington, and bassist Whit Browne. Moody, who Bob Blumenthal of the Boston Phoenix describes as displaying a "venerable blend of concentrated instrumental virtuosity and offbeat commentary," has won a host of fans with his unique brand of humor.

About a recent Moody performance, the Oakland Tribune stated: "his superb evening dress belied the fact that Moody is a hilarious stand up comic, dropping bits of non-wisdom between tunes with such a straight face and rapid-fire word play that his verbalizations were sometimes as difficult to follow as his bop interpolations of jazz standards."

The great pianist/songwriter Marian McPartland makes her Starlight debut Jan. 23-25 with drummer Alan Dawson.

Currently with Concord Records, the internationally renowned jazz pianist has long been a staple of the elegant New York piano bar scene as well as a frequent guest on NBC's Today Show with host Gene Shalit.

Art Farmer and the James Williams Trio return Jan. 30 through Feb. 1. This highly respected and world famous jazz trumpet player recently received raves in the New Yorker in an article by Whitney Balliet.

From Feb. 6 to Feb. 8, the dynamic duo of Gene Bertoni and Michael Moore offer their unique musical subtlety as their sound spans jazz, Latin and classical forms.

On Wednesdays, the Starlight features the Jinny Conley Duo from 8 p.m. to midnight, and on Thursdays and Fridays, from 5 to 8 p.m., Vance Gilbert entertains.

Tickets are available in advance by calling Concertcharge at 497-1118. For other information, call 267-6059.

Tuna To Close

Unanimously acclaimed, Greater Tuna at the Charles Playhouse has been held over for the third and final time through Jan. 26.

Unfortunately, after a run of 17 weeks, Greater Tuna is forced to close its engagement due to prior commitments by the management of the Charles Playhouse.

The ingenious comedy was co-written by Joe Sears, Jaston Williams, and director Ed Howard, and features Ronn Carroll and Greg Currie, who portray twenty characters who live in the fictional town of Tuna, third smallest town in Texas.

Performances are at 8 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, 6 and 9 p.m. on Saturday, and 3 and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Tickets are available through Charge-Tix, 542-8511, or directly at the Charles Playhouse box office, 74 Warrenton st., Boston, Mass. Call 426-6912.

Pinter Comedy Opens In Boston

Harold Pinter's comedy of menace, The Birthday Party, opened this week as the third offering of the Huntington Theatre Company's 1985/86 season.

The Huntington production of this funny, frightening play, which has not been professionally produced in the Boston area for over a decade, marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the work's American premiere.

Under the direction of Ben Levit, The Birthday Party plays through February 2 at the Boston

The chigai-dana, recently restored for The White House by Rosine Green Associates, is admired by (left to right) Bert and Marilyn Krassin, and Anne and Dann Kosow, theater critic for Century Newspapers. The chigai-dana, a traditional Japanese shelving system, was presented to President James Buchanan in 1860 by the first Japanese delegation to come to the United States.

University Theatre, 264 Huntington ave., Boston.

An early classic of Pinter's, The Birthday Party is a provocative treatment of the destruction of one man's inner world.

The play tells the story of an unnerving impromptu "birthday party" for Stanley, a reclusive boarder at an English seaside guest house.

Pinter combines deceptively ordinary characters, superb imagery, and suppressed violence to capture the fragile absurdity of the human condition in this startling comic masterpiece.

Ben Levit makes his Huntington debut as director of The Birthday Party.

Mr. Levit is Director in Residence at Playwrights Horizons in New York and his regional credits include direction at the Mark Taper Forum, the Kennedy Center, the McCarter Theatre Company, the GeVa Theatre and Theatre by the Sea in Portsmouth, N.H.

Featured in the cast are Gary Sloan as Stanley, Gordon Chater as Goldberg, and Mary Louise Wilson as Meg. Also in the cast are James Greene as Pety, Pat McNamara as McCann, and Mary Beth Fisher as Lulu.

Performances are at 8 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, with 2 p.m. matinees on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. Call 266-3913.

WE'LL MANAGE!!!

If you own an apartment house, you will have hired a management firm to relieve you of the duties of collecting rents, arranging for maintenance and repairs, finding new tenants, and paying the bills.

If you rent a condo or a single or multi-family house, however, you have to assume these time-consuming burdens yourself. If you do not live in the neighborhood, you may find these tasks quite a chore at times

So let us manage! Our rental manager will manage small rental properties at very modest monthly costs. When you are leaving the area temporarily and wish to rent your own home, or are the proud owner of a profitable two or three-family property you wish to keep without retaining the hassles, call our management agent, Lois Ardito.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Service to Buyers

GETTING TOUGH

The nation's largest investor in home mortgages, the Federal National Mortgage Association is tightening requirements on its mortgages it will buy in hopes of curbing foreclosures. This may make it more difficult for home buyers, especially first-timers.

Lenders' requirements include higher income levels for buyers who put down less than 5 percent, a ban on adjustable mortgage interest rates, limits on buydowns, and a closer look at the accuracy of appraisals for loans.

What does this mean to the home seller? That some prospective buyers may not actually qualify for mortgages to purchase the property. The lender can answer your "For Sale" ad and be able to tell you the truth.

That's where you can count on us. We can ask tough personal questions, and get answers — so that you're not bothered with a "no" and a contract is with lenders can keep an arranging financing. The prospective buyer to your house is able and willing to buy.

Let us help you with your property, call with Century.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North Star Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 38-cal. rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some party punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 12 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backdrop at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over - from Maine to Rhode Island to New York but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Call Ron Horseson at 1-855-2102 for further information. 11/3 TF

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuild" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month, 6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Audi's or Audi's Limited Warranty at our Parts Department.

Students Join Vandal Search

By MAUREEN QUINN

Winchester High School students and teachers are digging into their own pockets to offer a $400 reward for information leading to the arrest of vandals who caused about $900 in damage to the school last week.

The reward is a joint effort by students and faculty to catch the unknown vandals.

Each class has donated $50 and the faculty fund matched the amount for a total of $400, according to school Principal Vincent Larocco.

Meanwhile, authorities are trying to determine whether the school's alarm system was working properly on Thursday, or whether it was even turned on.

The school custodian who discovered the damage reported that he turned off the alarm system when he entered the building at about 6:30 Friday morning.

Police report no evidence of the break was found during three regular night security checks.

Larocco said anyone with information is urged to contact school officials or the Winchester Police. He said all names will be kept in the "strictest confidence."

On Tuesday, Larocco said, "The kids are upset. The idea of a reward system shows that the kids are in control."

However, he said he expects it could be at least a week before anyone steps forward.

"I think it will be a while," he said, adding that students are mainly concerned now with the recent tragic deaths of school mates Paul Angello and Michael Wippermann.

Larocco said he was at odds to explain the vandalism, although he guessed that it was likely perpetrated by one person.

"From the way it was carried out, it would seem to me that it was only one or at the most two people. There were a lot of things that could have been done that weren't, which is why I think it was only one (vandal)."

According to police reports, the vandals entered the school late last Thursday night by smashing a window in the Home Economics room on the east side of the school, police said.

A total of 21 windows were smashed, costing the town approximately $800, according to Dominic Sytar, director of the Department of Public Works.

Expert: Youths Need Listeners

By MAUREEN QUINN

In the last month, Winchester students have had more than their share of turmoil and tragedy.

The problems can cause emotions to surface that doctors say are difficult but important to cope with.

Winchester psychologist Farokh Khajavi, of the New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham, said adolescents sometimes channel anger by acting violently, and that drugs or alcohol may be involved.

In the case of vandalism, said Khajavi, "The students are acting out of anger from experiences at home or societal pressures."

Khajavi said adolescents deal with their emotions differently from adults.

"When they have strong emotions, sometimes they can't identify them, they can't find solutions," he said.

Khajavi made suggestions for both students and adults when dealing with a person who is troubled or depressed.

First, he said, each person should assume responsibility for his own behavior by letting people know how he is troubled.

Second, friends should take notice if a classmate is depressed or in trouble and tell someone who can help.

And third, adults and school personnel, Khajavi emphasized, should be watchful of an adolescent's sudden change in behavior.

Board Hears Capital Plans

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester Selectmen on Monday heard the Capital Planning Committee's proposal for $25 million in projects to be completed within the next five years.

The projects range from Town Hall renovations to road repairs. They came from various town departments and committees in response to a request to project their capital projects for the next five years.

Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer and the Capital Planning Committee reviewed and evaluated 33 requests for 1987-91.

Of the $25 million in requests, $1,344,000 was for the 1987 fiscal year according to the committee.

By comparison, the committee reports, the funds requested for a five-year period in fiscal year 1986 totaled only $6,349,149. That included $1,128,065 for fiscal year 1986.

Still, said committee chairman Peter T. Van Aken, "The committee feels that the requests addressed genuine needs."

He said the group did suggest delaying action on some requests to conduct further study. The delayed request is for a police department computer system.

While all of the projects are important, said Van Aken, the committee felt that some could be delayed with less consequence than others.

Selectmen and the Finance Committee will continue to study the detailed report of the Capital Planning Committee.

It was a sign of things to come—as movers were on the job Friday at the town's new public safety building on Mount Vernon St. The Fire Department is moved in, while the Police Department expects to make its move in the next couple weeks. (Paul Drake Photo)

Teens Die In Car Crash

Alcohol, Speeding Involved

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester police have questioned an unidentified 21-year-old Woburn man who may have given alcohol to two Winchester teens who were later killed in a fiery Sunday morning crash on Main St.

Det. Lt. Joseph Perritano said late Wednesday that test results showed both youths had been drinking. Perritano said the driver, Paul Angello, 16, had a blood alcohol level of .15, while passenger Michael Wippermann's alcohol blood level was .10.

According to Perritano, a measurement of .10 is the point at which a person can be declared beyond the legal limit of intoxication.

Paul Angello

The two 16-year-old Winchester youths were killed early Sunday when the car in which they were riding slammed into a utility pole on Main St., about 200 yards from where another local teen was killed only four weeks ago.

The force of the crash threw the two teens into the air, and they landed on their heads. Both were wearing seat belts, according to police.

Winchester officers, Det. Lt. Fisher and Theodore V. Wippermann, who were first to arrive at the scene, extinguished a fire that broke out in the car.

The youths were pulled from the wreckage a few minutes after the crash. They were taken to the hospital, but they were pronounced dead.

In a separate incident, a 1984 Toyota parked near Main St. and the Mam St. intersection was struck and rear-ended by a car.

Police said the car was a white 1975 Chevrolet Camaro, which was said to

A Poem And A Tragedy

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester High School junior Mike Wippermann was so upset about the death of 14-year-old Robert Marshall on Dec. 22, that he wrote a poem about it.

On Sunday, just four weeks later, young Wippermann himself was killed in a tragic early morning car crash that also claimed the life of his best friend, Paul Angello.

The two 16-year-old classmates had shared a close friendship for most of their lives and were virtually inseparable, according to family members.

They had worked together at Winchester Hospital, just across from Angello's Fairmount St. home, and they spent much of their time together after school.

"It hasn't hit me yet. It just feels like he's sleeping over someone's house," said Wippermann's sister, Stacey O'Flaherty, on Monday at the family's Chapin St. home.

"He was like a best friend. He always told me everything," she said about her only sibling.

"I was the only one who knew about the poem. He brought me up in to his room to read it after Robby

Marshall was killed."

Marshall, a McCall Junior High student, died after being struck by a car on Main St., only about 200 yards from the spot where the two boys were killed Sunday morning.

"He was really depressed about that, because he was good friends with Larry Marshall, Robby's brother."

As she spoke, Antonette Wippermann, a small woman with dark hair, sat nearby at the edge of the couch, clearly exhausted and yet fighting to accept the loss of her son.

"He was a good boy. He wasn't an angel, no kids are. But he wasn't a trouble maker either," she said.

Occasionally dabbling her eyes with a Kleenex, she talked about what Mike had planned after graduation next year.

"He was talking lately about becoming a pilot and about joining the service when he got out of school. He wanted to do something like that. He was always interested in mechanical type things," she said.

Over at the Angello home, family members were also trying to piece together the senseless tragedy.

Later that night, Antonette remembers sitting up and looking at about midnight, when Robby

Tragedy Has Hit The Town Before

By MAUREEN QUINN

Winchester High School students packed funeral services yesterday for two of their own.

They came to pay tribute to Michael Wippermann and Paul Angello, both 16, who died in a fiery car crash early Sunday morning on Main St.

It was a scene with which many were already far too familiar.

Just four weeks ago, a 14-year-old McCall Junior High student, died after being struck by a car on Main St. A Winchester man was later arrested in connection with the accident, but the case is still being investigated.

Although this week is exam week, school officials have arranged for make-up exams for those attending the funerals.

It's a rough time for the kids to be going through all this, said principal Vincent Larocco.

It's a tragedy. Two young lives, just lost in a horrible accident," he

Hundreds Come To Mourn 'Regular Kids'

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester High School students gathered outside to talk about their two friends.

"Paul always had a good sense of humor," said Diane O'Connell, a 17-year-old senior. "He was always friendly."

Dawn Maccone, 16, who said she had once dated Mike Wippermann, agreed.

"They were both nice kids. They weren't troublemakers or bad kids. They were just regular kids," like us," said Maccone.

Student David Ward was in Wippermann's electronics class. He recalled him as being especially adept at mechanical type class.

LIBRARY NEWS

Library: A Selection Of Winners

The Winchester Public Library owns 10,000 books, yet it can be incredibly hard to find the "right" book at times. The library can help with the selection process in a number of ways.

The librarians on the staff read the entire book reviews and can suggest particular titles. The "Check Us Out" shelf in the lobby may yield an interesting title or two.

The library staff periodically produces bibliographies on topics of current interest, and volumes like "Literary and Library Prizes," "The Fiction Catalog," and "The List of Books" commemorate winners of various prizes. Over the years and give brief reviews and subject headings for fiction titles.

The Junior Library's special collections of award-winning books can make search for a special story even easier. The collections, located in the story hour room, contain copies of the winners of the John Newbery Medal and the Caldecott Medal for children's literature.

Both of these prizes, given out annually by the Association for Library Service to Children, were founded by Frederic G. Melcher, editor of "Picture Book Weekly" magazine.

Melcher was born in Malden, grew up in Newton, and got his first job with the F. and L. Lauriat Bookstore in Boston. Later, as editor of "Picture Book Weekly," his main concerns were the publishing of quality children's books, the establishment of library services for children, the dangers of censorship, and good bookmaking.

In 1922 Melcher established the John Newbery Medal to honor the year's most distinguished contribution to American literature for children. The award, a bronze medal, is named in honor of John Newbery, the 18th century London bookseller and publisher who first conceived of publishing books designed specifically for children.

The books given the Newbery award are of consistently high quality and many have become classics, including William Armstrong's "Saunders," "Caddie Woodlawn" by Carol Rice Brink, "Johnny Tremain," "Mrs. Frisley and the Rats of Nulim," "A Wrinkle in Time," "Island of the Blue Dolphins," and "The Witch of Blackbird Pond."

In 1964, the medal went to Robin McKimley's "The Hero and the Crown," and last year was awarded to popular author Beverly Cleary for "Dear Mr. Henshaw."

The Caldecott Medal was first awarded in 1938 and is presented each year to the illustrator of the most distinguished picture book for children. It was the first award established to give recognition to book illustrators rather than to authors.

The Caldecott Medal is named for the 19th century illustrator of children's books, Randolph Caldecott, who, with Kate Greenaway and Walter Crane, revolutionized the illustration of books for children.

The medal features a reproduction of Caldecott's illustration of John Gilpin on his famous ride, and the reverse shows the four and twenty black birds baked in a pie. There are several books illustrated by Caldecott in the Junior Library.

Among the winners of the Caldecott Medal are Robert McCloskey for "Make Way for Ducklings," Ludwig Bemelmans for "Madeline's Rescue," Maurice Sendak for "Where the Wild Things Are," Ezra Jack Keats for "The Snowy Day," and most recently, Alice and Martin Provensen for "The Glorious Flight," and Trina Schart Hyman for "St. George and the Dragon."

The Junior Library is circulating copies of all these books in its collection. The special collections which do not circulate, make it easy to look at any particular title or to examine the entire body of award-winning work.

The collection can be used to choose titles to borrow or to compare several alternative titles before purchasing a volume. It is also an interesting historical collection, tracing changes in children's literature, illustration styles, and book production techniques over the past 60 years.

Local Business Exhibits At Hub

A local business, Ventarama Skyline Corp., exhibited in the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen Assn.'s 22nd annual Convention and American East Building Materials Exposition. Donald Thrasher of Ventarama attended the largest gathering of lumber and building materials dealers in the Northeast, held in Boston Jan. 10-12.

Ventarama was among more than 100 firms that exhibited products and services, many developed over the past year and shown for the first time, for retail lumber and building materials dealers from all over the East Coast.

Major speakers at this year's convention were former President Jimmy Carter, ABC TV's "World News Tonight" anchorman Peter Jennings; Bill Gove, former sales development manager at 3M Company; Irving R. Levine, NBC-TV's chief economics correspondent.

The convention, traditionally the year's first and one of the region's largest, drew more than 12,000 retail lumber and building materials dealers from New England, New York and New Jersey.

Organized around the theme "Showcases of Opportunity — A Galaxy of Products," business sessions led by industry heavyweights during the three-day convention focused on the future of the housing construction industry.

The Northeastern Retail Lumbermen Assn. comprises more than 1,500 lumber and building materials dealers from throughout New England and New York. The NRLA is the largest organization of its kind in the industry and the size of its convention is second only to that of the National Association of Home Builders in attendance of business people directly involved in the housing construction industry.

REAL ESTATE TODAY

Ann Blackham C.R.B.

DEED — VERB OR NOUN?

Title to real estate, today, is transferred by a written legal document — a deed. This wasn't always so. The word "deed" in common usage, means the doing of an act. At one time the "deed" which transferred land was just that.

American real estate traces its roots to England, and there, several hundred years ago, title to land was transferred from seller to buyer after the two had walked the "metes and bounds" — or the property lines — of the real estate. Then, in the presence of witnesses, the seller threw a clod of dirt, striking the new owner! This symbolized the transfer. Later, the "deed" which closed the transfer came to be a bit less violent, such as handing a twig from the property to the new owner. Of course, the witnesses were necessary to insure there was proof of the transfer.

Transfer of real estate is far more sophisticated and complex now than it was in medieval England. No "deed" during that ancient time was ever held in escrow! Also, you can't get hit by a clod of dirt in today's market.

Band Trip Committee Reviews Fundraising Efforts

Fifteen members of the committee working to raise funds to send the Winchester High School Marching Band to the Gator Bowl next year praised the hard work of the band members who have participated in two fundraising projects. The accolades were given at a December meeting of the committee. Sandy Rogers, who is coordinating the efforts of this committee, reviewed the status of the fundraising.

Rogers is well known in Winchester for her efforts on behalf of several charitable town programs. She reported that there seems to be good support throughout the town for the band trip to the Gator Bowl, based on the successes of the first two projects the band has undertaken thus far this year: the sale of cheese and sausage and the sale of car raffle tickets by the members of the band.

John Hackett, who is advisor to the flag corps of the band, commented that the band students had been asked to be involved in two very demanding projects at almost the same time.

"I know there was no other way to schedule these projects to get around the overlap, and I think the students did one heck of a job working hard on each one of them."

The Committee unanimously supported Hackett in this evaluation. They stated that, in spite of some complaints about participating in the two projects, the students really rose to the challenge and came through.

In acknowledging the efforts of Dick and Loretta Pharo in managing the sale of cheese and sausage by the band, Rogers noted this project has many more dimensions than most people realize.

"Not only do they have to organize the efforts of the band students to sell the items, they must also select and deal with the various suppliers and then see to collecting and accounting for all the monies," Rogers noted.

"I watched them straighten out a chaotic situation the first day the students were to turn in their money. I saw how much work is involved. We all thank you for your hard efforts," she said.

Rogers also thanked David Mortenson for his role as coordinator for the car raffle sale. He was assisted in collecting the monies and tabulating the results in the project by Joyce Cummings.

"David not only negotiated for the car and then brought it to each of the home football games, he also arranged for the sale of the raffle tickets by the band and by other committee members," Rogers reported. "When we saw him filling out ticket stubs in the biting cold of the Thanksgiving Day game, we knew that was above and beyond the call of duty."

Mortenson reported that the winner of the car raffle was Vivian Benson, a Winchester resident. The winning ticket was drawn during the third quarter of the football game by Priscilla Miller, director of the band.

Charles Price once again this year assumed the responsibility of selling WHS band painters hats at the home football games. The hats were supplemented by red and black "shakers."

Dee Pedula, who is serving as treasurer for the fundraising activities, reported that about one-fourth of the band members have not yet submitted their individual payments for going on the trip. This is possibly because some of these people are not certain what their status with the band may be next year.

Rogers reported on the financial status of the campaign. Committee members commented that it has been a little difficult to arouse much enthusiasm among some of the band members, because the trip is so far in the future. Some people who were approached to buy items from band members also complained that the length of time until the actual trip is so long.

Rogers replied that it may seem like a long time between now and December 1986, when the trip to the Gator Bowl will occur. She said, "However, if we are going to raise the $120,000 needed to send these young people as representatives of the Town, we need to begin now to do it. We cannot wait until next year to start."

There will be several other fundraising activities, including some designed by the band members themselves. The committee is sponsoring a "pops type" concert by the band to be held on May 3, 1986, at the McCall Junior High School. This will be the largest single fundraiser the committee is planning. Martha Barry is chairing this project. She is looking for people who will help her with the many different jobs involved in making this event a success.

Priscilla Miller said the band would be prepared for such a concert with a program that would appeal to a broad spectrum of townspeople. "Now that football season is past, we can concentrate on concert music," Miller observed. "I know that when the students realize they will be presenting a very special concert, they will put forth the extra effort to make the program especially good."

Concerning the Gator Bowl trip, Miller said that installment payments must be made by certain dates to the company organizing the trip. The first payment has already been made.

The fundraising, including the payments by the students themselves, must take into consideration the necessity of making these payments by the deadlines established.

"We have been selected on the basis of our musical and field performances," Miller stated, "but we still must meet our financial obligations if the band is to go."

The committee will meet again in January.

Saltmarsh Recaps Legislative Year

"Going strictly by the numbers, the 1985 legislative session was more productive than 1984 - 753 bills enacted into law versus 493 - but my support for six month session is stronger than ever," commented Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh.

"Too many issues are put off until the twelfth hour, and shortening the length of the formal session would force more efficiency and productivity during the limited time available. A carry-over provision (from one year to the next) for bills that did not quite make the final stages would also save time and money."

The 1985 session did produce several important pieces of legislation, including a $1.9 billion transportation bond issue, revision of the workmen's compensation law, education reform, a comprehensive housing development program, and the controversial seat belt legislation.

The session will also be remembered as the year the legislature passed the largest tax cut ever - the repeal of the ten year old "temporary" income surtax. "As co-sponsor of bills to repeal the surtax for the past several years, I am most happy for the enormous public support on the issue this year," said Saltmarsh. "With a state surplus of $518.3 million from revenue growth, it would have been unconscionable not to return some of it to those who contributed it."

Saltmarsh mentioned that several other tax bills which he supported did not pass in 1985, and will be refiled for the 1986 session - the $20 million tax abatement for the elderly, 9 percent cost of living for veterans, and exemptions for unearned income.

However, a bill he co-sponsored to raise the estate tax exemption from the current $60,000 to $200,000 was signed into law. "It will bring Massachusetts more in line with the federal tax code, and be of benefit to those planning their estates for their children."

Senior citizens will also benefit from the passage of the law requiring pharmacists to dispense less costly generic drugs at all times, unless "no substitution" is written by the doctor on the prescription. "The savings for senior citizens in Massachusetts is estimated at $92 million," added Saltmarsh, and will be much higher for the population as a whole.

"On the local level, I am pleased with our budgetary effort to increase the amount of local aid, and Chapter 90 highway funds," he said. In addition, the 1985 Transportation Bond Issue will bring another $50,000 to the community for road resurfacing projects that they might otherwise not be able to afford, and provide additional funds for economic development and off street parking grants.

"Both of the communities I represent have benefitted from state grant monies, from downtown rehabilitation to energy grants, and I hope 1986 will see continued cooperation and success. I will certainly do my best to provide whatever assistance is necessary," added Saltmarsh.

"In conclusion, I extend best wishes to all my constituents for the New Year, and assure them that I look forward to reflecting their concerns and interests in the Massachusetts House during 1986," he said.

Deering Announces Candidacy

Robert F. Deering, 22 Kenwin rd., has announced his candidacy for the Board of Selectmen in this year's March contest.

In announcing his candidacy, Deering said, "The people of Winchester have a right to insist that those who manage the town do so objectively and professionally. I'm committed to doing just that."

Robert and Diana Deering are the parents of four children, three of whom are enrolled in the Winchester school system. As a Winchester resident, Robert Deering has been active in various town wide programs.

A Town Meeting member, he is also currently a member of the Leadership Committee for the Jenks Senior Center Expansion Fund. He is a past president of the Winchester Jaycees and has chaired many of their community projects.

Robert Deering

In 1983, he served on the Fire

Department Manpower Study Committee, which reviewed and determined staffing requirements for the Fire Department. He has been a soccer coach for the past four years, is active in the Muraco School Parents Assoc., has been involved in the Town Day Committee as Treasurer, and more recently as chairman of Town Day 1985.

"Involvement in town wide activities develops a sense of accomplishment and civic pride. The selectmen will be dealing with issues such as fair housing, Proposition 2 1/2, the Woburn Loop, and parking and tax classification. Issues such as these must be analyzed objectively by each board member. This is where I can be most effective, if elected to the Board in March," said Deering.

Deering earned his master's degree in business administration from Northeastern University. He is an electrical engineer with Stone and Webster Engineering Corp. of Boston and has been part of a management team for the past 10 years dealing with numerous multi-billion dollar projects.

In his professional capacity, he has been responsible for cost estimates, accountability for forecasting, proposing and monitoring budget expenditures. He has dealt with labor relations, personnel selection, training and evaluation.

Parent Aide Volunteers Sought

The Mystic Valley Parent Aide program, which serves Winchester, is a community effort to help solve a community problem. How can we best help parents who are so distressed or overwhelmed that they are unable to provide adequate care and nurturing or appropriate discipline for their children?

Experience in a number of Massachusetts communities, as well as communities across the country, has shown that troubled parents can be helped by providing them with a role model and a special friend—a volunteer Parent Aide who promises to "be there" for them at least once a week for a year.

With ongoing training and weekly supervision throughout the year, Parent Aides are able to build a relationship with a parent and accomplish what professionals alone often cannot do—teaching parents how to trust others, to feel better about themselves, to find some pleasure in life, and to function more effectively.

The outcome for parents is often the development of more appropriate and successful parent skills, restoration of confidence and increased coping skills needed to face the normal stresses of parenting.

An orientation will be held Monday, January 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Woburn Council of Social Concern. Anyone who has a few hours a week to spare, and a desire to be an emotional support to a parent in the community is encouraged to find out more about the Parent Aide Program by attending this orientation.

She'll Keep You In Stitches —

Winchester Woman Writes Jokes For Joan Rivers

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Ann Reid of Westley st. is a mild-mannered homemaker.

She has a baby son and her husband is a successful graphic designer.

She is a 23-hour-a-day mother; changing diapers, making meals and doing laundry.

But for one special hour — five minutes here, 10 minutes there — she is a creative genius.

No, she doesn't make handy little doodads out of yarn and household objects.

Instead, she cranks out one-line jokes, on everything from fashion trends to social gaffes, with endless flair.

She's even gotten the attention of comedienne Joan Rivers, who has accepted some of Reid's lines for night club and television acts.

For Reid, the glory lies in being the comedienne behind the scenes. She prefers, she says, to feed the comics lines instead of gather the applause.

The "stardom" is something that has come about only after years of prodding from friends and family who have been hearing her jokes.

"It wasn't until my 30th birthday was approaching that it dawned on me I have to do something of national significance in the artistic sense," Reid said.

"Every day I laugh with my husband, and every other day he'd say you know that's national-level humor," says Reid.

She recalls reading a quote last year which said people shouldn't waste their cleverness on writing letters to friends or entertaining at parties.

The suggestions, she says, really hit home.

"My thought process is sort of like a one-liner factory. In a sense, it's just the way I think. I'm sorry it never occurred to me much earlier to use this to my professional advantage, but I always took it for granted," she says.

For instance, she wrote 15 one-liners for Rivers in just two days. "I write them while I'm washing the dishes or feeding the baby. I write them on my feet."

She jokes, using the type of analogy that could easily wind up in one of her routines. "When you sit anyone down and tell them to do something, that's when they can't do it. It's like giving a urine specimen at the doctor's office — they say 'do it now' and you can't. You only have to go when you're in the middle of Bolyston st. in traffic."

A five-year Winchester resident, Reid grew up in Troy, N.Y., and graduated with a degree in creative

Ann Reid

(Paul Drake Photo)

"My thought process is sort of like a one-liner factory, in a sense it's just the way I think. I'm sorry it never occurred to me much earlier to use this to my professional advantage, but I always took it for granted."

writing from Emerson College.

"My father was somewhat Victorian in the loveliest sense of the word; he wasn't stern. I always had the feeling he only foresaw for me to be this dark-haired young lady sitting at the piano — when necessary. He loved that I was outspoken and he loved that I could put a worm on a hook when we went fishing," she smiles, sipping hot chocolate.

"He never put the burden of pinning a certain mold on me. He was hilarious. I think anyone who makes children, middle-aged and old people laugh, who can appeal to a crowd that large, is very funny," she said.

That's why, she said, she finally decided to send off her best lines to Rivers. Then she waited four long months for a reply.

"I wanted very much for Joan Rivers to buy one joke, because if she bought one joke, I'd feel I was really on my way."

It was four days before Reid's 30th birthday when the pink envelope arrived in the mail. Rivers had accepted three of Reid's 15 jokes.

Since that day, Reid doesn't know if Rivers has used the jokes on her regular stints on the Johnny Carson Show or in any of her nightclub acts.

"Actually, in the contract in the fine print, if I understand it, the jokes don't belong to me to deliver anymore. They are hers in every way, shape or form," Reid explains.

But she says that doesn't really bother her. "I just feel that everything about her (Rivers) should be honored because she's the one out there putting herself on the line. She's the one who has the guts to get up in front of millions of people and deliver it."

"I have the luxury of being a housewife and mother and sitting in my clothes that I don't want to leave the house in. I can just write them while I do anything else I want to do."

"I don't feel I carry myself or can deliver a line in any way she would. I don't need to transform myself into Rivers to write for her — we have enough in common in the sense of our humor — I'm not big on over-studying anything."

"I've never been a Joan Rivers groupie, I think the distance has been beneficial. She's not mean-spirited at all. I don't think there is anything bitter or hostile in her material, but it's sometimes perceived that way."

Reid says she thinks she is personally perceived as a shy, quiet person. Some people, she says, were surprised she could write material for a comedienne such as Joan Rivers.

"I am sweet and innocent," she says mischievously, "but I'm also naughty and rambunctious."

Overall, though, she maintains she is a wife and mother first.

As far as her writing, she says, "Well, I'm just a merchant selling my wares and I think it's wonderful. . ."

Winchesterite Ann Reid talks about her recent success in writing. Reid of Westley st. recently sold some jokes to famed comedienne.

COMMENT

Compiling A Do-Gooders List

By Terry Marotta

One of my favorite magazines, back in the old days, was the Reader's Digest.

The Reader's Digest was wonderful to leaf through then, portraying as it did a Norman Rockwell kind of world, more innocent than our own gutsy, graphic, hard-hitting one. It had all those pages devoted to jokes and puns and funny stories. It had the bland yet compelling accounts of a journey through the human body (I am Joe's Aorta).

Best of all though, the Reader's Digest had that sterling feature called My Most Memorable Character, the fond, not to say adoring sets of anecdotes about some celebrity—a Danny Kaye or an Ike in those years—by ones who admired him especially.

I used to spend a lot of time sitting around with the Reader's Digest and rocking on my porch—the 50's were that kind of decade—and I always thought about what I'd say if someone ever came up to me and asked for my own most memorable character.

As it happens, I keep a running list of candidates for this position in my head even today, a list of those I admire greatly, who embody some of the truly fine qualities it is possible to possess.

Here it is, without further ado. The '86 list, updated and with brief annotations:

—First, Fred Rogers, of Misterogers's Neighborhood, seen thrice daily on most public television stations throughout America. I loved Mr. Rogers 10 years ago when my first baby sat transfixed before him absorbing his soothing songs and gentle messages.

I love him today, when my last baby sits in the same spot. Sometimes I watch him when the baby's not even around. "It's hard isn't it, when you have to hurry all the time", he says in that slow Philadelphia twang. "Yes!" I want to scream back. "Yes, it's terrible, Mr. Rogers!"

You'll never go down the drain, you know," he purrs reassuringly in another vein. "You're special," he ends by telling us each time. I love him for all these messages of hope. The man is a saint. He puts on that sweater with a Zen-like deliberation at the start of each show, dons those sneakers with a mesmerizing calm.

To Mr. Rogers, then, for redeeming us from chaos each day, and saving the world, one person at a time.

Next, Koko the Talking Gorilla is one of my all-time favorite characters. She is the ape who has been trained to express herself in Ameslan, or American Sign Language, and has a vocabulary of over 500 words. They read to her in her special quarters out in California and they show her picture books.

One day she asked for a kitten. They gave her one, whom she petted and tickled and even tried nursing from time to time. She loved this little cat and named him All-Ball. When he met an untimely death somewhere outside her cage, she asked for a new kitty and set out to shower this one with the same gentle attentions.

To Koko then too, for daring to love one altogether different from herself; and for showing the great courage, in the face of loss, to begin again.

Last, the man in our local hardware store gets my vote as one deserving of praise and recognition. He solves my myriad problems—probes my power tools, psychoanalyzes my flashlights, and sells me three teensy screws at a penny apiece—all with great seriousness and courtesy.

I brought him a wiggling hand once, a battery-operated thing I'd seen advertised in a catalogue as a Halloween prop. Its wiggle was damaged, and he fixed it for me without once betraying by the lift of an eyebrow or the curl of a lip what he must have known, what everyone in America but me surely knew: that the thing was a prop, all right, but a prop of the kind sold by the People of the Plain Brown Wrapper.

To my hardware store man, finally, for his kindness, and his dignity, and his evident willingness to give people the benefit of the doubt. He means more to me than any luminary on the scale of an Ike or a Danny Kaye.

If it's memorable characters you're looking for, I could fix you up with a nice little list, then.

On the other hand, if it's a wiggling hand you're after, I can probably help you out there too.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Alexander: I Won't

Run Again

TO THE EDITOR:

I have served nine years on the Winchester School Committee. I do not plan to run for re-election.

There have been many changes in the school system during my tenure. We went from nine elementary schools to five, from two junior highs to one and from a three-year high school to a four-year one. We hired a new superintendent, as well as junior high and elementary school principals. And we created, and filled the positions of assistant superintendent of business and personnel and the assistant superintendent of curriculum. With the guidance of these professionals, we altered our curriculum and graduation requirements to meet the needs of the students of the '80s. Many of these decisions and others I have not mentioned were unpopular, none of them were easy.

Serving on the Winchester School Committee is very demanding. To run the first rate school system Winchester residents insist upon requires a considerable amount of time. It is also not a job for the timid or someone who frustrates easily. One must learn to listen to all sides of an issue, to do the homework and then to vote in the long term best interest of the town as a whole.

I want to thank those individuals who make up our school system, from the superintendent and the central office staff to the principals and teachers to the secretaries, custodians and food service workers. Our standards are very high in Winchester, and these are the people who work every day to maintain and improve the quality of education for our children.

I also want to thank my constituents for giving me the opportunity to serve on the school committee. More than give thanks, I also want to urge them to become involved, to volunteer their time to serve the town. As someone who has been there, I can tell you that you will gain more than you will give.

Sincerely,
Catherine S. Alexander

Family Commends Hospital Staff

TO THE EDITOR:

Recently it has been the sad fortune of our family to mark the passing of one of our own. Those days and moments of anticipation, uncertainty, hope, and reality are a test of any family, but a test, a burden made comprehensible and bearable by the technology and humanity pervasive of the new Intensive Care Unit at Winchester Hospital.

Perhaps a more appropriate name for this unit would be the I.C.U. for not only is the care intensive, but the wholehearted and heartfelt effort to comfort is intensive as well.

How easy it would be to clinical, antiseptic in feeling, businesslike in manner. Certainly it would be less risky and less emotional for the staff.

But life and death are emotions...personal and interpersonal...and lonely ultimately...unless warm, compassionate people make a commitment not just to medical technology but to human relations as well.

We'd like to publicly express our admiration to all those very humane beings associated with the I.C.U. at Winchester Hospital. Together you foster confidence, professionalism, and a feeling that life matters, even when it ebbs away, ebbs away. You have our gratitude as well.

Restauranters Extend Thanks

TO THE EDITOR:

We feel that it is a good time to acknowledge the Winchester community for its warm and hospitable greeting of the Diner Grille. The town of Winchester and its citizens have been quite kind to us and deserve to be thanked.

We are proud to have had the opportunity to participate in the annual Christmas Lighting Ceremony and to have been of support to the local churches. Similarly, we hope to continue our support of the Winton Club and the Winchester Sackmen.

It was an exciting fall season open ing Winchester's first fine restaurant including a large banquet and function facility. We anticipate an exciting spring and summer with Sunday buffet brunches, luncheon fashion shows and the reopening of our terrace in the warm weather.

Again, Winchester, we thank you for your warm welcome and look forward to serving you in the coming weeks.

Sincerely,

Resident Urges All: Get Involved

TO THE EDITOR:

It occurred to me, as I sat at the first board meeting of the year for the Winchester Youth Baseball/Softball organization, that there are such a large number of children involved in the program yet very few of us make decisions regarding scheduling, philosophy, equipment, budget...

If you are one of those parents or friends who sat at a game last year and said: "I wish the League was run this way..." or "I would do it differently if I was coaching..." this is your big chance to make constructive changes in the program.

My role on the board this year is limited to attending meetings (no more than six annually) and taking pictures of the kids. You can be active or as passive as your volunteer time schedule permits.

We all have different opinions about the running of an organization, but there is one thing we all agree on and that is the fact that sports should be a "positive" experience for kids. You can make that happen in Winchester this spring and summer for your sons and daughters, your grandchildren or your friends children.

The next meeting is scheduled for January 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Hall (next to Bonnell Ford). Please come and meet a slightly eccentric but delighted group of men and women, headed by Paul Capodanno, and share your ideas with us.

Sincerely,
Helen Poliak

To Robby and the Marshall family we love you! We would like to say goodbye in our own way. The Prodigal "Song By Amy Grant" We face the day again against the window pane We remain your closest friends and wish you back again You wonder how we feel you think you've pushed too far If only you could see this pen scribbling down our heart. We'll be waiting we may be young or old-grey Counting the days but we'll be waiting And when we finally see you come we'll run to see you We'll meet you, but still the days drag on Why did you decide to go? A Letter From The Norrises

As of December 31, 1985, the Norris Funeral Home has moved from One Elmwood Ave., Winchester, MA. 01890. We have sold the land and the building to the Winchester Cooperative Bank.

Our records will be kept in a nearby funeral home, of which Richard has become an associate, the telephone number will be the same as (Norrise) before, 729-0035.

We intend to honor all of our pre-arranged funeral agreements. We have contacted many of our friends who have made pre-arrangements with us. In each case the families have telephoned or written to us stating that they still plan to use our services.

We wish to thank all our families with whom we have done business over the past years for the confidence and trust they have placed in our firm. We have made many lasting friendships from our association with the people we have served, and we look forward to continuing those friendships in the years to come.

Reader Says Thanks For Information Note

TO THE EDITOR:

In reference to letter of Dr. John M. Travares, in The Star issue of December 19, 1985... I wish to thank him for his kind remarks and his excellent historical background of the history of Portuguese navigators in the exploration of the Americas.

There is no question that Pedro Alvares Cabral was the discoverer of Brazil and is one of many of his countrymen that opened up the unknown world to progress and civilization. What is interesting is that Vespucci was on the same boat with him.

On the question of the stamp, we had room for only four explorers who were associated with basically North America, especially the United States.

However, we are planning a memorial statue and building representing the discoverers and ex-

Reader Says Shuttle May Be The Key

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to respond to Mr. Borggaard's column of January 9. I am one of those "good people" who live close enough to town to be able to walk. In choosing this convenience, I have sacrificed yard and garden space which the "many more" of you enjoy. When I do walk to town, it is pleasant to see some open space and to know we are not a town of asphalt and congestion, a reason we all chose this town.

I, too, am concerned for the senior citizens, many of whom have no way to reach town at all. The town of Lexington has responded to this problem by providing a wonderful shuttle service for all its residents. This may be something for our town to consider so all can enjoy the downtown area and its beauty.

Patricia Cura

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Volume 12, Report No. 3

Massachusetts House and Senate

Seal Belts

January 18, 1986

The House and Senate. Opponents of the mandatory seat belt law passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Dukakis last year have filed the necessary signatures to insure that voters will decide the law's fate on the November statewide ballot.

A group spearheaded by WIKO Radio talk show host Jerry Williams filed thousands more than the required 30,754 signatures to force the binding referendum in the November election.

The ballot will include a question asking voters whether they approve of the new law and if a majority vote no, the law would be repealed in 30 days.

If a majority vote yes, the law remains on the books.

The law went into effect on January 1 and includes a $15 fine only if the vehicle is stopped for another traffic violation.

The law also calls for a non-binding advisory referendum on the November 1986 ballot.

Now that the binding referendum is also on the ballot, there is some talk of the legislature repealing the non-binding referendum to avoid voter confusion over two questions.

Supporters of the law say it will save lives, prevent injuries and lower auto insurance rates.

Opponents say it restricts personal freedom and choice and is another example of intrusion by government into people's lives.

Some opponents note that seat belts often cause injuries and deaths. The seat belt bill was one of the most heated and extensively debated issues in the legislature last year.

The guarantee that a repeal question will be on the November ballot insures it will continue to be a source of controversy in the next several months.

This week, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" reviews local representatives and senators' votes on several key roll calls on the seat belt controversy from the 1985 session.

House Version (H. 6128)—House 81-60, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate the original House version of the seat belt bill with non-binding referendum.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

Referendum (H. 6128)—House 80-59, approved the amendment requiring a non-binding referendum on the 1986 ballot asking voters whether they approve of the seat belt law.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Senate Version (S. 2490)—Senate 24-14, approved the original Senate version of the seat belt bill without any provision for a voter referendum.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes. Referendum (S. 2490)—Senate 27-11, rejected the amendment requiring that the proposed seat belt law be placed on the 1986 ballot and allowing the law to take effect only if voters approve it.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Kraus voted no.

Final Conference (H. 6491)—After the House and Senate approved different versions of the bill, a House-Senate conference committee reported out a new version which did not include a non-binding referendum.

The House 91-64, rejected this version and sent the bill back to conference.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted no.

Final Conference (H. 6491)—The new conference committee reported out a version of the bill which included a non-binding referendum.

The bill was passed by the House 85-66, the Senate 24-13 and was signed by the Governor.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted no.

Kraus voted yes.

The service will be held on Sunday, Jan. 26, at the Winchester Unitarian Church, at the corner of Main St. and Mystic Valley Pkwy., at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. Charles Reinhardt will conduct the worship service.

Begin Sales

It's the 1986 "Cookie Safari" and local Girl Scouts are on the hunt for cookie-hungry customers.

The 1986 cookie sale, with its "jungle adventure" theme, has begun. Thousands of Patriots' Trail Girl Scouts are selling cookies that will help them raise money for their troops as well as summer camp and wider opportunities.

"It's the best way for Girl Scouts to support program activities," said

Karen Schlorff, cookie manager in Winchester. "The money raised helps pay for field trips, troop camping, community service projects and social events."

The first of the seven varieties of cookies, $2 per box. For every box a girl sells, her troop receives 30 cents and she receives 10 cents that can be used to pay for summer camp or wider opportunities.

Girl Scouts will be taking orders Jan. 14 through Feb. 2. Cookies will be delivered the week of March 3.

For more information, call Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council at 867-1000 or Karen Schlorff at 729-6496.

Hopeful Hoopsters WHS Boys' Team Is Gaining Ground

By DAVID DEMARCO

Now, this is a successful team. Going into the second half of the season at 8-3, the Winchester High boys' basketball team has the honor of being one of the best clubs at the high school this winter.

On Jan. 14, the boys took one of their rare losses, as second-place Woburn High sent the Sachems reeling with a fourth quarter rush for a 72 to 57 score.

Winchester led 18-14 at the end of the first quarter. The second quarter saw the Sachems have a costly scoring slump, as they could grab only six points to the Tanners' 18, sending both teams in for a break at 32-24 Woburn.

The Sachems had the lead cut to five going into the fourth quarter, at which point Tanner guard Monte Bokvin stole the show. Bokvin, who led both teams with 21 points, took control of the game, allowing Woburn to score 25 points in the final 12 minutes.

The Woburn defensive zone was ineffective in shutting down the Sachem inside game. Still, steady David Delle Grotte was able to produce 15 points on the evening.

Sachem high scorer was big Hank Lynch with 16. Chris Verhaegen had a good night, putting away 12 points.

Don't worry Sachem fans; the rematch is February 13.

Friday night, Jan. 17, Winchester's hoop stars found the winning track, defeating Belmont 52-49. That game seemed to be a repeat of the season opener that saw the Sachems win by one point. This game, too, was scary.

Coming off two straight losses, one had to worry about the Sachem morale, especially facing Belmont superstar Steve Pollard.

The game was fairly even at half with Belmont up 26-25. The third quarter gave Sachem fans quite a scare, as Steve Pollard, who had 23 points on the night, gave the Sachems a 40-34 score. Winchester could only manage 9 points in the third quarter.

What happened to the Marauders in the fourth quarter we'll never know. Belmont was limited to 9 points in the fourth and every rebound was in the hands of a white Winchester jersey.

As Steve Pollard faded away, on came brilliant David Delle Grotte, whose performance gave the momentum to Winchester.

Delle led all Sachems with 14 points in the second and crucial half. Hank Lynch was steady with 13. Christoff Verhaegen put away 10. Mark "Goon" Shaw threw his two cents' worth in with 6 points for the evening.

The boys are in third place at 8-3 with Woburn and Wakefield ahead both at 7-3 and annual league leader Lexington on top at 9-1.

Today, Jan. 23, the Sachems will be involved in an important game with Wakefield High. Game time is 8:15 p.m. at Winchester. The Sachems defeated the Warriors previously, the second game of the season on Dec. 20. A lot, however, has happened since then.

On Saturday, Jan. 25, Melrose travels to Winchester for an 8:15 game. Melrose is in the middle of the pack at 6-4; however, the Red Raiders are one of only three teams to have given Winchester a loss this season.

This second and last match up of the year between these two teams should prove interesting.

Athletes Must Have Exams

All candidates for spring sports at Winchester High School must have a physical by their own physician in order to try out for spring sports, which begin Monday, March 17, 1986.

Proof of this examination must be given to the coach by the first day of practice.

If the candidate has had an examination after May 1, 1985, this will fulfill the necessary requirements.

Girls' Team Aims For A Big Break

By DAVID DEMARCO

This has to be a frustrating season for the girls' basketball team that went so far into the tournament just a year ago. The Winchester girls' team had two games last week and were soundly beaten in both.

On Tuesday, Jan. 14, rival Woburn High visited the Sachemettes and did a number on them. Woburn jumped out to a 12-6 first-quarter lead and never looked back.

The Tanagerettes held Winchester to a paltry 24 points by playing exceptional defense with a couple of big players. Woburn was led by Cheryl Macinanti with 14 points to her credit.

For the Sachemettes, the scoring leader was Mary Ellen Feeney who netted 8 points in a game which saw Winchester score only one basket the entire fourth quarter!

The Sachemettes found themselves 28 points behind at the final buzzer, as Woburn chalked up another victory (7-1) 52-24.

Things got worse for Winchester as the week rolled on. On Friday, Jan. 17, the Sachemettes traveled to Belmont High School. It seemed that after the seventh period, the hoop team was nailed, as Belmont pitched in a whopping 33 points.

Surprisingly, the Sachemettes had a good first quarter, being down by only two points 16-14. After that, it was an avalanche of Belmont baskets.

At half time, Belmont was up 34-19 and another Sachemette loss seemed expected. Diane Mankiewicz led Belmont with 18 points on the evening.

On the positive side for Winchester, the ever colorful Maureen Dokas had her best night of the season, as she grabbed 13 points.

almost half of the Sachemettes' grand total of 33.

The miserable week ended with Belmont way ahead 66-33.

The season has been a rough one and senior Julie Guarnotta is finding it difficult. "We have potential, we just haven't brought it out yet. We're really trying hard, and hopefully it will show the second half of the season," said Guarnotta.

Right now, Winchester is in ninth place at 1-9 with 9 games remaining. Only winless Stoneham is beneath them. Burlington is at the top of the pack at 10-1.

Tonight, Jan. 23, the Sachemettes face Wakefield at Wakefield, beginning at 8:15. They face Melrose at Melrose on Saturday afternoon.

Swimmers Are Undefeated

Winchester's boys swim team remains undefeated after the Jan. 11 meet with Melrose which they won 46-30.

The Sachems displayed great talent and power that Saturday, by overpowering undefeated Melrose. The young Indian team demonstrated strength, and depth of talent.

Melrose, even with its nationally ranked swimmers, could not overcome the 16 point deficit.

Nine of the Sachems have qualified for the sectional meet.

Freshman John Murray has qualified in the 200-yard freestyle, 500-yard freestyle, the 100 yard breast stroke and 200-yard individual medley.

Sophomore TJ Foley has qualified in the 500-yard freestyle, 200-yard freestyle the 100-yard breast stroke and the 200-yard individual medley. Sophomore Mike Bowers qualified in the 200-yard individual medley, 500 yard freestyle, 100 yard butterfly and 100 yard back stroke.

Sophomore Omar Ali qualified in the 50 and 100 yard freestyles.

Sophomore Adam Laits qualified in the 500 yard freestyle.

Sachem Wrestlers Pin Down Victories

By WHITNEY GAY

Special To The Star

On Saturday Jan. 18, Winchester High wrestlers paced two teams at Waltham High School. In both matches, WHS was the victor: 45 to 24 over Boston Latin; 48 to 17 over Waltham.

The opening match was against non-league rival Boston Latin. The wrestling Sachems methodically went to work, as Bill Murphy opened with a quick pin.

Mike Hall decked his man in the third. Falcione followed by showing his man the lights early in his weight class.

Alex Puchulu had the closest match of the day, edging out his man 11-9. Mark Horton continued his winning ways with a technical fall. Scott Racek tallied a pin over his Boston Latin opponent. Winchester was relaxed, yet prepared for the tough Waltham Team which was also prepared.

The second match of the day began before an enthusiastic bipartisan crowd, whose anticipation has reached a frenzied pitch in the capacity-crowd Waltham gym.

Bill Murphy came through with a first period pin to give Winchester the opening points. Greg Doherty was tied at 11 points per man, with a last minute take down. Mike Hall got caught and pinned by Waltham's Mourelli in an uncharacteristic loss.

Jim Selvitelli lost a competitive bout 12-5 putting Waltham in the lead. Alex Puchulu, Winchester's co-captain, fought a technical fall by drubbing his man 20-5. Mark Bartman, a veteran, was leading his man 5-0 when he found himself reversed and pinned to give Waltham the lead again, 17-14.

Co-captain Mercado flashed his best wrestling form to decisively pin his man. As a captain does, Mercado sparked his team and shifted the momentum.

Steve Rodrique also pinned Waltham within the first two minutes. Inspired, Scott Racek found the pinning combination for the second time Saturday and clamped third period pin on the Walthamite. Tim Mac-Dougall experienced the winning end of a third period pin.

The exciting Ed Pigott accentuated the onslaught by a major decision, winning 20-9 at 187. Big Dave Carter got back into the win column with a quick 30 second pin over Waltham's heavyweight, capping a 48-17 comeback victory for Winchester.

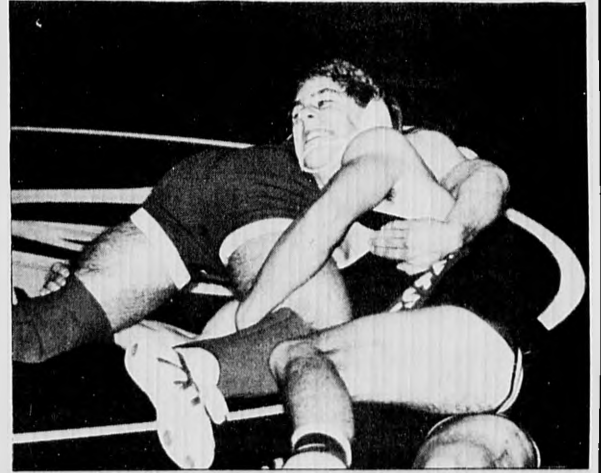

With another big victory over a strong opponent coach Larry Tremblay can take a deep breath and relax for a few days.

"We have to prepare for the competitive Melbuen tournament this Jan. 25 weekend and be aware of our match with the omnipresent Woburn Team, upcoming."

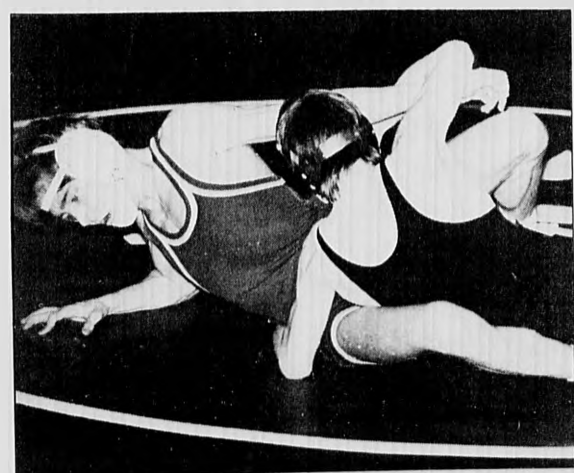

Assistant Ted Neill pointed out, "In all of our 13 victories this season, we have scored 40 points or more."

On Jan. 15, the wrestling Sachems entered into the Wakefield match expecting to go to the wire against the Boston Globe's pick for the Middlesex League champion.

The atmosphere was tense, expect-tations high and the aura of an all-out bout, set the tone for the match.

Winchester's Bill Murphy opened the match with a quick take down against Wakefield's Jim Gerrior. Murphy wrestled well, closing in on a first period fall which took all but seven seconds of the first period.

Greg Doherty went up against a very competitive Eric Muellemann of Wakefield. Doherty opened the scoring with a take down. However, as the match was winding down, in the third period, Doherty found himself behind. With only 11 seconds left in the match, Doherty worked his way into a reversal, gaining two points and a big win.

With the momentum clearly on the Sachem's side, Winchester's aggressive Mike Hall set out to wrestle a controlled match, scoring in all three periods to shut his man down with a 9-2 victory.

Jim Selveti, a Sachem anchor man, locked horns with a usually tough Mike Taylor of Wakefield. Selveti took charge from the first period take down and showed Taylor the lights before the third period ended.

Mark Bortman wrestled a very close match, gaining two points a period to outdistance Mike Warhol 6-0. Bortman was never in trouble, as he maintained an edge throughout.

Alex Puchulu took on Pat Conway of Wakefield scoring points at will but unable to put Conway away. Puchulu gained a major decision putting the Sachems into a commanding 28-0 lead.

Steve Rodriguez, a Sachem competitor added to the team tally with a decision.

Sachem Anthony Mercado ran into a Wakefield ironman, Jim Lombardi, who won a major decision over the Red and Black co-captain. These were the first points given up by the Winchester team.

With the score standing at 36-6 in favor of the Sachems, Scott Racek tallied another win. Racek could not put his man away, as he scored an 8-0 victory over Rob Nardone.

Aggressively, Tim MacDougall took to the mats, scoring first and planning an early fall over Dave Nardone. A quick reversal, however, caught MacDougall in a pinning combination.

Ed Pigott put six quick points on the board for the home team as a decisive first period pin over the stunned Wakefield Warriors.

Again, the exclamation point was executed by Winchester's big heavyweight Dave Carter. He dominated Tony Lisitano gaining a fall and six points to punctuate a 4-12 victory.

This weekend, Winchester goes against teams in the Methuen Invitational in Methuen on Jan. 25.

The Line Up

A Winning Stride

WHS Hockey Team Loses Two

By DAVID DEMARCO

Once again, the Sachem hockey team did not receive a stroke of luck, as they remain winless after last week's contests.

Winchester was beaten by Belmont on Friday, Jan. 17, 7-2, and they lost to Woburn High on Jan. 15, 6-2.

For the year, Winchester is averaging less than one goal per contest. Their opponents, however, are netting an average of 5.3 goals per game against them.

Against Woburn on Jan. 15, it seemed as though Winchester may have been ready to upset the Tanners as first period goals by Chris Giso and Scott Donaghey gave the Sachems a 2-1 lead at the end of the first 15 minutes.

The Sachems' bad luck returned, however, for the second period, as a superior Woburn team blasted 11 shots on Sachem goalie Jim Chute, scoring on four of them.

That was all the Tanners needed. But, in the third period they scored one more for insurance, and by that time, the Sachems were far out of it.

Winchester unfortunately doesn't seem to be able to keep up with the stronger teams like Reading, Belmont and Woburn. The Sachems could muster only 19 shots during the entire game against Woburn.

Right now, the Sachems are in tenth place. Their rematch with Lexington is set for Feb. 12 and is their only real chance for a victory.

There are only eight games left in this rough season. The Sachems have a chance of winning two. They'll play Stoneham Feb. 8; and on Saturday, Jan. 25, Melrose will face off against the Sachems at Woburn with a 6 p.m. start. Melrose is coming in at 4-6, and if Winchester plays well, they may have a chance at an upset.

Seniors Official Backs Exercise

Elder Affairs Secretary Richard H. Rowland has encouraged elders to continue getting physical exercise. "It is important to get a sufficient amount of exercise in order to stay healthy. People who are physically inactive are risking their physical well-being; they can become prone to such ailments as heart disease, osteoporosis (a bone-thinning disease), and intermittent claudication."

Intermittent claudication, otherwise known as the "Stop and Rest" syndrome causes cramp-like pains and weaknesses in the legs, forcing the person to stop and briefly rest. The main causes for this lack of oxygen is cigarette smoking, being overweight, consuming fatty food, and the general lack of exercise. "If relatively short walks cause severe muscle cramps," said

Volunteers Sought For Youth Sports

Volunteers are urgently needed to help organize, formulate and oversee the baseball and softball spring programs for Winchester boys and girls.

For the past few years it has become evident that the same group of individuals has been shouldering the responsibility for keeping these programs afloat.

Considering that some of these individuals no longer have children in the program, Winchester children are indeed fortunate to have their continued service.

However, these individuals need help to insure the future strength and viability of the baseball and softball programs.

It is hoped that registration for this spring will take place in late February. However, much depends on the number of individuals who come forth to volunteer their help as organizers, coaches, assistants, scorers or general helpers.

Volunteers need not know a lot about baseball and/or softball; nor should they worry if their job demands require them to be out of town from time to time. Whatever time or talent they have can be utilized by the Winchester Youth Baseball and Softball Club to provide a program which will benefit all the children of Winchester as well as their own. This goes for Moms as well as Dads.

Please come forward and help. We are all busy, but the more volunteers we have, the easier it will be for all of us to produce a first rate program.

If you think you might be able to help in any way, please contact the following people: For the boys baseball program: Paul Capodanno 729-5721 or Dan Serieka 729-4572; For the girls softball program: Sue Taylor 729-2512 or Elaine Sacco 729-8282.

The Massachusetts Olympics is the new beneficiary charity of the seventh annual Boston Five Classic Ladies Professional Golf Tournament. Celebrating the announcements are, from left, former Boston Bruin, Ken Hodge, Lynnfield, Executive Director of the Mass. Special Olympics; Francis P. Kelley, Canton, president of the Mass. Special Olympics and Superintendent of Wrentham State School; Sharon Dirksen, age 10, Newton, Special Olympian; Robert J. Spiller, Chairman of the Board, Boston Five Cents Savings Bank and tournament chairman; and professional golfer Donna Caponi, former winner of the Boston Five Classic and member of the LPGA's Million Dollar Club.

CLUB NOTES

Twins' Moms Will Meet

The North Suburban Mothers of Twins, which includes Winchester residents, will hold its next monthly meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 7:45 p.m., at the First Baptist Church, corner of Lafayette and Common sts., Wakefield.

This month, husbands are invited to the meeting and encouraged to be hypnotized by scheduled guest Jerry LeFabbry, hypnotist.

Mothers or grandmothers of twins from any of the surrounding North Suburban cities are invited to join the fun.

For further information about the club, contact Mrs. Leah Korba, P.O. Box 201, Wakefield, Mass. 01880.

Local Woman Heads NOW

Jean Herbert of Winchester was re-elected secretary for the Boston Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) at its December 18th Annual Business Meeting. Herbert will serve her second one-year term, effective immediately, in the organization which has 1,600 members in the Greater Boston area.

Herbert has been a NOW member since 1980. In addition to her unpaid NOW office, she works full time.

Last year, Boston NOW experienced tremendous growth in membership, visibility and overall activism. "Attacks on women's rights by the right wing, particularly in the area of reproductive freedom, have brought many new activists into the chapter. The more the Reagan Administration threatens women's survival and well-being, the more people join NOW," said Herbert.

Boston NOW is organizing buses to take 2,000 activists to the D.C. march. "A substantial Massachusetts delegation at the march is crucial, particularly in the face of a proposed anti-abortion amendment to our state constitution," said Herbert.

Herbert described NOW as a multi-issue, political action organization for women's rights, which works primarily on the issues of reproductive rights, economic equity, combating racism, and lesbian and gay rights.

All are invited to attend Boston NOW's open house which is held the first Wednesday of each month to acquaint interested people with NOW's activities. The open house is held in the NOW office, 99 Bishop Allen dr., Cambridge.

Club Holds Annual Supper

Dr. Nanne O. Keohane, president of Wellesley College, was the guest of the Winchester Wellesley Club at its recent annual pot luck supper at the home of Susan Vrolos. Keohane joined alumnae of the college, husbands and area applicants to the college for a social hour and dinner and spoke informally about Wellesley.

According to Keohane, one of the most exciting developments is an opportunity for freshmen to live with a group of students and faculty while studying a selected time period in an interdisciplinary approach.

Half of the "cluster" members' academic workload is within the group during their freshman year. Follow-up indicates that the students benefit from the increased small group contact, both academically and in developing confidence in their roles at the college.

Infant Saviour Guild To Meet

The Winchester Chapter of the Guild of the Infant Saviour will hold its first social of the new year with a Snowflake Dessert Bridge and Whist Party on Wednesday, Jan. 29, at Gifford Hall of the Crawford Memorial Church, 34 Dix st.

Mrs. Jeremiah J. McCarron is chairperson and will be assisted by Mrs. C. Philip O'Rourke and the following committee: Mrs. Frederick Brigham, Miss Phyllis Callahan, Miss Victoria Capone, Mrs. Edward Connors, Mrs. Frederick Connor, Mrs. Charles Cook, Mrs. Lionel Curtin, Miss Mary Dalton, Mrs. John Flaherty, Mrs. Newell Hare, Mrs. James Hayes, Mrs. William Hogan, Mrs. Edward James, Miss Esther Lydon, Mrs. James F. Mawn, Mrs. George W. McCarthy, Miss Claire McLaughlin, Miss Mary McLaughlin, Mrs. Raymond Murphy, Mrs. Matthew Noonan, Miss Helen Louise Noone, Miss Mary O'Connor, Mrs. Frederick Patton, Mrs. Martin Titilash, Miss Alice Tully, Mrs. William Wadden and Miss Elizabeth Walsh.

Communication Group Meets

Five Winchester Club members are practicing and polishing their 5 to Marylyce Norris, Winton Cabaret Chairman, left, Jan Duffy and Harriet Nasson, costume cochairmen, make decisions on costumes for the 1986 Winton Club Cabaret which begins on Monday.

8 minute speeches (developed from one word) for their performance as speech contestants at the 38th Annual Speech Contest of Winchester Club, ITC, to be held on Monday, Jan. 27, at the Winchester Public Library, 80 Washington st., at 7 p.m.

Carol Johnson of Melrose, Bernice Darish of Malden, Dorothy Craig of Medford, Beverly Malatesta of Watertown, and Pauline Macaris of Chelmsford are the star contestants of this annual event.

Gail Connor of Malden, program leader, will introduce each speaker and the many other participants who make the whole meeting a success and fun for everyone. June Pietrantoni of Medford, speech contest chairman, and her committee have planned this occasion. The speakers will be judged by members of Boston area clubs.

An audience is the most important part of a speech contest and these five Winchester Club contestants and members welcome guests and friends to attend. For further information, call Carol Johnson at 665-1796.

Women Voters Plan Brunch

The League of Women Voters' Winchester Brainstorm Brunch will be held on Jan. 26, at 11:30 a.m., at the home of Jude Muggia, 14 Dartmouth st.

The featured speaker at this year's brunch will be Joan Quinlan, governor's advisor on Women's Issues. She is one of about three people working on women's issues across the country who has senior level status in a governor's office.

Her role as advisor ensures that issues that impact women in the Commonwealth are brought to the attention of the governor. Issues in which she has been involved include pay equity, pregnancy, and parenting teens.

As a former director of "9 to 5," the organization for women office workers, and through her involvement with the labor movement, she knows the issues important to women. Policies are being developed by the Dukakis administration through the Office on Women's Issues with a prime focus on the economic needs of women so that they can become self sufficient.

The Brainstorm Brunch is the league's annual all-member program-planning meeting. In addition to the informative speaker, the afternoon will include a pot luck brunch and an opportunity to exchange ideas and consider future projects.

All league members and guests are invited to attend.

Winton Cabaret Begins Monday

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. next Monday, Jan. 27, for the opening performance of Winton Club's 1986 Cabaret "Celebrate."

The cast of over 100 performers, from Winchester and 21 other communities, has been rehearsing since Jan. 8 to make this 65th Winton Club Cabaret a not-to-be-missed experience in music theater.

The Town Hall auditorium has been busy day and night and over weekends as curtains are hung, a marquee erected, sets built, scenery flats constructed, designed and painted, and costumes fitted.

Cabaret audiences will recognize many returning veterans and some very talented newcomers in the all-volunteer cast of "Celebrate."

Aline Hebert of Jamaica Plain returns to sing "Don't Cry Out Loud" and Phyllis Cree portrays "The Laziest Gal in Town."

Two Winchester men, John Culver and Wally Gagel, team up to sing "Brush Up Your Shakespeare," providing a lead-in for selections from "Camelot," with Paul Rahneier as Arthur, Amy Anderson Culver as Guinevere and Michael Behnke as Lancelot.

Newcomers to the cast this year are a talented group including Patricia Clark of Arlington, who will sing "Anything Goes" and Brenda Flood performing "Tonight I Celebrate My Love."

"Yellow Rose of Texas" will feature a husband and wife team from Waltham, Katy and Dave Jones.

All are working feverishly this week to put the final touches on their performances as rehearsals dwindle down to a precious few.

The traditional 16-member drill team, all members of the Winton Club, practices separately from the rest of the cast, four mornings a week under the watchful eyes of drill coordinator Mrs. Warren J. Taylor and director Chris Brown. The theme of the Winton Club drill is a closely-held secret but its close-formation precision routine is an always popular number in the show.

"Celebrate" will open on Monday, Jan. 27, at the Winchester Town Hall and play each night through Saturday, Feb. 1. Tickets may be purchased by calling Mrs. Albert F. Kennedy at 729-5841. All proceeds from the show will benefit Winchester Hospital.

Democrats Plan Caucus

Registered Democrats in Winchester will be holding a caucus on Saturday, Feb. 8, 1986, at 2 p.m., to elect delegates to the 1986 Massachusetts Democratic Convention. The Convention will be held in Springfield on May 17, 1986.

Winchester will be electing 14 delegates and 2 alternates equally divided between men and women to send to the convention. The apportioned number of delegates has been allocated on the basis of a formula giving equal weight to the Democratic Party registration and the average vote for Democratic candidates in the last general elections for governor and president for which figures were available at the time delegate tabulations were prepared.

Paul F. Kelly, chairman of the Winchester Democratic Town Committee will call the caucus at the Winchester High School Auditorium. The caucus is open to all registered Democrats, persons ineligible to register and media representatives. The only persons eligible to participate in any portion of the caucus are those who are registered Democrats in the town, as of December 30, 1985. There will be no absentee or proxy voting.

At 1:30 p.m., prior to the caucus itself, the Winchester Democratic Town Committee will hold an educational forum in the high school auditorium. The election process will be explained and questions will be answered.

Candidates for delegate and alternate must also be present and give his or her written consent to be nominated and that nomination must be seconded.

All ballots will be written and secret. Those candidates receiving the greatest number of votes on the first ballot will be elected.

Each candidate will be allowed to make a two-minute speech and to distribute on his/her behalf one sheet of paper listing qualifications and ideas.

State-making is allowed, but no special preference shall be given to states. There is no quorum requirement for the caucus.

There will be no admission or expense charge at the caucus, although donations may be solicited.

Discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, ethnic identity, philosophical persuasion or economic status in the conduct of the caucus is strictly prohibited.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed in writing with the Compliance Review Commission, c/o The Massachusetts Democratic State Committee, 11 Beacon st., Suite 426, Boston, Mass. 02108, no later than Feb. 10, 1986.

Professional Women To Meet

The Winchester Chapter of Commerce invites any professional women and women in business to a dinner meeting on Jan. 30 at the Dover Grille at 6:30 p.m. Speaker for this evening will be Jane Robbins who will speak about "Marketing Communications for Retail and Professional Businesses."

Jane Robbins is president of the Bostlego Corp., analysts and consultants to the petroleum industry worldwide. Prior to starting the Bostlego Corp., Robbins worked for 10 years as a manager and consultant in publishing and corporate communications with an emphasis on marketing and corporate image.

This group is designed for women who live or work in Winchester and would like to meet others who have similar interests and concerns. Special programs are planned each month that are of interest to the working woman.

Please call the Chamber office for more information or to make reservations.

Lynch School Celebrates Poetry

Local poet Moira Ounjian read several of her poems to the fifth and sixth graders at Lynch Elementary School recently to help them celebrate their school-wide poetry month.

She defined a poet to them as a miserly and stingy user of words, and stressed that poets write and rewrite each poem many times before it is finished. She talked about the ideas behind poems and the students learned many of her own reasons for writing poetry.

Ounjian answered questions from the students and left them with suggestions about how they could write poetry of their own.

Poet Moira Ounjian visits Lynch School to share her thoughts with youngsters.

SENIOR SCENE

Jenks Plans Feb. 5 Concert

A concert in memory of Carol A. Mawdsley will be given by pianist Alice Wilkinson at the Jenks Center on Wednesday, Feb. 5 at 2 p.m. The concert will be open to the public and will be followed by a reception. Carol Mawdsley, a long-time resident of Winchester, was editor of the Jenks Center monthly newsletter for eight years. She contributed significantly to the growth of the Center during its early years. In addition to her editorial work, she was an accomplished pianist having received training from Alice Wilkinson.

Mrs. Wilkinson, formerly of Winchester and now residing in Wellesley, graduated from Juilliard School at New York. She is presently a teacher at the Longy School of Music of Cambridge.

All are welcome to attend the concert.

Tax Aid Is Offered

Jenks Center offers assistance to seniors on the preparation of federal and state income tax forms. Trained personnel will be available beginning Feb. 4 and ending on April 3, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:15 to 11 a.m. No appointment is required.

Persons desiring this service should bring a copy of their 1984 tax returns, all forms needed for the 1985 returns and all personal records required for completing the 1985 returns.

Seniors unable to leave their home may call Byron Peterson, Jenks Tax Assistance Committee chairman, at 729-5228, to arrange for a home visit.

Bingo Game Is Jan. 31

The monthly bingo game at the Jenks Center is set for Friday, Jan. 31, starting at 1:15 p.m. All seniors are welcome.

Kids, Seniors Get Together

A new intergenerational program between Jenks Center seniors and Lynch Elementary School fifth and sixth grade students is being planned. Scheduled for March through May, a student will have a pen-pal relationship with a "Grandpal," a senior citizen.

Each will have an opportunity to learn from each other and to develop new friendships by exchanging letters. A get-together either at Jenks Center or at the Lynch School will also be held.

Maura Albert, Vicki Caviechi and Mike Marino of the Lynch School and Barbara Ciampa, administrator at the Jenks Center, will be coordinating this latest community effort to narrow the age gap by sharing experiences.

Interested seniors should sign up at the center.

Medicines Can Be Exempt

Elder Affairs Secretary Richard H. Rowland recently announced that over-the-counter medicines such as aspirin and cold remedies are now exempt from the state sales tax when prescribed by registered physicians.

"The ruling promotes a policy consistent with the belief that people should not be taxed on required medication," said Rowland.

Secretary Rowland lauded Revenue Commissioner Ira Jackson's ruling exempting prescribed over-the-counter medicines from taxation and so benefitting the Commonwealth's elders, who are the major consumers of such medications.

For more information, contact the Massachusetts Department of Revenue, 727-4256.

Booklet Focuses On Security

A crime-prevention guide for Older Americans was recently introduced by Middlesex County District Attorney Scott Harshbarger.

The 30-page booklet, entitled "Security at Home and Away: A Guide for Older Americans," provides various tips about crime prevention at home and when traveling, as well as consumer crimes.

Harshbarger emphasized that many crimes committed against the elderly are preventable. "The key to protecting older Americans from being victimized by criminals who prey on them because of their age is educating them about simple steps which can be taken. This guide is an effort in that direction," he said.

Aberjona Nursing Home in Winchester.

The Conference, entitled "Working Together," was organized by the Task Force on Community Nursing Home Linkages out of Minuteman Home Care Corporation.

It aimed to bring together family members, home care providers, nursing home workers, day care staff and others involved in caring for people with Alzheimer's and similar diseases.

Dr. Katherine Hesse, coordinator of geriatric services at Mount Auburn Hospital, stressed the importance of obtaining a complete medical diagnosis.

"Forgetfulness is not normal aging," she said. "It can indicate a number of problems including poor nutrition, depression, medication interaction or a dementing illness of the Alzheimer's type."

Barbara Murphy of Arlington, who has cared for her mother for several years, spoke about the strains placed on a family caring for someone with dementia.

"I haven't had a vacation in years," she noted.

"Until very recently, there were few respite services available to let a caretaker have a long enough break." She also stressed the essential role of humor. "Sometimes you just need to sit with the patient and have a good, long laugh," said Murphy.

Paul McCarty, director of a specialized day care program for Alzheimer's patients, told the gathering about his career.

"If a family can't get their relative dressed in the morning, they can send them to the Center in a robe and we will dress them here," he said.

McCarty added that two or three days of day care each week can give family members the opportunity to rest and run necessary errands.

Judith Overdort, home care director of Minuteman Home Care Corporation, spoke about respite services available to primary caregivers.

Working within an annual cap of $3500, a range of services can be arranged, including companions, home health aides, day care or short term institutional placement.

Conference attendees met in small groups consisting of people from various disciplines and backgrounds.

An aide who works in a local nursing home remarked, "It was important to learn from people caring for patients in their homes. We have a lot of the same problems."

A woman whose mother has Alzheimer's and lives with her, added, "I find it encouraging that there are so many people that are professionally involved in dealing with dementia-type diseases. It is from this type of interactions that I am better able to cope with this devastating dilemma."

As part of the conference, a resource guide to services available to help cope with Alzheimer's was prepared by the Task Force.

Copies of this booklet can be obtained by mailing $3 to Robert Salter, Administrator, Aberjona Nursing Center, Box 490, Winchester, MA 01890.

Season Of Ice

Once again, the season of sleet and ice is upon us. The season when the driver of the family car must be doubly alert. To be blunt, we, as Funeral Directors, do not have to use imagination to visualize the results of careless driving. The grisly tangibles are forced upon us—especially during the Winter months. You owe it to yourself and your family not to let familiarity with the automobile breed contempt for the highway or byway. Your children need you—Protect their future.

Vandals

Works. Serratore said the money for repairs will be taken from the DPW's building department budget.

According to the police report, two sets of footprints were found outside the home economics room, one size 10 imprint that appeared to be a boot, and one imprint that police said appeared to be from a sneaker, size 9.

The vandals ripped through the library, the industrial arts office, the music office, gym, language lab and social studies area, smashing windows and trophy cases and knocking over computer terminals.

Police report three custodians were working until midnight and according to the reports, police made checks around 1 a.m. at 2:55 a.m. and 4:25 a.m. and the area was quiet.

As students entered the school on Friday morning, they were herded in to the gym, until the glass was cleaned up by Department of Public Works maintenance crew and the custodial crew at the high school.

Laracco said students returned to class by 9 a.m.

Serratore said all windows were replaced by the end of the school day on Friday.

Poem

"He's supposed to be in earlier, but sometimes, you know, I'd give him a half an hour or so, give or take a little," she said.

"The next thing I knew, we were being awakened at about 4 in the morning by the Winchester police."

Like Mike, she said, Paul, was "a good, fun-loving kid. The two of them were always together. You always knew that if you saw Paul, you saw Mike. They were like two peas in a pod."

Like Antoinette Wippermann, Mrs. Augello spoke with concern about the question of whether drugs or alcohol may have been involved in the accident.

"I don't think that's the case; even the police told us that they didn't think there was alcohol involved."

"It just made me think, though, about the times when I've heard of people buying alcohol for kids. You know, it's times like this that you just wonder how people who do things like that can sleep at night."

She tries hard to be stoic, but she says she knows it's better that she not try to hold in her feelings.

"It's going to be so different around here without Paul. He was always laughing. I'll miss that..."

MAXIMIZING THE APPEAL OF YOUR STORAGE SPACE

Most people never feel like they have enough closets no matter how much storage they have. This is one reason why our buyers place ample storage space fairly high on their new home wish lists.

One of the minor indignities our sellers face is having prospective buyers open up all the closets, not to snoop, but to see how big each one is. Even if a closet is enormous, they won't be especially impressed if, upon opening the door, a wall of laundry, old shoes and other junk comes tumbling around their feet. Because closets are so important to our customers, it's important to have them as uncluttered and well-organized as possible while your property is on the market. If you have too many items for your closets to hold, consider having a yard sale, or you could make a trip to the Salvation Army's nearest thrift shop with your tax-deductible contribution.

When you finish with your closets, attack any junk or messes in the basement or attic. Whatever amount of storage space you have, it will look much more attractive if you clean it out.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors. Call us at 729-7000, or stop by our office at 33 Thompson St.

Hub Hosts Hits, For All Ages

Broadway Spoof Dressed For '86

Forbidden Broadway 1986, the newly revised and updated version of Gerald Alessandrini's hit musical comedy revue, Forbidden Broadway, is now in previews at the Terrace Room at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel, with the official opening slated for tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Forbidden Broadway 1986 spoofs Broadway's stars and shows, with many parodies new to Boston: Richard Harris in Camelot, Anthony Quinn in Zorba, Singin' in the Rain, Mickey Rooney and Ann Miller, Angela Lansbury, Robert Preston, and new versions of Annie and Ethel Merman.

Many of the favorite numbers from the original Hub production include excerpts: Evita, Cats, La Cage Aux Folles, as well as sketches of Carol Channing and others.

Directed by Mr. Alessandrini, the company stars Jerry Christakos, Toni DiBuono, Michael McGrath and Karen Murphy, with musical director Brad Ellis at the piano.

The show, which recently passed its 500th performance, offers performances at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 7 and 10 p.m. on Saturday, and 3 and 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Call the box office at 357-8384, at the Terrace Room in the Boston Park Plaza Hotel, 64 Arlington St., Boston, Mass. 02117.

Taylor Dance Entertains Fans

The Paul Taylor Dance Company gives three performances in Boston's John Hancock Hall Friday Jan. 24 at 8 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 25 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 26 at 3 p.m. in the Wang Celebrity Series.

Paul Taylor, a giant among modern dance choreographers, has spent three decades exploring new territories in dance and choreographing over 90 works for his company.

Acclaimed around the globe, The Paul Taylor Dance Company is polished in technique, elegant in form, exhilarating, and energetic.

Taylor's choreography is noted for its depth of perception, intense musicality and versatility with large, clear rhythms and simplified shapes, steps and postures.

In this unique choreographic expression, dancers celebrate the joy of the human body in movements that emphasize sheer energy, strength and grace.

The recipient of many awards, in June, 1985, Paul Taylor became one of two choreographers to be honored with a MacArthur Foundation grant, also known as the "genius award" given annually to "outstandingly talented and creative people."

The Paul Taylor Dance Company presents two programs in its Boston engagement.

On Friday evening and Sunday afternoon the company performs three works including a major revival of From Sea to Shining Sea (1965).

In this dance, a group of performers, viewed both on and off the stage, presents a collage of images gathered from the American heritage to music composed by John Herbert McDowell.

Also scheduled is Mercuric Tidings, which premiered in 1982 and is set to excerpts of Schubert's first two symphonies, and Cloven Kingdom, a satire of contemporary urban manners, danced by a quartet of tuxedo-clad men to music that combines bits of Corelli with modern percussion scores.

On Saturday evening the company offers the Boston premiere of Runes, a mysterious, solemn tribal ritual with a dark, bare moonscape and a piano score composed by Gerald Busby.

The company also performs Airs, which is set to music by Handel.

Concluding the program Saturday is Esplanade, a lyric and acrobatic masterpiece with daring hurtling spills perfectly expressing two of Bach's violin concerti.

Tickets go on sale at the John Hancock Hall box office, 180 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass. 02116 on Monday, Jan. 20, 1986. Call 421-2000.

Boston Welcomes Cracow Orchestra

Krzysztof Penderecki conducts the Cracow Philharmonic Orchestra and the Choral Arts Society of Washington, in one of only three American performances of his complete Polish Requiem, at Symphony Hall Sunday, Jan. 26 at 3 p.m.

The soloists in this Wang Celebrity Series premier include soprano Mariana Nicolesco, mezzo-soprano Jadwiga Rappe, tenor Ryszard Karczykowski, and bass-baritone Malcolm Smith.

Krzysztof Penderecki, one of the most dynamic creative composers of his generation, has been called "the musical personification of Poland," as many of his works reflect the tragic and heroic events of history.

His most recent composition, Polish Requiem, is a monumental work inspired by Poland's Solidarity movement.

Penderecki's statement for his countrymen is more than a mass for the dead — it is a requiem for the suffering of a nation in the past and the future.

A main theme in the work is the Polish church song Święty Boże: Great God, Have Pity.

The Cracow Philharmonic Orchestra (Karol Szymanowski), since 1962 named for this famous Polish composer, gave its first performance in 1945.

The Choral Arts Society of Washington is one of the major symphonic choruses in the United States.

Under music director Norman Scribner, it has received unanimous critical acclaim for the consistently high quality of its performances.

Tickets for the Cracow Philharmonic Orchestra's performance are now on sale at the Symphony Hall box office.

Sleeping Beauty Performs In Hub

Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet, direct from London, gives four performances at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts, Jan. 30 through Feb. 2.

Peter Wright's spectacular new production of Tchaikovsky's romantic classic The Sleeping Beauty is danced at all performances.

Performances of The Sleeping Beauty by Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet are scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 30 through Saturday, Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. each evening, and Sunday, Feb. 2 at 3 p.m.

Principal Conductor Bramwell Tovey leads a full symphony orchestra.

Peter Wright's grand production has been described as magnificent and magical, a dazzling spectacle created in a world of splendour and elegance.

Like the Royal Ballet's famed Covent Garden production, which premiered in 1946, Wright's new production is similar to the original Imperial Russian production of 1890: Tchaikovsky's score is played in full and the Lilac Fairy is performed as a mime role as in Petipa's original choreography.

Philip Prowse's set designs and costumes for this golden showpiece illustrate the rich, opulent style popular during the court of Louis XIV, and then at the turn of a century, display the pale, elegant grandeur of the age of Louis XVI.

Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet, based in Sadler's Wells Theatre in London, is an outgrowth of the Royal Ballet's touring section at Covent Garden.

Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet's engagement is the first event in the Dance Subscription Series at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

Subscribers to the Series can also enjoy the Central Ballet of China on their first American tour, Feb. 27 - Mar. 2 and the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, April 8-13.

Call the Wang Celebrity Series 482-2595, or charge subscriptions by calling Chartist: 1 (800) 223-0120 or 542-3600.

Subscription prices are $64.50, $57.50, $46.50, and $35.50, reflecting a substantial savings off regular prices.

Tickets for Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet are now on sale at the Wang Center box office, 270 Tremont St., Boston, Mass. 02116.

A.R.T. Presents Genet's Balcony

The American Repertory Theatre, under the artistic direction of Robert Brustein, has opened the third production of its 1985/86 season, Jean Genet's The Balcony, in a new translation by Jean Claude van Itallie, and directed by JoAnne Akalaitis.

The mounting continues in repertory with Thomas Middleton's The Changeling, directed by Robert Brustein, and the Philip Glass/Robert Moran/Arthur Yorinks opera The Juniper Tree, staged by Andrei Serban, with music conducted and directed by Richard Pittman, through Feb. 23.

The production returns to play in repertory with the fourth and fifth offerings of the season from May 30 through June 17.

One of the most influential plays of modern theatre, The Balcony is seldom produced in this country.

Under the direction of JoAnne Akalaitis, who staged last season's production of Beckett's Endgame at the A.R.T., the setting of the drama has been transferred to a Central American country and charged with new meaning.

The play begins in a brothel — Madame Irma's house of illusions — where bizarre fantasies are enacted, while a revolution rages outside.

In this hall of distorting mirrors, evil and virtue merge, and a highly theatrical masquerade takes on unexpected political consequences.

To bring an immediate contemporary resonance to Genet's play, several musical pieces, including a tango for the prologue and the revolutionaries' anthem, have been composed for the A.R.T. production by the brilliant Latin composer Ruben Blades.

Appearing in the large cast are members of the A.R.T. resident company, augmented by Joan MacIntosh, who plays Irma, the Queen, and Boston actors Tim McDonough as the revolutionary Marcos and Eric C. Menyuk as the Executioner Arthur.

Others in the cast are: John Bottoms as The Bishop; Diane D'Aquila as Carmen; Thomas Derah as The First Photographer; Jeremy Geidt as The Court Envoy; Ben Halley Jr. as The General; Rodney Hudson as The Judge; Harry S. Murphy as The Chief of Police; Elizabeth Norment as Chantel; and Jack Stehlin as Roger.

Sets are by George Tsypin, who most recently designed sets for the American National Theatre.

Costumes are by Kristie Zea, lighting is by A.R.T. principal designer Jennifer Tipton, choreography is by Johanna Boyce, sound by Peter Michael Sullivan, wigs and makeup by Bobby Miller, and assistant director is Peter Confalone.

Tickets are available at the A.R.T. box office, 64 Brattle St., Cambridge, or by calling 547-8300.

Performances are at 8 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, with 2 p.m. matinees on Saturday and Sunday.

New Year Opens With Fantasticks

The Nickerson Theatre has opened the new year with the classic musical The Fantasticks, which has been running in New York for 25 years.

The long-running musical, which plays through Saturday, Feb. 8, is the fourth production of the second season for the professional theatre company in Norwell.

New York director Jay Binder has staged the production with a cast that includes both Boston and New York area actors.

Included in the cast are Ted McAdams as The Mute, Bob Cuciolo as El Gallo, Glory Crampton as Luisa, Kim Moore as Matt, Scott Richards as Hucklebee, Michael Dell'Orto as Bellamy, John Davin as Henry and Jared Wayne as Mortimer.

Sets and lighting design are by James Hoff, costumes by Elaine Bresnahan. The musical director and pianist is Vinnie Trovato and the harpist is Celia Hollander.

Performance times are 8 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday; 8:30 p.m. Friday; 4 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday; and 2 and 7 p.m. Sunday.

For reservations and information, call or write the Nickerson Theatre, 30 Accord Park Dr., P.O. Box 272, Accord (Norwell) Mass. 02018.

A Puppet Treat For Youngsters

Masks, an action-packed show in which children are taken on a magical adventure into the world of masks, is presented by the Boston Arts Group as Portsmouth's Theatre by the Sea welcomes the return of their Players & Puppets series Saturday, Jan. 25, at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The Boston Arts Group presents an informative and entertaining look at a tradition that man has been carrying out since the dawn of history.

Children receive a first-hand look at masks created for such various purposes as protection, entertainment, religious uses, and everyday wear.

Masks introduces the Mask Detective who helps to uncover the secrets of a culture through masks.

Audience members have a chance to help in the creation of a mask onstage and then invent the culture that might go with it.

Tickets for Masks and other Players & Puppets productions may be purchased by calling (603) 431-6660 or by stopping by the box office located at 125 Bow St., Portsmouth, N.H., from noon to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Tickets are $2.75 each for all ages.

Pulitzer Prize Drama Opens

Marsha Norman's 1983 Pulitzer Prize-winning drama, "night, Mother," is currently on the boards at Portsmouth's Theatre by the Sea, playing through Feb. 8.

The play is directed by TBS' Artistic Director Tom Celli, with set design by James P. Murphy, light design by Jon Terry, and costuming by Lisa Micheels.

The powerful, dramatic play with a touch of suspense takes an unblinking look at human extremities with uncompromising honesty, tenderness, and steely resolve.

With a cast of two, the play pits mother and daughter in a gripping conflict after the daughter's decision to end her life.

Animal Trackers In My Snow: Stalking The Winter Animals

Winter is a great time to be an outdoor detective. Studying wildlife now is like putting together the clues in a mystery story," said Massachusetts Audubon Society naturalist Mark West.

Anyone can become a wildlife detective, West said.

Suburban residents can use their own backyards, he said, although they might find a few more species on a nearby reservation or an Audubon wildlife sanctuary.

West conducts very short courses about "tracking" mammals each Sunday during winter nature walks he leads at the Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield.

I don't have any walks scheduled this winter that deal specifically with learning how to track wildlife in the snow—but the subject comes up as part of most Sunday walks," he said.

However, the Audubon's headquarters and wildlife sanctuary at Drumlins Farm in Lincoln will conduct just such a program for the entire family at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 26.

It's free for Audubon members and $3 for non-members; pre-registration is not necessary.

How does a neophyte learn to unravel the mystery of mammals in a Massachusetts winter?

First, he or she should get a sheet or a small book that illustrates common tracks, shows their measurements and perhaps even shows some examples of "scat," the polite name for animal droppings.

The Audubon bookstore at Drumlins Farm stocks several books, ranging from a one-page sheet to enormous tomes far too heavy for trackers to carry through fields and forests on a winter afternoon.

One small book recommended by West is Track Finder by Dorcas Miller; another is A Field Guide to Animal Tracks, which is part of the well-known Peterson Field Guide series.

Why bother with a book? Why not simply stand still for a while and watch for animals?

"Survival for most animals in the winter depends on being secretive," West said.

At least most of the time, you're only going to see what the animals left behind, especially their tracks.

Unfortunately for beginners, most tracks aren't perfect.

You rarely get a perfect print, although sometimes you can find one in the mud or snow of just the right texture," West said.

More often, you have to judge the size and direction of the print, look for signs whether the animal was walking, bounding or hopping, and make an educated guess until you're sure.

Ideal tracking conditions are present immediately after a light snowfall. Earlier in January, bare frozen ground and coverings of ice provided fewer and less distinct tracks.

"You also need a book for some of the smaller bits of information you might forget," West said.

"If you see tracks you recognize as squirrel tracks, you'll want to know what kind of squirrel was here, gray or red. You can tell by the size of the prints.

Once the track-making animal is identified, the outdoor detective will look to see which direction the animal was going; he or she may be able to determine why.

"See what the animal left behind, besides his tracks," West said.

"Look for scat, bits of uneaten food, places the animal burrowed, and anything else you can find.

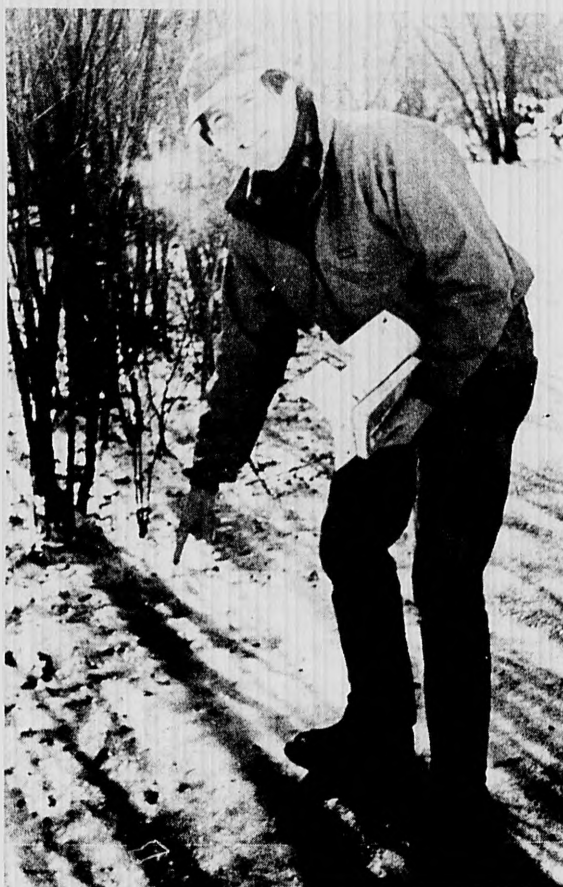

"With a little practice, you can go into your yard, a field or a forest and follow the entire day's activity of any one animal."

Winter is the time to study mammals while summer is best for reptiles and amphibians. Fall is reserved to study migratory birds, West said.

What's out there to see?

Squirrels are probably the most common backyard mammal but between 25 and 30 species are likely to live within a short distance from any metropolitan Boston home, West said.

The red fox, although not often seen by the suburbanite, is present in abundance.

Guides in hand, Massachusetts Audubon naturalist Mark West points out gray squirrel tracks frozen in the ice at the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary.

The red fox is not native to New England, West said. He was introduced here for the fox-and-hound chase but he coexists very well with humans.

Red foxes don't usually sleep in dens, they curl up inside their own warm tails and sleep above ground.

Therefore, West said, it is not impossible to follow the red fox's tracks far enough to find the track-maker himself.

The smaller gray fox is also less abundant in Massachusetts and usually sleeps in hollow logs, rocky ledges and brushy tangles.

Suburban residents who live near marshland can almost certainly find the tracks of a muskrat.

"Massachusetts has muskrat in abundance as well," West said.

At one time, kids from Newton to Danvers earned Christmas money by trapping the muskrat.

Other species found in Eastern Massachusetts include shrews, moles, bats, rabbits and hares, chipmunks, woodchucks, flying squirrels, beaver, various species of mice and voles, raccoon, weasels, mink, otter and deer.

A word of caution: trackers should never pick up animal scat.

If it breaks apart, use a stick to see what the animal had been eating. It's possible to catch some diseases from animal scat.

Another caution: new trackers should avoid frustration by learning the footprints left by their

And Coming Expo
Shares Secrets

Story by Susan Curtis

Until aches or anxieties start, most folks roll along with few thoughts for their well-being.

Slight concerns may nudge the soul. And occasional twinges can tease the joints or march across foreheads, yet daily life is lived.

Or is it?

A new American revolution is weaving its way through this country, bringing with it solid questions of individual health and happiness.

So says Krishna Bai, the coordinator for Whole Life Expo, a three-day showcase Jan. 31 through Feb. 2, promising a remarkable collection of expert knowledge in this booming holistic life wave.

This New Age revolution can be compared with this country's first revolution, says Bai, in that people want more authority over their lives.

Many are reclaiming an entrepreneurial spirit associated with the earlier energy that guided this country two hundred years ago.

Yet this New Age — or holistic — revolution presents no easy, immediate or isolated answers.

It calls upon individuals to recognize and respect their total well-being and the delicate interplay linking physical, mental, professional, emotional and spiritual health.

It also blasts new buzz words, trends and tactics into the tail-end of this decade.

Bioenergy, rolfing, acupuncture, polarity, crystal meditation, empowerment, and reflexology are terms tumbling into daily discussion and routine.

New markets call for foods without additives, natural fibers and fabrics, and creative birthing techniques.

Yet what does it all mean?

What's wrong with the good old family doctor and a trip to the local drug store, asks the traditionalist?

Is the hoopla simply a smorgasbord for the pursuits and purses of ever-busy yuppies?

Or, the skeptic asks, does it merely present interesting strategies for repackaging old products and programs?

"People today are up against the wall with stress levels," says Bai. They are seeking — and often finding with success — answers in different cultures centuries old, she says.

Bai admits traditionalists might view holistic advocates as "air-heads."

Yet the groundswell of supporters for whole life living cuts across age, social, political, and economic boundaries.

Bai herself is a vegetarian, consults an astrologist and a meditation counselor. She is also a whiz of a businesswoman who has engineered a conference consisting of more than 150 workshops, 30 theme sessions, 100 exhibits, and special events.

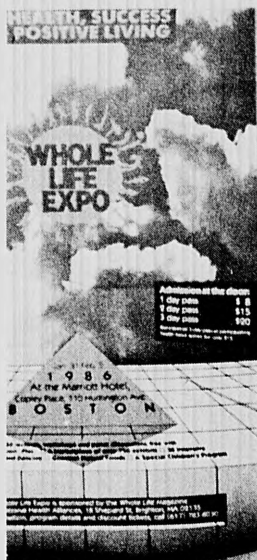

One-third of the conference is geared toward business, due in part to the increased receptivity noted from corporations.

"Companies," she says, "are saying to their employees, 'You are a whole person. If you are an alcoholic, or if your marriage is breaking up, we need to deal with that.'"

Pursuing the theme of holism, executives join the ranks of those recognizing that all elements of each person — health, fitness, relationships, job, environment, nutrition, self-esteem — can work together to create a unified whole.

A drinking problem impacts performance at work. A career crisis invades the home. The chronic headache paralyzes personal and job potential.

The severe over-eater is crippled with negative images and obstacles, real and perceived. The crumbling marriage infects offspring. Low back pain limits mobility, socially and professionally.

The goal of holism is to halt a splatter approach to problem-solving and consider the whole human.

"The general level of consciousness has raised incredibly in this country," says Bai. "Look at the issues discussed on TV and how frank people are being. We are becoming more aware."

Such thinking, says Bai, generates extended concern toward planetary well-being.

"We call the planet a global village. If someone sneezes in Afghanistan, we say 'God bless you.'"

Concerns may start small — no smoking in public restaurants. Yet they are growing into larger issues — the increased public commit-

Showcase Includes See And Do

Many other features and attractions are crammed into this three-day showcase.

Exhibits

More than 100 exhibits offer products and resources for healing, wellness and personal growth. Nine restaurants tease the tastes with a variety of natural foods.

A special Business and Career Pavilion hosts exhibits from New England Commons, Conscious Investing and others.

Fitness Room

A large Fitness Room presents an army of fitness experts ready to demonstrate and teach new exercises, yoga, martial arts and other techniques for becoming and staying fit.

Video Room

Here are wide screen projections of WGBH-TV's "The New American Revolution," a documentary examining the scope of the holistic movement, and films on related topics.

The newest craze in the de-stressing treadmill can also be experienced: Relax Video — videotapes of aquarium fish and crackling fireplaces for use on home VCRs.

Probably sipping brandy in front of a fire. I also like to skate, and to go tobogganing. It's a lot more fun than going sledding. I can do without the whole month of February, but otherwise, I like the snow.

Probably playing a good, hard, hockey game with a bunch of friends. I also ski a little. I love the snow.

Skiing on Loon Mt. in New Hampshire because I like the snow and I like the challenge of conquering a new trail. I also like snowball fights and throwing snowballs at Bill Garrity, the junior class flirt.

Skiing in New Hampshire because I like the scenery and I like going fast downhill. And after a cold day on the slopes, I like a few shots of blackberry brandy at the bar in the lodge. I like the wintertime.

I just bought new skis. I go skiing in Waterville Valley, N.H. My sister has a condo there. I like the fresh air and the view. During the rest of the winter I mostly work.

In February, I go skiing in Utah because its fun. I like the wintertime because of Christmas. I get a lot of gifts.

Our Children Twins Need Individuality

By WILLARD ABRAHAM, Ph.D.

Q. Thank you for your reply to the parents of identical twins to their questions about keeping them together in school and dressing them alike. I would like to add my "two cents."

As the mother of fraternal twin boys, now almost 2 years old, would definitely separate them when they reach school age. They need their individuality at that point. Granted that they have been best friends since birth, but at age 5 I believe they should find new friends.

This can be done by buying the same item with two different colors. I feel by the time they reach school age they should mainly be dressed differently and only on occasion dressed alike. This also allows for each person's individuality to come out.

I think you were speaking directly to me today through your column.

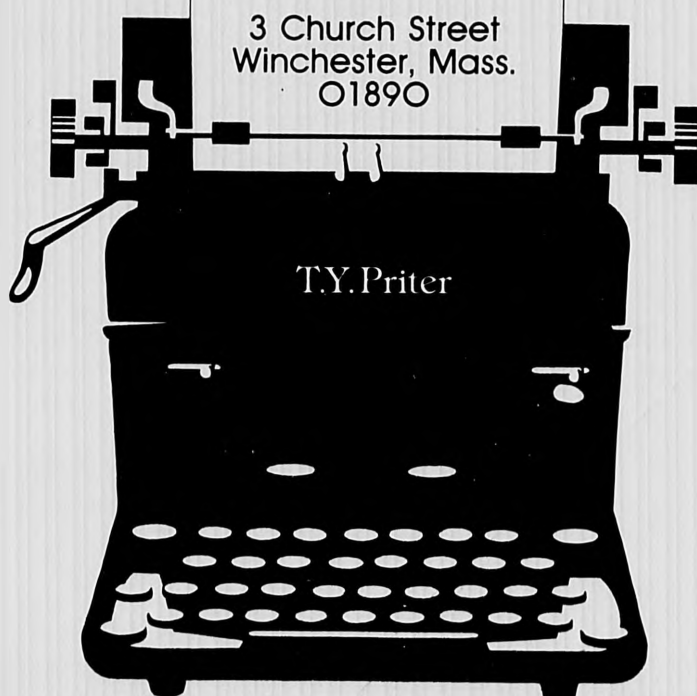

A. Parents of twins apparently give a lot of thought to their children's relationships with each other and their own with both youngsters. Their attitudes frequently show such good common sense.

Letters may be sent to Dr. Willard Abraham, Our Children, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252.

Are you the parent of a preschool child, 2 to 5 years old? Send a stamp, plus your request for information about a monthly service that may help you, to Dr. Abraham, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252.

"A dog's print is similar to a fox's. It can be confusing," the Audubon naturalist said.

An especially good place to look for tracks is the area that separates fields and forests, West said.

"Rabbits particularly like such areas because they can chew on the grasses and dash back into the brush for cover when necessary."

Fields themselves are not especially good places to find winter wildlife, however.

"Hardly any animals spend time in the fields, with the exception of mice and meadow voles, who build small tunnels through the grass before the snow falls on top of it," West said.

Sometimes the pattern of their burrows can be seen as darker areas to top, however.

West's home base in the Ipswich River Sanctuary is ideal for learning to track mammals.

The sanctuary, located just north of the Topsfield Fair, was once the estate of the English governor Bradstreet in the 1600's and was the estate of Thomas Proctor from 1900 to 1951, when it was purchased by the Audubon Society.

"Muskrat, otter, beaver and fisher all lived in the marsh at one time," West said.

THE NEW TO FITNESS

Spas, Salons Gain Social Standing

In the 1930s, "taking the waters" was a favorite pastime of Europe's pampered upper classes. Whether you were a descendant of the royal family or a wealthy commoner, the posh residential spa was where you went for a restful massage, healthful diet and intellectual stimulation.

"In those days, spa guests lived passively for the time they were there. Somebody was always doing something to them — pulling their fingers or massaging their bodies," said Pat Walters, co-founder and associate director of the Lifestyle and Longevity Center at La Costa Hotel & Spa in Carlsbad, Calif.

When Europeans crossed the ocean to settle in America in the 1930s and '40s, they brought the idea of the spa along with them. But it took the turbulent '60s to convert spa-goers from passive bystanders to passionate activists — willing to take responsibility for their own physical and emotional health.

"While guests at the leading American spas still enjoy pampering and beauty treatments, they are also seeking more vigorous workouts and new methods for stress reduction," said Judy Babcock, co-author of the "Spa Book," a guide to American health resorts and beauty spas for men and women.

She calculates that the fitness movement "began in the '60s, hit its stride in the '70s and became a solid social trend in the '80s." Statistics seem to bear her out — over the past five years, the number of American residential spas has doubled from 30 to about 60.

No longer the exclusive turf of the rich and famous, spas attract a health-minded mix of shapely young secretaries who want to stay that way, fast-track business executives seeking an increase in physical stamina and a reduction in personal stress, and overweight, out-of-condition people intent on reshaping their bodies and their lives.

Like their clientele, residential spas and fitness salons come in all styles, sizes and price ranges. There is the local gym or health club — which may offer reasonably priced family memberships, exercise classes, swimming pools and jogging tracks and various types of aerobic equipment, including stationary bicycles, rowing machines and treadmills.

For tension reduction, there may be massages, hot spa baths and steamy saunas. And since inner fitness and outer beauty are close cousins, some spas provide facials, hairstyling and other beauty and grooming services.

But even if you consistently watch your diet and work out all year at the neighborhood exercise salon, you may want the occasional booster shot of a visit to a glamorous residential spa, said Babcock.

Specialized programs at such resorts satisfy the demand for "more structure, more challenge and attention to psychological as well as physical needs," according to Babcock.

The spa programs usually begin with tests to determine an individual's percentages of body fat, water content and lean body mass. These tests range from water immersion and pinch tests to electronic tests. These should be followed with in-depth evaluations of each participant by a physician and exercise physiologist.

According to Dr. A. Gordon Reynolds, La Costa's spa medical director, this data can be fed into computer systems to determine present fitness levels and to project desired fitness goals. Guests then are enrolled into fitness classes ranging from beginning to advanced.

Computing techniques also may be used to prepare a nutritional analysis profile of each guest's eating habits and to pinpoint dietary deficiencies and excesses.

Every spa should have medical supervision, because people are sometimes too aggressive about losing 30 pounds. They need individual counseling in the best method to begin a program, and physical limitations always must be taken into consideration, Babcock said.

Finally, spas should not neglect the pampering, relaxation and beauty side of things.

Spas, in other words, are not just for grunting and sweating. At many spas, guests may choose from athletic and entertainment activities including golf, tennis, water sports, movies and dancing. The flip side of vigorous exercise is relaxation, such as saunas and herbal wraps.

The spa phenomenon is here to stay, Babcock believes. It is part and parcel of the world's growing concern with wellness, preventive medicine and taking charge of one's own life.

Lahey Clinic Device Smacks Stones

No more surgery for kidney stone sufferers?

At a recent press conference, the Lahey Clinic unveiled its Extracorporeal Shock Wave Lithotripter, a new device that uses acoustic shock waves to turn kidney stones into sand-like particles, thereby eliminating the need for major surgery.

This lithotripter is one of only two such machines in New England. In order to make this state-of-the-art technology available to a network of urologists, other physicians and hospitals throughout the region, Lahey has established a Center for Renal Stone Disease.

Lithotripsy promises to revolutionize the treatment of kidney stones in this country as it has already done in Europe.

As recently as five years ago most kidney stone removal required major surgery, a 10- to 14-day hospitalization and a four- to six-week recuperation.

Today, largely due to lithotripsy, the vast majority of kidney stones can be treated without any surgery and with much shorter periods of hospitalization and recovery.

Developed in the 1970s, the lithotripter is a result of a collaboration between a major West German aircraft manufacturer and urologists at the University of Munich.

It was approved for clinical use by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration less than a year ago and is only now coming into general use in the United States.

Extracorporeal Shock Wave Lithotripsy literally means crushing stone with shock waves from outside the body.

The shock waves used are acoustic, high-energy pressure waves generated in water.

The power of these waves is felt only when the acoustical property of the medium through which they are being transmitted changes.

Shock waves generated in water, therefore, pass harmlessly through most living tissue, which has a very high water content, but are absorbed by a kidney stone, which contains no water.

The lithotripter uses a spark plug-type electrode to generate shock waves in the bottom of a large tank of water.

The patient usually remains in the hospital overnight and can return to work within a week.

Doctors at Lahey's Stone Center expect to be doing 80 to 90 percent of their stone cases with lithotripsy, but some patients will still require surgical intervention due to either the size or location of their stones.

The newly established Center for Renal Stone Disease — staffed by urologists, internists from several specialties and radiologists — is designed to offer patients all the latest techniques for treating existing stones as well as preventing the formation of new ones.

Physicians Weight Loss Opens Here

Physicians Weight Loss Centers, a medically supervised program that has helped thousands nationwide, has just expanded to Arlington. The new center is conveniently located at 22 Mill St., Suite 005.

Currently, there are over 180 Physicians Weight Loss Centers nationally.

Since its inception in 1979, the company boasts a six-year track record of success and has gained respect even among the medical community.

Physicians Weight Loss Centers guarantees a weight loss of three to seven pounds per week if the patient follows the prescribed program.

Essentially, this means a patient could lose between 42 to 98 pounds during a 14-week period.

This amazingly fast rate is closely monitored by a medical team of doctors, nurses and certified weight loss counselors to ensure the safety and health of each patient.

Offering support and encouragement, the Arlington center staff is uniquely qualified to help make weight loss a pleasant, rewarding experience.

Co-director Sharon Chaplin, L.P.N., functions as the Arlington center's staff nurse.

Her extensive background includes positions as school nurse for Eaglebrook School in Deerfield and Proctor Academy in New Hampshire, where she also taught nutrition classes.

In addition, Chaplin held a nursing position at Ohio State University Hospital for four years.

In 1978, she relocated to Thailand where she performed nursing duties along with child care development for the Peace Corps.

Both Chaplin and her partner, Nancy Peterson, are veterans of Physicians Weight Loss Centers.

Chaplin worked as a Staff Nurse for more than one year at a nearby center, and Peterson was a behavioral guidance counselor, also within the system.

The women decided to develop their center in Arlington because "we discovered there was nothing comparable in the area," said Chaplin.

These centers have been incredibly successful due to a few factors — the behavioral guidance classes which we encourage, and the fact that patients learn nutrition and how to eat a balanced diet. The result isn't just weight loss, but permanent weight loss," she said.

Chaplin stresses that the program's effectiveness also stems from consistent daily one-on-one counseling as well as full medical supervision to ensure dieting safety.

"Our new center is a wonderful opportunity to help people. We take a lot of pride in what we do and I think that shows through quality service," said Peterson.

"I've seen many people who've become frustrated on other diet programs... here, they'll find many new approaches that will keep motivation high."

Peterson holds a bachelor of science degree in human services and has been involved in a wide range of "help" programs — from crisis counseling at Choate Memorial Hospital, to foster care parent recruitment.

"Our program is teamwork; we're working with each patient. They can call anytime they need us and we're always there for support," she said.

In addition, Peterson said that because patients are medically monitored, they're confident that they're losing weight the "safest, healthiest way."

Cindy Peterson joins the Arlington center as staff counselor. She herself has lost 25 pounds through Physicians Weight Loss Centers' program.

"I'm a walking testimonial of our program's effectiveness," she said, referring to her own 25 pound loss.

"Now I know I can especially relate to our patients because I've personally been through the same thing."

Tofu Ridicule Turns

We've battled with bok choy, tried jicama — even learned to pronounce it — and can recognize an enoki mushroom at 20 paces. We consumers have, in fact, adapted to an amazing variety of foods. But until recently, most of us have been unwilling to tangle with tofu. And that's a shame.

Tofu is a complete food that can form the basis of a healthful diet. It's rich in protein, low in calories and sodium and easily digestible.

Throughout East Africa, tofu has been a dietary staple for thousands of years. In the United States, however, it virtually was unknown until the 1970s when health-food converts began promoting it as a low-calorie, cholesterol-free alternative to meat. But those strange white blocks of tofu floating in water simply did not appeal to most people.

Then tofu suddenly became trendy with the introduction of a non-dairy dessert. But tofu is much more than dessert.

"Tofu's chameleon qualities can take on virtually any flavor, from familiar to exotic, depending on the seasonings," said Gary Barat, president of the Soyfoods Association and chairman of Legume, a company that markets frozen entrees filled with tofu.

Barat, his wife, Chandri, and 3-year-old daughter, Athena, eat tofu every day. Mrs. Barat, president of the frozen food entree company, offered the following recipe:

STIR-FRIED TOFU WITH BROWN RICE AND VEGETABLES

- 2 tbsps. sesame oil
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 Spanish onions, thinly sliced
- 1 cup diced vegetables: broccoli, celery, mushrooms, red pepper, water chestnuts (select at least two)
- 2 cups cooked brown rice, prepared according to package directions

12 ozs. tofu, pressed and diced (see note)
1-2 tbsps. soyv. to taste
4-5 tbsps. ketchup
½ tsp. salt

Heat sesame oil in wok or skillet. Add garlic, onions, other vegetables consecutively, stir-frying each 1 to 2 minutes. Add rice, stirring, until well coated with oil. Add tofu and seasonings, stirring constantly until heated through, approximately 3 minutes.

Serves 4.

May be reheated.

Note: To press tofu, drain block of tofu. Wrap in cotton towel.

Place on plate with 2- or 3-pound weight on top. Refrigerate for minimum of 2 hours or overnight.

"If you don't have time to cook, you can pop a frozen tofu-based entree in the oven, add a salad and some fruit and you've got a nutritious meal in minutes," said Barat.

Barat's company has developed a "Light Eating Plan" filled with easy-to-follow menus and healthy food tips.

For a copy of the plan, send your name and address plus $1 for postage and handling to: Legume Inc., 170 Change Bridge Road, D-5-2, Montville, NJ 07045.

Health Expo Draws Experts

ment for a nuclear freeze.

Bai, advocating "the incredible number of tools available to help people," recognizes the existence of a cultural gap between the mission of the New Age and the more traditional life stylists.

Yet she is hopeful.

The Catholic Church, for example, now sponsors week-end programs designed to enhance marriages and developed because, says Bai, "people need it."

For her, the coordination and design of the Whole Life Expo has been a personal mission.

"I can create an environment for those people who come to learn, grow, change and become happier with their lives."

The focus of this fourth annual Whole Life Expo differs from previous years dealing only with health issues.

"I wanted to take the expo, turn it upside down, shake it vigorously and recreate it."

This year's program appears to validate this attitude.

Fifty workshops on Business and Career cover diverse needs and interests with such titles as Women, Leadership and Power, Entrepreneurs Panel, Conscious Investing for A Better World, Astrology for Salespeople, Managers, and Professionals, and even Confessions of a Taoist on Wall Street.

The next major category, Health and Fitness, delivers 50 topics with such highlights as Michio Kushi, the foremost authority on macrobiotics in the Western world discussing AIDS: Crisis of Mankind and comedian and nutrition expert Dick Gregory speaking on Nutrition and Truth.

Dr. Michelle Harrison joins the Expo as an expert on premenstrual syndrome. She is the author of A Women In Residence and Self Help For Premenstrual Syndrome.

Beatrice Trum Hunter, food editor of Consumers' Research Magazine and author of 14 books, talks on Our Changing Food, How To Choose Food Wisely, and Dr. Stuart Zoll presents an update on Bioenergetic Regulatory Medicine.

A third area examines Love and Relationships.

A sampling here finds a panel of experts talking on Emerging Trends in American Masculinity: astrologer Helen Whitehead examining Astrology As a Tool in Love Relationships; sex therapists lighting up the topic, Not Tonight, Dear; and Dr. Mitchell Levine discussing Creative Birth Choices.

The Expo also offers 30 theme sessions, with topics including:

Michelle Harrison, M.D., is a specialist in helping women with premenstrual syndrome. Dr. Harrison speaks on PMS at 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 1.

Be Informed On Generic Drug Switches

When a doctor prescribes medication, he will specify a particular brand name on the prescription. A few years ago, that meant that the brand he listed was the only brand a pharmacist could dispense.

Now, however, most states allow the person buying the medication to specify whether he wants that brand, another brand or a generic product.

A generic drug is identified by its chemical name. For example, if you have a headache, you can take a tablet marked "aspirin," or one marked "Anacin" or "Bayer." The therapeutic, or active ingredient, is the same in all cases — aspirin. But the cost of generic medication usually is less.

If a generic drug is just as good as a brand-name product, but costs less, why not save money by using the generic? In cases where generic and brand-name medicines truly are interchangeable, this philosophy makes good medical and financial sense.

Generics safely can be substituted for brand-name medications in many cases. However, manufacturers often have different formulations or "recipes" for their products, so different brands of the same type of medication can affect people differently. Only the active ingredient in generic and brand-name drugs must be the same. The remaining — flavoring, binders, fillers — can be different, and unexpected fillers sometimes cause serious allergic reactions.

How a sustained-action tablet or capsule is formulated to deliver the drug to your body also is likely to differ, as do manufacturing techniques among different companies. These differences mean that products containing the same active ingredient made by different manufacturers may differ in the rate and content to which the active ingredient is absorbed by the body. And that can affect how well the medication does its job, said Dr. Allyn Golub, vice president of clinical and technical affairs for Key Pharmaceuticals Inc., a world leader in research products in respiratory medicine.

If you have a serious, chronic illness like asthma or heart disease, and your condition is stabilized with a brand-name drug, switching to a generic product may provide 25 percent less (or more) active ingredient at a different rate of absorption and your condition may go out of control. This can lead to more doctor visits, even hospitalization. For some people, generic substitution even can be life threatening," added Golub.

To avoid such situations, consumers should gather as much information as possible about their condition and medication to make sure they get the best possible medication at the best price.

"Your best and only protection is to become as well-informed as you can. Then, in each situation you can weigh the risks and benefits of generic drug substitution so you can make a knowledgeable choice," Golub said.

First of all, become acquainted with the law in your state that governs generic drug substitution.

Then when you receive a prescription from your doctor, take a close look at it. If you can't read the handwriting, ask the doctor to clarify what the prescription says and why. If a specific brand name is prescribed by your doctor, there may be a good reason why your doctor has chosen that brand. To ensure that you receive that brand and not a generic medicine that may not work the same way in your body, ask the doctor to write on the prescription that substitution is not permitted.

Finally, when you see a pharmacist, ask him what product he has given you. If it is not the one that has been proven best for your condition, speak up. Request the drug of your choice. It's often a good idea to bring your filled prescription with you on your next visit to the doctor so that he can make sure you're taking the prescribed medication.

Expo Tackles Topics

Bodywork Room

A reported favorite at previous expos, this room features an array of masseuses offering varied massaging techniques and styles for pre ticketed samplings at $5 for 15-minute sessions.

Relaxation Room

The fatigued expo participant finds peace and rest here in this pillowed, soothing room. Music by Jonathan Goldman of New England Healers and David Collette of Congressional Records completes the solace.

Children's Program

Maskmaking, stories and plays from around the world, movement, music and drama, paper sculpting, puppet making and many other activities will tickle the interest of youngsters and allow adults time to attend lectures and exhibits, child-free.

Entertainment

The final concert of the 35-member On Wings of Song group, featuring gospel, folk, rock, classical, choral and tribal rhythms, is the entertainment highlight at 8 p.m. Friday.

Other groups are featured through the week-end and at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, the expo concludes with a swirling Dance Spree.

In addition to this Boston bonanza, Whole Life Expos are held in Los Angeles and New York and are sponsored by The Whole Life Times, a free publication distributed in many health food store and holistic enterprises.

Bai projects that 20,000 or more people will visit the upcoming Boston Expo. New York and Los Angeles expos bring the visitor total to 100,000.

"It's a very exciting thing to think about," she says.

"For me, it's been a very rewarding, spiritual experience to be the expo producer. I want people to come, explore, taste, and to leave with what they have found worthy for themselves."

Bai has only one regret about the Expo.

"The hardest thing (about being the coordinator) is that I can't go to any of the workshops!"

Rather, flanked by teams of volunteers and employing her wealth of organizational enterprise, Bai expects to be everywhere and anywhere, at once, for all three days.

The Expo opens at the Marriott Hotel, Copley Place, at noon Friday and wraps up late Sunday evening.

Admission to the Expo, at the door, is $8 for a one-day pass, $15 for a two-day pass and $20 for three days.

Discounted tickets are available in advance only at Shambala Booksellers, Sky Light Book and Out of Town Tickets all in Harvard Square, Cambridge or by mail from The Whole Life Expo, 18 Shepard St., Brighton, 02135. Call 783-8030 for complete program guides.

Gunther Weil and Rylin Malone present a workshop on Taoist Secrets of Love from 5 to 8 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 2. They also join a panel entitled Not Tonight Dear: Coping With Sexual Dissatisfaction at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Chung Moo Quan is a gift of life for life. Chung Moo Quan. True Martial Arts originated in Asia over 1500 years ago. Chung Moo Quan is 70% mental and 30% physical strength. One must develop a strong mind in order to control the physical speed and power you can develop through Chung Moo Quan training. Mentally you can learn — respect, determination, patience, confidence. Physically you can learn — speed, power, coordination, control. Chung Moo Quan is not like buying furniture or other material things. Life is only once — no one has a spare mind and body.

No matter who you are or what position you have in life, you must develop a strong mind and body. If you are not comfortable in your own mind and with your own body you will never have any true happiness. Everyone is once young and once old. During the time you are young, it is sometimes difficult to see the importance of this. But when your age is older, at that time you will appreciate that you did develop yourself both mentally and physically to the fullest.

Master John C. Kim feels if you use your full concentration towards training for about three years, three hours a week, you can make self-accomplishments which you will appreciate the rest of your life. An understanding of yourself will bring better relations between you and your family, friends and business. It is possible to never get into a situation where you will have to defend yourself but it is better to be mentally and physically prepared for any given situation. That is a comfortable and happy life.

Many people can talk. Many people say they understand. Come in and see for yourself. Ask for a free demonstration.

Skin Health Comes From Good Care

Skin does much more than just hold you together. It directs blood flow, shields your internal organs, holds in fluids, regulates body temperature and keeps out harmful microorganisms.

Everyone has a particular skin type, whether that's oily or dry, normal or sensitive. Skin type is something you're born with and there's not much you can do to change it.

The way your skin looks and feels, however, also is influenced by your habits and your environment. The products you use, including cleansers, makeup and perfume, affect your skin. So, too, does your cleansing routine. Your sleeping habits, emotional well-being and diet also are important. And don't forget the weather changes in temperature and humidity, most noticeable during summer and winter can contribute to skin problems.

During the frigid months, escaping from cold outdoor air to heated indoor air can lead to chapping and flakiness. How to fight it?

When you're outdoors, protect your skin by dressing in several light absorbent layers of clothing. Indoors, use a humidifier or pans of water on the radiator to add moisture to your environment and your skin. Don't forget to use a sunscreen on the ski slopes — sun reflected off the snow can cause a nasty burn.

Eating regular, well-balanced meals and getting plenty of rest and exercise helps skin retain a healthy glow all through the year, indoors and out.

Sleep is essential to healthy skin, since the hormones responsible for cell division and the renewal of skin tissue are most active while you're at rest. Activity keeps blood circulating and improves skin tone and texture.

Remove rough, dry skin with a pumice stone lathered with your favorite cleanser.

Always give sensitive areas like shoulders, knees, lips, tops of feet, ears and tip of nose extra protection from the sun. They burn more quickly than other parts of your body.

Stressed Out? Experts Give Relaxation Advice

Stress — an underlying cause of many physical and emotional illnesses — can be reduced significantly by exercising for just 12 minutes a day, according to personal development counselor Wilma Zaltman.

"For many, exercise, a popular form of relaxation, creates energy, vitality and releases the build-up of stress that often leads to heart attacks and strokes," said Zaltman.

She said that stress is a normal and integral part of our everyday lives and affects everyone, regardless of sex, age, race or income level.

"We need stress for motivation, but it's important to recognize when it's piling up. Learn how to control it before it takes over your life," she said.

Zaltman, who gives seminars on stress management at the New York Institute of Technology at Long Island, said one best can control stress by learning good relaxation techniques.

These, she said, "can be anything that takes you away from your daily routine: walking fast, going to the gym, praying, listening to music, sitting on the beach, watching the ocean waves or a good sunset."

Zaltman highly recommended a process called creative visualization. "This process involves deep breathing," she explained. "It helps get oxygen to the brain."

A person should sit quietly, taking deep breaths and silently counting so that the mind does not go off in all directions.

Next, he should picture himself on a boat or floating on a cloud, any place that gives pleasure. Finally, repeat a positive statement such as "every day in every way I'm getting better — I like myself."

Developing new attitudes about food is another way to control stress, said Zaltman. "It's amazing how many people still don't know that good nutrition for the body means good nutrition for the mind."

It's also a good idea to learn how to manage your time more efficiently, she said. "Set personal and professional goals so you know where you're going and how you're going to get there."

When you're at work, Zaltman advised, "get out of the office for at least a half hour. Take a walk or go for a drive." And, "If you find yourself saying, 'My job is killing me,' find another job," she said.

At home, parents with school-age children should do all their errands and chores before the children come home. "Never greet your child when you're tired or intolerant," said Zaltman. "If you start out on a negative foot with your children, the rest of the afternoon and evening will only get worse."

Even if you think you can handle most situations, it's important to know that reactions to certain situations such as job insecurity or divorce may not manifest themselves immediately. "It can affect you anytime, in two days, two weeks or in two years," Zaltman said.

Learning how to deal with stress is not easy for everyone. If you're having trouble relaxing, get help — either from a clergyman, social service agency or personal counselor, Zaltman advised.

TAKE HEART

Cardiovascular disease is one of the leading causes of death among today's population. February is National Heart Month — a good time to make sure you are doing everything possible to ensure a healthy heart. Take the following quiz to see how you're doing.

- Do you have your cholesterol level and blood pressure checked regularly?
- Do you participate in a regular exercise program?
- Do you take time out of your day to relax?
- Do you eat a healthful, well-balanced diet?
- Do you listen to your body's signals (e.g., chest pain, difference in heart rhythm, etc.) and consult your physician with any concerns?
- Do you maintain an ideal weight?

If you answered yes to all the above questions, you are doing everything recommended by the American Medical Association for keeping your heart healthy.

For more hints on how to improve your diet or incorporate an exercise regimen, call your local Diet Center Counselor at 489-1900. The Diet Center Program is also a safe and effective way to lose those excess pounds that can place additional strain upon your heart.

SPECIFY WHAT STAYS OR GOES WITH A HOUSE

The Purchase & Sale contract may be the most important document in the sale of a home in order to save a lot of aggravation, post-sale hickering and possible lawsuits, the gray area of which items will stay with the house and which the Seller will take away should be spelled out specifically in the contract. Know the difference between chattels which can be picked up and moved without leaving nail holes, and fixtures which have been attached with the intention of them becoming part of the real estate, furnace, fence, garbage disposal, etc. The Buyer expects fixtures to remain with the property.

Items like wall-to-wall carpeting, smoke alarms, and fireplace equipment should be specified as remaining as fixtures or being taken as chattels in the contract to avoid confusion. Two commonly troublesome items are the TV antenna and fancy lighting fixtures, people form strong emotional attachments to chandeliers. Rather than get bogged down over such matters, simply make sure your offer stipulates that all fixtures remain except specific ones you're willing to give up to the Seller.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES
By Carol Marrano
Marrano Real Estate

PRICING YOUR HOME

Setting a fair price is a crucial first step in putting your home on the market, and it begins with a professional market analysis of the property. You might start by looking around the neighborhood at other houses for sale. Then contact a realtor familiar with your area to get information about the asking prices of these homes and the length of time each one has been on the market. Your realtor will also be able to provide you with information from official records about the actual sale prices of homes similar to your own, as well as the features of each property that might have affected its value, such as the number of rooms, the overall condition, and the extras — family rooms, finished basements, garages or walk-to-wall carpeting. By putting all of this information together, you can establish a market value for your home, or a price range in which it is likely to sell. If you set your price too high, it could take months, even years to sell your home. But if it's priced within about five percent of the established market value, your house should sell fairly quickly. To arrange for a free professional market analysis of your home, call Carol Marrano Real Estate at 662-0414 or stop by our office at 71 Mass. Ave. There's no obligation at all. Our agents can also suggest some inexpensive fix-ups to help you get top dollar for your property.

SERVICE TO BUYERS

Pres. Charles Agrillo

ASK YOUR FRIENDS

How do homeowners choose a real estate agent to sell their property? According to recent surveys, the most important reason is the recommendation of friends.

Any real estate broker should help you set an asking price for your house, should advertise the property, and then supervise the showing of it. Prospective buyers must be screened carefully and qualified: what kind of house do they want? What can they afford? Prospects must be guided through the home, their objections answered. A house isn't just shown - it's SOLD!

Any real estate broker should do these things. What builds a real estate firm's reputation for success is doing them well.

We've earned our reputation for success. Before you sell your home, ask your friends what we've done for them. Then let us show you what we can do for you.

For successful real estate marketing, list with Century 21 West Realty, 413 Mt. Auburn St., Watertown, 022-5280.

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 58 call rifle muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb. full size 3 inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over - from Maine to Rhode Island to New York - but more are from eastern Massachusetts. "I was at work, here, when I heard about the shuttle. I believed it; there wasn't any doubt in my mind that it happened. But, what can I say? I think it was absolutely tragic; it's just an awful tragedy."

"I heard it at around noon, when I checked in at the station. It's sad — because I guess maybe we all feared it would happen sometime. It's just sad that it had to happen this time — what with the teacher on board and all."

Shuttle News Hits Everyone

'Our' Astronaut Was An Eyewitness

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Capt. Fred Hauck, Winchester's own astronaut, told his mother, "it will be quite a while until another space shuttle goes up," after watching Tuesday's tragic explosion of the space shuttle Challenger. All seven persons aboard were killed.

"He called soon after the explosion and we had only a brief conversation. He was very busy," said Mrs. Virginia Hauck of Canterbury rd., Winchester.

Capt. Hauck called from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) control center in Houston, Mrs. Hauck said.

"I was all shook up and so was Rick," she said.

Capt. Hauck was not immediately involved in the final mission aboard the spacecraft Challenger. It was the same vehicle Hauck and a crew of four others used for a six day mission from June 18 to June 24, 1983.

Mrs. Hauck said she did not see the explosion on live TV because "the cable went off for about five minutes" but she heard reports of the disaster on the radio.

"Even though my son was not on board, it was a real shock. I immediately thought of that teacher (Christa McAuliffe) and other people probably did too," she said.

Capt. Hauck told his mother NASA had "no clue" about the cause of the accident during the first hour after the tragedy.

Mrs. Hauck noted that fewer people were killed on the Challenger than in many plane crashes. But, she said, "The public has become familiar with the (space shuttle) participants, especially the teacher, and feels the loss more, perhaps."

Capt. Hauck, an experienced Navy pilot, had earned nine medals before he was chosen for the space program in 1978, when he was 35. His flight aboard Challenger in 1983 lasted six days, launched two communications satellites, and included commanding officer Robert L. Crippen and Sally K. Ride, the first American woman in space. He now lives in the Houston area.

Courtney McMillan
Winchester High student

"We saw it in school, all the televisions in school were on. It was kind of scary, to me, because I want to be an astronaut. It really made me think about the risks."

Lillian McCabe
Resident
Manchester rd.

"We were watching it on TV when the cable station just went blank. I knew something had to be wrong and I turned on the radio. That's when we found out. It's just devastating; you just feel so deeply hurt."

Schools Reflect Sadness

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Winchester High teacher George Watson had been ready to honor teacher-astronaut Christa McAuliffe with an award from the New England History Teachers' Association.

Watson, association president, as well as others in the local school system, was devastated by Tuesday's fiery space shuttle explosion.

A moment of silence was observed throughout the schools where students had watched the explosion on live television.

On Tuesday night, even the usual crowd of parents and observers failed to appear at the regular School Committee meeting.

Winchester School Committee Chairman Edward F. O'Connell called for a moment of silence Tuesday night to honor McAuliffe and the six astronauts who died.

O'Connell said, "We're all aware of tragic events of this morning and we're proud of the fact that someone from the world of education took part. We admire her for her valor."

School Board member Catherine Alexander said, "It was devastating — more devastating because it was the first time so many young students were involved in the preparation and the excitement of the Challenger."

"It is a horrifying tragedy — there will be a more serious psychological effect on young people than ever before," said Alexander.

Some people, including Alexander, expressed concern that the media coverage provided for an even more painful picture, as the explosion was repeated on television and radio.

Alexander said she was also upset that students at Concord, N.H., schools, where McAuliffe taught, were subjected to an "intrusion of privacy" by television cameras.

"I think the person who kept reporters from the school is someone who has gained my respect," said Alexander. She said if Winchester were faced with such a tragedy she hoped officials would be especially sensitive.

Bob Driscoll, a Winchester High School student representative, said the high school observed a moment of silence at the end of Tuesday's school day.

He added that the past week had been an "emotional one" for students, after the recent deaths of two classmates, a rash of school vandalism and mid-term examinations.

Driscoll said students watched "stone-faced" crowded around television sets in classrooms and in study halls.

"Having it take place in front of your eyes on television is rare," said Driscoll adding that "the first thing I thought of was the teacher."

High School To Beef Up Its Burglar Alarm System

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

The School Department plans to install a second alarm system at the Winchester High School, in the wake of a costly vandalism spree there about two weeks ago.

Supt. Charles Mitsakos also reported on Tuesday that damage is estimated at closer to $2,000 instead of the $1,000 initial guess.

School officials questioned whether the school alarm system was working when the Jan. 16 spree took place. No alarms were received by the police department, according to reports.

Mitsakos said about $1,000 worth of windows were smashed and $900 in audiovisual equipment was damaged.

Police report they have some suspects in the case, but have so far not released any more information.

Last week, school workers and students pitched in to offer a $400 reward for information leading to arrest of the vandals.

Mitsakos said on Tuesday that no such information has been brought forth so far.

In other School Committee action, the board:

•AGREED TO vote on the fiscal budget for 1986-87 at its next meeting on Feb. 11.

HEARD AN UPDATE on plans for the Winchester Police Department to move out of its temporary quarters at the Lynch School.

"The best estimate is — not much longer — a matter of days," said Supt. Mitsakos. He added, "I'll believe the move has been made when I drive in to the parking lot and find a space."

•LEARNED THAT committee member Catherine Gallo, who was not at the meeting, officially submitted her resignation to the town clerk, opening up a two-year seat for the town elections in March. So far, however, no candidates have announced their intentions to run for the posts.

•WAS INFORMED that on Feb. 6 at 2:30 p.m. there will be a staff recognition day honoring teachers who have served the Winchester school system for 10 or more years.

Board OKs License Change

By JILL M. HIGGINS

The town's sole liquor store was granted a license change on Monday — a move that owner Nicholas Buonopane says is only a routine legal action.

Selectmen approved transfer of the individual retail liquor license to that of a corporation, with an amendment that any transfer of stock or the license must be approved by the Selectmen.

The transfer still must be okayed by the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission, according to law.

Winchester Wine and Spirits Inc. on Main st. becomes the license holder. Until now, it has been listed as held only in Buonopane's name.

Buonopane's lawyer, Henry Quill, said the transfer ensures that the license ownership can more easily be passed down through generations of the Buonopane family.

The board still can renew or deny the license each year, added Quill.

Also at Monday night's session, the board:

•APPROVED a request from the League of Women Voters to rent out Town Hall auditorium for a "Meet The Candidates" forum in March.

•WAS INFORMED of the appointment of Helen Cullen, of 4 Bushnell terr., as an office worker for the Town Manager's office.

•RECEIVED NOTICE of the formal resignation of Winchester School

Committee member Catherine Gallo. In her letter to Town Clerk Carolyn Ward, Gallo said, "I want to give you sufficient time to advertise and have my replacement elected by the people of Winchester, not appointed."

•RECEIVED a copy of the Massachusetts Housing Partnership questionnaire from Housing Authority Executive Director Jeremiah Keefe.

•WAS NOTIFIED of a $1000 bequest from United Way.

•RECEIVED A MEMO from the Massachusetts Municipal Assoc. regarding binding arbitration legislation to reinstitute binding arbitration is included in the 1986 legislative agenda.

Firefighters Rate New Headquarters

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Winchester firemen gave a cool reception to their portion of the refurbished Public Safety Building.

"It's better than living in a trailer," said Capt. John Regan, referring to the temporary quarters of the department dispatcher since last April.

According to the original plans, the fire department would not have to move while renovations costing $2.7 million were underway.

However, the department actually vacated from last April until Jan. 17, when the department moved back from the Department of Public Works headquarters on Lake St.

The Star was unable to find a single fireman on duty the following Monday who was entirely enthusiastic about the refurbished building.

Capt. Regan said the new heating system works too well, pointing out that the temperature on the ground floor was too high.

Unless heating system improvements are made, he said, the new thermopane plexiglass panes in the front doors may not save the town as much in heating costs as expected. Another change in the building has added an "easy-open" hatch around two traditional brass sliding poles from the firemen's lounge upstairs to the ground floor. The hatches open when a weight is applied to the poles. The renovations are not complete and a "punch list" of finished tasks is still to be accepted.

A policeman said he couldn't complain because "all of our equipment is new" but he wondered aloud if it made sense to spend nearly $3 million without replacing firemen's old desks — including one which has no drawer handles.

The police department has not moved back from the Lynch School basement to the Public Safety Building but the dispatch center is now in its new home. A trailer which served as a temporary communications center has disappeared.

Comments about the renovations ranged from one man who called the project "an embarrassment" to another who suggested the town might better have asked policemen and firemen "what they really need" before going ahead.

One policeman ended the discussion: "Remember, we all like to complain. But there's no doubt the new building is going to be better than what we had before — even if it was supposed to be done in July," he said.

More Than 350 Fingerprinted In 1985

When 1985 "I-DENT-A-KID" program was successfully completed last December, over 350 children were fingerprinted, in the latest program in the public and private school systems.

Since the program began in May of 1984, more than 3,000 children ranging from Junior High School students to toddlers, have been fingerprinted in Winchester.

The "I-DENT-A-KID" program is a tool used by law enforcement agencies to identify missing children. Fingerprints can be electronically transmitted to a central agency in Washington, D.C. where a possible match can be made.

The Winchester "I-DENT-A-KID" Committee, which coordinates the program in the town, is comprised of representatives from the police department, Community School Assoc., Teachers Assoc., principals, school committee, selectman, private schools and the Hackett Mercutio Insurance agency, which underwrites the costs of the program. The public schools' portion is coordinated through the Superintendent's office.

Winchester residents David Bracken, Paul Medwar and Mark Mulluany and Bobby Beliveall of Stoneham were saddened with the Patriots' defeat Sunday. The men left Friday afternoon to drive to New Orleans for the Super Bowl game against Chicago.

The Winchester Star LIBRARY NEWS

Library Offers Museum Passes

What comes from the library, is used and enjoyed by adults and children alike, opens new worlds, but isn't a book or a record or a videocassette?

It's a museum pass, and the Winchester Public Library has a collection of passes to 11 different museums available to Winchester residents.

A new brochure on the pass program, designed and written by the reference staff, lists the participating museums, gives addresses, phone numbers, hours, and describes the pass program. Copies are available at the library.

The "Big Four" Boston museums, the New England Aquarium, the Children's Museum, the Museum of Science, and the Museum of Fine Arts, all participate in the pass program, providing the library with passes to admit from 2 to 4 people. However the passes can also be used to explore some of the Boston area's newer and lesser known attractions.

The Computer Museum at Museum Wharf, for example, offers dozens of hands-on exhibits, including computer aided design, flight simulators, and talking computers. Currently they are featuring an exhibit of the winning entries in the 1985 Computer Graphics Image contest.

The Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum is a 15th century style Venetian palazzo located on the Fenway in Boston which contains the personal art collection and impressive floral displays in the courtyard.

For a taste of New England's past, the Peabody Museum in Salem features exhibits of maritime history, regional natural history, and Asian, African and Pacific cultures. Current special exhibits focus on the influence of Indian civilization on New England merchants and mariners, steamship history, and "Art and Science of Navigation."

Passers are also available to the Decoroda Museum in Lincoln, the Institute of Contemporary Art, and the Massachusetts Audubon Society Wildlife Sanctuaries throughout the state.

The most recent addition to the library's collection are two individual passes to the Museum of Modern Art in New York City, which may be borrowed for up to a week at a time.

In addition to the Museum Pass brochure, the reference desk has copies of literature from the participating museums, including calendars of upcoming events available for examination.

Passes for Boston area museums are loaned for 24 hours, or from Saturday to Monday when the library is closed on Sundays. Any Winchester resident may borrow the passes (one per family per day). Advance reservations are highly recommended, and can be made in person or by calling the Winchester Public Library Reference Desk.

The Junior Library welcomes Spring with two series of storytimes, one for three year olds and one for four year olds. The series will start March 12, and run for 6 weeks in the Junior Library.

Stories for Threes will run on Wednesdays, with two sessions, one from 10:30 to 11 a.m., and one from 1:30 to 2 p.m. To be eligible to attend this series, children must have had their third birthday before March 12, 1986.

Stories for Fours will be held on Thursdays, from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m., and again from 1:15 to 2:00 p.m. This series is for children who are four by March 13, and for 5 year olds who are not in Kindergarten.

Children's Librarian Heidi Zeibig is planning programs to include story telling, songs, games, finger plays and simple crafts.

Preregistration is required for these storytimes, as space is limited. Registration begins Monday, February 10, in the Junior Library. For more information, call the Junior Library at 721-7140.

Behind-The-Scenes Duo Keeps McCall On Track

By Eileen Schlorff
Special To The Star

A visitor to McCall Junior High School arrives at a scene of seemingly chaotic activity.

Two students are reporting for office help, a custodian needs a locker combination, a parent arrives to take an ill student home, and three workmen show up to fix the elevator.

At the office counter, Florence Lerigis patiently sorts out the problems, as she does each school day, with the regular myriad of demands of a large school office.

Head custodian Anthony DeTeso appears and immediately takes charge of the elevator repairmen, his voice drifting back as he explains the problem on the way to the ailing elevator.

Florence Lerigis and Anthony DeTeso, McCall's own version of a "dynamic duo," offer unobtrusive, but vital support to students and staff. Though perhaps some times unnoticed by students in their daily school life, Lerigis and DeTeso make immediate impressions to the casual visitor to McCall.

Lerigis, as secretary to principal, Evander French Jr., is often the first person to greet visitors to the school. The sparkling appearance of the school halls, meanwhile attest to the hard work of DeTeso and his staff.

DeTeso has seen many changes occur in the McCall building. A native of Winchester, DeTeso attended McCall when it was Winchester Junior High.

Now that some community organizations such as "Kids' Corner" and the Recreation Department are housed at McCall, DeTeso has more responsibilities than ever before.

"There is no one in the school or in the school system who knows more or cares more about the McCall Junior High school building than Anthony DeTeso. In the two years that I have worked with Tony, he has come up with a number of good ideas for building improvement. He has been indispensable," said McCall principal Evander French Jr.

Hired in 1967, when McCall was housed in the current Lincoln Elementary School, DeTeso became head custodian when McCall moved to its present location in 1973.

"I no longer have the contact with the student that the men in the corridors have. You can usually find me in my office, but the students don't know who this gray-haired guy is," says DeTeso.

Caring for a building that has more than 600 pairs of feet tracking mud, salt, or snow every day would give some people pause, but DeTeso obviously has everything well under control.

"We do the general cleaning in the summertime. Every single room in the building is washed, walls, floors, everything is washed and waxed. Then, during every vacation during the year we concentrate on the cafeteria. It is completely cleaned, and if any small area needs painting, it's done then, too, but our big cleaning is still in the summer," he explained.

Classrooms and halls are swept and cared for every day, of course, and the staff rotates two shifts from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. The staff also works Saturdays, and even snow days.

DeTeso laughs. "There was only one snow day we lost and that was during the blizzard of 1978. The first day I couldn't get out of my house, and then from that day on we came in every day."

Without even the occasional vacation of a snow day, DeTeso generally is in the building every morning by 6:45. He checks the heat, has the sidewalks and steps cleared, and has things well in hand before the first student enters the building.

The other member of the "dynamic duo," Florence Lerigis, started working for the school system in 1966 at the former Lynch Junior High.

She also merits high praise from French. "Florence Lerigis has been a hardworking, capable, thoughtful secretary for nearly 20 years and served four different principals. In my judgement, she's a wonderful person and a super secretary. I could not have gotten along without her during my two years as principal.

In talking to the long time secretary, it immediately becomes clear that she enjoys her job very much and fully appreciates the unique position of a school secretary.

"Any person five years out of a business school could handle the office routine. The big thing here is that one has to be able to communicate with parents, with the public, with the administration, and with the student and hopefully do a good job," she said.

"In my opinion, the position requires one to be pleasant, composed, discreet, sophisticated, and knowledgeable. Of course, it goes without saying that confidentiality is a very important factor."

Besides doing a good job in a school with a student population of about 350 and faculty of 60, Lerigis shows a great deal of sensitivity in her perceptions of the particular age of the student body.

"Until recently, we were a three-year school, grades 7, 8, and 9. It was interesting to watch them come in from sixth grade, so new, so frightened, and so worried about how they were going to get along.

"In the 8th grade, they perhaps were still a little young, but looking to these very sophisticated ninth graders, and weren't sure whether they wanted to be that, either."

"So, in my opinion, the eighth grade level in a 3-year school is the most difficult for the student. I strongly feel that the fact that the ninth grade went to the High School makes it much easier for the students in this school because here they go through a transition and gain experience and then have another year of transition at the High School. It's a much easier way to go for the student."

A seven-page job description can hardly cover the office detail Lerigis handles in her 52-week job. She maintains all budget requisitions, inventory and expenses for the school, as well as all or injured students. She prides herself on having recognized the symptoms of three emergency appendices over the years.

Florence Lerigis' eyes soften as she reflects on her years of service to Lynch and McCall Junior High Schools and says one thing has always been consistent: "Over the nearly 20 years that I have been in the system, we have a great staff here at this level. The staff is super and always has been. There has been no change; they've always been good and give the students wonderful training at the Junior High Level. They try to help the student struggling to grow up as much as they can, and I hope the students feel that we in the office try to help them as much as we can, also."

Like Anthony DeTeso, Florence Lerigis shows great pride in doing a good job.

Ambrose School second graders are now studying the United States Colonial life. They have studied the colonists' religion, occupations, crafts, toys, and clothing. Soon they will begin studying colonial food and cooking some specialties at school. The culminating activity will be "Colonial Day" which will be held in the Town Hall from noon to 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, February 27.

Halley's Comet Activities Set

Ambrose School Library has its own Halley's Comet, but it's missing its tail. Reading "tales" to make a "tail" for the comet is the newest project for student readers at the school.

Fifth, Sixth Grade Students

Fifth and Sixth grade Social Studies Classes at Ambrose School

recently completed their study of the American Revolution and the United States Constitution. The culminating activity involved groups of students working together to create collages which depicted events of early American history.

From this historical period, the classes will now begin a study of westward expansion. As an integral part of their study, capitals

Kindergarteners Keeping Busy

Kindergarten artists have been busy during this winter season, as each child contributed something to the new winter mural in each classroom. The children have also begun to fill up the pages of their new coloring books, which are part of a special series to reinforce reading readiness skills as well as work habits.

Lincoln Students Study Space

Lincoln School students Alexander Vander Ven, Clare Jacobs, Helen Kenny, Peter Lee, and Christine Cook worked with third grade teacher Paula Tranchita and instructional specialist Joanne Martignette on space exploration in reading class. On display are dioramas, posters, and mobiles on the solar system, Halley's Comet and meteors.

The students also used the Macintosh Computer to write reports to go along with their projects.

Resident Talks On Halley's

Members of the Lynch School's Halley's Comet Discussion Group got a real treat on January 21st when local personality Clarence Borggaard visited their luncheon meeting and told them of his sighting of Halley's Comet in 1910. Borggaard was ten years old when he viewed the comet and many students and staff gathered to hear him retell the memory.

Lynch Library Eyes Poetry

Poetry is the theme this month at the Lynch School Library. Each day, a mystery staff person randomly asks students if they have a poem in their pocket. If they do, they get to submit their name for an end-of-the-month prize drawing. Librarian Peggy Hallisey reports that the school and her box of names are bursting with poets.

William Stucky

Muraco School Studies Dinosaurs

January is "Dinosaur Month" in Patricia Slater's first grade class at Muraco School. Children have written and illustrated dinosaur stories, done "dinosaur math" and created dinosaurs on the computer. A large cardboard model of Tyrannosaurus Rex is being constructed and painted to be the class pet.

Children in Anna Oliver's kindergarten classroom have entered the magical world of Mother Goose. All curriculum areas have been centered around the Mother Goose rhymes, including art, music, counting, story telling, and listening.

A large shoe for "The Little Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" was created and decorated by the children. The culminating activity for this unit will be a visit from Mother Goose herself.

McCall Students Study Computer

Linda Popp and Mary Brazet's Chapter 1 classes at McCall Junior High have had the opportunity to work on various computer programs in the language arts area. Several of the students are composing stories using the "Bank St. Writer," "Memory Castle," "Carmen in San Diego," "Master Type," "Crossword Magic," and the "O'Brien Vocabulary Placement Test."

Students Learn About Seniors

Recently, Jeanette Baird, a Winchester senior citizen, visited Janet Daniels' seventh grade classes to share stories of her recent travels and experiences. Baird's visit proved to be an informative part of a unit on senior citizens in the V.I.P. curriculum.

Vinson-Owen Urges Reading

Vinson-Owen School has started a special silent reading program called BABAR (an acronym for Bring A Book And Read.) Every Thursday from 2:30 p.m. to 2:40 p.m., everyone at Vinson-Owen students, teachers, the secretary, the custodian, the principal and any visitors to the school, must read during BABAR Reading Time.

Now, BABAR (a purple elephant) will be seen all around the school and BABAR will be the school mascot. There will also be BABAR buttons and T-shirts, BABAR posters, and BABAR bumper stickers. And there will be a day of celebration which will be named BABAR DAY. BABAR will be the symbol of good reading habits among children and adults at Vinson-Owen.

First Graders Study Hearing

Vinson-Owen first graders are studying the similarities of people, beginning with hearing. Rachelle Isserow presented a lesson on hearing and how people who have difficulty hearing use aids to help them. Other similarities that people have to be covered in this unit will be skin, hair and eyes.

V-O Class Swaps Books

Vinson-Owen third graders have a new reading activity called "Book Swap." Each Friday, the children bring in books to share for a week, with other members of the class. Becoming a good reader is one of the most important skills learned in school. The "Book Swap" is one of many activities used in Foley's third grade to help build reading skills and make the children realize that books can be very special "friends."

Youngsters Study States

Vinson-Owen fifth graders finished up their study of the states with some interesting presentations. Patricia Williams posed as Amelia Earhart, pretending that her plane was running out of fuel over the mid-Atlantic states.

Jonathan Simeone, posing as an Alaskan talk show host, gave quite a rendition as a host.

Lessons On Family Learned

The students in the WIN program (Winchester Intervention Network) recently completed a unit on families. Everybody had an opportunity to learn about each other's families. Students and teachers brought in pictures of moms, dads, brothers, (Please see Page 7)

ASK THE EDUCATORS

Steps Help Parents Make Reading Fun

Miriam Marecek-Zeman, Ed.D., Educational Consultant and Adjunct Professor of Children's Literature, Reading, and Language Arts, Wheelock College

Question: When should a parent begin to worry about their child's reading?

We all worry about our children's development. The beginning literacy stage can cause a great deal of anxiety for parents. There are so many myths about the reading process, one of the prime ones being that all children must read by the magical age of six.

In other countries, this age varies greatly and children are given an age span of two to three years, as an example, between ages seven and nine, to master the decoding act.

As parents, we can help de-emphasize this pressure on our children, while also setting the stage for future reading by placing "reading" into a larger context of literacy development.

We can "model" reading behavior for our children. We must make conscious efforts to allow them to see us reading books for pleasure. We can increase our reading time with them from the short bedtime story to larger enjoyable half hours. We can write notes to them hoping, in turn, they will write back to us (or draw for us). The realization that children should be allowed and encouraged to write is perhaps the most revolutionary and crucial of the newer insights into beginning literacy.

Some other helpful hints to support our children in the initial literacy endeavors could include the following:

1. Weekly trips to the library, especially with fathers or grandparent role models if possible.

2. Daily "story hours" at home with variations such as: An older child reading to a younger child, a babysitter reading, or reading into a tape recorder by the child.

3. Lots of language experiences such as: a) Reading a recipe together while baking a cake; b) writing down directions for making French toast and having the child read out loud the recipe; c) helping the child make his own daily reading schedule; d) keeping a simple diary together and allowing the child to dictate a few thoughts of his own every day in his own words; e) writing thank you notes and valentines together to special friends and family, without expecting perfect standard English; and f) being tolerant and allowing children to use invented spelling as they approximate through developmental stages to more conventional writing.

There have been tremendous changes in the field of reading and language arts since when you and I went to school. Researchers, like Harste, Woodward, and Burke in their recent book, "Language Stories and Literacy Lessons" (Heinemann 1984), have accurately described these changes. You might enjoy reading Bissex's book, "GNYS AT WRK: A Child Learns to Write and Read" (Harvard 1988).

The most important concern about your child's reading and writing development is not to pressure but to help stimulate a creative learning and writing environment. And of course, read, read, read to your kids!

sisters, relatives and even pets. Many pictures showed family members sharing in special events which the students were able to tell their friends about during meeting times in school. The children learned about many important aspects of family life and structure. Some are large, some are small; some have moms and dads, some have foster parents, some live in apartments, some have farms. The students discovered that although no two are exactly alike, everybody—even the teacher—has a family.

Girls' Program Is Feb. 18-21

Does your daughter need a change from her regular after-school program? Does she need something exciting and fun to do during February vacation week? Then send her to Vacation Day Camp. This program, open to all girls (non-Scouts too!) in grades 1-5 is sponsored by Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council, and runs Tuesday and Wednesday, February 18 and 19, 1986 in Weston—and Thursday and Friday, February 20 and 21, 1986, in both Waltham and Reading. Youngsters can be off between 8:30 and 9 a.m. Girls may attend for a single day or every day. Cost is $12 per day for members and $15 per day for non-members. Call 893-6114 for registration information.

Lincoln Students 'Create' Islands

Fourth grade students of Lincoln

School have created their own islands as part of their social studies map curriculum. Students have spent time studying land features. Included with their topographical maps are sales talks describing their island getaways.

Kindergarteners Count Teeth

While studying dinosaurs, the Lincoln School Kindergarten found out that some dinosaurs had about 2,000 teeth. Every day, the children put ten styrofoam "teeth" into each of 20 bags and count by tens as the bags are mounted on a chart in rows of 100. They have gotten up to 1,300 "teeth" and are eagerly waiting to see what 2,000 teeth look like.

Third Graders Plan Play

Maria Ramirez' third graders at Lynch School recently completed a book of poetry about computers. Now they are getting ready to stage a production of The Wizard of Oz—complete with scenery and props.

College Campus Tours Scheduled

The winter schedule for College Campus Tours has been set. High school seniors who need another look at prospective colleges and juniors who want a head-start on college selections for next year are invited.

The following schools will be visited: Boston University: Thursday, Feb. 6, 1986. Van will leave W.H.S. at noon. (Release Day) University of Rhode Island: Monday, Feb. 17, 1986. Van will leave W.H.S. at 11:30 a.m.

Holy Cross/W.P.I./Clarke University: Wednesday, Feb. 19, 1986. Van will leave W.H.S. at 9 a.m. Those interested in attending the college tours, should contact the Youth Center at 721-7129.

Musical Tributes To M.L. King

Lynne Rahmeier's music classes at Lynch School have been getting a little history mixed with melodies in recent weeks. To help mark the first national celebration of Martin Luther King's birthday, Rahmeier has been teaching the students songs about the late civil rights leader.

St. Mary's Signup Begins

Parents interested in registering children at St. Mary's School of Winchester for the Fall of 1986 are invited to attend open house from 9 to 11 a.m. to be held during Catholic Schools Week on Tuesday, Feb. 4, between 9 and 11 a.m.

During this time, parents can visit classrooms of their choice. There will be refreshments served in the CCD office at 11 a.m., followed by an informal discussion with Sister Irma Meuse, school principal.

Registration applications will be taken in the school office on Wednesday, Feb. 5 from 9 to 11 a.m. for K1, K2 and Grade 1, and from 12:2 for Grades 2-7. Snow date will be Wednesday, Feb. 12, at the same times.

Parents should bring the child's immunization records, birth certificate and baptismal certificate, unless the child was baptized at St. Mary's Church, as well as the $75 registration fee, which is due at the time of application. This fee is applicable to next year's tuition.

Residents who have any questions about the open house or registration should call the school.

Campership Nominations Are Sought

Winchester Scoutmasters and Girl Scout Troop leaders have been requested to submit their nominations for the 1986 Edward S. Reynolds Memorial Awards not later than February 8, 1986.

Dr. Edward S. Reynolds was a former Winchester resident and Scoutmaster of Troop 507. He was born in Rochester, N.Y. and died at age 54 in 1983 at his home in Galveston, Texas.

Dr. Reynolds inspired young people with his enthusiasm, leadership, skill in the outdoors and sense of humor. Scouting, and especially camping, were very important to Dr. Reynolds. Pitching a tent in the rain or guiding the uninitiated through a polar bear (winter camping) weekend looked easy when he did it.

Among his many contributions to Winchester during his seven-year tenure as leader of Troop 507 was conceiving the annual Aberjona River Cleanup, a memorable spring event which involved townspeople at many levels and served to focus attention on the importance of our waterways.

The Edward S. Reynolds Memorial Fund is a charitable organization dedicated to promoting leadership and community service by Winchester Scouts. In 1983 the first camperships were awarded to Cadette Elin Goodwin, Troop 1742 and Life Scout Fritz Howard, Troop 503.

The Fund will make two or more such awards in 1986. The awards will be used to promote the ideals of Dr. Reynolds by sending deserving Boy and Girl Scouts of Winchester troops and Explorer posts to Scouting events such as resident camp, Leadership Training camp, Philmont, "Wider Opportunities," or other related Scouting activities.

Nominations should be submitted to Mr. Alfred E. Fernald, 76 Church St., Winchester, MA 01890, (729-1161). Completed forms must be submitted to the above address prior to Feb. 8, 1986.

COMMENT

A Writer's Savior

By TERRY MAROTTA

We've had a computer for a couple of years now, and though it hasn't changed our lives the way the ads all promised, it has settled in, outgrown a frisky and slightly difficult adolescence, and taken its place among us as a valued family member.

Our older children like it for the games they can play on it, measuring their skills against dragons who are crack subtractors, and three-headed grammar monsters who've got their spelling down cold.

Our baby like it for the beeping panic of protest he can put it in when he clambers up on the chair in front of it and sits down to pound out fisty fugues and victory marches on its keyboard.

But I, who am its mother, really—its main friend and feeder, the custodian of its general well-being—I like it best because of the dignified electronic hush it maintains as it goes about its business.

A computer is a silent appliance; discreet and bearing scant resemblance to the wild rattle of the blender or the dishwasher's full-throated churn.

You don't have to pound away at a computer to get results. Its keyboard is delicate, well-proportioned, and as sensitive as a Persian cat. You touch your finger to the Z key, for example—just touch it with the tip's delicate pad—and Z appears like a tiny vision on the monitor's small face. Rest it there a fraction of a second longer, and three dozen Z's race across beneath your startled gaze.

It seems to know what you want to write even before you know yourself. It anticipates your thoughts. Like half of an old married couple, it finishes your sentences for you.

Writing on a computer is effortless, hushed, as silent and sublime as the mind of God.

Writing in the past, of course, was a far different matter.

In the earliest days, it was a more than muscular chore for people. They needed a chisel, back then, to make their mark on things. They needed earplugs, too, probably, so they could stay in the same room with themselves as they hammered and chipped away at their squiggles and dots.

Later, of course, folks still had to grow their own papyrus, dry it out for a while, then pound it with rocks 'til it was flat and smooth enough to write on—all before sitting down to get a line off to Grandma over in Nineveh.

Even 200 years ago, the would-be-writer had his work cut out for him. He needed a pen first, which meant catching a goose who doubtless ran around the yard honking and wetting and making a huge fuss about this donation to the cause of literature.

Then he needed ink, which meant bundling up, packing a lunch and setting off for the woods to find enough berries to press for the dark tears they could be made to cry. It was a real day's work.

In our time, of course, typewriters made their noisy entrance onto the stage. I don't suppose an office full of these clacking things at the turn-of-the-century was much quieter than a steel factory. I know I made a pretty good racket on my own little Underwood during the great paperwriting orgy that is college.

But now I compose silently, seamlessly, with no more noise than a nun would make clearing her throat for morning devotions.

I always liked writing—since I first learned how to clutch a pencil at the age of one-and-a-half—but now I love it.

Dreaming up stuff on my well-bred computer is a joy and not a job.

I touch it gently and it responds with a corresponding gentleness.

There's a lot to be said for a relationship based on mutual restraint like this; a lot to be said in life for the soft touch.

Resident
Pledges $500
For Town Pool

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been a resident of Winchester for only two and one half years but for approximately two of them, I have been befuddled by the fact that our town is blatantly ignoring one of our greatest resources.

Winchester is a town that is renowned for its swimming talent, as well it should be. Between the Boat Club, the Swim and Tennis Club, the Winchester Country Club, Sun Valley and many backyard pools, our youngsters have the summertime opportunity to practice and learn what few other municipalities in the Commonwealth can match.

Why then are our swimmers forced to join the Medford, Belmont, Woburn, Waltham, and Harvard University teams during the off summer months? Why are our High School boys and girls teams forced to practice at the Arlington Boys Club and Wakefield Vocational School pools respectively at hours of the day and night that are inconvenient to all, from a time and distance standpoint?

We owe it to the kids of our town to have a year-round swimming facility that can accommodate their desires, their goals and their talents. I implore a local community association to sponsor a drive and initiate a positive plan to build a pool that Winchester can be proud to call its own.

I am personally willing to pledge $500 to start this idea off in the right direction. It is my sincere hope that an organization with the wherewithal and contacts to make this venture happen will deem it to be a worthwhile goal and will embrace it as their own.

Sincerely,
Greg D. Juwa

(Editor's Note: The following was received as a letter to the editor.)

The Grinch That Stole The Planters

Merchants of Winchester

'Twas the morning of Tuesday Jan. twenty first. Opened our shops and we all cursed. Lo and behold our planters were gone. Who could have been so mean as to take them away. With nary a word of their fate. Planted with love and bushes of green, everyone in town thought they were great. They brightened up a cold brick atmosphere with flowers in spring and greenery late fall. We drove around town in search of our planters by the river, back roads and ditches. Climbed hills through brambles and tore our britches. We then discovered the town had taken them. Frankly, we called to put our minds at rest. Then we were told they were safe, in the town yard nest. Someone decided they were a hazard and a blight. So they were taken away out of your sight. We mourn the loss of our beautiful planters. As the world did, when the grinch stole Christmas and Santa

It's always disturbing to encounter someone like the Rev. Harold Crowell.

I've been a big boy for a few years now, so I'm certainly aware that people like him exist.

But I'd like to think they didn't. The founder of Moral Majority in Massachusetts, Crowell falls in step with all the repugnant teachings of his spiritual guru — the infamous Rev. Jerry Falwell.

I know this to be true, because I asked him about it point blank during his debate with State Representative Barney Frank at the Newton City Hall Tuesday.

Crowell had only moments earlier conceded to Frank that Judeo-Christian fundamentalism was "the only true religion" and recognized "the only true god."

All other religions were illegitimate and invalid, Crowell said. In another exchange, Frank had criticized Falwell's public support for Ferdinand Marcos' right wing dictatorship in the Philippines and the South African minority government's handling of apartheid.

So I asked Crowell the question I felt begged asking.

I asked him if, as a self-avowed Christian and the local head of Moral Majority, Crowell felt "perfectly comfortable" with "all of" Falwell's positions "across the board."

Crowell gave his answer without a pause or even a blink.

Yes, he said easily and comfortably — you might even say perfectly comfortably.

That scares me.

It scares me because Crowell leads scores of Moral Majority members throughout Massachusetts.

And it scares me even more when I consider the larger scope of Falwell's twisted legions across the country.

There are lots of people, you see, who think exactly like Falwell and Crowell.

And it's important for the rest of us to understand how they think, if only to ensure the survival of our democracy.

If you think I sound alarmist, then you probably should have been listening to Crowell during his debate with Frank.

The debate was titled Morality And Politics, and offered sobering insight to Crowell's particular brand.

A legislator's political decisions are based on his or her morality, Crowell said, which in turn is based on his or her personal value system, which ultimately is based on his or her religion.

Crowell used that argument, throughout the debate, to suggest that all legislation by American governments should be based on religion. And that religion, of course, would be "the only true religion" —

Crowell's Judeo-Christian Fundamentalism.

Which is something to keep in mind at a time when Falwell is changing his group's name from the Moral Majority to the Liberty Foundation.

Falwell says the change is necessary because people have come to mistake his Moral Majority for a religious — instead of political — organization.

Right. I think Brother Jerry may have a problem with that one.

Especially when branch leaders like Crowell admit publicly that the organization's policies are a direct extension of its religion.

Unfortunately, Falwell's done better so far at creating problems for others than attracting problems himself.

And every time his well-funded hit campaigns help unseat another congressman who fails Falwell's Christian litmus test, we come a little closer, I think, to the preacher's utopian vision of Christian fundamentalist government.

And I don't think that's a government that any thinking American wants — no matter how patriotic a name Falwell thinks up to hide his group's intentions.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Beacon Hill Roll Call
Volume 12-Report No. 4
Massachusetts House and Senate
1985 Bills signed into law
January 24, 1985

The House and Senate. While more than 8000 bills were filed for consideration in the 1985 session, only a portion of those were actually given final approval by both the House and Senate and signed into law by Governor Dukakis.

As the House and Senate continue to meet informally in the early stages of the 1986 session, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" begins a review of bills that became law from the 1985 session.

This week's report includes bills which came to a roll call in the House only and which were approved in the Senate without a roll call vote.

Rules (H 1000). House 1421, approved the new package of House rules for the 1985-1986 session.

Key provisions include an eight year limit on the Speaker's term; easier discharge of bills from some committees; and written ratification of committee chairs.

A "Yea" vote is for the package. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Salutary (H 5023). Approved by House 143-1 and signed by Governor Dukakis was a bill granting the city of Lynn a $3.5 million interest free loan and making several changes in the management system of the city.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Joint Rules (S 2170). House 111-31, approved a package of joint House-Senate rules for the 1985-1986 session. Provisions include giving committees oversight powers, requiring each committee to hold a public hearing on its bills; and providing an outside independent audit of joint financial accounts.

A "Yea" vote is for the package. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Salutary (S 1729). Approved by House 84-62 and signed by Governor Dukakis was a bill abolishing causes of action for alienation of affection.

Sponsors said the bill will abolish a common law which allows suits against third parties for breaking up a marriage.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Salutary (S 6236). Approved by House 121-19 and later signed by the Governor as part of the fiscal 1986 budget was this amendment providing an additional $100,000.

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Salutary (S 6236). Approved by House 121-19 and later signed by the Governor as part of the fiscal 1986 budget was this amendment providing an additional $100,000.

CLUB NOTES

Winton Club
Show Begins

"Celebrate." Winton Club's 1986 Cabaret, opened at the Town Hall on Monday evening with a special early-hour performance for young people. Performances continue nightly through this Saturday, February 1, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The annual Winton Club show is for the benefit of Winchester Hospital, helping to supply the hospital supplies and equipment.

Ticket sales cover the costs of producing the show, including professional directors, lighting, sound and costumes, but it is the sale of advertising space in the show program to over 900 local businesses and organizations which makes possible Winton Club's Cabaret gift to the hospital.

This week marks the culmination of a year of effort by Cabaret Chairman Marylynn Norris and the leaders of 21 Cabaret committees to bring an exciting and enjoyable show to the Winchester community.

Chris Brown, director and choreographer for "Celebrate," has been leading rehearsals every weekday night since January 8, demonstrating dance routines and exhorting, instructing and encouraging his cast of more than one hundred performers.

The cast includes many Winton Club members, but the majority of the cast are not club members. They are volunteers, from Winchester and 21 other communities, and without them a show of this magnitude would not be possible. They come to sing and to dance, to see old friends and make new ones, and to contribute their talents to a worthwhile community project.

This week through Feb. 1, audiences are being treated to a sampling of that talent.

Curling Club
Attends Bonspiel

The Winchester Curling Club will be represented at the Broomstones Ladies Bonspiel, scheduled to culminate tonight at the Broomstones Club House on Rice Road in Wayland.

Approximately 16 teams will be represented. Curlers will be arriving from New York, Connecticut, Maine, New Hampshire, and Toronto, Canada. The more local clubs participating include T.C.C. Brookline, Wellesley, Weston, Braeburn, Winchester and Cape Cod.

Chris Brown, director and choreographer, center, leads a dance routine during rehearsal for 1986 Winton Club Cabaret, "Celebrate."

A welcoming wine and cheese party will take place Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dates of Wayland. Dates is the current president of Broomstones.

On Tuesday there were three draws with the last curlers coming off the ice between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Breakfast and lunch were served at the club and in the evening the players and their hosts attended a banquet at the Wellesley Inn where they were entertained by the Sweet Adelines. On Wednesday, the draws were scheduled as on Tuesday and cocktails and dinner were served at the club.

Following breakfast this morning, there was a draw at 9:30.

The play-offs were set to take place at noon followed by the award ceremony and tea.

Belmont's Chenery School teacher Marie Doyle, an Arlington resident was one of the finalists in the Teacher in Space program. She watches a replay of the shuttle explosion.

Space Finalist Grieves For Fellow Teacher

By GEORGE DERRINGER

To teacher Marie Doyle, it didn't matter much which teacher would be the first in space.

The Arlington resident, a teacher at Belmont's Chenery Middle School, was among of 114 semifinalists in the competition to become the first teacher in space.

"We (teachers) all had a piece of our hearts on that space mission," she said Tuesday afternoon.

But to her students, it mattered greatly which teacher was aboard the Challenger.

After the explosion, she said, "Some kids came up to me and whispered 'I'm glad you're here.'"

Doyle had been at the Kennedy Space Center since Jan. 23, waiting to see the space shuttle take New Hampshire teacher Christa McAuliffe into orbit.

"A lot of the semifinalists were down there, but many of us left Monday when it appeared cold weather would prevent the launch Tuesday," she recounted. "This morning, I was sorry I had flown back to Boston."

An uncomfortable memory raced through Doyle's mind Tuesday afternoon.

"I had been asked in an interview for Teacher in Space whether I would go if I knew there was only a 50-50 chance of returning to earth safely. I said I wouldn't go — but I never believed those were the odds."

Students, teachers and staff of Chenery Middle School in Belmont were excited Tuesday morning as the lift-off approached.

"We had TV sets in every room," Doyle said. "Remember, it was the kids who originally encouraged me to apply for the space program."

Tears of shock soon filled the school, especially the room in which Doyle teaches sixth-graders.

"We saw the furls of smoke and saw them in weird configurations. Something just didn't look right and then we saw billows of smoke and flame in all directions," she said. There were 42 kids and another teacher in the room.

Doyle looked in horror at the other teacher and said it couldn't be happening. "No, it's impossible," she said.

Sixth graders couldn't believe it any better than anyone else. "We heard them say there was a parachute and the kids began assuring each other the astronauts would be okay," Doyle said.

Doyle had to leave the room as the truth of the space shuttle tragedy became all too apparent.

"The kids went to lunch but other teachers said everyone in the lunch room was very upset," Doyle recounted.

Her team-teaching partner asked Doyle to return to the room to speak to the students after lunch.

"I just told them that we were all very upset and suggested we might want to go home tonight and pray for the families of the astronauts," Doyle said.

Doyle said the day may turn out to rival the assassination of President John Kennedy in the memories of American people. In 1963, Americans also had to face the unpredictability of reality. Most can remember where they were when they heard the news in 1963, she said.

"The kids will rebound from the emotional shock," Doyle said. "But I think they'll also have a new realization that nothing's perfect."

Doyle's students had been heavily involved in the flight of Challenger and Doyle had distributed books and buttons she picked up during her visits to Cape Canaveral.

"In recent weeks we'd been talking about our magnificent American system, our brilliant engineers and our advanced technology. In fact, we finished a unit about astronomy just a couple of weeks ago."

Doyle said the flight of Challenger seemed "like a joint venture between scientists and educators. After all, we're the people who educate the engineers and physicists of the future."

Doyle reflected on the safety precautions taken in the space program.

"They have double and triple systems for everything and the shuttle launch can be done only when the wind is 15 miles per hour," she said.

In fact, she said, wind conditions must be perfect in order to allow the space shuttle to abort the mission in case of trouble.

"If they have just a little warning, the astronauts can release the shuttle from the rockets; the shuttle will then glide to earth in the water," she explained.

Doyle said the Tuesday mission was especially close to schoolchildren, teachers and the American public overall.

"Everyone knew Christa McAuliffe. She seemed to be a regular American and everyone could identify with her in some way."

"Her presence on the mission was a real message that any one of us might be able to be an astronaut."

At Chenery Middle School there will be no social studies lesson from space Friday.

Instead, the mourning will continue and students will realize that one of the astronauts on the tragic mission could easily have been their sixth-grade science and social studies teacher.

STAR SPORTS

Another High Point Of The Year

Winchester and Melrose wrestlers battle for key points on recent match won by Sachems.

(Whitney Gay photo)

Sachem Wrestlers 3rd In Tourney

By WHITNEY GAY
Special To The Star

With Winchester High rolling through a very lethargic Melrose team 56-3, on Thursday, Jan. 23, the Methuen tournament became the focus of the weekend for the wrestling Sachems.

The team was healthy throughout its weight classes and had exam week behind them. Admittedly, the Jan. 25 Methuen tournament fields the finest teams North of Boston, but Winchester had set its sights high.

The Methuen tournament includes twelve teams, each weight class being placed in a double elimination bracket so that a wrestler continues until he loses two matches.

The team that can send as many wrestlers along through the brackets will become the winner based on awarded points. Points are awarded to the winner of each individual match.

Winchester wrestled well Saturday Jan. 25, but came up short of gaining a first place finish.

The first of the four finalists was tough Greg Doherty. By far, Winchester's most frustrating match as the two wrestlers were very evenly matched. With fifteen seconds left in the match Doherty worked into a reversal, gaining a 7-7 deadlock only to lose his man to an escape with three seconds left.

At the 129 weight class Alex Puchulu wrestled Devivo of Tewksbury, an excellent stand up wrestler. Co-captain Puchulu wrestled a solid match only to find himself behind with time running out. Alex had to settle for a second place finish.

In the 135 pound class Paul Murray ran into an aggressive Bourassa of Methuen. Sachem's Murray had to take some chances in the third period to try and pick up points. Murray found himself in danger of being pinned but hung on to lose by decision.

With only one Sachem left for the evening and the last chance to gain team points, co-captain Anthony Mercado locked up with Defonso of Milford. Mercado gained the quickest victory of the night stunning his opponent by slapping on a pinning combination from the stand up position.

With all points tallied, Winchester stood alone in third place behind the winning Lowell team and followed by a tough, Woburn squad. Our only loss came at the hands of Lowell.

The road to the Middlesex Championship must go through Woburn. The Sachems must keep their sights on the upcoming Woburn Tanner's match.

Hoopsters Bounce Back After Loss

By DAVID DEMARCO

The Sachems had an interesting week as they were beaten by Wakefield on Thursday, Jan. 23, 59-45, only to bounce back Saturday evening by defeating Melrose High in a thrashing 46-47, a 48 point Winchester victory. The team record now stands at 9-4, and in third place in the Middlesex League.

The Sachems came in against Wakefield without Mark Shaw, who is sidelined indefinitely with a bad ankle injury.

Winchester did play well Tuesday and Wakefield was at the top of its game. Turnovers hurt the Sachems in the first quarter as they could only manage an 8-3 lead. It was, however, the last lead that Winchester would have all evening.

Wakefield put away twelve unanswered points in the second quarter to give the Warriors a 26-18 lead at the half.

"Their outside shooting has been good in the second quarter," said Mark Shaw. Wakefield slowed the pace down in the second. "They're making us play their style of game. Wakefield has been very patient in their offenses. We're having trouble with their press and they're playing great defense," said Shaw at the end of the first half.

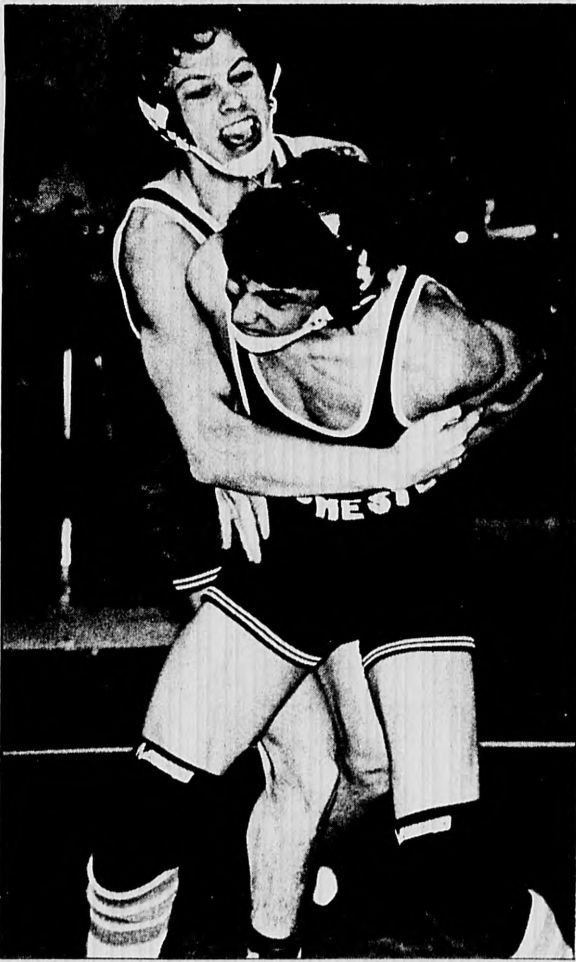

Winchester seemed to be rushing too much on offense, and it hurt in the second quarter. David DeGrotte led the Sachems at the half with 10 points.

Wakefield came out in the second half to neutralize DeGrotte and hold Shaw to only two more baskets in the later stages of the game.

The Warriors were able to shut down the inside game, as the shots were not falling for the Sachems in the third quarter. Winchester was unable to get the score down below 7 points.

The Sachems played their best basketball on the night in the fourth quarter, scoring 19 points. Unfortunately for the Sachems, so did Wakefield, which grabbed 23 points. Hank Lynch had an excellent second half and was Winchester's leading scorer for the night, with 15 points.

PeeWee Team Makes It Close

The Winchester Pee Wee Hockey Team traveled to Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada on January 1, 1986 to participate in the 18th Annual Saint John Christmas Invitational Hockey Tournament, and came within one period of playing in the championship game.

The team and families arrived in Saint John on New Year's night, where the players were then transferred to the host families of the Kennebecasis Valley Hockey Team, where they would spend the next four days.

After starting last year's tournament with a heartbreaking loss and a tie to put them out of the running early, this year's Pee Wee team started with two wins and a tie: a 4-2 win over Kennebecasis Valley, a 4-3 win over previously once beaten (22-1) Saint John Central, and a 2-2 tie with tournament favorite Quispamsis, before losing to tournament winner Campbellton 7-2.

The first win over Kennebecasis Valley set the tone for the fired up Pee Wees, as they dominated play from the outset, scoring first and never looking back. Eric Saunders sandwiched two goals around game M.V.P. Fred Sato's two goals, turning aside two breakaways.

After resting for 4 hours, the Winchester team faced previously once beaten Saint John Central. Winchester scored three times in the first period on goals by John Cucinatti, Eric Saunders and Fred Sato, for a 3-0 lead. Saint John tied the game with three second period goals as Winchester sat back and watched. The Pee Wees came alive again in the third period on a goal by Fred Sato early in the period, and played a superb defensive game, including more excellent goaltending by Phil Vultaggio, to ice the victory. Fred Sato was again game M.V.P.

On Friday, after two wins, the team was the talk of the town. Moving into the third game against Quispamsis (2-0, 22-1) in a game that could have decided the division champion, but it ended in a 2-2 tie. Quispamsis had lost one game all season to Saint John Central and was one of the pre-tournament favorites. Quispamsis scored first early in the game for a 1-0 lead.

Halfway through the period, Winchester tied the score as Fred Sato stole the puck and beat the goalie on a beautiful shot. With one minute remaining in the second period, Quispamsis scored again on a mix up in front of the net for a 2-1 lead. With two minutes remaining in the game, hard work by Geoff Duval and Fred Sato netted Fred his 8th goal of the tournament, and another M.V.P. game. Once again, Phil Vultaggio was excellent, turning away 26 Quispamsis shots.

On Saturday, the Winchester team faced previously once beaten Campbellton (2-1) needing a win or a tie to move into the championship game on Sunday against the other division winner. Campbellton jumped off to a 2-0 lead, scoring at 13:07 and :03 of the first period. Winchester cut the score in half on a goal by John Cucinatti, set up by Brian Walsh and Tim Haskell on a beautiful passing play. Campbellton scored again in the second period to take a 3-1 lead, but less than a minute later John Cucinatti circled the net and tucked the puck behind the Campbellton goalie to cut the lead to 3-2.

Campbellton scored early in the third period to take a 4-2 lead. With 8 minutes remaining, Winchester seemingly scored on a pile up in front of the net, but the goal was disallowed for unknown reasons. This seemed to break Winchester's back, as Campbellton went on to score four more times to post a crushing 7-2 defeat on Winchester. The final score does not indicate the intensity with which Winchester played, nor the fact that an important goal was disallowed. Campbellton was the tournament winner, defeating Fredericton, N.B., 5-2 in the championship game.

Fred Sato was the runner up in the tournament M.V.P. voting, a superb effort with the fact that there are over 700 players in the tournament. Phil Vultaggio was outstanding in goal, turning aside over 90 shots in four games. Eric Saunders turned in an excellent performance, as did Geoff Duval and John Cucinatti who almost broke open the Campbellton game.

The friendships made last year with Lancaster were renewed, and new friendships were made with the host Kennebecasis Valley team and their families. All players made an outstanding contribution to the success of the Winchester team in the tournament, both on and off the ice. The final record of 2 wins, 1 loss and 1 tie earned the team the respect of everyone they played in front of or against.

Fred Sato had 6 goals and 3 assists, John Cucinatti and Eric Saunders had 3 goals apiece. Assists: (Please turn to PEEWEES, Page 12)

WHS Skaters Seek First Win Of Year

By DAVID DEMARCO

The Sachems are still looking for that first victory as Winchester was defeated by Wakefield on Tuesday, Jan. 23, 8-1, and beaten by Melrose Saturday, 7-3. Winchester is in last place with a 0-12 record. Only six games remain.

On Tuesday the Sachems were never really in the game, as Wakefield jumped out to a 3-0 lead at the end of the first period.

As has been the case all year, Winchester would be unable to recover. Wakefield's Scott Defeo scored at 8:01 of the first, giving the Warriors the game-winning goal. The Sachem lone goal came at 3:55 of the second period by Chris Giso.

Gregg Winn assisted on the goal and has been playing well all year. Winn, only a sophomore, should be an important asset to next year's team.

On Saturday, Jan. 26, the Sachems played a bit better. Winchester was able to hold Melrose to a 2-2 score after one period.

Bill Terry and John Guiderson both scored for the Sachems in the first period. Guiderson's goal actually gave the Sachems a 2-1 lead at 12:16. High performer Gregg Winn assisted on both Winchester goals.

The second period saw Melrose take over, as they grabbed three unanswered goals to make the score 5-2.

Winchester's Derek Binding put one away at 11:35 of the third, but by that time it didn't really matter much.

Four out of the next six games the Sachems face will be against teams that are either at .500 or below.

Only one game is coming up this week for Winchester. The Sachems were set to travel to Watertown on Wednesday night with a 6 p.m. face off. Watertown is 4-5-3 and currently in seventh place.

Boys Swim Team Still Leads League

After a relatively easy win over Burlington on Jan. 18, Winchester High Swim coach Roy Coates is gearing up his Sachems for their toughest battle of the season.

The Sachems will clash with a strong Minuteman team on Feb. 4 at Lexington.

Even though T.J. Foley and Omar Ali sat out the Burlington meet, the young, strong Sachem team was able to keep their undefeated record intact. They defeated Burlington 44-35.

As the season wears on, many of the swimmers continue to improve and are achieving their personal best times.

Swimming the events for Winchester were: 200-yard Medley Relay — for first place, Jim Blasi, John Murray, Jim Bowers and Adam Laats.

For third place, John Segota, Frank Curtis, Steven Fitzgerald, and Brian Romer.

200-Yard Freestyle — first place winner Alexi Caryannopoulos and second place Mike Bowers.

200 yard individual medley for first place, Adam Laats.

50-Yard Freestyle: first place, Jim Bowers, and second place Greg O'Connor. Guy Pollino again took first place in the diving event.

100-Yard Butterfly — Mike Bowers took first place and Steven Fitzgerald for third place.

500-Yard Freestyle — for second place, Adam Laats and third place Stephen Fitzgerald.

100-Yard Freestyle — first place, Greg O'Connor and second place Jim Blasi.

100-Yard Backstroke — second place, Jim Bowers and third place, Jim Blasi.

100-Yard Breaststroke — first place, John Murray and second place, Doug Holt.

100-Yard Freestyle Relay, first place, Mike Bowers, Greg O'Connor, Alexi Caryannopoulos and Doug Holt.

Second place — Simon Kolb, Guy Pollino, Chris O'Donnell, Brian Romer.

Gymnasts Win And Lose

By DAVID DEMARCO

The little "Olgas and Nadies" of Winchester High's gymnastics team had quite a time this past week.

On Tuesday, Jan. 21, they lost a controversial meet to Stoneham High, 96.80 to 88.00.

The Sachemettes then bounced back on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 25, defeating Reading High in a close exciting meet that saw Winchester grab its second win of the season, 87.7 to 85.9.

On Tuesday afternoon, Winchester's Alysson Kessel was tops for both teams as she received a 5.6. On the beam, the best the Sachemettes could do was Emily Doherty's 5.05, as Stoneham's Laura Stun was high scorer at 6.5. Once again, Winchester's Katie Binding led the Red and Black on floor exercises, receiving a 6.25. Binding's mark was outdone by Tara Brady of Stoneham at 7.8. The vault saw Sachemette Alysson Kessel outdo both teams in points with a 7.5.

Scoring, however, was not the real story of this meet. At the onset of the day, Stoneham complained that the bar settings were incorrect. After some discussion, the bars were altered; as a result, the Spartanettes received more practice time.

The Winchester team was obviously upset with the decision to alter the bars and reactions encompassed passive acceptance to outright anger.

"I have nothing to say about it," stated a distraught Katie Binding. By far, though, the most disturbed reaction came from senior co-captain Daphne Pizaris.

"Stoneham told the judges we didn't know what we were doing. We have had those bar settings for three previous meets and nothing was said. As a result we had to go first and they got more practice time," said Pizaris.

Freshmen Sharron Moore and Kristen Rielly were a bit more lenient. "They screwed up on the bars and still scored high," added Moore. "We did good but we could have done a lot better," said Rielly.

The Sachemettes had a lot more to cheer about on Saturday as their second victory of the season was a close one.

Star of the week and possibly the year has to go to sophomore Alysson Kessel. Again, she dominated the bars and vault for Winchester. On the bars, Kessel received a 6.0, outdone only by Reading's Michelle McGonagle with a 7.1. With the vault, Alysson led both teams netting a 7.8.

On the beam, tall Emily Doherty was meet leader with a 5.65. As usual the "Little Scooter," Katie Binding proved she's the best at floor exercises with a two team high score of 6.45.

"I am really psyched we won. Everyone looked strong in a very close meet, but I am still not satisfied personally," commented a much happier Daphne Pizaris.

The twins, Susan and Sharon Moore seemed satisfied. "The judges were fair today," said Sharon; while sister Susan added, "We did pretty good today. They didn't do too well on the beam."

The Sachemettes were scheduled for only one meet this week, as they traveled to Melrose on Tuesday, Jan. 28, to face the Red Raiders.

Hoopsters Suffer Losses

By DAVID DEMARCO

Well, the Sachemettes kept skidding along that parquet floor this week as they dropped two basketball games.

On Thursday, Jan. 23, superteam Wakefield High gave Winchester a worse beating than McMahon gave the Patriots, sending the Sachemettes reeling from a 37-point score, 63-26.

On Saturday, Jan. 26, the Sachemettes let a two-point halftime deficit slip into 17 points at the hands of Melrose High, 45-28.

The less said about the Wakefield game, the better. Julie Guarnotta led Winchester with 9 points. Wakefield was paced by the powerful tandem of Sydlowski and Majeski. Big Martha Sydlowski was highest at 16 points.

On Saturday afternoon, Winchester played good first-half ball, going into the third quarter down 17 to 19. In the second half, the Sachemettes were just overwhelmed.

Meghan Guarnotta had an outstanding first half, creating a lot of turnovers and penetrating well.

In the third quarter Melrose shut down the lanes and effectively eliminated the Sachemette inside game. It was brick laying time, as Winchester was forced into taking poor percentage outside shots. The Sachemettes also drew more than their share of fouls.

At the end of the third period Winchester was down by 10 points, 33-22. Melrose had figured out that the way to beat Winchester was to zone out their inside game and let them shoot outside.

As Melrose began to penetrate at will in the fourth quarter, the Sachemettes seemed to be suffering from, as one fan put it "stationary zoning."

Winchester high scorer was Mary Ellen Feeney with eight points. The Melrose leader was Mary Ann Byrne with 21 total points.

"We had a pretty decent first half but we had a 'minor' let down in the third quarter," said Mary Ellen Feeney.

Sophomore Alyssa Parker had a different view on the loss. "It was just that that Orphan Annie girl on the other team was so good."

"It was tough on our guards because of their defense," said a mellow Jean Cullen.

Winchester is now 1-11 with seven games remaining. The team may not be winning but no one can knock their effort. It is still 100 percent each time they step on the court.

The Sachemettes were set to host Watertown on Tuesday. Tomorrow they travel to Burlington. Tap off time is 8:15.

Feats

Michael Carroll, 11, of Winchester, and a member of the Community School Swim Team continued his domination of age group swimming at the recent Christmas Classics held at Brown University in Providence R.I. His events included the 500 free 12th, 8th in the 100 fly with a great time, 8th in the 50 free, 7th in the 200 individual medley, 11th in the 100 free, and 9th in the 100 breast.

Overall it was a good weekend and indicates tremendous potential for the upcoming meets.

Carroll sets high goals for himself and invariably does what is necessary to achieve the goals. His hardest job this year is to continue to work hard as an 11 year old, so that he can be in the running as a 12 year old.

Nursery School Plans Day

The Winchester Cooperative Nursery School will hold its annual open house on Tuesday, Feb. 11, 8 p.m., at the Unitarian Church, 478 Main St., Winchester.

The open house provides an opportunity for interested parents to see the facilities, meet and talk with teachers and parents of children who are enrolled.

Registration for the 1986-87 school year will begin at the open house. Interested parents are encouraged to apply early. To be eligible children must be age 3 by September 1, 1986 and be Winchester residents.

Since 1968, the non-sectarian school has developed a range of pre-school programs in which parents and children share cooperative learning experiences. Parents assist the teacher on a rotating basis and are responsible for administering and maintaining the school. This cooperative approach, together with the availability of scholarships, helps keep tuition costs down.

The following classes will be offered during the 1986-87 school year: two-morning (Tuesday and Thursday) and three-morning (Monday, Wednesday and Friday) classes for three and four year olds taught by Jean Mortensen, Director of the school; and five-morning pre-kindergarten class, offering full and limited parent help options, taught by Maureen McWilliams; and a four-afternoon pre-kindergarten class taught by Martha Wilder.

For more information, call Cheryl Walker at 729-3801 or Mary Ann Freeman at 729-0961. Show date for the open house is February 12.

Locals Post 'Outstanding' Scores In 1985 SAT Tests

"Even by Winchester's traditionally high standards, the performance of students on standardized tests in 1985 was outstanding," says Superintendent David B. Ackerman.

Ackerman presented an annual report of test scores to the school committee Tuesday night and noted several "significant jumps" in scores, including one which broke a 12-year Winchester pattern.

High school students showed dramatic improvement on Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SATs), Ackerman said. In 1984, Winchester students improved their average scores in the Verbal SAT from the 450-468 range to 480. Last year, the improvement was maintained with Winchester students improving to an average of 485. The national average, for comparison, was 431.

On the SAT Quantitative (math) test, improvement was even more dramatic.

"Winchester High School students had been in a holding pattern for 12 years," the superintendent said, "getting scores in the 499 to 513 range all those years. Even so, we were pleased because the national average was going down."

"But in 1985, our average jumped to 533 while the national average rose four points to 475," Ackerman said. The number of students taking the SAT was not a factor, the superintendent said. "We don't have the total figures from the SAT people yet but we think the percentage of students taking the SAT actually increased from 91 to 93 last year," he said.

Is Winchester's improvement from a 12-year holding pattern on the math test a trend?

"We'd like to think we've turned the corner," the superintendent answered, "but one year does not make a trend."

The superintendent noted, "schools took it on the chin while average scores were going the other way (down), and we want the public to know about the positive recent trends."

Ackerman also noted "continued excellent performance" on the College Board Achievement test, including the best set of figures in five years, compared with other groups including Bedford, Belmont, Concord-Carlisle, Framingham, Lexington, Needham, Newton, Lincoln-Sudbury, Wayland and Weston.

Winchester High School's performance on the Advanced Placement test also improved during 1985, with the percentage of 5's (the highest score) increasing from 23 to 30 percent and the percentage of 2's decreasing from 21 to 11 percent.

Grades 1-8 scored the best achievement results attained in the four years that the STEP (Sequential Test of Educational Progress) has been in use, including the attainment of 12 four-year high sub-test scores, as compared to four four-year lows.

Ackerman also said other achievement scores were encouraging. In the seventh grade, for example, there were 335 higher-than-expected scores and 54 lower (than expected).

Asked to explain the apparent improvement in scores, Ackerman suggested the current cultural environment is "the reverse of the early 1970's. Students and their parents are more serious about learning, perhaps."

Original Benefactor Donates $250,000 For Expansion

A gift of $250,000 has been made to the Jenks Senior Center for the Building Expansion Program by Mrs. James Jenks of Winchester. It was the generous gift of Jenks and her late husband, combined with those of hundreds of other Winchester contributors, that resulted in the construction of the present Jenks Senior Center in 1978. James Jenks, a Winchester resident for 32 years, died in 1982.

"My husband contributed to many charities during his lifetime," said Mrs. Jenks, "but this was perhaps his favorite. It was the only one, of all his many projects, that he could actually see and experience. He was proud of how the Center is run, and of the many people who volunteer their services through the Center."

"I wish to carry on what we helped to start in 1978," said Mrs. Jenks. "The Center is a valuable community resource that can no longer serve the needs of Winchester's expanding senior population. I think it is important for all of Winchester to realize that the Jenks Senior Center is their facility. I encourage everyone to join me in making the planned addition a reality."

The gift was received by Richard

Norberg, chairman of the Jenks Center Board of Trustees. "We truly appreciate this leadership gift. With it, Mrs. Jenks provides a 'foundation' for a successful expansion program. Her gift, along with the $125,000 received to date from the senior community, put us over one-third of the way toward reaching our goal of $850,000."

"We are hopeful that many other interested Winchester residents will consider the Jenks Center Expansion a worthy project, and will respond generously with their support," said Norberg.

Estate Manager Loves Dream Job Of Working In 1793 Setting

"It is the most beautiful place around Boston," said Eliza Bowne, a young visitor from New York, in 1803, of Theodore Lyman's country place in Waltham.

"I have not time to tell you of this elegant place of Mr. Lyman's great taste in laying out the grounds. It surpasses everything of the kind I ever saw," she said.

In 1793 the wealthy Boston merchant, Theodore Lyman, began construction of his summer home in Waltham, Massachusetts.

Today the historic greenhouses, 30 acres of pleasure grounds and the summer mansion are available to the public through the efforts of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities.

The greenhouse complex includes a pre-1800 greenhouse, believed to be the oldest existing greenhouse in the country, a grapery constructed in 1804 and the Camellia house, circa 1820.

These greenhouses are excellent examples of early use of solar energy.

Herbs and exotics as well as the century-old grapes from Hampton

Court and camellia trees are maintained in a pesticide-free environment. Plants are available for sale year-round.

The 30-acre estate is landscaped in the "natural" style and includes pleasure grounds and small wooded area.

This style is now familiar to the public from Omstead's work in New York City's Central park. In laying out the grounds, Lyman chose to follow the then revolutionary new style to create a summer estate of great beauty.

The Vale's Camellia House, is one of the few remnants of Boston's heritage as a center for camellia culture during the early to mid-nineteenth century.

In 1797 camellias had been introduced to America via Europe from their native areas of coastal China, Japan, and Korea.

Lyman and his colleagues grew and hybridized camellias for both research and the pleasure of their colorful flowers.

Many of the trees which bloom annually from November through March are over 100 years old.

Between the Grape and Camellia Houses in an infill structure which may have been built when central heating was introduced in the late nineteenth century.

The great arch in this section was originally a passageway from the pleasure ground into the kitchen garden.

This area now houses a variety of tropical plants, orchids, and citrus trees.

The newest greenhouse was added in 1930 to grow flowers for cutting.

It was later named for Kathryn S. Taylor, and eminent Boston horticulturist who helped restore the greenhouses and taught many courses in connection with the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

This house is now the sales area for plants propagated from the collection.

The Lyman Estate remained the Lyman family's summer residence for over 150 years until 1952 when the property was donated to the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities.

It is one of New England's finest examples of a Federal period country estate with impressive later embellishments. The house is now available for weddings, business meetings, and other rental functions. The Carriage House is used by SPNEA as a furniture and building conservation workshop.

The greenhouses are open year round, Thursday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

To reach the Lyman Estate, take Route 20, Main st., Waltham, to Lyman st.; or take Route 60 to Beaver st. and turn south.

"The Vale" is at the rotary intersection of Lyman and Beaver sts. Call 891-7095.

Beat Those Blues

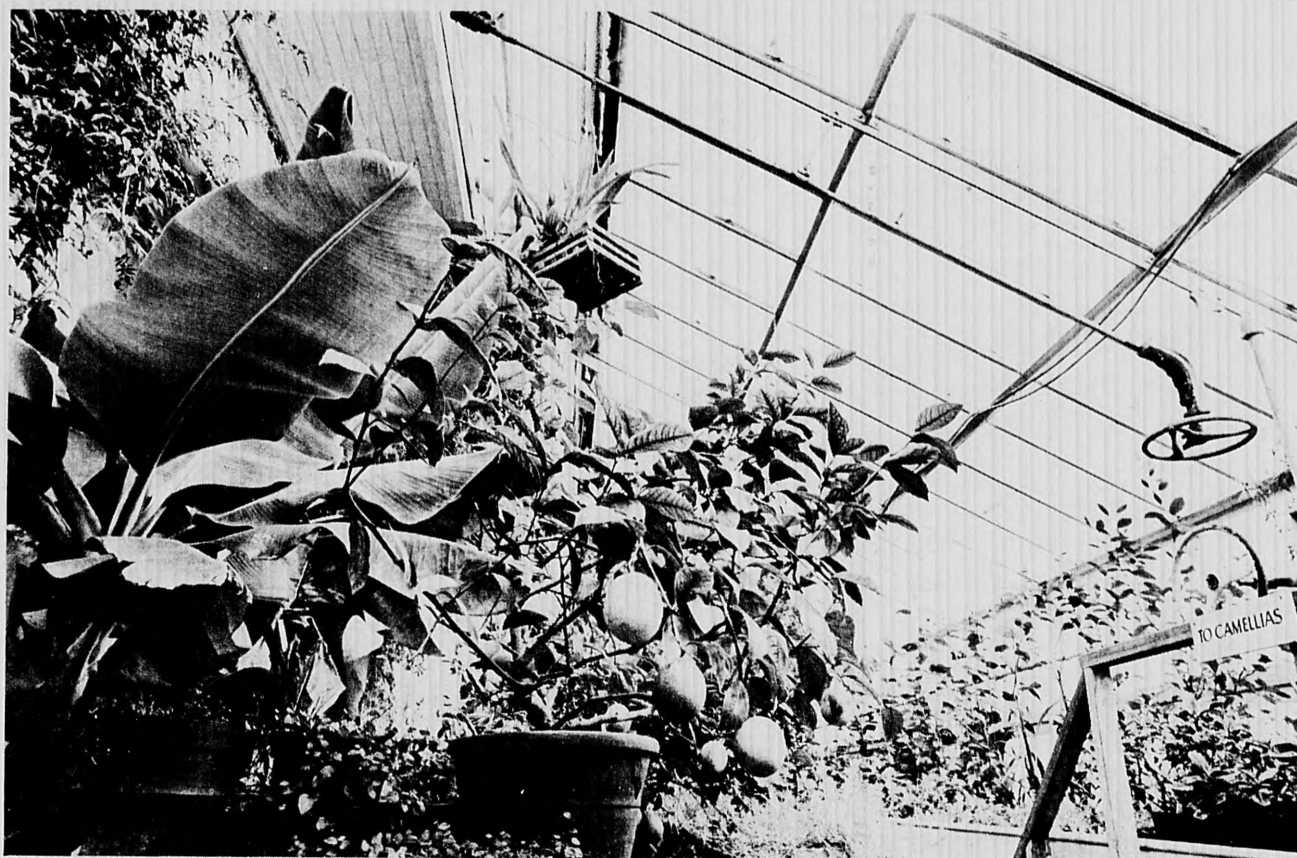

Winter blues can be brushed aside with a visit to the Lyman Estate Greenhouses during Camellia Days Feb. 13-17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Here visitors may stroll and savor lush blooms and unusual scents.

Plants, propagated from the greenhouse collection, may be purchased.

Bring home a selection of camellias, fragrant jasmine, rare begonias, cymbidium orchids and other choice plantings.

What To Visit

Story By Susan Curtis

Country's Oldest Greenhouse Is 'Boston's Most Beautiful' With Many Winter Blooms

She says it's somewhat selfish of her to work in this environment. It is certainly not typical.

Imagine a 22-room mansion built 150 years ago and set on 30 luscious acres as an everyday office.

For Sandra Fraley, the estate manager at the Lyman Estate in Waltham, this workplace environment is a major source of job satisfaction.

And she relishes the opportunity to share its magnificence with the public.

Over 17,000 people visited the estate last year and about 23,000 are expected this year, said Fraley.

"The dreamer side of me finds it special to show the public what was valuable," says Fraley.

"What is here is a lifestyle lost. It is the luxury of space and time."

The mansion itself, specifically the first floor and some bedrooms, can be rented for private parties and weddings.

"This is the 1985 side of the picture of working in this 1793 setting," says Fraley.

Revenues from rentals help support the maintenance of the Lyman mansion and estate.

"People can experience this environment and use it as their own home for the day," she says.

Fraley, in her five-year position at the Estate, developed great respect for Theodore Lyman, a merchant who created his own fortune and, at about age 40, designed and built the estate.

"I admire the vision he created," says Fraley.

His landscaped acres broke traditions. While his peers imitated the highly manicured, geometric gardens of England, Lyman preferred and developed a more natural setting.

"He built his house with the landscape, not as the feature of the estate," says Fraley.

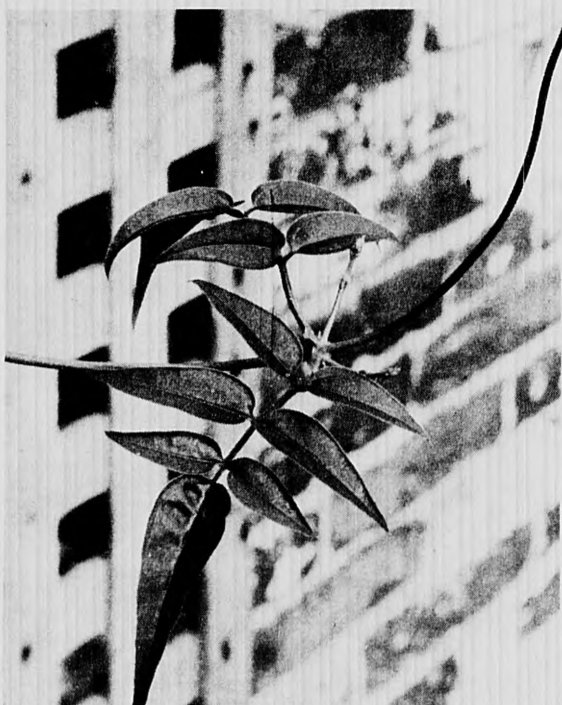

"He followed his own innovative and assertive inclinations instead of what was safe and established."

Lyman's heirs shared his love of horticulture and added to the gardens and the greenhouses. As a result, the estate boasts examples of greenhouse construction and style from pre-1800 through 1930, says Fraley.

The greenhouses were built, not as decorative additions to the mansion, but for practical purposes. Seedlings were carefully nurtured there for later plantings outdoors, says Fraley.

Today, the greenhouses — spreading over one-and-one-half acres — are in full operation under horticulturist Henrietta Light and a group of dedicated volunteers.

The greenhouses, says Light, are especially noted for their grapevines, dating back to 1870, and the 13 foot high camellia trees, also over 100 years old.

YOUR WATER: IS THERE MORE THERE THAN MEETS THE EYE?

Exposure to chemicals from contaminated tap water can cause cancer, birth defects, miscarriages, nerve disorders, blood disease, and damage to liver, kidneys or genes.

Once a ground water supply is contaminated, it can take generations to clean it up. And although government, industry, and municipalities are doing a better job, many of us want the best possible water now — not sometime off in the future.

The E.P.A. recommends point of use filtration as the solution to improve water quality.

Let us share this economical alternative to bottled water with you.

What To Learn

No More Experts Offer

It happens to everyone, and it happens over and over again.

Admit it.

The nightmare starts when a funny sound emanates from the car's engines.

"The car's not running right," says Joe Blackthumb, also known as the victim. "I'm taking it in." This leads to the most embarrassing time of all.

"It's been making this noise," Blackthumb tells the mechanic.

"What noise?"

"Well, it's not making it now."

"So where's it coming from?"

"I'm, uh, not really sure."

"What does it sound like?"

"It's like a whine... or, no, a rumble, not a rumble, really, kind of a vibration but it squeaks and makes a funny beep but not a real beep, sort of a bong, bong, bong."

And so Blackthumb fumbles along pitifully, until the mechanic gives up and chases him away to wrestle with the problem in peace.

Even when the problem is solved, the victim returns home for additional humiliation.

"What was wrong with it?" friends ask.

"Um, ah, he said the, uh, little thing inside the something was messed up, and, oh yeah, he said something else had to be replaced. I think."

Then, three months later, a new sound pops up and the nightmarish humbling process begins all over again.

And, each time, Joe Blackthumb hates his car and himself even more than the time before.

It happens so much that you'd think Joe Blackthumb would learn. Or ought to.

But he doesn't, because he never even knows where to start.

Enter Tom and Ray Magliozzi.

Or, as they're known on their WBUR radio talk show from 6 to 7 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday, Click and Clack.

Brothers and co-owners of the Good News Garage in Cambridge, the Magliozzis hold quarterly car care seminars from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays on common sense car care.

The Magliozzis call their course "How To Take The Fear And Frustration Out of Owning Your Car."

In less than six hours, the brothers — and third lecturer Stan Zdonik — give students the ABCs of car care.

Without getting technical or complicated, their lectures provide a thorough understanding of automobiles and their workings.

"We don't teach anyone how to fix things, but we teach them a lot of things they don't know," Zdonik says.

The students seem to eat it up, asking a torrent of questions they felt too embarrassed, silly or rushed to ask mechanics who worked on their cars in the past.

As Zdonik observes, the classes provide "an opportunity to talk to someone in an unpressured environment."

In the first hour of the course, students learn the advantages and disadvantages of various rustproofing techniques, and the difference between structural rust and cosmetic rust.

Structure and function come next.

Starting with the basic frame, Zdonik adds wheels, engine, transmission, clutch, driveshaft, universal joint, differential and axles — explaining the function and interrelation of each part to the others.

By the time he's done, his students understand why and when certain items wear out, and what they can do to keep that from happening.

Zdonik discusses fluids, the causes and meanings of various noises and their locations, and maintenance — debunking and

Shopping Tips For Cars: Save Hassle, Heartbreak And The Drain Of Dollars

Tom Magliozzi makes lots of money fixing cars, and he says car owners can achieve similar savings if they buy used instead of new cars.

"People think owning an old, beat-up car costs you a lot of money. That's not true. It costs you a lot of time and inconvenience.

Though used cars are more likely to break down or require replacement of worn parts, he says, the actual cost for such maintenance is minimal compared to the cost of new-car taxes, insurance and interest payments.

"If you were willing to put up with a lot of inconvenience for the rest of your life," Magliozzi says, "over the course of 20 years you could save enough money to take your wife or girlfriend on a trip around the world."

Magliozzi ought to know. The car-care seminars he teaches with his brother Ray and Stan Zdonik have enlightened area car owners for years.

According to the trio, successful used-car-buying is not only profitable but simple.

"If you buy a used car that's been checked out by someone who knows how to check out a car," Tom says, "you're as safe as if you bought a new car."

Included in the seminar are numerous used-car shopping tips on how and what to check before making a prospective purchase.

"I like to talk about the economics and the psychology of driving a car," Magliozzi says. "When you're thinking of buying a car, whether it's new or used, you've really got to think about what kind of driving you do."

At the same time, Magliozzi says that proper maintenance is just as important as buying the right car.

"People think [breakdowns] happen catastrophically," he says.

"That's not true. There are many things that can be avoided."

The problem, Magliozzi says, is that people practice what he calls "crisis management" and neglect their cars until repairs are unavoidable.

Instead, he advises, car owners should follow the maintenance instructions in their driver's manuals generally "every six months" and have their cars checked periodically by mechanics.

"You can tell, almost to the dollar, how much you will have to spend to get the car in shape," Magliozzi says.

Even more importantly, he says, car owners who regularly address minor problems generally eliminate the need for bigger and more costly repairs later on.

"If a car doesn't last 10 years," Magliozzi says, "you're doing something wrong."

dismissing numerous myths along the way.

The best you can do in shopping for a body shop is find a good one, he tells students. "You'll never find a cheap one."

"People think 'tuneup' means 'make my car whole again,'" he says and shakes his head.

"When you can write your name on the side of the car," Zdonik tells those interested in fighting rust, "it's time to wash it."

Also included in the course are tips for safer and smarter driving.

Zdonik advises students to take their cars, particularly those who have switched from rear to front wheel drive styles, to empty parking lots after snowstorms and practice skidding on snow and ice at about 10 mph.

You'll get the feeling of a situation where it's not dangerous," he says. "Practicing skidding is a good idea no matter what kind of car you drive."

In fact, the instructors tackle every facet of auto ownership from driving habits to preventive maintenance.

Students learn the practical pros and cons of various dealer options, as well as practices to save gas or prolong car life.

Even owners' manuals and manufacturers' instructions come under cross examination, as the instructors provide an insider's view of what to observe and what to ignore.

Many of the things automakers suggest, Tom Magliozzi says, are motivated by a need for competitive advantages and in actuality harm the cars.

But because the damage in most cases won't show up until 30,000 or 40,000 miles, he says, car owners won't know better until it's too late.

Talk Show Hosts Dispense Advice For Ailing Autos

Between 6 and 7 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday, people are liable to dial 353-2790 or CAR TALK -- 227-8255 -- and ask nearly anything on WBUR's last independently produced radio program.

Tom and Ray Magliozzi -- hosts and namesakes for Click and Clack, now in its ninth colorful year -- supposedly offer car-care advice but usually wind up discussing a lot more.

That's because callers ask "just about anything you can consider related to the automobile in any way," according to Producer John Rowen.

Even the fact that they don't own cars doesn't discourage a number of enthusiastic callers.

"A large portion of the audience listens because it's fun," Rowen says.

At least as many, though, call in for incisive tips or a diagnosis for a specific auto malady.

Tom Magliozzi says callers are generally well informed and ask very intelligent questions. And when a consumer is more knowledgeable, he says, everyone benefits.

"I like my customers to be educated, to know what they're talking about. It makes my job easier," Magliozzi says. "I've got people who come in and almost diagnose the car for me."

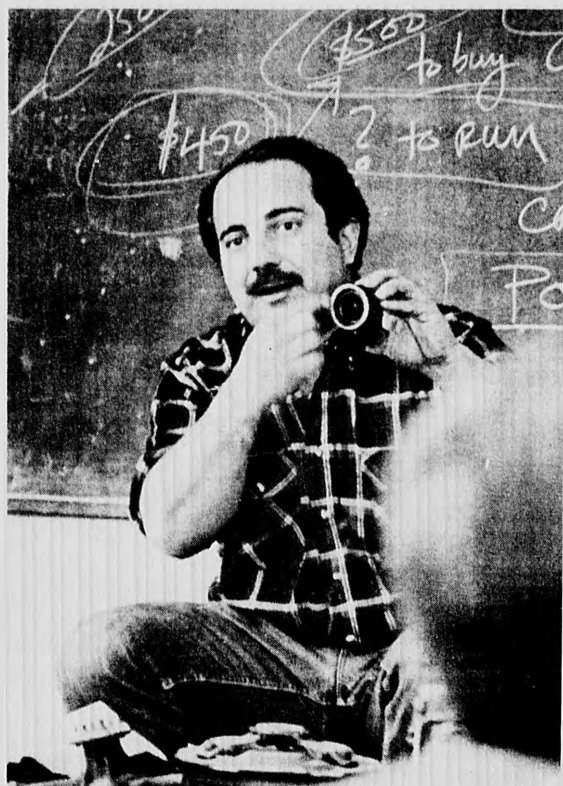

Callers turn to Click and Clack not only for expert car advice but for frank and even brutal appraisals when warranted.

Because the show is produced independently, Rowen says, his hosts don't pull their punches.

"Since we don't have sponsors, we can say pretty much anything we want," he says. "Unlike other car shows, we're not beholden to anybody."

Except, perhaps, to their listeners. But, so far, no one seems to be complaining.

We have a lot of fun," Rowen says. "It's a lot of laughs and we really enjoy doing it."

Presenting one of many mysterious parts for inspection, Ray Magliozzi offers important tips about the operation and construction of most car engines.

Ray Magliozzi demonstrates the workings of drive and pressure plates at a recent car care workshop.

Tom Magliozzi introduces Tom Rowen, producer of the Click and Clack radio show, to some finer points of engine life.

Men In Motion Amuse Audiences

Review

Men in Motion, a new musical revue for ladies with role-reversal environment and featuring magnificent hunks of male pulchritude, is currently playing at the luxurious Palace nightclub in Saugus in an open-ended run.

Actually, Men in Motion is not a revue since the latter is a type of musical show consisting of loosely connected skits, songs and dances, often parodying topical subjects.

This entertainment is little more than a series of disco dance numbers backed by a blaring sound system which showcases a group of well-greased, beefy men who obviously pump iron daily, scented with animal musk in various degrees of dress and undress.

It actually verges on wholesome family entertainment. Even Grandma might enjoy it!

Barring male customers until after showtime at 10 p.m. creates indeed curiosity.

What unmentionable deeds are committed in that inner sanctum? None!

For some, the absence of men eases inhibitions. For others, it allows them to fantasize.

The quality of dance is not unusual — dancers of the same calibre can be found on most any disco floor — and even though soloists strip down to their teeny-weeny-itsy-bitsy rhinestone-studded bikinis, a visit to the beach on any sunny summer's day would prove at least, if not more, revealing.

After passing through the handsome lobby, one enters the 400-seat disco-theatre facility, ablaze with flashing lights, multi-colored spots, and neon configurations.

Playboy videos flash on the huge screen behind the performing platform, the program highlighted by the Weather Girls' It's Raining Men!

A ten-man host staff, their pectorals bare for all to admire and frocked in skin-clutching black sa-treen slacks, formal collar and black bow tie, serve as waiters as well as protectors for the lead dancers, should any female guest become too interested.

The pre-show opens with a bogus customer screaming, "Let the show begin!" and being escorted unceremoniously out of the room, only to return moments later in tails as MC/audience warmer-upper.

In her inimitable strident voice, she screeches to the audience the manner which to fold bills to reward their favorites and then divides the audience into halves, the cherries and the bananas, in an attempt to elicit maximum audience response.

The opener is a "full production" number including three male chorus dancers and the ten waiters.

Then the solo "exotic" dancers strut their stuff. Aside from a variation in costume, the routine is basically the same.

To the driving disco beat, with decibels so loud that the floor vibrates and the tables shake, they each work about fifteen minutes, then bounce around the room, occasionally pecking on the cheek those who hand over the twice-folded, dollar bill.

One by one the female MC gratingly introduces the numbers: The Anonymous Flasher backed by The Stripper music; Leader of the Pack with the leather boys on light-flashing motorcycles, a real motorcycle on stage, backed by a frenzied rock 'n roll beat and featuring a tear-away T-shirt.

The action continues with a sextet police trooper routine for those turned on by uniforms.

After stripping down to royal blue boxer shorts and gray sweat shirts, a Jane Fonda workout ensues as the men get down to their skivvies.

A futuristic Star Wars/Darth Vader number follows and the show concludes with another production number. At that time, males are admitted and performers mix and mingle.

Staging and choreography are not likely to jeopardize Bob Fosse's future and, regretfully, the soloists make no attempt to tantalize, working matter-of-factly and, for the most part, looking pretty dour about it.

The brawny hosts are eye-popping physical specimens, muscular and powerful, almost intimidating, but not truly sensuous, not really a turn-on.

Some are overly developed and appear more awesome than attractive.

Travers And Taylor In Concert

Mary Travers, who gained fame as a member of folk music's legendary Peter, Paul and Mary performs in concert at Andover's J. Everett Collins for the Performing Arts at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 1.

Also appearing is Livingston Taylor, the popular folk/pop singer who received national attention and critical acclaim for his hit single, First Time Love.

Travers, who delighted audiences at Boston's Concerts on the Common last August, today enjoys a successful solo career performing in concert halls and clubs across the country.

She also has five solo albums to her credit, including Mary, Morning Glory, All Night Moves, and It's In Every One Of Us.

For the past twenty years Travers has been synonymous with the early stirrings of the protest movement.

Peter, Paul and Mary touched millions of followers with their music and total commitment to the emerging civil rights movement.

The trio recorded hit after hit including If I Had A Hammer, Blowin' In The Wind, Puff The Magic Dragon, Leavin' On A Jet Plane and many more.

Travers continues her commitment to social issues today singing and lecturing about society and its effects on music.

She has also written and starred in Rhymes And Reasons, the BBC series about social tradition and changes in modern times.

Taylor is best known for his Epic Records album Three Way Mirror which included his biggest hit, I Will Be In Love With You and its sequel, I'll Come Running.

Taylor caught the attention of Jon Landau, who produced Taylor's first two albums on Capricorn Records, Livingston Taylor and Liv.

Shortly after these releases, Over The Rainbow was produced and the Wizard of Oz classic has become one of Taylor's standards.

The Cambridge-based musician built a popular reputation in the area coffee houses and universities in the 1960s.

Before releasing Three Way Mirror in 1977, Taylor toured extensively both as top bill and opening act for artists like Jethro Tull, Linda Ronstadt and America.

Livingston Taylor, now recording a new album, is a member of folk music's Taylor family: Alex, Kate and of course, James.

Travers and Taylor perform in concert at the J. Everett Collins Center For The Performing Arts in Andover, Saturday, Feb. 1 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $19.50 and $17.50, available at the Collins Center box office, Shawsheen rd., off Rts. 133 and 93 in Andover. Call 470-1905.

Associate Artistic Director Bruce Wells' Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, one of his earlier works for the Company and first premiered in 1982, rounds out the program.

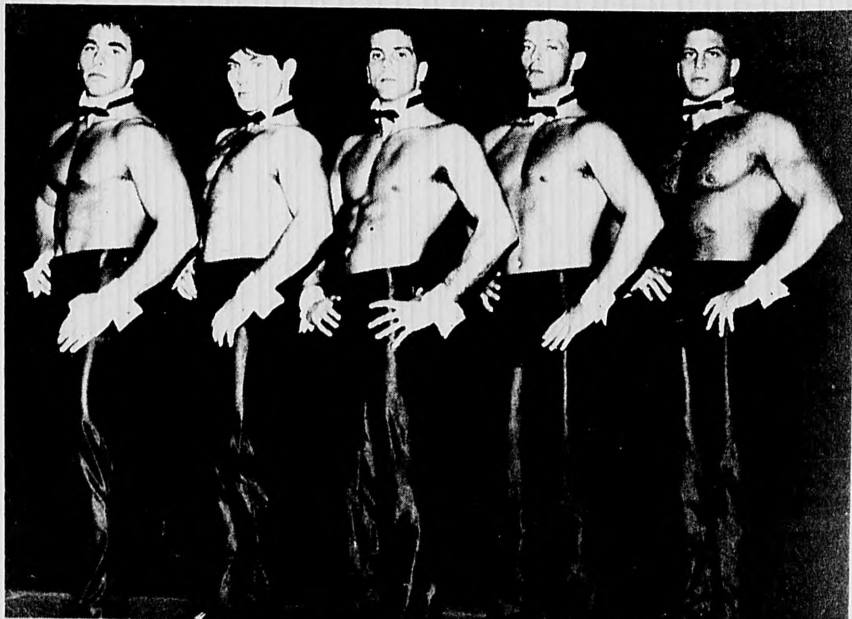

A one-act ballet in three movements, Mendelssohn Violin Concerto is neo-classical in style and was created as a celebration of Mendelssohn's music.

If I could do anything in my power, my immediate concern is that the Patriots should win the Super Bowl in New Orleans.

End conformity — to have people be whatever they wanted to be. There would be no pressure from anyone. If people do whatever they want now, they are considered freaks.

Eliminate the possibility of nuclear war so people wouldn't worry and children wouldn't have to fear that the world is going to blow up.

I think everyone is afraid. I would also want to make things a little more fair by having an equal division of money and food so people wouldn't have to starve in the world.

Have a big peace contract amongst all the countries of the world.

The contract would say: "We the people of this world are here together to make peace all through this world."

I just think that if the threat of nuclear attacks didn't exist, people would feel more secure.

The summit talks are most important because communication between Reagan and Gorbachev is the key and even though they have their differences in opinion, it's good that they're talking.

Steps should also be taken in order to prevent kids from being abducted. The posters help, but other steps such as more police on the streets and parents giving advice to their children, should also be done.

I just want an understanding and compassion.

It seems to me that if we all understood each other, life would be much easier and happiness amongst people would be much easier to obtain.

There should be enough money for everyone. We all deserve the same. If you work harder, you should deserve more, but I feel that people should receive the amount of money they deserve.

What About Art? By Meredith Fife Day

Brigantine, oil on an aluminum cut-out, is one of the lively works by Vytas Sakalas, on display at Gallery on the Green in Lexington.

Festive Fun By Sakalas

Walking into Vytas Sakalas' exhibit at Lexington's Gallery on the Green is like finding oneself in the middle of a colorful, festive Mardi Gras celebration.

Included among the painted aluminum cut-outs is a series of masks — wild and crazy guys appearing only where fantasy and fun reign supreme.

Check out Arrowman with big, flattened arrows jutting out his forehead and cheeks, or 'Gubber' with his Pepto-Bismol-pink face wide open mouth, and bright green eyes.

Activity is everywhere, as are happy acceptance of the decorative and playful skirmish with chaos.

The paintings carry a funky and modern tone, as opposed to a harsh or menacing one, despite the liberal use of black in some works, and sharp, angular edges in others.

Sakalas, a New Jersey native who paints in Jamaica Plain, studied in Los Angeles, New York, and at the Museum School in Boston. The urban background of his education and a degree in cinema from Los Angeles City College leave their mark on his works.

These are lively, noisy, city paintings that could not have come from a quiet, still, pastoral setting. They are not contemplative and subtle and reductive.

Full of all the marks and color and movement they can contain, Sakalas' works are like quick cuts in a movie, or a walk through a downtown crossing at lunch hour — the eye darts from shape to shape, edge to edge without quite settling down.

In two recent paintings on canvas, Precipice and In the Name of The, Sakalas allows white rather than black to flow across the surfaces, allowing his active brushwork needed breathing space.

Green enters the left edge of Precipice like a patch of astro turf communicating with another color-defined shape, this one hot yellow-orange in the painting's right half.

At their best, these busy surfaces and edges contain a myriad of visual treasures that keep the viewer engaged — over and again, marks coagulate into angular noses topped by slits of eyes, and little faces are discovered among the linear flecks that make up the overall surface patterning.

At their weakest there is simply too much going on.

The outside edge of the aluminum cut-out, Brigantine, is so complex, so full of sharp, pointed corners that one longs to "trim it up" a bit in order to see larger, more ordered shapes.

By cutting big pieces of aluminum and painting them, Sakalas allows the wall on which the work hangs to become an active part of the composition, instead of merely being the backing on which rectangular paintings are hung.

Yet, aside from the wildly available series of mask cut-outs, Sakalas patterned, colorful paintings make a much clearer visual statement on traditionally rectangular canvases than on the jagged aluminum shapes.

The work of Vytas Sakalas will be on exhibit at Gallery On the Green, 1837 Mass. ave., through Feb. 15. Call 861-6044.

Our Children Building Parental Trust

It's time to listen to "our children" for they often have some important things to say. Because it is so difficult for us to see through their eyes, perhaps paying attention to their words can help remove some of our family misunderstandings and frustrations.

Q. I have never given my parents a reason not to trust me, but I have a feeling that they don't — especially my father.

He sometimes, but not often, shows how proud he is of me when people say we look alike or when I bring home a good school project or report card or do well on our school football team. But most of the time he sets up rules that I think are unreasonable, and my mother always backs him up.

After all, I am 14 years old and have never been in any trouble. I do well in school and my friends are all nice kids whose parents are more loose than mine are.

If I had brothers or sisters maybe things would be different, but I'm an only child.

I would really appreciate your advice.

A. If you haven't done it yet, it may be time to call a family council at which you might want to bring up some of your concerns. Going in with a list of the rules you would like to soften up a bit, together with your suggestions for their adjustment, may be a productive starting point.

It would be important for you to keep your requests on a reasonable level, perhaps basing them on some ideas you discuss in advance with friends who are also good students and have never had troublesome experiences.

I hope you will write again and let me know what progress you have made.

Letters may be sent to Dr. Willard Abraham, Our Children, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252.

Are you the parent of a preschool child, 2 to 5 years old? Send a stamp, plus your request for information about a monthly service that may help you, to Dr. Abraham, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252.

Grocery Hints

ALL VEGETABLES snap crisply when fresh; if they bend and present a wilted appearance, they are stale. If wilted, they can be partly restored by being sprinkled with water, and laid in a cool, dark place.

CAULIFLOWERS are best when large, solid and creamy. When stale the leaves are wilted and show dark spots.

POTATOES — Select those of medium size, smooth, with small eyes. To test, cut off a piece of the large end; if spotted, they are unsound. In the spring, when potatoes are beginning to sprout, place a basket of them in a tub, pour boiling water over them; in a moment or two take out and place in sun to dry (on the grass is a good place), and then return to cellar. If they have sprouted too much it is best to first rub them off.

CELERY stalks should be white, solid and clean. Celery begins in August, but it is better and sweeter after frost.

FOOTWEAR AND FOOTCARE GUIDE

Getting The Best Fit Helps Avoid Backache, Cramps, Scowls, Blisters

Improperly-fitting shoes can produce not only painful feet but blisters, headaches, backaches, leg cramps and scowls.

All of these problems can be avoided if you take the time to carefully check the proper fit of the shoes you are planning to buy.

Since the foot supports your entire body, wearing comfortable, well-fitting shoes goes a long way toward ensuring the body's total well-being.

Keep these suggestions from The Footwear Council in mind when trying to determine if those shoes really do fit.

• Check your shoe size regularly by having your feet measured by the shoe salesperson.

Many factors can cause the size and the shape of the foot to change, sometimes permanently.

Changes in weight, exercise patterns, pregnancy, and aging, can all affect shoe size, because they affect the way the ligaments in the foot stretch.

Be sure to measure both feet, since they are rarely the exact same size.

Buy to fit the larger foot.

• The way a shoe is cut and lasted will determine how it fits your foot.

Always try both shoes before you buy. Consult the shoe salesperson, and trust your own sense of feel.

An experienced salesperson understands the variety of available sizes and can advise you on the cut of the shoe that is best for your foot.

• Keep in mind that good fit is determined by how well the distance between the ball to heel and ball to toe of your foot are matched by the same proportions in the shoe.

Two people wearing the same shoe size, for example, may experience a very different fit, since the last of a shoe may more closely accommodate one person's ball-to-heel, ball-to-toe measurements than another's.

Try on shoes made on several different lasts to find the proportion that is right for you.

• Wear patterns on old shoes can give you important clues about fit.

If the toes tend to curl up, the shoes are probably too long.

Splitting or bulging at the toe where the upper meets the sole means they're probably too short.

Splitting or bulging at the sides indicates the shoe is probably too narrow.

• Regard size as a variable determined by the manufacturer and the style of the shoe, not as an absolute, so don't insist upon only buying your customary size in every style shoe.

For example, most people need a larger size closed shoe than in a sandal or in an open-toed slingback.

• Among the areas to check are the following: the toe box must be high enough to accommodate your toes.

Make sure your toes are free from pressure; they should never press or rub against the lining.

You should always be able to wiggle your toes in the shoe. Check the length of the shoe carefully—there should be between 1/4" and 1/2" between the end of your longest toe and the tip of the shoe.

The little toe should not be curled under or forced inward.

The heel should fit snugly and should not slip when you walk.

For those whose heels are narrower in proportion to the rest of the foot, look for a combination last, with the width written as fraction, such as BAA.

The second size denotes the heel width. The ball of the foot should rest comfortably on the sole of the shoe, even at the broadest part of your foot.

There should be no gapping at the sides.

The arch of the shoe should not be longer nor shorter than your own.

When you walk in the shoe make sure it flexes across the top of the ball of the foot and that it doesn't slip at the heel or gap at the sides when the foot is bent.

If wrinkles are visible on the shoe, the shoe doesn't fit the arch properly.

In lower heels and flats, there should be a little space allowance to allow the shoes to flex across the vamp with each step.

Too much space results in excess wrinkling across the vamp with wear.

Not enough causes the shoe to bite into the big toe.

FOOTWEAR AND FOOTCARE GUIDE

Good Shoes Can Help Reduce Foot Trouble

A well-made, well-fitted shoe helps distribute weight stresses over broad surfaces, tending to minimize foot problems.

The shoe is designed to protect the foot.

Here are some suggestions from The Footwear Council to help promote the health of feet:

- It is a good idea to change your shoes every day. You should own at least three pairs of everyday shoes so that you can alternate.

Shoes collect moisture and need to dry out thoroughly between wearings to prevent foot odor and fungus infections.

Also, by rotating styles of shoes you wear, you are protecting the foot from continued pressure on one area.

- Alternate heel heights to avoid muscle strain.

If you always wear high heels, and then switch to flats suddenly, the shortened muscles in the back of your legs will suffer a sudden strain.

If you go from flats to high heels, you'll find the muscles may have gone slack, and that your feet will slide forward, cramping your toes.

- High heels take some practice getting use to.

The ankles may be wobbly at first, so practice wearing them at home until you feel secure.

In The Clutch: Garage Probes Transmissions

Manual transmissions, long touted for lower cost, superior gas mileage and mechanical simplicity, aren't quite the bargain they're cracked up to be, according to Tom Magliozzi.

"In the long run," Magliozzi says, "a standard transmission costs more money than an automatic."

Magliozzi bases his claim, stemming from decades of transmission repair at his Good News Garage, on the inevitable necessity to replace worn clutches in even the most carefully driven cars.

"No matter how good you are," he says, "you will eventually have to replace the clutch."

Magliozzi says clutch replacement is usually necessary by the time a car has been driven 50,000-70,000 miles but often comes even sooner.

"We've found out, over the years, that the vast majority of people who own a manual shift car do something wrong," Magliozzi says. "Quite a few of them do a vast number of things wrong."

Magliozzi's "wrong things" vary from riding the clutch and downshifting excessively, to keeping the clutch out while waiting at stop lights or using the clutch to hold a car on a hill.

In more extreme cases, Magliozzi says, poor shifting techniques and heavy city driving will burn out a clutch after as few as 30,000 miles.

And a typical clutch job, he says, will cost about $450.

Frequently, he says, clutch wear is caused by bad habits and lazy techniques acquired from driving in stop-and-go traffic.

People's driving habits cost them a lot of money," he says. "If you [shift] correctly, it's kind of a pain in the neck."

Magliozzi says drivers should give their cars as little gas as possible and shift quickly.

"Ideally," Magliozzi says, "you should be able to start your car from a dead stop without touching the gas. You should always be on the hairy edge of stalling out the car."

"If you never stall out, you're doing something wrong," he says. "Don't be afraid to have the car buck a little bit when you shift into any gear. What you're doing is saving the clutch."

The additional cost of automatic transmissions, Magliozzi says, is made up in smaller repair bills over the life of the car and in superior resale value.

"Many people," Magliozzi says, "buy manual transmissions for the wrong reasons."

Cars Demystified

(From page 5B)

The worst thing that can happen, Magliozzi informs his audience, is if your car starts the first time you turn the key.

Moreover, Magliozzi says, the first two seconds of a cold-winter start cause more engine damage than 10,000 miles of normal driving.

Magliozzi then describes procedures car owners should really follow, and suggests mechanical modifications to improve car operation and lifespans.

"It's not complicated stuff,"

Zdonik says, "but it's stuff everybody's always wanted to learn."

FOOTWEAR AND FOOTCARE GUIDE

Footwear Council Suggests Ideas

The has never been a wider array of choices available to you when shopping for shoes.

The range of styles, sizes, colors, prices, and end-uses is incredible.

In order to maximize your shoe budget, and ensure that you make the best shoe purchases possible, keep these tips from The Footwear Council in mind when you go shoe shopping.

• Invest the most money — and shopping time — in the shoes you wear the most.

Experiment with color, silhouette and heel height in less expensive footwear.

Decide in advance of shopping just what end-use is required for the shoes you buy.

For example, most working people will buy shoes or boots that are appropriate for their workplace, be it office, factory, school, shop, etc. People who work at home may find casual shoes to be their best investment.

Those who have occasion to wear dressy evening shoes frequently will want to buy the best that they can afford.

• Think carefully of your wardrobe when selecting colors and styles of footwear.

Classic shapes and colors will usually work with a maximum number of outfits.

Avoid impulse buying; be especially careful when buying shoes on sale that they will indeed fit your needs.

• It's a good idea to shop for shoes after you have been on your feet for a few hours, since even normal feet tend to swell slightly during the day.

However, don't shop at the very end of the day when your feet are at their fullest.

If the weather is very cold, wait until your feet warm up slightly before trying on shoes, since cold weather will cause your feet to shrink.

• Remember that shoe size is not a static measurement—sizes vary with style and manufacturer. Keep in mind you're buying fit, not size.

In addition, shoe size may change due to aging, changes in exercise patterns or weight, pregnancy, etc.

It's a good idea to have your feet measured each time you buy shoes.

Have both feet measured while standing.

Measurements will give the shoe salesperson a general idea of the range of your size, but several shoes must be tried on to find the proper fit. Since your feet are seldom precisely the same size, always buy for the larger foot, and use shoe pads if necessary to fit your smaller foot.

• Beware of shoes which need a "break-in" period.

Properly-fitting shoes should be comfortable immediately, although a tiny bit of snugness or stiffness is okay.

Don't be talked into letting someone stretch the shoe for you if it is too small; a great deal of stretching will tax the leather and cause seams to split.

How much you can widen a shoe depends upon the construction and material: reptile skins, fabrics, and patent leather stretch less than calfskin.

A fine calfskin shoe can be snug (not tight) as this type of leather will stretch a bit to conform to the shape of your foot.

• After both shoes have been fitted, take a good walk around the store. Try to walk on both carpeted and uncarpeted surfaces.

Watch for any gaping at the sides, slippage at the heel, or less than 1/4" to 1/2" between your longest toe and the tip of the shoe.

Be sure the ball of the foot fits snugly into the widest part of the shoe.

The arch of the shoe should not be longer or shorter than your own.

Make sure the toe box is high enough to comfortably accommodate your toes without pressing on them.

• Try on shoes with the pantyhose or socks you plan to wear them with.

If you are buying a casual shoe that will be worn with heavier tights, allow a little extra room.

• Be sure to try on several different styles and brands. There are many different lasts, or shapes, and one manufacturer's last may conform more to the foot than another's.

• Never buy shoes after trying on just one foot—you may have tried it on your smaller foot, and you'll also have no idea of how well you can walk in them.

• Select shoes that will provide maximum flattery for your foot and legs.

If you have heavier legs or ankles, avoid stiletto heels—a more substantial heel will be more flattering.

A D'Orsay or open-shanked pump will slenderize the foot and leg.

A slightly choked-up pump with high sides, on the other hand, if it fits properly, will slenderize a wide foot since more of the width of the foot is covered, but it will not flatter a heavier leg or ankle.

Square and V-cut throatlines are becoming, and a sweetheart throatline make the line between you and the shoe more attractive.

Least attractive are shoes with a U-cut instep and straps that go straight across the widest part of the foot, or any shoe that causes the flesh of the foot to bulge over the topline.

Ankle-straps draw attention to a well-shaped ankle—if yours is not, avoid this style.

On the other hand, T-straps and asymmetrical straps can be very flattering since they create the illusion of a narrower foot.

If your feet are large, dark shoes with a matte finish and a moderate heel are more flattering than shiny, bright shoes with a flat heel.

Square, rounded, or gently tapered toes shorten the foot while pointed toes make the foot look longer.

Shorter coupling — the distance between the heel and the ball of the foot on a medium or high heel — makes the foot look shorter.

Make sure that there is not too much pressure exerted on the ball of the foot.

If your foot is long and lean, remember that straight lines emphasize angularity—look for round throatlines and slender heels.

Shoes with ankle or instep straps are attractive on slim feet and help shoes stay on better.

If your legs are very long and thin, medium heels will be more attractive than very high, spindly ones.

If you have a high instep, look for shoes with a V-shaped or square cut throatline for maximum comfort—U-cut shoes or those cut straight across, like espadrilles are most uncomfortable for those with high insteps, as are slip-on shoes with elastic at the instep.

If you have a very high arch, make sure that the topline of the shoe does not cut into your foot.

Also be sure not to select pumps that are very shelled out or your foot could pop out when you walk.

"I've been in space three times and it always made me think about how good the Earth is. I guess that's why I never spend a day in the field when I don't think about the beauty of our country. And sometimes I get so absorbed with the environment I forget all about hunting. It's a great land and I'll take walking its ground over space travel any time."

"I'm a hunter and find it's good for the body and the mind. I've been a Life Member of the NRA for a number of years because Wally Schirra and his buddies want to be free to hunt next year and the years after that. No group works harder than the NRA to protect the sport and make hunting safer for everyone."

WE'LL MANAGE!!!

If you own an apartment house, you will have hired a management firm to relieve you of the duties of collecting rents, arranging for maintenance and repairs, finding new tenants, and paying the bills.

If you rent a condo or a single or multi-family house, however, you have to assume these time-consuming burdens yourself. If you do not live in the neighborhood, you may find these tasks quite a chore at times.

So, let us manage! Our rental manager will manage small rental properties at very modest monthly costs. When you are leaving the area temporarily and wish to rent your own home, or are the proud owner of a profitable two or three-family property you wish to keep without retaining the hassles, call our management agent, Lois Ardito.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North-South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 34 cal. rifle, muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water filled clay cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over - from Maine to Rhode Island to New York - but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuild" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department.
